U.S. Army Troops Exposed To A-Blast

Men Far Enough Away to Prevent Any Casualties

Explosion Rocks Las Vegas, Breaks Store Windows

Las Vegas, Nev., Nov. 1—(AP)—United States Army troops were exposed today to an atomic blast for the first time, and came off without casualties and with knowledge which may prove "greater than anticipated."

Official confirmation of the troops' participation in today's blast, which was so strong that it cracked plate windows in this city more than 75 miles away, came from Maj.-Gen. William E. Kean, commander of the army's third corps.

Another army spokesman, declining to be quoted by name, said "this is the one test in which troops will be involved." This was taken to indicate that the army was satisfied with what it learned.

The blast went off at 7:30 a.m. PST and sent a giant white cloud mushrooming into the sky over a test centre in the desert northwest of here.

Calls Fired Switchboards

Seven minutes later Las Vegas was rocked by the concussion. Police switchboards were flooded with calls from excited residents, some of whom described the rattling as as stronger than in a series of atomic tests last winter.

Windows were broken in at least three stores in downtown Fremont Street, and the A. P. reported notices saying residents suffering damage could file claims.

No "Baby A-Bomb"

The hope that the flash itself was visible here—75 miles away—in bright daylight indicated it was not a so-called "baby A-bomb" of the type set off in the first test here.

That one couldn't be seen in this southern Nevada resort city.

Personally, today's was drop, ped from a B-29.

Seven minutes after the explosion, a distinct concussion struck buildings here. It was the first time in this fall's test that the sound waves had reached here in Las Vegas.

The rattling was accompanied by a long swishing sound audible to rooftop observers.

The jolting was not nearly so severe as in last winter's blasts, however.

A white cloud soared more than a mile into the air within a few minutes after the blast was detonated quickly. The cloud was touched with pink. But from here at least, the brilliant flashes of color seen in Tuesday's blast were missing.

Ground Support Test

Dubbed Exercise Desert Rock, today's joint Army-Atomic Energy Commission manoeuvre was designed to test whether nuclear weapons can be used successfully in support of ground forces.

During the night, the A.E.C. banned air traffic at two levels between here and Albuquerque, N.M., to clear the path for the planes and planned routes for the bomb drop.

The A.E.C. had promised that the troops would be far enough from the centre of the explosion to prevent casualties. Unofficially, it was reported that Tuesday's bomb, dropped from 31,000 feet, burst within 300 yards of the ground target.

From the site of the cloud, today's appeared to have been the strongest in the present series of blasts.

HINDERED BY FOG

Hamburg, Germany, Nov. 1—(Reuters)—Thick fog over the northwest coast today severely hindered shipping and air traffic. Planes at Hamburg were grounded and 23 ships were held up in the harbor and in the Elbe estuary.

Windsor Man Fined $900 For False Information

Windsor, Nov. 1 (CP)— A Windsor man was fined $500 yesterday for giving false information to the Liquor Licence Control Board and solicitors were warned "their gowns might easily become sullied from such contacts."

In the first case of its type in Ontario, 60-year-old John Pezleckl, proprietor of the Royal York House, was convicted after a three-hour hearing. Tuesday. Pezleckl was defended by Robert P. Wilson, K.C.

Assistant Crown Attorney Eugene A. Duchesne presented evidence to show Pezleckl was not the sole owner of the premises. He said he was in an application to the board.

Magistrate J. Arthur Hanna then said that strict control of the marketing of liquor was necessary to avoid disorder in the community.

"The L.L.C.B. has a heavy responsibility in granting licences to screen applicants to prevent those of such character as not to view lightly the general responsibility to the province and the community."

Matter of Concern

The magistrate said "the Crown reports this board meets a growing tendency to future convictance on the part of the appellants. This is a matter for general concern.

"It should be of particular concern to members of the bar who act in these matters. Their gowns might easily become sullied from such contacts," the magistrate said.

Following the magistrate's remarks, Mr. Wilson stated if the address was directed at himself and was told that the magistrate had referred to the solicitors involved at the time of the application.

At Tuesdays' trial, Dan Pedlerec, Kirkland Lake meat and grocery dealer, said that in November, 1949, he became a partner when he bought a list for $4,000 from Pezleckl $11,200 in cash.

"It was a 50-50 deal," the witness said. "He was to put up $5,000 and the licence and I was to put $6,000."

He said the House opened in September 1950, and that he left in February, 1951, because Pezleckl "didn't want a partner any more." He claimed I did not pay enough."

Sagacious Dog Named Skippy Travels 1,800 Miles to Rejoin His Master

New York, Nov. 1 — (AP) — Just like people, animals sometimes do the strangest things. And yesterday they outdid themselves in a burst of headline happenings.

Almost everywhere you looked animals were in the news.

An Arkansas goose sought a leopard, two lion bears, a polar bear and an African elephant for escapes from a circus.

Two bull moose, locked in horn- to - horn combat, started a big air-rescue operation with elements of drama up in Alaska. The audience included a batch of wolves and ravens, with food in mind. One moose stomped off into the woods after wildlife officials had tranquilized them. The other died of a broken neck.

Elizabeth, Philip Welcomed By Big Washington Crowd Headed by President Truman

By R. J. ANDERSON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Washington, Nov. 1 (CP) — Washington said hello to "Lilibet and Phil" yesterday.

It said it easily and gracefully. It was not a formal welcome for the heir presumptive to Britain's throne and her consort, but a great big "we're glad to have you" to a likeable young couple Washingtonians feel they have come to know.

Informality prevailed from the time the plane bearing Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip arrived from Montreal at 4 p.m. until late in the evening on the first day of their 45-hour stay in the capital of the United States.

Washington gleefully seized upon this first opportunity since 1939 to see visiting royalty. It turned out in hundreds—but not in the great the 25-year-old Princess and the blonde, handsome Duke of Edinburgh, who captivated the town with his own free informality.

Run Crowd Control

The police estimate of the crowds that lined the seven-mile route from National Airport to Blair House, where the visitors are guests of the President, was at 250,000. Other estimates put the guess at 700,000. Newspaper men who have covered the tour from its start, Oct. 8 thought 350,000 would be closer to the actual figure.

But though the estimates of the welcoming throng differed, there was unanimity about the reception: "Terrific."

It had been expected that as in 1939 when the King and Queen visited the late President Roosevelt, stiff protocol would prevail on this trip to a foreign country. But the lively protocol observed was in the first few minutes at the airport when the Truman cabinet was presented to the Royal couple.

The slender haberdasher of Independence, Mo., who now is president of the U.S., was obviously delighted with his assignment. Disregarding his formal typewritten address, he delivered a homey little speech in which he said that to know Elizabeth was to love her.

And at night, in offering his formal toast at the Truman's private dinner for the royal couple in Blair House, he said:

"Yesterday I was a little boy, I read about the fairy princess—and there she is."

The only greeting was big. It was friendly and good-natured. There were not, of course, the roars of loyalty that characterized the Canadian tour. In fact, there was comparatively little cheering.

Fairy Princess

But the applause was constant and spirited. Even in the Washington vied for a peek at Truman's fairy princess. Thousands of government workers had part of the afternoon off for the occasion. They made the most of it.

There was the girl with the slight figure in red, sitting beside the curb and talking in low animatedly. They saw the British beside Mrs. Truman and Margaret in the second car.

Completely at ease, he waved nonchalantly to the throngs along the roadside. The girls loved it.

The rest of the evening was informal. The royal couple stopped in at Blair House to permit the Princess to change from her travelling clothes to a long white dress and light-green hat with gold sequins.

Elizabeth Will Be Two Children Perish in Fire At Toronto

Toronto, Nov. 1.—(CP)— Two small children were burned to death today in a fire in downtown Toronto.

Information from the scene said five-year-old Diane Raymond, chubby blond, perished as she tried to save a 2½-year-old brother. The brother's name was not known.

Earlier reports said the second victim was four-year-old Bobby Raymond but Bobby later turned up safe.

Two of family were saved when the mother, Mrs. Hector Raymond, dropped them from a second-floor window into the arms of a neighbor.

Three other Raymond children were in a school bus when it broke out.

Diane, neighbors said, had carried on both eyes and was almost blind.

Govt. Member Says Free Trade Is Best Weapon

Claims it Would Knock Down Cost of Living

Ottawa, Nov. 1 — (CP)—Free trade between Canada and the United States, giving Canadians the benefits of lower-priced American goods, was offered in the common wealth as the government's best weapon against high prices.

The suggestion came from a front-rank Liberal member, A. Wesley Stuart from the New Brunswick riding of Charlotte, who predicted that a three-months experiment in suspended tariffs would knock down the cost of living in Canada by "many points."

He charged that high prices in this country are caused by "glaring" monopolies which force Canadians to pay twice as much as do Americans for goods manufactured in the two countries by, in many instances, the same concerns.

The solution, he said, was to give Canadians the right to buy where they could get the best bargains.

"I would like to see officials of General Electric, and other companies, appear before a committee and explain the difference between Canadian and American prices.

Thomson Promises Tax Cuts, Reduction in Cabinet Size, Slash in Government Costs

(By The Canadian Press)

Walter C. Thomson, Ontario Liberal leader, says he will grant a ten-cent-a-short provincial subsidy to reduce the retail milk price if his party wins the provincial general election Nov. 22. He also plans to cut government costs by 10 per cent and to reduce the number of cabinet ministers from 18 to 12.

He spoke to an election campaign meeting in the southwestern Ontario farming constituency of Middlesex North yesterday afternoon, made a half-hour broadcast at night and later spoke in an Eglin riding gathering in St. Thomas. Meantime, Premier Leslie M. Frost and E. B. Jolliffe, Ontario C.C.F. leader, were campaigning in northwestern Ontario. The premier attended a dinner in Port Arthur and addressed a rally in Fort William. Mr. Jolliffe made a speech in Kenora.

Mr. Thomson in his speech over a CFRC Ontario province-wide free time broadcast promised efforts to reduce the municipal tax burden, resumption of subsidies to farmers on hog and cheese production and their extension to beef cattle, establishment of a scheme of liability insurance to compensate motorists injured away from their jobs, and a cut in the gasoline tax from 11 to eight cents a gallon. He repeated his pledge of a hospital insurance plan financed jointly by individual contributions and public funds.

To Reduce Cabinet

In his Lucan speech he spoke on his plan to reduce the gasoline tax. He talked for 15 minutes about reducing the cabinet and said:

Swartz Committed On Two Charges Of Conspiracy

Welland, Nov. 1 — (CP) — Magistrate T. George Street Wednesday committed Harry Swartz of Toronto for trial on two charges of conspiring to defraud in connection with horse races at Fort Erie and other Ontario tracks.

Jockey Robert Wankmueller of Buffalo, N.Y., testified he had received sums of money from Swartz and John Perron of Toronto before pulling horses. He said he received $800 July 4 to be distributed to other jockeys and that he gave $300 to John Bromby of Toronto and $200 to Gil Robbins of Buffalo.

Evidence given by Jockey Eric Barber refused to accept $200. Barber testified he was given the winner horses from finishing first or second. Wankmueller said he subsequently received $1,500 to be split among jockeys in on the deal.

Jockey John Bromby of Toronto corroborated some of Wankmueller's evidence. But he said he had not been approached by anyone with his mount, a North Drive, winner on July 25.

ALL SHADES DRAWN

Boston, Nov. 1 (AP) — All commuter trains pulled out of Boston last night with shades drawn. The railroads reported it a protective measure against Halloween pranksters who consider it fun to hurl stones at trains.

Abbott Promises Non-Defence Spending Cut

Says Saving Appears Thankless Task

Montreal, Nov. 1.—(CP)—Finance Minister Abbott promised today to continue to cut down non-defence spending, but said reductions can be made only on a fraction of the $3,700,000,000 the government plans to spend this year.

Of the total expenditures budgeted for the 1951-52 fiscal year, only about $500,000,000 represented "what is generally regarded as non-defence expenditures," Mr. Abbott said. "It is in this sector that we are trying to effect reductions."

Even here, he said in a 5,000-word speech prepared for delivery before a joint meeting of the Association of Canadian Advertisers and the Advertising and Sales Executive Club of Montreal, the job of trying to save "appears to be a thankless task."

"Rising standards of labor and materials obscure the picture but a good deal has already been accomplished, and I am in restricting postponable capital projects but in achieving economies in current administrative operations.

"At times I confess this appears to be a thankless task and results can never be spectacular but I can assure you that we will continue to do our best to harness administrative efficiency and reduce non-defence expenditure wherever practicable."

Other points made by Mr. Abbott:

1. Though Canada was in a period of inflation, a system of fixed price controls would put its economy "in a strait jacket" and suppress competition at a time when it was needed most.

Dead Russian Soldier Found In Foxhole

Omaha, Nov. 1 — (AP) — An American army sergeant says his infantry outfit found a dead Russian soldier in a foxhole "all dug in—all in a foxhole in Korea.

Sgt. Lawrence Jones, home on furlough after 14 months in Korea, said yesterday there is "no doubt" that the body was that of a Russian, "probably an adviser." He said the man's uniform marked him as an officer.

The body was found last spring. Jones testified that it was one driven the communists from a hill south of the 38th parallel on the central front. He said that he didn't know whether the Russian reached official attention of superior officers during the battle heat.

18 Survivors Huddle for 24 Hours On Blazing Deck Awaiting Rescue

Sydney, N.S., Nov. 1 (CP)—Eighteen survivors of an explosion-shattered tanker told today how they huddled for 24 hours on the blazing deck, awaiting rescue as the flames ate slowly toward the highly-explosive cargo.

Survivors of the tanker Transport—loaded with 20,000 barrels of gasoline, 5,000 barrels of jet oil and 5,000 barrels of diesel fuel—arrived here today aboard the British rescue freighter Olinga.

No one knew of the ship's plight. Fire following the explosion cut off radio facilities before the wireless officer could send out an [SOS]. They were only about 10 miles off shore but the explosion had destroyed all lifeboats and rafts.

Two German members of the 30-man crew of the Panamanian vessel, Chief Engineer Ernest Lange, 42, of Limberg, and oiler Josef Sveda, 46, of Bremen, died in the engine room blast Monday night that left the vessel stranded and on fire at the mouth of the bay of Chaleur. Three others were injured, seriously, and have been taken to hospital here.

The Olinga was en route to England from Carsquet, N.S., when she stumbled on the doomed ship Tuesday night. The survivors were quickly taken aboard.

Shipping sources at Montreal said the tanker sank after being abandoned.

Taken to hospital were Herbert Erie, 23, with both feet badly burned; Otto Schaffer, 30, seriously burned back, and Gunter Hellmuth, 25, suffered smoke, burns and bruises. Erie and Schaffer were in a severe state of shock. All are from Germany.

Govt. Heeds Appeal Of Suppliers And Manufacturers

Joint Committee Will Be Appointed to Study Proposals

Ottawa, Nov. 1 — (CP) — The government, on appeal by manufacturers and suppliers, has decided to delay legislation on proposed banning of retail price-fixing and throw open the whole question before a Joint Commons-Senate committee.

Justice Minister Garson gave notice on the Commons order paper today of a motion to set up a joint committee to study the recommendations by the MacQuarrie committee that resale price maintenance practices be made illegal.

Months of Study

The committee will have power to set up sub-committees and hear witnesses and make recommendations to parliament. That likely will mean months of study before the committee decides whether parliamentary action against price-fixing is warranted.

The government indicated it intended to proceed with banning resale price maintenance practices in the throne speech at the opening of this session of parliament.

Since then representatives of manufacturers and suppliers have conferred with Mr. Garson on how legislation delayed so another study of the MacQuarrie recommendations could be made.

Yesterday, for example, the Canadian Chamber of Commerce urged the government to take no present action on its proposed legislation and urged "restraint" until the views of the chamber's 700-member boards of trade and chambers across the country had been obtained.

Representations Made

In any event, the chamber suggested that no action be taken at this session of parliament.

During the last few days, Mr. Garson heard further representations from the Canadian Manufacturers Association and the Ontario and Canadian Pharmaceutical Associations.

A government official said the move to set up the parliamentary committee would delay by several weeks the government's legislation but it still would be possible to put the bill—all — in a foxhole in Korea.

Sgt. Lawrence, home on furlough after 14 months in Korea, said yesterday there is "no doubt" that the body was that of a Russian, "probably an adviser." He said the man's uniform marked him as an officer.

The body was found last spring. Jones testified that it was one driven the communists from a hill south of the 38th parallel on the central front. He said that he didn't know whether the Russian reached official attention of superior officers during the battle heat.

C of C Requests Government Take no Action

Quebec, Nov. 1 (CP) — The Canadian Chamber of Commerce yesterday asked the government to take no present action on its proposed legislation concerning resale price maintenance.

It urged that the government "exercise restraint" until the Chamber can obtain the views of its 700 member boards of trade and chambers across the country; and that, in any event, no action be taken at this session of parliament.

The resolution brought the most prolonged debate of the current three-day annual meeting. In a near-empty session which saw the chamber pass a large number of other resolutions and policy declarations.

The proposed legislation would bar manufacturers from making their goods subject to which their products should be sold by retail stores, a practice which is estimated to affect about 15 percent of Canadian retail trade, including such products as electrical appliances and drugstore items.

Several speakers said the public confuses the idea of a producer naming the price at which he will sell his product with prices which should be sold, with the idea of a group of producers "combining to fix prices. They said competition among producers prevents any one of them from fixing an unduly high price.

S. C. Atkinson of Regina said "nobody would be further from the truth" than the statement that resale price maintenance by individual producers is a "monopolistic practice." He said wellknown brands mean consistent quality, and that the better known a product is, the more likely it is to be "squeezed" by its profit margin.

R. J. Keeley of Sarnia said consumers think the proposed legislation is in their interests, would be of no benefit to them and would, in the end, hurt the consumer. It would, lower the quality and reliability, and might lead to film flamming of the public, which the retailer would be ill to be forced to do it to make a profit.

Weather Kinder In October Than One Year Ago

Old Man Weather was relatively kind during October with the temperature at occasions soaring to 80 degrees for one of the warmest Octobers on record. The low temperature for the month was just four degrees below freezing at 28 degrees.

Oddly enough, however, the mean temperature of the month—50 degrees—was exactly the same as during October last year when both the high and low readings were several degrees lower. High temperature for the same month, last year was 77 degrees with a low of 26 degrees.

Rainfall this year was a bit more at 2.11 inches as compared with 1.20 inches last year.

Costume Parade Before Game Much Enjoyed

In conjunction with the hockey game played at the Memorial Arena last evening, the Trent Valley league entry staged a masquerade parade in celebration of Hallowe'en. The parade was not as large as anticipated as many of the players were out and about the city but those dressed for the Arena show gave the spectators a lot of enjoyment. The judges, Ald. and Mrs. Claude Harden and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Harden had a hard task but distributed the various prizes offered by the sponsors, Bill Nevin, in a way acceptable to all the contestants.

Jim Dodson as the Man From Mars was given the best dressed award, the most original went to Peg Ronsky as a Fireman and the best comic to Jim Hapley as the Ragman. The best dressed child was Laura Semark as a Chinese Girl, the most original to Teddy Ronsky as a tramp, Gale Hunt as a Hallowe'en Girl and Don McNevin Jr., as an Indian. The comic prizes were given to Peter McNevin, Sandra Outingdyke and Barbara McMillan. It was a good show.

At the Club Vanity Fair, the Trent Valley Ramblers held a Hallowe'en dance with a large number in attendance. The best costume prizes were won by Kay Matthews and Connie Cook, Russell Flagler and Helen Couch, Mr. and Mrs. Donald Clapton. The spot dance prizes were given to Fay Cook and Russell Flagler, Aileen Burke and Wilkes Peoples. The judges were Raymond Hayes, Joe Gordon, Ray Lucas and Katherine Hunt.

Unbeaten Juniors Finish Schedule With 45-1 Win

Declared Bay of Quinte district OCSSA junior champions for 1951 in the season, Belleville C. I. Junior griders rounded out an undefeated exhibition schedule yesterday with a 45-1 defeat of the Ontario School for the Deaf.

Played at King George Field, the game was never in doubt after the Bellet kickoff. OSD netted their lone point in the third quarter after reaching the collegiate 10 yard line.

Farmer, BCI star backfielder led the scoring with 15 points. Dolg accounted for 10, Baker six with Adamson and Donaldson scoring touchdown tallies. Matthews and Rowan eached kicked two convert points.

Alexander and Batchelier, BCI linemen stood out with Rowan, Coyer and Frederick playing well defensively. Baker, McDonald and Dolg, Adamson with Meyers, Matthews, Farmer and Gault excelling with broken field runs.

Fred Bateman, Grand Master Ontario East, Honored Guest Hastings County LOL Lodges

Stirling (Special)—Representatives and their wives from all of the 20 Orange Lodges in Hastings County, as well as many friends, were present at the stirring theatre on Tuesday evening, in appreciation of the great honor which Right Worshipful Brother Fred Bateman of Stirling has brought to the County of Hastings. He was recently elected Grand Master of Ontario East for the Loyal Orange Lodge.

The speakers table was draped with the Union Jack and a large number of vases of various walks of life, including five members of Grand Lodge, were seated on the platform. This is the first time in the history of Stirling that a member of their lodge has had as many members of Grand Lodge in attendance, due to the Orangemen of Hastings County, it was a great honor on this unique occasion.

The arrangements for this gala occasion were in the hands of county secretary, Arthur Wilson, who did a marvelous job and he and his committee were congratulated on their fine effort.

Mr. Arthur Sinclair, county chaplain, called the meeting to order with the singing of "Praise God From Whom All Blessings Flow", followed by a prayer.

County Master Chairman, Bro. Ernest Thompson of Moneymore, County Master, presided over the ceremonies and welcomed the guests to this special gathering.

County Marshal Carman Philpott introduced the officers seated on the platform, which included two members of particular interest to Hastings County, the reeve of Stirling, Grand Lodge officers, the County Lodge officers, the county clerk and the new members of school.

Warden Harry Coulter of Tweed, a past county master, spoke for the county of Hastings County and spoke in glowing terms of the honor brought to Hastings County by Bro. Bateman. Several years ago Ernest Tumson shared this honor.

Past Master Hosted

The chief speaker for the evening was the immediate past grand master, J. A. Corrigan of Millbrook. In his address, Corrigan he said: "You folk here in Hastings County honor yourselves when you honor Fred Bateman. Fred was always an able and willing helper and is an asset to the order."

Mr. Corrigan based his brief address on the fact that we must der stands for and what it is doing to justify its existence. The first commandment of a good Orangeman is to better serve the church and community. The Holy Bible was handed down in the days of long ago by our forefathers and in their day had to fight in order to leave this heritage for the benefit of mankind everywhere.

He urged his audience to go back and study the questions found in that volume and recommended that in this day of world turmoil, each one re-read the laws and statutes as found in the books of Leviticus and Deuteronomy. Here you will read a perfect plan for the salvation of the individ and healing of nations. If each one would relearn the lessons contained in them books they would have a deeper conception of what their lodge oath vows should be.

Apt Illustrations

Mr. Corrigan gave apt illustrations to prove the definite realization of what the Bible can do in the life of man as found in the psalms and proverbs and lastly the wonderful promises in the Rist. chapter of Revelation. This gave the audience a greater conception of what the Bible means to the Orange membership.

Mr. Corrigan congratulated the Stirling council on having a Union Jack flying from the community building. He spoke of the great loyalty in the United States as proven by the vast array of Stars and Stripes on display during his visit to Watertown on July 13.

The speaker dealt with Newfoundland, our 10th province, and spoke of the fine Christian loyalty to both royalty and the Commonwealth.

Sincerest Needs of Sincerity

In closing he stressed the need of sincerity of Orangemen in proclaiming to the world "one church, one faith, one Lord."

Donald Sutherland of Ottawa, grand secretary of Ontario East, tendered his appreciation and said that Fred Bateman was a young man to hold such a responsible posit'on. He paid tribute to his wonderful home training and to the ability of Fred's father, the late John Bateman of Springbrook.

Mr. Sutherland had the honor of nominating Fred in 1943 for a position in Grand Lodge. He also paid tribute to Mrs. Bateman who had always co-operated so that Fred could attend the numerous lodge meetings.

The speaker read the history of Stirling Lodge, Number 110, from their original charter issued in 1833, through two lapses until 1894 when Fred Montgomery took out the warrant which the lodge still holds.

Should Display Flag

He regretted that we as Canadians do not give proper honor to the Union Jack and felt that we could have shown Princess Elizabeth quite emphatically our loyalty in every home by displaying the flag of the British Commonwealth. It was suggested that all Orange lodges everywhere should display the flag on every meeting night.

Elmer Sandercock, M. P. P., West Hastings, his greetings and said: "Fred Bateman is the type of man who does receive these honorable positions." Also he gave bro' glimpse of the real man when he assumed a law office.

Richard Sanderson of Havelock, deputy grand master of Ontario East, paid tribute to the late Bro. Mackenzie Bowell who rose from Grand Master to become prime minister, Tribute was also paid to the record of the Bateman family in Orange circles.

Asked to Attend

J. E. Mag Ladry, junior deputy master, mentioned the wide response that the monster celebration in Mr. and Mrs. Bateman's honor had received from all parts of the county as well as our own. He added that he hoped every Orangeman in Hastings would attend the next one in 1953.

Other speakers paid tribute to Fred Bateman included Ralph Gibson, county master of Prince Edward County; Bro. E. H. Graham, field secretary, and Alex McCurdy, deputy county master. The latter addressed the Bateman family, following which June Coulter presented them with gifts. These included a wrist watch and matched set of earrings and necklace.

Mr. Bateman, in his reply thanked everyone who had taken part in the ceremony and stated that the event would always remain first in his memory.

He gave the history of himself throughout Orangism stating that one had to be on the inside to know the real meaning. Tribute was extended to the Stirling members, protestants who are outside the order and a welcome was issued to any who would strengthen the cause for justice and right.

Varied Program

Interspersed throughout the program were several selections by K. P. Mayhew, Maurice Bell, L. A. C. Smith, Caroline Rollins, Lois Cook, Ed Payne, Bill Reynolds and reading selections by James Diamond and Phillip Carr. Joan Young contributed a guitar solo while other accompanists were Mrs. F. Jeffery and Miss McConnell.

Bob Patterson led a lively round of community singing assisted by Miss McConnell while Ed Payne and Jerry Jeanneau both of Havelock, also entertained.

The national anthem closed an evening of rare entertainment in Stirling, surrounding community and Hastings County in general. About 125 guests were also invited to the lodge rooms of Stirling L. O. L. No. 110 where the members served a bountiful lunch of sandwiches pickles, cheese, cake and coffee, under the direction of Sid Demorest, master of the lodge.

Mr. Coulter thanked the lodge members for their hospitality and in Mr. Demorest's reply, he said that they were all very glad to

Obituary

FRED J. MILNE
(Detroit)

After an illness of lengthy duration, Fred J. Milne, formerly of this city, but a resident of Detroit, Michigan, for the past 30 years, died in a Detroit hospital on Tuesday. He was born in Belleville 69 years ago, being the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert Milne. His brother, Robert Milne was a C.N.R. engineer in this city for many years and was killed in a train wreck a few years ago.

The late Mr. Milne was a member of St. Jude Church in Detroit and survived by his wife, the former Sarah Malyes, one brother Francis Milne of Detroit and one sister Miss Margaret Milne in Toronto.

Resting at the Corrigan and O'Brien Funeral Home, West Molra Street, the funeral announcement is made elsewhere in this edition.

LATE JOHN W. HILL

The funeral of the late John W. Hill was held from his late residence on Wednesday afternoon to All Saints Church on the Tyendinaga Reserve. The service was conducted by Canon F. H. Steacy, rector, and he laid the last rites at All Saints cemetery.

Captain Kidds Not Fussy About Getting Apples

The pair of six-year-old masqueraders had found the pickings good on their house-to-house canvass through the city on Hallowe'en but consisted of red rosy apples.

The candy haul was not as good as it might have been, and the pair of diminutive pirates were a bit disappointed as they approached the last port of call.

Through a door one of them knocked, and was met with apples.

Outside the pair picked up two baskets packed with apple loot, and went their way.

POLICE BLOTTER

Theft of a heavy duty electric drill from the Faulkner service station at Dundas Street, was reported to police yesterday. The proprietor did not know when the drill had been taken but the theft was believed to have taken place within the last week-end.

Police circles were rather quiet during the night with very few calls being received at the staff of Hallowe'en activities. A woman on James Street complained that a table and some chairs had disappeared from her verandah. Another was reported left on the street on Queen near Bridge and traffic lights were on the job in time to prevent a hydro pole being rolled into the roadway on Queen Street.

USE TEAR GAS
Chicago, Nov. 1 (AP) —Police used tear gas yesterday to disperse about 100 pickets at the Wickenhauser Taylor Forge and Pipe Works so that a truck load of non-union parts could be moved out of the plant. Some 1,900 members of the Independent Forge and Metal Workers Union struck Thursday in a dispute over withholding of funds for a pension plan.

All of Mr. Bateman's sisters were in attendance at the appreciation night as were several of his brothers and other relatives. They were entertained at the Bateman home following completion of the program.

Hallowe'en Celebrants on Good Behavior Say Police Depts.

"A very good night" was the way both the city police and provincial police departments described their activities on the night of Hallowe'en celebrants in the city and district last night.

The police said that no reports of damage of any kind had been received up to mid morning and that the quietest night in years. One night. These were from the residential area complaining of noisy youths on the streets making it impossible to sleep.

The same was true at the provincial police office with no damage of any kind having been reported.

But there were windows in the downtown area which needed washing this morning, and washing they got with free soap supplied by the celebrants of the evening before.

Kiddies Well Occupied

Organized parties kept the smaller kiddies well occupied during the early evening. Later on, A. had the customary Hallowe'en masquerade parade through the downtown section of the city and Hallowe'en candies were in evidence on the streets and in bags and in fact, any way to get them home.

I say, it was a successful Hallowe'en.

Premier Defends Forest Policies Of Government

Fort William, Nov. 1 (CP) — Fort William and Port Arthur last night were seen as the hub of a giant iron and steel industry by a large oil refinery, and harbor facilities to accommodate ocean vessels from all over the world.

Premier Frost painted this picture of the lakehead city's future in speeches in the city hall auditorium.

With "northern development" the keynote of his address, the premier asked the lakehead for full support of these government undertakings, which he said were "a logical and feasible step in the development of Canada."

Lands and Forests Minister Scott also addressed the political rally in support of Clare Mapledoram, Fort William Progressive Conservative candidate.

Mr. Scott said the forest management policies of the Ontario government. He said it was correcting the forest management errors made by governments of the last 100 years.

Premier Frost said that gas and oil from Alberta could be refined at the lakehead and that the availability of Alberta fuel would help create a diversified industry here. This could be the beginning of a substantial iron and steel industry.

He also promised that power

Explosion Caused By Improper Blasting by Crew

Kayford, W.Va., Nov. 1 (AP)— The coal-mine explosion which killed 18 men yesterday was caused by improper blasting by the crew, the West Virginia Mines Department reported today.

A department spokesman said the crew apparently placed several dynamite "shots" under some overhanging slate to loosen it, and then the resulting blast ignited the coal dust in the air.

He said the manner in which it was done is forbidden.

DOES NOT LIKE SCHOOL

Inglewood, Calif., Nov. 1 (AP) Donald Henderson, 13, doesn't like school, and he handed himself in hospital trying to prove it. Donald took 15 to 25 aleeping pills before school yesterday, police said, and then left his mother a note. It read: "Dear Mom: "I took the easy way out. I just didn't want to go to school."

IN MEMORIAM

COOK — In loving memory of our dear father, Thomas Cook, who died on H.C.A.F. killed over Holland on November 1, 1944.
A loving brother, true and kind,
A memory dear we leave behind
For all of you left to mourn his loss
Is a cross we bear like eternal rest.
Sweetly, under fond and true
Where he lies 'neath the blue
That we do not think of you
Lovingly remembered by his brothers and sisters. H1

COOK — In loving memory of a dear son, Flight Sergeant Clifford Cook, R.C.A.F., killed in action while flying with his crew on November 1st, 1944.
Time has passed and years have gone by
And fond is the time long since you went.
And I think of you daily and hourly,
And the tears I hide you will never see.
But the tears that I shed in silence
Are the tears that I weep in secret.
For you were mine, and I remember
Thinking of you as my own.
Lovingly remembered by Mother. H1

Three Canadians In Group Seeking Buried Treasure

Gosport, Hampshire, England, Nov. 1 — (CP) — Flying a jaunty Jolly Roger flag and cheered by crowds on shore, the two-masted schooner yacht Lamorna set out today on a story-book search for buried treasure.

In sparkling sunshine, the Lamorna cast anchor and threaded its way through a maze of Royal Navy warships into the open sea, starting a six - month voyage fraught with the promise of adventure and peril.

The 12-man party, including 3 Canadians is heading for the South China Seas and a tiny island supposed to contain a treasure cache left behind by Captain William Kidd, the 17th century pirate. Exploration point which the party will pick up at Singapore indicate the gold is buried on the island, 200 miles south of Thailand.

The expedition was organized spontaneously, first one member then another volunteering to join. The Canadians are Geoffrey Taylor of Outremont, Que., John Fry of Westmount, Montreal, and Ian Rogers of Ottawa.

Iranian House Session Ends In Uproar

Tehran, Nov. 1 — (Reuters) — The Iranian Majlis (House of Representatives) was thrown in uproar and confusion today after the opposition leader bitterly accused the government of failing to tackle the communist threat.

Opposition leader Dijmeh Hormi said Prime Minister Mohammed Mossadegh was present conferring in Washington on the Anglo-Iranian oil dispute was "sitting idly" in Washington while the country is going to pieces."

He asked Bagir Kazemi, the acting prime minister, to send an urgent cable to Washington asking him to return without delay.

Hormi said the communists are so strong now that they openly insult the Shah and "attack our religious beliefs. The government is not "utterly powerless" to do anything about it.

WANT REMOVAL OF TAX

Ottawa, Nov. 1. (CP)—The Canadian Association of Consumers has requested Finance Minister Abbott to remove the 10 per cent sales tax from tea and coffee and urged that they "no longer be classified as luxury items."

In a letter made public today, Mrs. W. J. Walton, Jr., the Association's national president, informed Mr. Abbott, of the resolution passed by the association's annual meeting here last month.

LUCKY DAYS

The term "red - letter day" origi nated from ancient Ecclesiastical calendars which printed festival days in red.

Princess Places Wreath on Tomb Of Washington

Washington, Nov. 1—(AP) Princess Elizabeth today placed a wreath on the tomb of George Washington, the man who played a major role in taking the United States out of the British Empire.

It was a simple ceremony. Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh took the wreath of white flowers and laid it into the tomb.

When they came out, Philip turned, faced the tomb and saluted.

There was polite handclapping and "ooh's" and "ah's"—the latter mostly from baby sitters and apparently in admiration of the handsome Philip.

Frank Pace, Jr. Secretary of the procession — cars of secret service men and reporters as well as that of the principals and Miss Truman—went back over the same route to Arlington National Cemetery.

There, the Princess laid a wreath of yellow and bronze chrysanthemums on the tomb of the unknown soldier. She paused motionless while an army bugler sounded taps. Philip, at her side, his head raised in a stiff salute.

As the motorcade wound up the wooded slopes of the cemetery, an army battery rendered a 21-gun salute.

The Princess entered Arlington amphitheatre, which looks down upon the unknown's tomb, with Maj.-Gen. Thomas Herren, commander of the Washington military district.

Several hundred spectators sat in the amphitheatre. Others were gathered in knots near the entrance and behind ropes near the tomb itself.

The entire visit lasted but 12 minutes.

From Arlington, the royal party went to the Canadian Embassy for a reception to the Washington diplomatic corps.

Prince Captures Washington Girls With His Charm

Washington, Nov. 1.—( CP) — Prince Philip came to Washington yesterday. The Princess was with him.

The tall, handsome Duke, as debonair as always, out-Churchilled Frankie in his effect on Washington's government gals. They didn't quite swoon but it was a long "ooh" and a sighing "aah" throughout the corridors from National Airport into town.

It was roughly four women—of all ages—to every male in the parade route. For most offices in this home of the United States government let their staffs out early to see the show and the gals made the most of it.

It was "there he is" and "isn't he cute" as he passed in a convertible with Mrs. Harry Truman and Margaret Truman.

The Princess wasn't neglected—but she rode with President Truman in the car ahead and couldn't be seen as easily as the Prince was viewed steadily throughout and obviously loved the show.

Level Crossing Hazards Increase Says Director

Toronto, Nov. 1 (CP)—Kells Hall, director of engineering of the Board of Transport Commissioners, today told that level crossing hazards are increasing and "expenditures on protection and elimination of crossings are not keeping pace with the situation."

He reviewed the history of the railway grade crossing fund in a speech prepared for delivery before the 32nd annual convention of the Canadian Good Roads Association which opened today. The fund was set up in 1909 to help pay for safety measures at road-railway crossings.

Mr. Hall said that the family wig-wag signals at crossings will gradually disappear from use. Major signal companies no longer manufacture the wig-wags because flashing lights have been found more effective.

He said there are 32,000 crossings in Canada and only ten per cent of them are protected.

Government Statisticians Plan Full Analytical Comparison Of Living Costs in Chief Cities

Ottawa, Nov. 1 (CP)—Government statisticians early next year hope to start compiling a complete analytical comparison of living costs among major cities in Dominion.

The aim of the Bureau of Statistics is to be able to say whether, for example, it costs more to live in Toronto or Montreal, Halifax or Vancouver, or other large regional communities.

Currently, the bureau publishes retail price lists for 35 cities on a monthly basis, but the listings include only foodstuffs and coal.

The monthly labor gazette listings can tell you, for instance, that the cost of sirloin steak was $1.33 a pound at Chicoutimi, Que., and only 95 cents a pound at Saskatoon.

Milk sold for 16 cents a quart at Charlottetown and 22 cents a quart at St. Johns, Nfld., and coal $24.65 a ton at Toronto and $29 a ton at Timmins, Ont.

But the bureau finds it difficult to give, for example, a bedroom suite costs more at Vancouver than at Halifax, or whether a suit of clothes is more expensive at Regina than at Ottawa.

It gathers figures which it uses to compile monthly price changes in regional cost-of-living indexes, but these are not considered sufficiently refined for public use on a comparative basis.

Next year the bureau hopes to get statisticians and legmen on the job of making a detailed cost-of-living comparison, principally to help many business men answer such questions as to whether they should pay branch employees more at Vancouver than Montreal, because of cost-of-living trends.

Meanwhile, the bureau's attention is focussed on the more immediate job of preparing the general cost-of-living index for September. This likely will be ready tomorrow.

The index, in August, stood at a peak 187.8, after increasing 0.9 points from 188.9. The index is based on 1935-39 prices equalling 100.

The index increase was the smallest since last April and gave rise to reports that at last a period of economic stability had been reached.

Court Forces St. Catharines Foundry To Close Because Fumes Damaged Orchids at Nearby Florist's

St. Catharines, Nov. 1. (CP)— Orchids closed a foundry today.

All was quiet this morning at the foundry of McKinnon Industries. It shut down at midnight laying off more than 850 employees, as the result of an injunction obtained by Mr. Walker and Sons, florists. Mr. Walker charged fumes and smoke from the foundry damaged his orchids.

There were no disturbances or agitations by those out of work Neither side, however, offers any immediate hope of re-opening the plant.

The men thrown out of work will be absorbed as much as possible in other departments of the company, McKinnon said, with a total payroll of about 4,100 employees making it one of the largest and is a subsidiary of General Motors.

Today the management publicly stated its stand in the dispute. In a half-page newspaper advertisement, the company acknowledged that under the judgment, Mr. Walker is entitled to recover damages and said that since 1943. It has spent more than $100,000 to control smoke and fumes.

The statement also points out that nowhere in the judgment of the company required to purchase the plaintiff's greenhouses.

The addition a collecting payment for any actual damage which the court sees fit, the plaintiff is demanding that the company purchase his property at the highest selling figure in order him to erect new greenhouses at another site.

The new $10,000,000 foundry is being built by McKinnon's four miles east of the present site, on the banks of the Welland Canal. The company said it should be ready by April 1, 1952.

The company further stated that it has twice offered to sit down with Walker's counsel to discuss damages, without response.

Wives, Children of British Troops in Egypt Ordered Home

Fayid, Suez Canal, Nov. 1 — (Reuters)—Hundreds of wives and children of British troops were ordered home today as the extremist terror squads spread their campaign of intimidating throughout Egypt.

Seven "protected areas" for soldiers' families will be left open in the zone, but many women and children will have to be shipped back to Britain, an army spokesman said.

Terror squads flooded Sharkia Province of the zone today with leaflets threatening flogging and public hanging with the axe of iron for any Egyptian found collaborating with the British.

Victims would be brought before a "people's tribunal" for summary trial on a charge of "high treason," the leaflets said.

Bands of terrorists, organized by the Moslem brotherhood and other extreme groups, have ambushed convoys and fired bullets on their way to British camps and ordered workers back to their villages at pistol point.

Assinging two R.A.F. squadrons to protect British families, British authorities said they will take strong measures against agitators.

Exact Number Not Known

The exact number of British families in the Canal Zone and the percentage of returns being a military secret.

However, 10 days ago a special service order told reporters there were 2,875 British families in Ismailia and the suburbs of Arashia.

Meanwhile British authorities today enforced a ban on the transport of heavy oil by road from Suez to Cairo. No traffic carrying gasoline moved out of the zone today, but rail and waterway traffic of gasoline has been halted for some time.

British military patrols clamped a new blackout on the labor situation along the Canal Zone, where there has been a boycott campaign designed to deprive the British of all supplies labor and choke off food and water supplies.

British expulsion of two police officers and four constables yesterday raised a hot protest from the Egyptian government today.

Wins $56,000 But 'Isn't Excited'

That's the way Mrs. Leslie Elliston Head of Winnipeg, said she felt when informed that she was reported to have won $56,000 in the Irish hospital sweepstakes.

Mrs. Head—her nom de plume was "Hit or Miss"—gleaned the golden bonanza when Denizen placed second in the Lancashire stakes in England recently.

Mrs. Head isn't completely convinced of her good fortune. She is still waiting for official word. Said the unexcited gentlewoman: "I've lived long enough not to count my chickens before they're hatched".

FIRMLY AFFILIATED

Athens, Nov. 1 — (AP)—Premier Nicholas Plastiras told parliament last night that Greece's participation in the North Atlantic Treaty organization strengthens the stability and security of the Greek people. In a statement outlining the policy of his new coalition government, Plastiras said Greece is firmly affiliated with the "Anglo - Saxon democracies, the United States, Britain and the French Republic."

Hospital Costs Fully Discussed At Conference

Toronto, Nov. 1—(CP)—Money matters—the high cost of hospital care and variations between hospitals—occupied delegates to the Ontario Hospital Association convention yesterday. They also elected a new slate of officers.

Dr. J. B. Neilson, superintendent of Hamilton General Hospital, had blunt words to say about costs:

"If hospital costs are not cut down, you are going to lose your hospitals."

He said prepaid hospital plans were the only reasonable method of "taking th financial bite out of hospital illness," but it costs continued to rise, premiums would become too high for most Ontario citizens.

If this happened, he said, the government would take over the hospitals and operate them.

The association passed a resolution asking the government for extended supplementary grants to take care of indigent patients, a grant to nursing schools and increased grants for hospital construction to take care of rising building costs.

C. J. Telfer, a director of the Ontario Health Department, asked the hospital delegates to scrutinize cost figures closely. He said there were differences in cost figures reported by hospitals of comparable size in "financial statements certified by hospital auditors or so-called auditors."

LEAVES PRESIDENCY

Bogota, Colombia, Nov. 1 — (AP) — President Laureano Gomez resigned the Senate last night that he is temporarily leaving the presidency because of ill health.

Tour Sidelights

Washington, Nov. 1 (CP)— Prince Philip is quick on the uptake.

He showed it last night at a press reception when a Texas reporter said to him:

"I'm sorry you can't get to Texas."

Said the Prince: "We're sorry, too. But Calgary is the next thing to it."

Just before Princess Elizabeth stepped into President Truman's limousine yesterday she patted a stray wind hair wound her standard closely around the staff on the front of the car. The American flag, on the other side of the car, was waving in the wind.

The Princess unfurled the Royal Standard to the wind, stepped into the car and smiled.

Royalty confused some Americans who lined Washington streets yesterday to see the Prince and Prideaux pass.

One middle-aged man, spoiling for a hatchet in 1900, Philip, was heard to ask: "Is that the King."

She looks terribly English."

MANY P.O.W. MISSING

Bonn, Germany, Nov. 1 (AP) The West German government announced today that nearly 3,-500,000 German prisoners, military and civilian are still unaccounted for 6 1-2 years after the end of the war. This contrasts sharply with claims by the Russians, reiterated recently in the United Nations, that they have returned all their German prisoners except some thousands held as war criminals.

FAMOUS "DRY"

Carrie Nation, the anti - saloon agitator who died in 1911, began raiding Kansas saloons with a hatchet in 1900.

AMERICAN EAGLE HAS CLAWS

It is only a little more than six years ago since large headlines announced that Japan's military adventures had been brought to an end by a decision of the Americans to unleash a nightmare weapon until then unheard of—the atom bomb.

Beyond that it is an extremely powerful weapon and that others besides the Americans know something about it, most of us know very little about the atom bomb yet.

But one thing appears certain—the two original atom bombs which the Americans dropped, one on Hiroshima and the other on Nagasaki — were only amateurish affairs compared with the kind of atomic weapons which the Americans, and possibly other people, are experimenting with today.

The latest atom bomb which the Americans exploded at the proving grounds in Nevada was described by the Associated Press as having a mushroom of light brighter than the sun and visible 200 miles distant, as well as a roar and tremors which could be heard and felt 225 miles from the scene.

Even as long ago as when the war ended, and shortly thereafter, persons living close to some of the major industrial areas of the United States could not help hearing about other weapons — different but equally destructive — which were being made ready in case the atom bomb did not achieve its objective. By this time, these other weapons have probably been developed as highly as the more modern atom bombs.

We all hope that there need be no war between the two ideological systems which divide the world. Issues do divide, but it is reassuring for those of us who live in this country to realize that, if war comes, the Americans and their allies are not going to be caught unprepared, as they have been twice before.

SMUGGLERS CUT PRICES

Is the wholesale smuggling of American cigarettes going to become commonplace, and their black market distribution a recognized part of the Canadian economy?

In a speech which he made in the House of Commons the other day, Earl Catherwood, Progressive Conservative member for Hamilton, and the tobacco-growing belt of Ontario, declared that the bootleggers of American cigarettes in his constituency were complaining that competition had forced them to reduce their price from $3.50 per carton of 1,000 American cigarettes to $3.

Mr. Catherwood was not defending the cigarette bootleggers or the smugglers who provide them with their wares; he was merely pointing out how bold the smugglers and their agents have become now widespread are their operations and how profitable their enterprise is because of the prices which now are charged for Canadian cigarettes.

In pleading with the government to lower its taxes on cigarettes and other forms of tobacco, Mr. Catherwood declared that the whole of Ontario's tobacco-growing industry, which has been built up at great cost and effort over the decades and which provides a major source of farm income in many areas, was "threatened" by the government's attitude.

So far, neither spokesmen for the tobacco farmers nor the resentment of the tobacco-consuming public has been of any avail in inducing the government to lower its tobacco taxes.

Meanwhile, even if their motives are not altruistic, the smugglers are helping lower the cost of tobacco to people who live close to the border.

DARED TO BE DIFFERENT

The Marquis of Bristol, who retired from the Royal Navy 40 years ago with the rank of rear admiral, died in England the other day at the age of 88. In recent years, the marquis had lived in retirement at a place called Bury St. Edmunds.

We are informed that the marquis had a great dislike for automobiles. One of his favorite sports was coasting downhill on a bicycle, with his feet on the handlebars. Years ago, he once launched a campaign to bring down the price of men's clothing. He had his wife make him a suit for $14. On other occasions, he used to buy ready-made suits cheaper than those made by tailors, and have his wife alter them to fit.

As the Ottawa Journal says: "Bristol was more than a marquis; he was a genuine eccentric, of which we have too few in this standardized and mechanized age."

HUSBANDS USEFUL

A husband is a handy thing to have around the house; not only is he welcome on pay day, but think of the joy that comes to a woman each time company to point to a man and say, "That is my husband." That in itself is worth much.

Then, too, the average man is so handy about the house; he has a way of doing things that are almost priceless; he can fix so many things, keep the furnace room so tidy, put up shelves and stuff rags in the broken window in the kitchen when the cold enters. It is so nice to have a husband when there is a mysterious noise downstairs late at night. — (Moose Jaw Times-Herald.)

| November! what was once a new year, | Short of breath and voice complaining; |
| Now an old year almost through year. | One more sign of growing older. |

OFF THE RECORD

By Ed. Reed

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO
Nov. 1st., 1931

Seventy five years ago Oct. 27th, the first train from Montreal passed through Belleville enroute to Toronto and the Weekly Intelligencer, the only paper here at that time, referred to the event as follows: In the night of Oct. 31st, "Belleville has at last been placed upon the railway map of the province by the opening of the Grand Trunk Railroad. The first regular trains from the east made their first appearance in our good town on Monday last to the no small pleasure and gratification of a large number of our citizens. The event is one of the utmost importance to us as a town in particular and the whole province in general. Merchants and tradesmen will no longer have to lay in a heavy six months' stock of goods to keep supplies until the season arrives for the opening of navigation. Nor will our speculators in wheat, provisions or potashes have to reduce the price of their produce by the actual values on account of having to hold them over for several months. A 2,000 bushel parcel of wheat in one day, can be rushed in two or three days after, thus rendering speculations comparatively safe. And who will be the most benefited by this? While we admit the whole community of the province benefited, yet the agriculturists are those who will reap the principal harvest, and as a consequence become more enriched and independent."

30 YEARS AGO
Nov. 1st., 1921

A number of Belleville deer hunters, who were ready to start for the north country, discovered today to their great disappointment that the necessary forms have not yet been received by the issuer of licenses.

A large crowd was present at the pork and bean supper in St. Thomas' Parish House on Hallowe'en and the affair was a great success.

Miss Rita Jean MacCallum of Kitchener, formerly of Belleville, is visiting friends here.

In a basketball match between the K. V. A. team and the Alerts the former team won the score being 12 to 9. The following composed the teams: — K. V. A. — Leslie, Badgley Peacock, Alexander and Hinds: Alerts, — B. Miles, Maraglese Anderson, Frost and Jeffers. The referee was Charles Keeber.

40 YEARS AGO
Nov. 1st., 1911

Mr. Fred D. Diamond, D. D. S. M. of the Ancient Order for Prince Edward District, paid an official visit to Percy Lodge at Warkworth last evening.

There will not be a local option campaign here this year.

Mrs. Norman Ross of Ottawa is the guest of Mrs. A. C. McFee, George Street.

Mr. James Dryden, Reeve of Deseronto and Warden of the County of Hastings, was a visitor in town today.

The Rev. Dr. W. P. Dyer, Principal of Albert College, preached in the Methodist Church at Millbrook on Sunday last.

50 YEARS AGO
Nov. 1st., 1901

The water is getting low in many wells in the city.

Mr. Charles Wallis of Toronto, formerly of Belleville, is here to spend Sunday.

The Rev. W. Martin of this city will preach in the Methodist Church at Bedford on Sunday.

The glad hand and the campaign smile are bobbing up serenely these days. Municipal candidates are airing their views on the street corners.

Mr. Thomas Jarrett of Trenton was in town today.

FAST EXIT

Pictou, N.S. (CP)—When a burning tar barrel sent billows of smoke into the Sir William Dawson School here, the teachers and pupils showed scientists of fire drills. The whole building was emptied in one minute 30 seconds.

NEIGHBORLY AID

Bluevale, Ont. (CP)—Friends and neighbors turned out in large numbers with plows and tractors to finish the plowing for Jack Brewer, who suffered burns at his farm near Stratford.

OUR TOWN

IN ANOTHER WORLD

When the Duke of Edinburgh and I went fishing one morning last week rain was hanging heavy in the low, grey clouds. The rods were cold on the hands. It was a mood-morning to go out after fish.

As it turned out, Philip had only a taste of the sport as we know it. It was a succulent taste at that. He hooked into eight grilse and I caught six.

Philip and his wife had them for breakfast the next morning, pan fried. My wife and I had ours the same way. They were quite wonderful for breakfast. I prefer them to any other fresh fish. The flesh is salmon-pink but more tender and with a more delicate taste than the heavier species.

Grilse are young salmon, usually between one and three pounds. Eyes on my line kindly keep a offin no more than a perfunctory thrill when they strike. There isn't too much fight in them after that. Still, they make a pleasant dividend when the big babies aren't co-operating.

The fish really didn't matter, although we did like the relaxation of a couple of quiet hours on the river. What seemed more important was that Philip was getting his first taste of the authentic Canada.

Everything else until that morning had seemed pretty unreal. Hell's bells, Canada isn't a bunch of tremendous cities or even a Mounted Police or a Royal Canadian Mounted Police or even a Mounted Police, or even a Commander of face or the Royal Canadian Mounted Police or even a grandstand full of people all chanting "Home on the Range."

The real Canada is the kind you find when you step into a small boat with -a Briggs and Stratton and head out from the wharf for a morning's fishing.

It's my hunch that when Philip is home again and starting out his memories of this tour then morning off Vancouver Island will seem to be the best of all the crowded days.

The Clean Hills

Most people were disappointed that the morning was bleak, but out on the water such days have a charm and a mood all their own.

The water was almost flat calm. It was grey, clear and cold and alive in shade. There were small splashes of yellow maple in the evergreens that, along this shore, seem to march right into the water. The long peaks in the distance were still new.

It is, I think, the best time of year in these parts. Everything is clean, clean, otherworld atmosphere.

The long dry summer that laid a patina of dust over the greenest of the hills was washed away in the autumn rain and the rugged landscape seemed freshly laundered. The October high tides had swept the beaches of summer debris. There was almost no sign of life except for blue smoke rising from the occasional cabin. A fish boat went by, the coughing explosion of its gas engine echoing an off-beat against the rocks.

The skipper of the fish boat I happened to know, a contented man named Sam Broughton who drifts around these parts after cod. He waved a greeting from the small wheelhouse. I found myself wondering which choice I would make if I could be either of these men, the royal consort or the genial old fisherman, and decided I would rather be Sam. I sometimes think I would rather be Sam than anybody I know.

It was almost theatrical for Philip to be in that natural setting after the pomp and ceremony of the days behind and, indeed, the days ahead. It was the full gulf after the mass bands, the inquisitive, dignified gaze of the cormorants, the friendly but shy multitude, the slow, leisurely flight of the grey heron after the frenetic excitement of the ladies of the land—everything seemed to dramatize the difference between the royal and the man-made and God-made.

A March Past

It began to rain lightly just before noon, the first drops noticeable on the water as small, dark dots, delicate pattern on the slick, cold surface of the sea.

At about that precise moment we saw a spectacle that dwarfed the whole royal business. Out where they did their own kind of march past, their back, oily bodies rising and falling on the rain-flecked surface in their easy, methodical, deliberate way.

A school of porpoise a dog seal out after his own fishing, raised his head up to gaze at us with large wet eyes and then slipped below the surface.

He looked clearly familiar to me, yet never exciting, and I speculated about how Philip was reacting and guessed that he would absorb and retain some of the magic of the real Canada.

I would never really know, of course, because some 20 miles of bays and inland inlets separated us when the Duke of Edinburgh and I went fishing one morning last week.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

According to the latest statistics, about 350,000 Canadians are born each year, and around 120,000 Canadians die,—mostly at a fair age.

On the water First, plus a few in category, there are several admonitions that should be observed on this grim day which ushers in the dangerous half of the Canadian year.

Temperature probably has as much to do with health as any other factor. Both excessive heat and excessive cold put strains on the human body and lower its resistance, so that not only can infection take a strong bite on us but our organs are subjected to stresses that weaken us in the eternal battle with the unseen bugs.

Cold is the more dangerous of the two extremes of temperature, because in addition to draughts and bugs and inlets separated us when the Duke of Edinburgh and I went fishing one morning last week.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

ALL LIFE A MIRACLE

Mankind is a miracle, and so is all of Nature! The green grass, the thousands of varieties of trees, plants, flowers, birds, animals, insects—miracles. All created for a purpose about which we remain almost in total ignorance!

A take out a little box from my desk at my office, no larger than about four by four inches. I open its cover and listen to voices across a continent. Across the telephone remains to me a miracle every time I use it. And now TV, most miraculous of all, and it will be more so when we see it in natural colors! What a time in which to live! And man has merely harnessed a very few of the possibilities that remain to be worked out.

In the midst of this man keeps working out diabolical instruments and machines of death and destruction. We have everything in this beautiful world to make us happy and healthy human beings, but now we tap the life blood of humanity and promises to wipe out all hope of survival. If there is a devil he must be grinning at his offering of a new type of "forbidden fruit"!

I look out from my library window into the sunshine and into Autumnal glory. It is such a peaceful, beautiful sight. Everything in the outdoors a miracle of creation. Why can't it stay that way, here and everywhere in all this remarkable earth?

Recently I visited Washington. At the turn of the past century it was a small city of but three or four thousand people. It was even invaded and burned during the War of 1812, but today it is a great dream city of beautiful homes, galleries, museums and public buildings like no other city in all this world! It is the capital of the greatest Republic ever created. More than this, it is an example of what a free people have inherited from their courage and sacrifices. This western world is a miracle of free governments "of the people, by the people, for the people."

God has sprinkled this earth with miracles. Every being to all who will but grasp their meanings and significance. There still remain, mankind's greatest of all miracles—universal and permanent peace and goodwill among all nations. God is watching to see who will perform it!

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

ON THE DOTTED LINE

It is strange how some people achieve distinction without appearing to have the qualities of real distinction demands.

George Washington was not a man of genius, but his abilities were gathered together in most unusual combination. He was a born salesman who had the greatest difficulty carrying on any conversation without trying to sell a prospective customer. But he just had a way of laying down on the counter what he had to sell and saying a few brief statements, and sure enough he would leave every time with an order.

There are many people who cannot persuade customers to sign on the dotted line. Such salesmen very often seem to have everything. They are personable, good natured, forceful, and well informed about the product they are peddling. But they can't make sales. Buyers are delighted to have them drop in and talk for a half-hour or so, just to chat and have a way with a pat on the back and not with an order.

There is something very mysterious about the capacity to sell goods or to make people see your point of view. Why some people succeed and others fail is a mystery locked up in the counsel of God. It takes energy to succeed, but it takes something else, and what that something else is, is a mystery.

CAUSE OF DELAY

Edmonton. (CP)—City Commissioner Blair Stevenson noted in a report to council that Edmonton Transit drivers often stay too long at the end of their runs and to indulge in a cigaret, which results in speeding along bus routes to make up for lost time.

MASSAGE FOR VARICOSE VEINS AND ULCER

All my life—well, anyway, half of my life I've been trying to get you old stitts past forty to roll somersaults. Any one not more than fifty or sixty years old and not actually crippled is a stiff if he can't roll —notice I say roll somersaults on the floor or ground. Webster says a stitt is (2 b) an unbending . . . or (2 c) a clumsy . . . person.

Varicose, swollen, enlarged veins are most frequently in the legs and the most common cause is long standing and insufficient walking or running or skating or dancing or playing of games for exercise and pleasure.

Americans sit and ride too much. Even youngsters in their teens ride to and from school by whatever means may be available, except the bicycle.

People who dance, skate, play games, ride bicycle or even walk several miles a day are rarely troubled with varicose veins—not plodding nor just strolling but walking briskly are persons less likely to have varicose veins than are sedentary people who regard walking or riding a bicycle as too plebeian.

If your job requires long standing or sitting you may well consider the little effect of stagnation or ptosis by rolling a somersault or two or by lying on your back and riding an imaginary bicycle upside down for a moment every hour. If this suggestion seems a' ridiculous your case is hopeless—you're an old stiff for keeps.

In the pamphlet Varicose Veins, for which send stamped, self-addressed envelope, I describe the sponge treatment for varicose ulcer, as follows:

1. Cleanse ulcer and surrounding skin with benzine.

2. Paint ulcer with 10 per cent silver nitrate solution. This whitens and later blackens the raw surface.

3. Apply boric acid ointment.

4. Cover with several layers of baked (sterilized) surgeon's gauze (washed cotton cloth).

5. Cover the gauze with 3 layers of sheet wadding.

6. Cover the wadding with the finest rubber sponge slightly larger than the size of the raw surface.

7. Bandage all in place with three inch gauze bandage.

8. Finally apply a four-inch woven elastic (not rubber) bandage firmly but not tightly from forefoot to just below the knee.

9. Renew whole dressing as often as necessary for comfort.

Exercise such as these suggested for counteracting stasis from gravity and circulation in the legs or other dependent areas by managing the blood vessels the way the heart—the muscles squeeze the vessels and the valves in the veins prevent backflow in the wrong direction. This applies in a smaller measure also to the wearing of an elastic stocking if you are—well, you know what I mean—if you will not or cannot take the exercises described.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Ben's Cousin Was . . .

Daughter, 18, was told milk and meat are not necessary in the diet. She is taking calcium tablets and vitamins. Eats milk, meat, vegetables and fruits, except lemons which are too sour for she says she was told. She has lots of cavities. . . . she's a dancer—the other pupils tell her she is lucky. She is 5 ft. 5 in. tall and still weighs 123 pounds. . . . she worries and does not eat the other pupils tell her to take barbiturate tablets to sleep and stay awake but she is nervous in the daytime. (W. B. S.)

Answer—A girl 18, 65 inches tall, should weigh not less than 125 pounds. Your daughter had better take the advice of your doctor. She is playing with fire. Yes, any one may live without milk and meat, but not well. A girl can't make a success of her dancing without resorting to alcohol or dope she hasn't the chance of a snowball in——she should wear out her time or money talking lessons.

Heartburn

Husband has sour stomach mostly after evening meal and a good deal of heartburn. (Mrs. L. H.)

Answer—Stamped, self-addressed envelope for pamphlet Yankee Stomach.

Gallstones

I have suffered with severe indigestion spells for four years, frequently requiring hospital to quiet the pain. New doctor advised X-rays and there were gallsac contains many stones. Is there no other way than operation. (Mrs. F. M.)

Answer—I know of none.

Potato Expert In the Chips

Toronto (CP)— E. C. Snyder of Preston, Ont., one of Ontario's top potato experts and the donor of a championship in the vegetable section of the Royal Agricultural Winter Fair to be held here Nov. 13-21, is one man who is really "rolling in the chips".

The Waterloo County potato grower, who is the donor of prize money in the Royal's table stock potato class, has uncovered a profitable market—he produces potato chips, millions of them.

Mr. Snyder, who got the idea of turning his potatoes into potato chips in 1933, when two bags of potatoes were selling for as low as 25 cents, is now processing up to 300 bags a day in a plant which employs 40 people.

This year the chip king has 150 acres in potatoes and his plant, which operates year-round, provides a market for hundreds of Ontario potato growers.

So jealous is Mr. Snyder of the quality of his product that he uses a hydrometer to check the specific gravity of his potatoes. This is done because a high reading indicates a high moisture content, which is essential for highgrade chips.

40 Per Cent of Community Chest Quota Has Been Reached

The sum of $6,010 or an amount equal to 40 per cent of the $20,000 objective was reported as received shortly before noon today at the Red Feather campaign headquarters. The community chest executive at its daily meeting last night at the Y.M.C.A. was greatly encouraged by the response to the appeal of the local citizens, merchants, industries and employees.

The chairman J. J. Trudeau stated that the public appreciated the importance of continuing the services which the participating agencies were performing in the community and realized that these could be continued and extended only if the deficit incurred in operating, the result of greater expense than fees collected were met in this appeal.

High praise was given the employees in plants and places of business where they had organized to gather contributions of the individual workers. Phil Cane, employee relations chairman, reported on real progress had been made and large numbers of persons were anticipating to do the campaign in these places. A total of $843 has been reported from this source. P. C. McGuire, general campaign chairman realized that the job of repeat calls had slowed up the completion of the job in the home to home and business district section of the campaign, but appealed to these captains to contact all of their workers for to-date reports which will be tabulated daily increase the amount of $5,843 so far reported.

Speaking for the special names division, W.L. McDougall and J. W. Deacon stated that it would be several days before the special fund soliciting subscriptions could be completed. This division reported $4,634 at noon today.

The following is a list of subscriptions to the Community Chest Fund as submitted by campaign headquarters on 1st November today:

Warning Factions In Dock Strike Fail to Agree

New York, Nov. 1 — (AP) — Federal mediation officials overseen warring factions of A. F. L. longshoremen ended in deadlock early today, sending the crippling east-coast dock strike into its 18th day.

After sounding an earlier note of optimism during the 11 - hour session, U. S. Pitcell, chairman of the New York State mediation board, announced that the meeting had broken up.

"Extraordinary measures must be considered" to end the dispute, he said.

The strike, by dissident members of the International Longshoremen's Association, has paralyzed the vast port of New York and the Boston waterfront. Only a million and a half tons of cargo have moved with any regularity.

The strikers, who claim to represent 30,000 of the 65,000 dockers working ports from Maine to Virginia, are opposing the accepting of a recently - negotiated agreement with Atlantic coast shippers.

The rebels are headed by John (Gene) Sampson, who is opposing the leadership of I. A. President Joseph P. Ryan.

The current pay, with the new contract officially in force, is $2.20 an hour, a 10-cent-an-hour boost over the old pact. The wildcat dockers are demanding a 25-cent-hourly pay raise.

Cabinet Approves Plans to Meet Economic Crisis

London, Nov. 1 — (Reuters)— Winston Churchill called his new cabinet together today to approve plans he has shaped to meet Britain's economic crisis.

The broad outlines of Conservative policy will be announced in The Speech from the Throne opening parliament next week.

The speech, drafted by the cabinet and traditionally delivered by the King, will be followed a few days later by Churchill's first major pronouncement on domestic and world policy.

The throne speech will be read to parliament by a Royal Commission of peers. It will reveal how soon the Conservatives intend to carry out their pledge to denationalize the iron and steel industry, which the Labor government transferred to state ownership.

Churchill's plans to reorganize state - owned road transport on a regional basis will also be announced.

Quarters close to the Conservative leader expect him to make bold moves to arrest the serious financial drain — a deficiency of more than $2,000,000,000 a year in Britain's balance of payments, and a big drop in dollar reserves.

Plans to strengthen Britain's lines with her Commonwealth partners also are expected to be revealed soon.

Churchill, who has still more than 40 minor posts in his ministry to fill, today announced the appointment of David Eccles, one of the party's most progressive economic thinkers, as Minister of Works.

Four Gas Blasts Injure 29 Persons, $20,000 Damage

Pittsburgh, Nov. 1 — (AP)— A gala Hallowe'en celebration turned into terror last night as four gas explosions injured 29 persons and cast flaming debris over hundreds of parading mummers and onlookers.

Twenty persons were taken to hospitals but 16 were released later. Three were reported in critical condition.

The earth - shaking blasts let go in the basement of a confectionery store and dwelling house in a South Hills district where a Hallowe'en parade reached the end of its march.

Fire Chief James T. Coslett said a broken gas main in Mary Davidson's confectionery store set off the explosions. They were felt for miles around.

Coslett estimated property damage at $20,000. The exploding fire broke out after the first blast and gutted the two-storey building.

A wall caved in and planted Mrs. Jim Rafferty, a confectionery worker, in front of an expectant audience, but not a person was hurt by an hour. Three friends were with her.

After firemen freed Mrs. McCafferty she said:

"When my grandson happened it seemed as if the roof lifted off first, then the walls caving fire broke out after the first blast and gutted the two-storey building.

Canadian Press Thanks Those Who Helped Reporter

Montreal, Nov. 1 — (CP) — Sometimes you can bank on the public to help a reporter who's over the royal tour — sometimes you can't.

Reporter Ken Kelly of The Canadian Press was in the royal motorcade when a 100 - pound piece of concrete broke off from the portico of the Queen Mary hospital. It fell on the spot where Princess Elizabeth had been standing a minute before.

Tour regulations would not permit Kelly to leave the reporters' car as the motorcade moved off from the hospital. He scribbled a brief bulletin on the near accident, with a notation of the hospital location, at his side and thrust it into the hands of a spectator.

He wrote three more of the same bulletins "as insurance" with a few details a little different persons as the car moved on.

The Press Gallery in Ottawa downtown came a telephone call. The caller, asking if Kelly were a staff member, said he had a note about a near-accident but wanted nothing to do with "this needle writing" — and gave no details.

A few seconds later, another caller sought confirmation of Kelly's status, then said he "must be a hero" to report such things. He didn't say what was in Kelly's note.

A third call followed immediately. The caller, out of breath, identified himself as an employee of the Bell Telephone Company and promptly read Kelly's bulletin. A fourth caller, unidentified, did the same.

This story is by way of thanks to those fellows who helped a reporter in a tough spot.

18 SURVIVORS

Capt. James Bard of the 1,606-ton tanker said the morale of the crew "was wonderful under the circumstances and is unbelievable."

The men on watch were the only ones fully clothed. The rest of the crew was asleep when the explosion occurred.

Otto Balahm, 21, of Kiel Canal, Germany, was standing watch when he heard a terrific explosion and within seconds everything seemed to be shattered."

The men searched for covering and put burlap bags around their shoulders to keep them warm.

"Thank God we had fine weather," he said. "It was the only thing that kept my men alive."

AMBASSADOR HOME

London, Nov. 1 — (AP)—Britain's Ambassador to Iran arrived home last night to talk things over with foreign secretary Anthony Eden. A settlement of the Iranian oil dispute now depends on events in Washington, Sir Francis Shepperd told reporters at London airport.

White Shrine Commemorates 25th Anniversary by Fine Bazaar, Attractive Tea

Yesterday afternoon a silver anniversary bazaar and afternoon tea was held in the I.O.O.F. lodge room on Front Street, under the auspices of the White Shrine, and in spite of inclement winds, many members, friends and guests were present.

The room was attractive with its gaily adorned booths, while Hallowe'en and Hallowe'en motif but each in its own particular decorative scheme, while ferns and lovely browns, white, and yellow chrysanthemums, with here and there a glint of silver which testified to the 25 years' activity of the White Shrine.

Just inside the door were the treasurers, Mrs. J. Lazenby and Mrs. R. Moorcroft, while those who extended the welcoming hand and gracious smile were, Mrs. W. G. Marsden, Mrs. E. Hurpity, the Shrine, and Mrs. A. Archard, wife of the W.O.S. of White Shrine, Mrs. A. Savage and Mrs. F. Moon directed the guests to the quaintmagic with its lovely tea table and little quartet tables. The conveners of the tea were Mrs. G. Herrick and Mrs. H. Stewart.

Pretty Tea Table

The tea table was a picture with its pretty, imported Scotch lace tea cloth centred with an iridescent bowl filled with fall flowers, white baby 'mums, flanked by tribranched candelabra with tall white lovers' candles. Those who presided were Mrs. J. Little and Mrs. H. Ross, Mrs. Ross Hamilton and Mrs. F. Follwell; Mrs. R. Sargent and Mrs. H. H. Reed.

Those serving were Mrs. N. MacDonald, Mrs. J. Austin, Mrs. A. Flemming, Mrs. B. Rosebery, Mrs. L. Wright, Mrs. B. Armstrong, Mrs. M. Robertson, Mrs. C. Grinrod, Mrs. F. Wright, Mrs. Thomas, Mrs. C. Briens, Mrs. G. Baker, Mrs. W. Broad Mrs. J. Baker, Mrs. H. Berry, Mrs. Lazenby, Mrs. R. Evans, Mrs. T. Kilpatrick, Mrs. V. Lough, Mrs. T. Lloyd, Mrs. Fraser, Mrs. Lawrence, Mrs. A. McGlashon, Mrs. F. McCrae, Mrs. V. Marvin, Mrs. F. Hopkins, Mrs. D. L. Storey, Mrs. W. Wilkinson, Mrs. M. Whitmore, Mrs. G. McMillan, Mrs. McFayden, Mrs. M. MacKay, Mrs. J. Williamson and Mrs. W. Quincey.

Colorful Fancy Work

The first booth was that of the fancy work and was adorned with upright pillars and cross-bars of red and yellow paper streamers, along the cross-bars yellow roses were intertwined. Its flounce bore out the same colors in the scallops of red on a white ground.

Here one might find some exceptionally fine work for Christmas. There were wall brackets made in the two-shelf style and ornately cutout work; another pair were done with tiny stairs on a crescent moon with the stars in very lovely piece of work; sturdy shopping bags in hues of red and yellow and green well made in half circle style on polished ovals of plywood. Wall mounted embroidered dresser scarf, lace-edged; little doll gowned in a white crochet edged with pink and with matching hat, a lovely gift for some little girl; tiny, rat-tailed cactus; and useful and pretty hot pads for dishes.

The conveners were, Mrs. F. Westover and Mrs. W. D. Elliott, with their assistants, Mrs. V. Harkins, Mrs. M. Black, Mrs. R. Greena, Mrs. J. Reid, Mrs. M. Hearns, Mrs. G. Adams, Mrs. A. Armstrong, Mrs. M. Cowan, Mrs. C. Caldwell, Mrs. R. Anderson and Mrs. L. Appleton.

Parcel Post

The Parcel Post came next with its wicket fence atop which waved the Canadian ensign and the Union Jack. Here the courteous post mistresses, Mrs. J. Thompson, Mrs. G. Black, Mrs. R. Murray, Mrs. Fisher, Miss Irene Harris and Mrs. G. Solomon were kept busy handing out the various parcel post items. It was noticed that on the return trip around the room all the mail had been handed out.

On a small table, guarded by Mrs. W. Ashby and Mrs. M. Nelson, a lovely, large angel cake, covered with a delicious looking boiled icing in palest green, jutting out in all directions in tiny points, was up for the holder of the winning ticket. This became the property of a man, Mr. Morley Ayrhart, of Stirling.

Hallowe'en Picture

The Candy booth was a Hallowe'en picture in its black and orange decorations, its big, black witch on her broomstick, and the jovial pumpkin goblin, and the tri-littered, black cat perched at its back at the moon. In charge of the delicious sweeties boxed by pumpkin cachets and in red and orange, and black containers of chocolate peanuts, maple fudge, maple creams and black and orange jelly beans and many other kinds, were, Mrs. W. Frowside and Miss M. Carmichael, assisted by Miss Kindred. Mrs. W. M. Adams; Mrs. J. Pinch, Mrs. A. Baxter, Mrs. C. Greenfield, Mrs. D. McLennan, Mrs. S. Bullis, Mrs. Reid, Mrs. C. Calnan, Mrs. G. Taylor, and Mrs. M. Coyle.

The Apron Booth, convened by Mrs. R. Chester and Mrs. J. Dalwell, assisted by Mrs. W. Gee, Mrs. C. McFaul, Miss L. Sprague, Mrs. R. Rollins, Mrs. A. Drummond, Miss K. Rankin and Mrs. H. Wood, had a splendid supply of all kinds and colors of aprons, both for tea and for heavy duty, made in pleasing designs and of attractive organdy, print, and broadcloth.

As usual the Homecooking booth adorned with golden pillars drew its quota of purchasers, each seeming to vie with the other for cakes, pies, pumpkin, lemon, and apple, as well as for the smaller cakes, Chinese chews, hermits and dainty cookies, ch colate cakes, orange cakes, and a variety of pickles, marmalades and relishes. Presiding over these were Mrs. H. Elvidge and Mrs. H. Murphy, with their assistants, Mrs. A. Calnan, Mrs. L. Grey, Mrs. H. Noxon, Mrs. G. O'Neill. Mrs. J. Wessel, Mrs. B. Smith, Mrs. M. Ross, Mrs. J. Richardson, Mrs. Vick, Mrs. B. Miller and Mrs. L. Snider.

The Laura Secord two pound box of chocolates was won by Mrs. Kitty Caldwell, of Cobourg, the package of canned goods by Mrs. Ballentyne, R.R. No. 3, and Miss M. Babcock of Lindsay; the Nestles permanent was by Mrs. Arthur Navler, city.

The fine bazaar and attractive tea nicely convened by Mrs. A. Naylor and Mrs. R. Slavin, with delectable thanks to all assistants.

40 TOMBSTONES TOPPLED

Oshawa, Nov. 1. (CP)—Police said today that vandals caused some weighing as much as five tons, were toppled last night, Halloween, in St. Gregory's Roman Catholic Cemetery of the north end of the city.

BOYS BLAST BUILDING

Kirkland Lake, Nov. 1 — (CP) — Two teen-age boys were sought today by police as a result of the dynamiting of the building on the Kirkland Lake-Swastika highway last night. Hallowe'en, a large hole was blown in the side of a shed at a mine there.

Police said two sticks of dynamite were used, and that they suspect two boys seen in the vicinity.

Two Seamen Tell Of Trip Behind Iron Curtain

Vancouver, Nov. 1—(CP)—Two Vancouver seamen who slipped under the iron curtain at Dalren, Manchuria, and slipped back out again four hours later arrived in Vancouver aboard the Canadian freighter Argovan.

Maurice Embra and Stanley Savage related that when their ship reached the red harbor late in June they decided to go ashore despite orders from port officials that Russian ports were not allowed to leave their ships.

"We noticed many bomb shelters and trenches and there was also anti-machine-gun emplacements at every corner. The windows of all buildings were criss-crossed with tape as though anticipating bombing raids.

We observed on every building in the port were large posters preaching hate for the U.S. There were posters on Union Jack streets a chest of gold and surrounded by skeletons. Posters of Uncle Sam in chains, led by victorious Chinese communists, and posters of Uncle Sam on his knees and a Chinese communist running a sword through his body.

"We were able to talk to a few red Chinese soldiers but the Russians, soldiers or civilians, have nothing to do with us, even to accepting a cigaret. The Chinese spoke comfortably of the Russians as 'comrades' over the western powers.

"When we tried to get past the docks at the docks we were arrested. Russian officers told us we were being charged as spies.

"At first months we were told that as we had never been there before and were apparently unfamiliar with local orders we would go unpunished."

27th Brigade Will Go to Europe In Six Groups

Ottawa, Nov. 1 (CP) — Defence Minister Claxton announced today that approximately 5,-500 members of Canada's 27th Infantry Brigade group will go to Europe in six groups, the first sailing from Quebec City Nov. 5.

The brigade is moving to the Hannover area of Germany as part of Lieutenant-General Foulkes' force for the defence of western Europe. Winter quarters have already been prepared.

About 500 will sail with the group leaving Monday aboard the S. S. Canberra. Other groups will sail Nov. 12, 18, 28, and Dec. 3 and 11. The largest group is about 1,400 is assigned to the Nov. 12 sailing.

CAUSE MUCH DAMAGE

Sault Ste. Marie, Nov. 1 (CP) — Police Chief I. L. Robertson said today Hallowe'en brought hundreds of dollars damage to a store and countless broken windows. A private sidewalk was painted bright red and a fence was wrecked.

He said it was one of the worst Hallowe'ens on record.

VAST FORESTS

Sweden's great lumber industry is supported by a forest area covering about 56,000,000 acres.

Two Canadian Destroyers Battered by Fierce Typhoon

Aboard H. M. C. S. Athabaskan off Korea, Nov. 1—(CP)—The worst typhoon to hit the Japan-area in 20 years pounded two Canadian destroyers savagely and mercilessly among other devastations, wrecked every lifeboat aboard one of them.

No lives were lost but the seamen aboard this destroyer and her sister ship came through mast-high violent winds of 70 miles an hour and towering seas which rolled feet-deep over the decks and battered and tossed the tough little warships as though they were toys.

The third R. C. N. destroyer serving off Korea, the Cayuga, was outside the storm area.

Once it was all over and they could laugh again, Athabaskan's seamen nicknamed the typhoon "Ruth" and sent off this message to the Australian destryer Tobruk which was enquiring about the experience:

"I met Ruth on a Sunday night in a dark alley known as Korea Strait. She was typical of her kind, only worse. She bit, spat, scratched and tried to take me for my roll. All the same, she was quite a girl and worth knowing once. Sorry I can't introduce you but she left for parts unknown."

The Athabaskan, in company with two Royal Navy ships, originally sailed from her H. M. naval base at Sasebo, Japan in what it attempt to escape the storm. The three warships met the navigable semi-circle which meant comparative safety. But they did not get away without a buffeting.

The winds, building up 40-foot waves, hurled themselves with huge green seas at the ship.

An attempt to cross the wind and escape the worst proved unsuccessful as the ships, particularly the smaller Canadian destroyer, rolled excessively. It was decided to heave to and see the storm out with pitching and tossing instead of rolling.

Men went about their work soaked to the skin for hours on end. For a time, traffic on the upper decks was impossible, and officers on watch on the bridge had to carry on for hours past their relief time.

At times it was necessary to lie down on the deck to avoid being hurled across the ship.

In the forward messdecks, water shut down through storm-damaged deck ventilators, soaking men and gear.

Damage was not as bad as expected. The starboard motor cutter had been stove in. The starboard whaler suffered similar damage and a Carley float had gone. But of all the Athabaskan could consider herself lucky compared to the Sioux.

The Sioux, in another area, had her gun shield bashed in, while the forward bulkhead of the petty officers' mess was buckled and the bulkhead parted from the deck. Two lifeboats were thrown out of alignment, all her boats were damaged beyond repair and most of the Carley floats were washed away. A number of depth charges broke loose but were lost over the side.

White Cane Club Makes Presentation To Associate Member

The monthly meeting of the White Cane Club of Belleville was held in the Y.M.C.A. on a recent Wednesday evening.

Entertainment was provided by Mr. Walter Chumbley, of Plainfield, Ontario, who rendered several solo selections accompanied by Mrs. Harry Rollins at the piano. Mr. Chumbley lives in Belleville with two daughters, Betty and Muriel, and the songs were much enjoyed by those present.

Presentation Made

Miss Muriel Chumbley, bride-to-be of the month, who is an associate member of White Cane Club and who is also from Belleville, was presented with a gift. Before the presentation by Miss Margaret Bishop, Mr. P. T. Timmins, field secretary, from Kingston, spoke briefly, extending best wishes on behalf of the club. Muriel responded, graciously thanking the club members for the lovely gift.

The Kinettes of Belleville served refreshments after which Miss Margaret Bishop tendered a vote of thanks to those who had entertained and to the Kinettes for the splendid refreshments they had served.

Mrs. Farnsworth Gives Talk on 'Thanksgiving'

The members and friends of the Prince Edward-Belleville Club held their October meeting at the Y.M.C.A. with Mrs. Lent presiding and introducing the theme with the poem "With Thankful Hearts".

Mrs. M. B. Weese referred to the Club's loss in the death of one of its charter members, Mrs. Alfred Stoneburg, who died in Florida, and in commemoration read, "Crossing The Bar" by Alfred, Lord Tennyson, which was followed by silent prayer. Deep sympathy is extended to Mr. Stoneburg and her sister, Mrs. G. Reid and family.

Mrs. LaRue led in the singing of hymns on "Thankfulness" and Mrs. Wannamaker gave a selection by Helen B. Anderson.

The guest speaker, Mrs. Farnsworth, whose topic, "Let us Give Thanks," causing her listeners to realize how many, many times they fail to appreciate the blessings given.

The meeting, given by Mrs. Wannamaker, was won by Mrs. Farnsworth.

Thanks were tendered the committee in charge of the refreshments, Mrs. Scrivener; Mrs. Bedell, Mrs. Burley, Mrs. Millar, Mrs. Clinton Calnan and Mrs. Davidson. A special vote of thanks extended to the social committee, Meadames Rollins and Gorsline for their faithfulness in serving during the year.

Chicago Woman M.D. Noted Pediatrician

Toronto. (CP)—Dr. L. Potter of Chicago, author, lecturer and research worker, is a busy woman. She took a "woman's holiday" to take part in the convention of the American Academy of Pediatrics here.

As an author, Dr. Potter has written five books—she showed her fifth, still in dummy form, at the convention. It is called "Pathology of the fetus and newborn", and deals with problems of childbirth and how to keep mothers and children alive when trouble strikes.

"This is my most pretentious effort yet, my magnum opus—and my last," said Dr. Potter, "I will be happy when it is finished and I can begin living like a human being again."

As a lecturer, Dr. Potter is professor of Pathology, department of obstetrics and Gynaecology, at the University of Chicago. She also is pathologist at the Lying-in Hospital connected with the university.

She spent three months lecturing on pregnancy problems in Brazil last year and started a laboratory to study the high infant death rate.

At the 100th anniversary celebrations of the University of Minnesota, her Alma Mater, Dr. Potter was the only woman among 11 graduates who received medals for outstanding achievement.

'Open House' Held By Women of Moose

On Sunday last, the Women of the Moose, Belleville Chapter 420, held "open house" at the Moose Hall, 33 Victoria Ave., to celebrate Mooseheart Day with approximately 100 in attendance. The meeting was called to order by Senior Regt. Ruth Mintz, after which Guide Margaret Mallette introduced the guests of honor, Pilgrim Joseph Jackson, chairman of Beneficiary Committee, of Toronto lodge, was the first to receive the sign of courtesy from the co-workers; Past Governor Joe Kelleher, of Toronto; Sgt. Major George Ellarby, of the Salvation Army, Belleville; Bro. Bill White, of Lindsay; Governor Green, of Trenton; Governor Bill Thompson, of Belleville Lodge 1004, were all welcomed with the sign of courtesy.

Welcome Address

An address of welcome was given by Senior Regt. Ruth Mintz, Ballooting on five candidates came next with ballots favorable. Joining the defending circle were ten candidates, Edith Rollins house, Vonetta Moon, Vera Alton, Dorothy Hughes and Ruby Collins, sponsored by Mabel Moon; Rhoda Garrison, Tressa Waddel and Addie Davidson, sponsored by Sgt. Regt. Selina Isle; Elizabeth Durkin and Muriel Pollard, sponsored by Chaplain Mary Bailey. It is sincerely hoped that these fifteen new co-workers and the other defending circle will enjoy being with the chapter as it is sincerely felt to have them.

Sr. Regt. Ruth Mintz thanked the sponsors for bringing in their friends and hoped that they would do everything to make them feel welcome and acquaint them with the various activities taking place in the shapter. These ten candidates were initiated in honor of the late Josephine Jackson, who founded Belleville Chapter 26 years ago.

Expresses Thanks

Pilgrim J. Jackson expressed his heartfelt thanks for the tribute paid in honor of his wife, and gave a fine talk on Mooseheart and Moosehaven, congratulating the officers and members on how well they did the ritual work and also thanking all for the invitation.

Past Gov. Joe Kelleher held the attention of all while speaking and each person there learned something from his talk.

Bro. Bill White, of Lindsay, thanked Belleville Chapter, on behalf of Lindsay, for the invitation tendered to them to help celebrate Mooseheart Day.

Gov. Green, of Trenton, was impressed with the ritual work and very interested as it was the first time he had had the pleasure of attending the Women's Chapter. Gov. Bill Thompson, of Belleville, tendered thanks on behalf of his lodge 1004.

Mooseheart Chairman Emily Jeffery was presented at the altar by Guide Marg. Mallette and asked by Sgt. Major George Ellarby to be presented at the altar also and handed him a cheque for $80 to be used to help needy children.

Mr. Ellarby thanked the Women of the Moose for donations and congratulated them on the things they were doing in the city, stating no one could ever get through by helping children and the aged

Sr. Regt. Mintz expressed her thanks to co-worker Jeffery for the wonderful job she had done to make Mooseheart day a success. Mooseheart Chairman, Emily Jeffery, in return, tendered her thanks to each and everyone who had donated and worked with her. The meeting was brought to a close early as a banquet had been prepared.

Tables Artistically Decorated

The tables were artistically decked out in white linen with bronze and mauve mums on crocheted centres of gold and mauve done by co-worker Mary Donovan. The plants and flowers were donated by recorder Gladys Ritch and co-worker Pat Price. There was plenty to eat and the servers deserve a great deal of credit for their fine work. Gwen Bellis, Nellie Burke, Mary Peoples, May Lenahan, Mickey Calbury, Sheila McQuaid are the girls to be complimented.

The door prize was drawn for by the Sr. Regt. and won by co-worker Emma Mallette. The draw a silver service, was drawn by Joe Jackson and won by Mabel Moon and the consolation by Kathleen Donnovan.

Two heart-shaped cakes, donated by Madge Bailey, were auctioned by Bro. George Bird and the proceeds turned into the charity.

Bro. George Bird made an appeal for blood donors for husband of one of the co-workers, who is ill in the hospital.

The day was brought to a close with a sing-song led by pianist Irene Reed. Many good-byes were said and another Moose Christmas was over. As each one left for home with the happy thought that none of Mooseheart children at Mooseheart will be without Santa as each chapter and lodge will send either presents or money at once to make sure.

A special vote of thanks to all

Nursing Sister Head is Busy Traveller

Regina, (CP)—"Join the navy and see the world," or so the saying goes. Major Edna E. Andrews, who calls Carrot River, Sask., home, chose to see the world with the Canadian Army Medical Corps—and she did it.

The trim, dark-haired, blue-eyed Miss Andrews, head of the Nursing Sisters of Canada, has travelled from Dundurn, Sask., across the Dominion and the Atlantic to England, over the choppy English Channel in the wake of the troops that landed on Normandy Beaches on D-Day and through almost every European country occupied by Canadian troops in the Second World War. The cessation of hostilities failed to dampen her roving nature. Since the end of the war she has been stationed first in occupied Germany and later with almost every army hospital in Canada.

Army orders 'probably had a great deal to do with her army wanderings but she seemed to have a foot-loose attitude even before her nursing career.

Miss Andrews was born in Miami, Man., went to high school in Yorkton, Sask., and trained for a nurse in City Hospital at Saskatoon, Sask. She is currently stationed in Ottawa.

Miss Andrews considers her present garb an improvement over the uniforms issued during the last war. The hat in particular is "much smarter".

"We used to wear brimmed affairs worn straight on the head," she said. The new headgear is a smart little beret called a "Balmoral", pulled down jauntily at one side and dressed up with a gleaming bronze insignia.

And the army finally surrendered to the call of fashion leaders and lengthened both skirt and jacket.

Music Taught By Dismantling Of Instruments

Toronto —(CP) —The Royal Conservatory of Music is going to tear a piano apart on the stage to start off a new series of concerts. First a piano will be dismantled and the various instruments will be ripped to pieces.

It is all part of a new approach to making music interesting to children. It may be hard on the instruments, but music teachers say it works.

This type of concert attracted so many children to the conservatory that the new series had to move to larger quarters, big Eaton auditorium. Top United States schools are sending representatives to find out how it works.

The first big concert here is the result of two years of experiments by David Ouchterlony, supervisor of conservatory branches.

At the first meeting a grand piano will be torn down on the stage and the inner workings explained to the children. There will be contests with mallets to pick out wrong notes, repetitions in the theme and so on. Another big attraction is musical movies.

Parisian Coiffeurs This Season Favor Flowing Manes, Fluffy Hair

By PEGGY MASSIN

Paris, Nov. 1, (Reuters)—Fluffy hair and flowing manes are in the black list in Paris this season.

For general wear, short or medium-length bobs are most popular. But whatever the individual style adopted, a small, neatly-shaped head is the main requisite.

Hair styles generally this winter will show a trend toward directoire coiffures. Lavish sculptured effects are featured for evening wear by leading hairdressers. The hair is often parted in the centre or high on one side, and swept back in loose waves into a high chignon draped with jewelled combs, tiaras or velvet head bands. Front hair is often fringed for ward on the cheeks and forehead and curved double chins.

'Amazing Record' of Teaching, Care Wins Nurse Recognition

Utica, N.Y.—Florence Nightingale herself might envy the record which, quietly and competently, Miss Stella Jenkins, R.N., has set up here over a period of 32 years.

She is back at work with Utica Chapter, National Red Cross, on part time duty, after almost a year's absence because of ill health. All instructors and nurses with Red Cross have to "qualify" each year, so Miss Jenkins recently sent her papers to the eastern area office in Alexandria, Va.

That office made a survey of her service and has, in consequence, issued a remarkable report, dating back to 1919. On the strength of its findings, it is believed that Miss Jenkins is one of the outstanding nurses in this country. National Red Cross has translated the record into a scroll of cards, with the tabulations of her various jobs, dated, and sent it to her.

These are a few of their facts and figures: "In totaling the services of Miss Jenkins," it finds that she has taught 144 separate classes in home care of the sick, for which 436 certificates have been issued; she has taught 24 classes in mother and baby care, for which 176 certificates were awarded and 14 standard school courses, with 223 certificates resulting, to a total of 845 certificates." National headquarters of Red Cross declares this to be "an amazing record," and wonders if it will ever be equalled.

In 1943 Miss Jenkins was voted Utica's outstanding woman by the Business and Professional Women's Club, which gave her its annual achievement scroll. These are some of the things which decided the club members in their choice:

* * *

Stella Jenkins was born in Bellamy, Ont., "grew up" here, to Utica to train at St. Luke's Hospital School. After her graduation she was Frances Ingalls with the Queens University Unit of Kingston, Ontario.

For four years she was night supervisor of the Duchess of Connaught's Hospital on Lady Grey estate. Then she was sent to Le'Treport, France, where she was in a base hospital under Canadian General Hospital No. 7.

She went to Etaples, where she served until 1918, before going to a hospital on the Swiss border. She there had at Etaples when the armistice was signed and afterward was in transport duty.

Miss Jenkins was mentioned in dispatches in 1918 and awarded

Wear Pearls To Bed—It's Good for Them

London. (CP)—"Is it true that it will increase the beauty of my pearls to wear them at night as well as it just an old wives' tale?"

An odd question, but one that readers of Consumers' Guide have asked nowadays as fashion has brought pearls—real, cultured and imitation—much wide popularity.

Though a traditional belief, it is none the less true, not only can you wear pearls when sleeping, but you can bathe with them—either in the sea or in the bathtub. The old custom has a sound foundation in scientific fact.

Real pearls contain oil which tends to dry out as time goes by. By contact with the human skin they have the power of absorbing oil from the pores and replacing that which is lost. In many cases the oil from the skin enhances a pearl's beauty and it gains in lustre.

In the case of cultured and imitation pearls, a leading London manufacturer who is also a pearl expert had this to say:

"Human contact puts a natural gloss on the stone, in just the same way as oyster flesh, and very often the pearls look better after 20 years than when they were new. They can easily be cleaned by washing in soap-suds and the only harm they can have them is any kind of acid."

Some of the latest types of imitation pearls made in Britain are known as "ivory quality" and are probably four of the best ever produced. Each pearl is manufactured separately and carefully selected for matching and the same is being made up into the fashionable styles of the day.

Woman Uses Camera For Hunting Geese

Winnipeg. (CP)—A woman with close-bobbed hair and a taste for mannish-tailored suits left here recently for the northern parts of Manitoba with hopes of bagging at least 1,000 migrant geese.

But Margaret Bourke-White has no intention of doing her hunting with a gun. The noted news and magazine photographer and former war correspondent will do her shooting with special camera, from the cockpit of a helicopter.

The camera will form the background for an article on Canadian life for Life magazine, one of a series titled "A Helicopter View of America". Assisting Miss White with camera when she passed through here, was Lieut. Lorne Wrinch, released that the only other research she had done in the field of nature study was a course on the life cycle of the butterfly.

MARIO . . . In his distinctive feature about FOOD . . . What's Cooking?

Fruit tastes flat.

If you've ever tasted billowy egg whites or made a whipped cream before sugar is added, you know how dull these airy mountains of foam can be.

But when sugar and vanilla are added, the unadulterated waves become luscious eating.

A chiffon pie is a sweet custard filling delicately light with beaten egg whites. In order to keep the whites from collapsing, gelatin is added to the mixture. As the filling cools in the refrigerator the gelatin sets and the chiffon remains stable.

Peanut butter has a rich decided flavor which goes well in a chiffon pie. It is important when blending the peanut butter with the liquids to mix it slowly and thoroughly so that no lumps remain. If some lumps do remain, they should be forced through a fine strainer before the gelatin is added.

Peanut Butter Chiffon Pie

9 inch baked pie shell
1 tablespoon plain gelatin
3 eggs separated
½ cup sugar
1-4 cup scalded milk
1-8 teaspoon salt
3-4 cup peanut butter
1-2 cup scalded milk
2 tablespoons sugar
Put the gelatin in the 1-4 cup cold water to soften.

Beat the egg yolks well. Gradually stir in the 1-2 cup sugar. 1-4 cup scalded milk and the salt.

Gradually add the 1-2 cup scalded milk to the peanut butter mixture. Add a few tablespoons at a time stirring well after each addition. Add the peanut butter mixture to the egg yolk mixture. Place in the refrigerator to chill.

When the mixture begins to jell around the edges, beat the egg whites until stiff. Gradually add the 2 tablespoons sugar to the egg whites, beating until glossy. Fold the egg whites in the peanut butter mixture. Turn into the baked pie shell. Place in the refrigerator to jell completely.

Sweetened whipped cream may be spread on pie before serving, if desired.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

There's no sense in prolonging this friendship.

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I have been in a sanitarium for 19 months, and my girl friend and I were supposed to be in love, although I had never made any plans for our future. Even when I came into the sanitarium I never did ask her to wait for me.

For the first eight months, she was wonderful, even came nearly 500 miles twice to visit me. One of the times she told me that a certain boy had been taking her home when she was out, but said she didn't care anything about him. I guess I was feeling pretty possessive, and from that day on, I didn't seem to feel the same toward her. In the letters I wrote her were pretty mean at times. She would usually answer, though, with a nice letter that would make me feel ashamed.

Then one day I wrote and said that if things had to go this way, it was best for us to call it quits. She wrote back and said that it seemed the things she was doing hurt me and she didn't want to do that, so we stopped writing each other.

Realizing I'm a lot to blame, there are three questions I would like to ask:

1. Was I fair in thinking she should wait?

2. Was I too possessive?

3. Since I don't feel heartbroken and I don't think she does, either, would you advise me to let things go as they are?—R. R.

Dear R.R.:

If you never said anything to this girl about waiting for you until you were well again, and in fact had never even brought up the subject of any possible future together, did you expect her to take it for granted that you wanted her to marry you? Maybe she thought you had no such idea and that she would be making a fool of herself if she assumed any such thing.

That answers your first question, and, I think, also your second, as under all those circumstances, I can't see that you had any right whatever to be possessive about the girl.

As for your third question, since you aren't "heartbroken" about your split, and you don't think she is, either, I should think that was clearly indicated that you'd better leave things as they are.

Better go easy—your friends may fight

Dear Miss Fairfax:

A while ago, I fell very much in love with a man nobody else seems to like. They seem to think that everything he tells me is a lie, and are always trying to get me to go out with other fellows, which I don't want to do. It burns me up for other people to try and tell me what to do because I am 19 and think I am capable of deciding for myself. Whenever I tell my boy friend what people say about him, he tells me that if I really love him, I will believe in him and trust him.

Do you think I should tell these people to mind their own business?—S. M.

Dear S. M.:

If I were you, I would be rather careful about how you behave toward your friends in this matter. Whether you think so now or not, it might turn out that they are right and you are wrong. It doesn't seem likely that everybody should criticize your choice of boy friends, if he is a really reliable fellow.

With this in mind, I'd advise you to be a little careful, too, about your friendship with him. In your resentment over your friends' criticism, and your eagerness to defend him, you might impulsively say or do something sometime that you would later regret very much.

Let the whole thing ride and see how the young man "wears". And in the meantime, you can let your friends know in a polite way that you don't want to discuss him any more.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Proper to give shower for second baby

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I was planning to give a "pink and blue" shower for my sister-in-law. But she has heard that it is not proper to give a shower for a second baby . . . and this baby will be her second baby. May we have your opinion, please?

L.

It is entirely proper to give a shower for a second baby. But there is a question of good form for a relative to close as a sister-in-law to give a shower. If you do decide to give this shower you should invite only close relatives and perhaps a few very intimate friends.

Should use silver coffee set, even without matching tray

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My aunt, who is also my godmother, has just given me a beautiful silver coffee set which was been in our family for many years. It consists of three pieces, the coffee pot, cream pitcher, and sugar bowl. There is no tray with the set. Of course I would be very delighted and proud to use this set, but I wonder if it would be proper to use it without a matching tray, or at least a silver tray that is somewhat similar. We cannot afford one at present. Must we wait until we can buy one?

F. L.

Indeed please don't wait! Begin at once to have the joy of using this beautiful set, and for a tray use whatever tray you have. Or if you haven't one that will do, consider an inexpensive painter tray (preferably in dark muted colors) . . . this can be very effective, and companionable with silver.

Where the catsup?

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

To settle a discussion, will you please answer this question: "A" says that when one serves catsup to tomato catsup, to go, for example, with baked beans, the catsup should be put on top of the beans, while "B" says that it should be put beside the baked beans. Who is right?

A and B.

"B" is right . . . the catsup should be put beside the baked beans or anything else it is to accompany.

Candlelight at the church wedding

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

When the church wedding is to take place at 2 o'clock in the afternoon, would it be proper to use candles? If so, should they be lighted or not?

S. M.

Indeed it is proper to have candles lighted for a wedding in the church at any hour of the day . . . they add a lovely, mystical beauty seem always to belong in a church.

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

My husband's daughter is having a church wedding soon. She makes her home with her mother, who has not married again. Please tell us where her father is to sit after he gives her away, and also where I should sit.

G.

You should be seated in the fourth or fifth pew on the left of the aisle ("the bride's side of the church"). And you should save a seat next to you for her husband, who should join you after he has given his daughter in marriage. The bride's mother, of course, will sit in the first pew on the left of the aisle.)

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON

Prettying for the party

It would seem as if home-makers and career girls are always in a rush. To the many who crowd too much work into the day, life seems a sort of delirium. The dusters smong us think fondly of the time when there was leisure, and life was tranquil. Household help was obtainable. Shops weren't crowded. One didn't tear through life; one sauntered pleasantly.

The merry evening still comes along to release one's mind from duties and to give one a little play period. It's fun for the business girl to get out of her working duds and doll up. But if the day has been extra strenuous, she should allow plenty of time for prettying. If she doesn't, she will blow into the party looking breathless and tired, which will not improve her beauty rating.

Begin with a warm bath. Nothing like it to take the weariness out of one's bones, to entice the nervous system to settle down, be calm. Before getting into the tub remove make-up and leave some of the cream on your complexion. Cream and a steamy atmosphere will bring color to the cheeks. Relax in the warm water for ten or fifteen minutes. Close your eyes and close the doors of your mind. The mind must be relaxed if the body is to go limp and rest.

A little mascara will make the lashes look more abundant.

An alternating hot and cold shower will put you on your toes. Have a brisk rubdown to start the blood streams galloping. Have a friction with eau de cologne or a toilet water. Or, maybe you prefer a fragrant body powder. If you are going to dance, and are wearing your very highest heels, rub the powder into the soles of your feet.

Dip a heavy washcloth in ice cold water and place it over your eyes; lie down and give yourself a period of relaxation. The cold compress will put sparkle in even the tiredest eyes.

As you know, you can indulge in your make-up items to your heart's content because, in the evening, the high lights won't loom up as they do in the light of day. A foundation cream will help the rouge and powder cling. You won't have to touch up your complexion.

You can indulge in eye shadows; properly applied, they give a girl a sweetly mysterious air. A bit of mascara on the lashes will make them look darker and more abundant; outline your lips with the red pencil, then fill in and blot them with tissues. And don't forget those little dabs of perfume back of your ears.

CAMPBELLFORD

Brampton Speaker Explains Plan Of Foundation

Campbellford—Everett Biggs, Brampton Rotarian was the guest speaker at Monday's meeting of the Rotary Club here. He is a graduate of the Ontario Agricultural College, and was among those honored by Rotary when he was sent to do post graduate work in economics at the University of London, England, under a Rotary Foundation Fellowship.

Fellowship Fund

The Rotary Foundation Fellowships were begun as the founder, Paul Harris before his death, requested that any memorial to him should take the form of some way or means of promoting International understanding. Accordingly, the Paul Harris Memorial Fund was started and added to the Rotary Foundation Fund. This money is now administered by five trustees, who use it to give education fellowships to students from various countries, sending them to other countries to study. The fund has grown until it has reached $2,700,000.

Students who are deserving and have the capacity for further study are chosen by Rotary districts. Rotary International, from these nominations, selects those who will go for postgraduate study to other lands. In one year 324 students from 43 countries were sent abroad to study.

To Further International Understanding

The purpose of this plan is to further International understanding. When accepted, a student is sent to England, the U.S., or the country of his choice, and there is taken under the wing of the local Rotary club. He has many calls on his time, as he is expected to create a favourable impression of his native land as well as to study the ways and living conditions in the place where he is a student. He must keep in touch with the sponsor club, with the district governor of that area, and with Rotary International.

Speaking of the effects of this program, the speaker said "Think of the effect in 25 years as Rotary sends perhaps 3,000 student ambassadors of goodwill to the four corners of the earth."

The speaker was introduced by Rotarian Harold Carr and the thanks of the local club were voiced by Rotarian Wm. A. Hogle.

Receive Shaking Up

No one was injured, but a truckload of livestock and two people received a shaking up on Monday afternoon, when a truck carrying livestock to the Community Livestock Exchange at Hoard's Station was struck by a car in this town.

Alvin Anderson of Warkworth, driving a truck owned by D. M. Lavey of Warkworth, was driving east on Centre Street, when a car driven by 77 year old Wm. J. Ford of Campbellford came out of a side street and struck the livestock-laden truck. No one was injured, but the front of the truck received damage amounting to about $300. Chief Constable Geo. H. Hardy of Campbellford investigated.

Mrs. W. R. Walton Charges One-Third of Total Wages Taxed Away by Governments

By FORBES RHUDE
(Canadian Press Business Editor)

Quebec, NOv, 1 (CP) — Mrs. W. R. Walton, Jr., president of the Canadian Association of Consumers, today urged that Canadians be told the facts concerning inflation.

Addressing the Canadian Chamber of Commerce in a panel discussion on the high cost of living, she stated,

"With government at all levels taxing away a third of the nations income, I believe that the federal, provincial and municipal government, and, in fact, all business, political and labor leaders in Canada, must be honest and courageous enough to tell the Canadian electors the answer to truth in a way they will understand it."

Mrs. Walton said it is generally accepted that the current appropriation of $1,700,000,000 for national defence, although inflationary, is necessary. It is "generally accepted that the outlays to provide for all forms of social security are also inflationary."

She advocated that all governments, federal, provincial and municipal, reduce drastically their "normal" spending; that industry eliminate certain "frills" and pass the savings on to consumers.

"Consumers feel that some industries are getting more than their share by taking advantage of high consumer demand, to charge 'all the traffic will bear'. . . .

"Labor also must take its share in helping combat inflationary pressures. As consumers, we are not in a position to state specifically how Labor should do so, but many consumers do wonder to what extent present high prices and the inflationary conditions are due to higher wages and salaries and shorter working hours.

"I cannot help but feel that Labor leaders in common with government and leaders of industry have failed to dispel the illusion of high dollar-and-cent income as opposed to real income."

Mrs. Walton stated that the C.A.C. executive and board have come to the conclusion that price and all price control does not seem to be the right answer for curing the causes of inflation.

"Nevertheless, should circumstances make it necessary to institute any kind of control of prices, we believe that there must be control on all the ingredients that go into products, including wages and salaries."

Mrs. Walton said the C.A.C.'s membership is open to every woman in Canada and that is "not a voluntary, non-political, and non-sectarian women's organization which was conceived by, and draws its membership from, 56 established national women's organizations."

TO BUY MACHINE

Saranac Lake, N.Y. Nov. 1—(AP)—The chamber of commerce and a ski club are going to buy this winter sports mecca just what it needs—a snowmaking machine. Although this Adirondack village usually gets more than its share of snow, the village fathers are taking no chances. The chamber has decided to share the cost of the $5,000 machine with the Saranac Lake Ski Club.

Churchill Names Son-in-Law Supply Minister

London, Nov. 1. (Reuters) — Prime Minister Churchill announced another batch of new ministers today, naming his son-in-law, Duncan Sandys, minister of supply.

The posts announced were:

Secretary of State for War—Brig. Anthony Head, who served on the headquarters staff of the Second Army during the last war.

Secretary of State for Air — Lord De L'Isle and Dudley, who won the Victoria Cross in the last war.

Minister of Transport and Civil Aviation (combining two formerly separate departments) —The Hon. John Scott MacLay, former coalition production minister.

U.N. Plans to Try Shaking Grip on South-West Africa Now Held by South Africa

By NORMAN ALTSTEDTER
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Paris, Nov. 1 (CP) — South Africa's steady refusal to bring the territory of South-West Africa under the United Nations' trusteeship organization, is due for another rebuke by the U.N. general assembly.

New plans will be presented at the assembly opening in Paris Nov. 6 toward settling the status of the territory—almost as large as British Columbia.

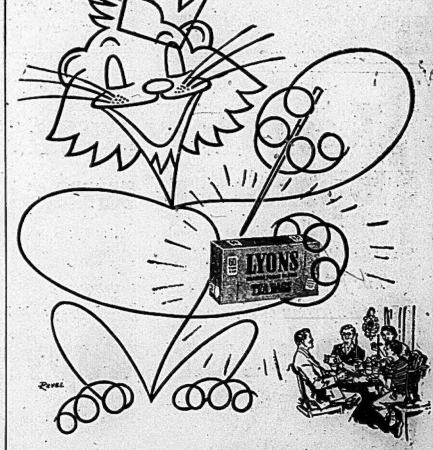
South Africa herself has for the first time submitted a proposal for altering the status of South-West Africa, a former German colony which she holds under a League of Nations' mandate issue 31 years ago.

For six years the U.N. has been attempting to persuade South Africa to bring South-West Africa under the U.N. trusteeship agreement which took over all other former mandated territori[illegible] from the defunct league.

But South Africa has adamantly refused even after the international court of justice ruled that South Africa is not competent to modify South-West Africa's international status.

South Africa has made some administrative changes which are regarded in some quarters as annexation of the territory, whose population of some 450,000 is largely mad up of Hottentots, Bushmen and Hereros.

The assembly itself has in the past passed resolutions hitting at South Africa's refusal to accept the majority opinion.



South Africa's new proposal was seen by experts here as an attempt to sidestep the authority of the trusteeship system. But the very offer of a proposal was seen as some softening of South Africa's stand.

A five-member committee, set up last year by the assembly to seek a solution with South Africa, has a considerable report to submit to the assembly. The committee contends the South African plan would not provide an adequate rule for the U.N. in administration of South-West Africa. The committee instead suggests formation of a 15-member group, including South Africa, to handle annual reports from South Africa and petitions of complaints to be passed annually to the assembly.

Chanting "We Want the Princess," a cheering crowd of 100,000 Montrealers, who packed Dominion Square for six hours, demanded five "curtain calls" of Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip before they finally dispersed. Although she had put in a strenuous 14-hour day and was preparing to retire, the princess smiled and waved graciously from balcony of her hotel to the enthusiastic crowds below. — Central Press Canadian.

Must Lessen Eye Stram To Preserve Vision

Montreal (CP)—The vision of the average man, woman and child declines at a rate of three per cent annually. By the time persons reach middle age their sight is only half of what it was when they were born, Samuel G. Hibben, Bloomfield, N.J., president of the Illuminating Engineering Society, said here.

If this process continues unabated, future generations will only be able to see half as well as the present group unless some steps are taken to halt the use of man's eyes, Mr. Hibben said.

"It is the duty of engineers to work to save man's eyesight by improving lighting to lessen strain," Mr. Hibben said.

Eighty per cent of all man's knowledge comes through his eyes, he said. The average men works about 18 years, sleeps 20, see well enough to earn sufficiently to see him through the other and eats and plays 22, he said. He must in the 18 years he works see well enough to earn sufficiently to see him through the other 42, the Bloomfield expert said.

Prevention of glare in lighting for youth and giving more illumination to the aged are the two standards which must be followed in planning, he said. Increasing the illumination has a different effect on "sceability" according to age and good light helps those most who need help most, he said.

Horses Prefer Fish Around Slave Lake

Edmonton. (CP)—John Kasza of Edmonton, has proof that at least two horses in the Northwest Territories prefer eating fish to hay.

The horses owned by a store operator in the Great Slave Lake region will still eat hay, but they'd rather have the fish.

Kasza, a Minnesotan of Norwegian extraction, is a camera enthusiast who has spent a large part of the last 16 years travelling through the northwest in search of unusual subjects for still and movie cameras.

"The temperature was about 50 or 60 below when I saw the horses," Mr. Kasza said. "I had two 'still' cameras along but both froze up. So I took movies."

He produced a photo from the movie series, and sure enough two big, white horses were shown eating, with apparent gusto, a pair of fish.

"This fish-eating is sort of a habit with the horses—like smoking," Mr. Kasza said. "They can't get enough. When the Indians hang out their fish for drying and curing, the horses will come along, pull them down and eat them."

Commercial fishing is a major industry on Great Slave Lake so the horses never face a shortage of fish.

Charter Ships to Carry Autos to New Zealand

By J. C. GRAHAM
(Canadian Press Correspondent)

Auckland, N.Z. (CP)—The drop in British car sales in Canada and the United States has proved a boon to New Zealand where imports of new cars are the biggest in its history.

So heavy are the shipments from Britain that special ships have had to be chartered to supplement the normal services. These "floating garages" carry only cars as cargo.

Ever since before the Second World War New Zealand has been starved for automobiles. The Dominion has more cars per head of population than any country outside North America, but import restrictions, wartime shortage and exchange difficulties have prevented the purchase of sufficient replacements for more than a decade.

The Labor government maintained a rigid quota system which resulted in huge waiting lists of buyers being held up. Many dealers had such long lists that they refused to take more orders and others would not promise delivery in under two to five years according to the make of car.

Abolish Restrictions

The present National Party government has swept away import restrictions on cars from soft currency countries, though it has retained restrictions on dollar cars which are limited to a few hundred a year for essential purposes because of the dollar shortage. Until recently, however, the rearmament program in Britain had limited the number of cars manufacturers could supply.

The severe drop in sales in Canada and the United States has freed large numbers of cars for exports to New Zealand which in the last few months has become one of Britain's largest markets.

The great influx has caused a collapse on the used car market. Fantastic prices have prevailed for second-hand models. Faced with a wait of years, people have been willing to pay $1,200 above the list price to people who have just taken delivery of new cars. Now, however, dealers can offer delivery within a few months of the order being placed and the resale value of new cars has come down almost to the dealer's list price.

Advance Unit Canadian Brigade In Hannover

Hannover, Germany, Nov. 1—(CP)—An advance unit of the 27th Canadian Brigade comprising 340 officers and men arrived here last night by train from Rotterdam, The Netherlands, where they had disembarked by boat.

Officers said the brigade, first to be sent to Europe since the Second World War, will have completed its transfer by the end of the year.

The advance unit headed by Maj. M. F. Drew of Toronto who was welcomed at the station by Lt.-Col. H. A. Phillips who will temporarily take over command of Canadian forces in Germany.

Also present was Col. L. H. Spicer, commander of the Hannover area British army of the Rhine.

The entire brigade will be stationed at a British Rhine army camp at Hannover.

FLYING HIGH

Francois Lake, B. C. (CP)—Fifty wild ducks on a spree were spotted near here by a game warden. The ducks apparently had sampled mash from a bootleg distillery in the woods.

PARATROOPER LANDS IN A BREEZE

Inflated by the blast from the rotor of an H-5 helicopter which went to the rescue, a parachute becomes an efficient sail to take a paratrooper ashore after he dropped into water during a practise jump in Japan. The cable at right was lowered with four hooks, which picked up four out of five U.S. paratroopers who hit the water. The fifth man had no hook; hence the spanking breeze supplied by the copter to waft him ashore.—Central Press Canadian.

WAYFARER'S CHAPEL OF GLASS

Worshippers in this all-glass chapel, on a knoll in Southern California's Palos Verdes Hills, can view mountains, sky and Pacific Ocean without leaving their seats, for the little shrine is almost completely enclosed by plate glass. Beautifully planed columns of laminated redwood rise tree-like from native stone foundations and bend like branches into arches that support the roof. The chapel was built as a memorial to Emmanuel Swedenborg, 18th century scientist and theologian. — Central Press Canadian.

U.S. and Russian Jets in Korea About on Par

Washington, Nov. 1—(AP) — Prospects are dim that the United States air force will get for use in Korea new jet fighters definitely superior to the enemy's Russian-made MIG-15s, unless the war drags on a long time.

Air force experts said today they know of no radically-new fighter in production which can out-perform the F-86 or other American jets. The F-86 and the MIG-15 are rated about equal.

There are in the U.S. better planes and engines in development or approaching the production stage—as there probably are in Russia—but they aren't ready now.

Planes coming out of the factories now were designed and ordered before or early in the Korean war.

Because there is some flexibility in the design of a plane even when mass-production lines have started, certain changes made in equipment or parts may produce some degree of improvement.

Moreover, specialized types of jet fighters, such as the Northrop F-89 and the Lockheed F-94 "all-weather" planes, are in production. They are particular - purpose planes equipped with expensive radar to help them find a target in any kind of weather, day or night.

The performance and general characteristics of the two jet types which engage each other most frequently in North Korea—the MIG 15 and the F-86— are strikingly alike. This is not strange, since many of their features grew out of a design by Germany's Luftwaffe engineers in the latter days of the Second World War.

Forget 'Chivalry' Shoot the Does, Says Federation

Washington, Nov. 1 (AP) — Deer hunters are gentlemen. They won't shoot a lady deer, and that's bad, says the National Wildlife Federation.

The idea that it's not the thing to shoot a doe has "resulted in more waste venison and overbrowsed forests than any other factor in big game management," the federation said in a statement today.

The National Federation, a non governmental group, claims membership of 3,000,000 sportsmen and conservationists and is affiliated with 42 state wildlife federations.

"In Wisconsin for example," said the Federation, "teeming hordes of whitetails did almost irreparable damage to the range year after year while sportsmen shouted down all suggestions that they must start shooting females in order to check the increase. They thinned out the bucks every fall but the does kept on having fawns."

The buck law—shooting only male deer—is all right for starting small herds, but carried too long is wasteful and biologically unsound, the conservation group contends.

Director Disputes Wide Differences In Hospital Costs

Toronto, Nov. 1—(CP)—C. J. Telfer, director of the public and private hospitals division of the Ontario health department, Wed. expressed "concern" over extreme differences in reported hospital costs.

Speaking at the Ontario Hospital Association's convention, he used as an example 12 hospitals in group A during 1950. They reported the daily cost of maintaining a patient as from $7.50 to $14.52. Other groups reported even more extreme differences from hospital to hospital.

"Personally," said Mr. Telfer, "I have no hesitation in saying that I don't believe these wide differences exist, notwithstanding financial statements certified by hospital auditors or so-called auditors."

He urged the hospitals to ensure their reports were accurate, and to seek help from the association if they could not large accurate staff to help each hospital.

"I am inclined to the view that you would be well advised not to encourage too much supervision at any level of government as long as you have your own association to call on."

Wright Estate Will be More Than $7,000,000

Toronto, Nov. 1 (CP) — W. H. Wright, mining executive and founder of the Globe and Mail, left an estate estimated at more than $7,000,000.

That was the preliminary valuation placed on the estate when the will was filed yesterday for probate. Executors said they would file a revaluation of the assets later.

An inventory showed assets, including stocks, of about $4,000,000 and life insurance of about $1,300,000. It was reported Mr. Wright held interests in private companies in the neighborhood of $3,000,000, but no valuation was placed on his interests in the Globe and Mail, which he founded in 1936.

Beneficiaries were Mr. Wright's sister, Frances E. Hargreaves; three of her children, John Cran, Francis D. Hargreaves and Nancy Quarrington, and their children born before the estate is distributed.

WORKS ON VOCABULARY

Paris, Nov. 1—(AP)— Education Minister Andre Marie yesterday made available funds for language experts to work on a 1,000-word vocabulary of basic French, similar to the already existing basic English. The government has been considering a simplified French language for use by foreigners since 1947.

BIG MOUTH

The shallow Zuyder Zee, principal river of Holland, is about 10 miles wide at its mouth on the North Sea.

THOMSON

"A less ponderous government makes for more efficient government. That is why we must eliminate the unneedful. We will weed out six department heads and send them bag and baggage on their way. We will lower the cost of government by at least 10 per cent."

Mr. Jolliffe returned to his criticism of government handling of the legislative crime committee, disbanded when the legislature was dissolved Oct. 4. He accused Premier Frost of ending the committee's life just as it was about to inquire into "the real sources" of racketeering in Ontario and was about to issue a summons to "the biggest stockteer in the country."

As a member of the crime committee, appointed last spring to investigate law enforcement methods, he had found the attorney - general's department administered with "incredible laxity". Crown attorneys were not required to make reports. If a crown attorney fell down on the job, the department heard nothing of it until someone complained.

He had found the Ontario provincial police grossly underpaid. Their pay was lower than that of officers on many city police forces. The number of resignations from the provincial force during the last three years had constituted a scandal.

Wants Western Gas

Premier Frost, speaking at Port William in support of candidate Clare Mapledoram, promised to fight for all Canadian pipelines to bring western natural gas and oil to Ontario by way of the lakehead. He said such development would change the face of the north country, as well as assisting the industrial south.

"Ontario has no coal. Our natural gas resources are very much depleted and manufactured gas must come from by-products of gas and oil, neither of which we have. Northern Ontario is even more lacking in fuel, except for wood, than Southern Ontario, because of the longer haul from the mines and oil wells."

Western gas and oil also would provide fuel and power necessary for development of an iron and steel industry at the lakehead, already a producer of high-grade ore.

Tonight the premier speaks in Galt. Mr. Jolliffe will be at Sioux Lookout in northwestern Ontario. Mr. Thomson has addressed scheduled in Middlesex South in the afternoon and in Kitchener at night.

ELIZABETH

Then they hurried to the first reception of the 2 1-2 day visit, a "do" by the Washington press corps in the Statler Hotel. There some 1,000 persons heard the princess welcomed as "one of those little girls"—Elizabeth and Princess Margaret — who had been thrust upon the public stage in 1936 when their father ascended the throne.

The Prince and Princess "Lilibet and Philip" to Washington newspapers—are here officially as a Prince and Princess of Canada. The Canadian Ambassador, Hume Wrong, said so in welcoming them at the Statler reception. The embassy officially is the host during the visit, and it is there that the Royal couple tonight tender a formal, private dinner to the Truman family.

A heavy day faces the visitors on their first full day in the capital. They drive to Mount Vernon, home and burial place of the United States' first President and Martha Washington, in the morning; then honor the country's war dead in Arlington National Cemetery and attend a reception at the Canadian embassy for the diplomatic representatives of the Commonwealth.

Later comes one of the high spots of the visit—a reception at the British embassy to which 2,000 guests have been invited.

12-Month Season Growing Fashion in American Resorts

By WAYNE OLIVER

New York. (AP)—The terms "winter Resort" and "Summer Resort" soon may have little meaning for many famous vacation spots that once were strictly seasonal in operation.

There's a steady upswing in off-season business from vacationers taking advantage of lower rates and other inducements. Some United States resorts are becoming year-round vacation spots, and others are remaining open much longer than their former two or three-month seasons.

The American Hotel Association, happy about the trend, reports that it's a good deal all around.

Many a vacationer now enjoys a resort or hotel he ordinarily might not be able to afford by taking advantage of off-season rates that are one-third or one-half regular rates.

Resort hotels that formerly had to make their income for the entire year during a short season now stay open longer—some all year—and pick up welcome additional business.

Air lines, railroads and buses, co-operating in promoting the trend, are enjoying good business during periods when they formerly had few passengers on routes serving the resorts, and frequently lost money.

The Hotel Association says most vacations used to be taken in July or August. In many resorts the summer season began July 4 and ended Labor Day. The winter season in the south and in Arizona and California, ran from Jan. 15 to March 15.

October Vacations

But now, even in October, many of the New England, Great Lakes and other northern resorts have been continuing to operate practically at a mid-summer clip. And many will re-open at least a month before July 4.

In Southern California and Florida, where tourist business once was confined almost entirely to the winter, vacation business has been booming. The Association says that Miami Beach, for instance, had more visitors on July 4 this year than on Washington's Birthday, the traditional peak of the winter season.

An unofficial survey of resort business this year gives a good indication of the trend. For the country as a whole, summer resorts had 10 per cent more business than in 1950. But in Florida, formerly regarded only as a winter resort, summer business was up 12 1-2 to 15 per cent.

But what about the weather—wouldn't you roast by going to a winter resort in summer or freeze at a summer resort before or after the regular season?

The association, recently compiled the following list of average temperatures of resort areas for the month to six weeks immediately preceding and immediately following the regular season: New England, 65 degrees; the Great Lakes, 66; Pennsylvania, 69; the Gulf Coast, 72; Southern Arizona, 73 and Southern California, 68.

Cape Cod, for example, in early autumn has most of the vacation attractions it had in the summer. The climate at the Great Lakes resorts in late September and October often is at its very best, with the air clear, invigorating and pollen-free. Weather bureau records show Miami Beach's temperature averages only 10 degrees higher in summer than in winter.

And the off-season vacationer isn't merely an asset to the hall-day resort. His business benefits the whole community.

Canadian Destroyer Excels in Gunnery

Aboard Canadian Destroyer Sioux. (CP)—This Canadian destroyer is showing its class in naval gunnery in competition with other ships of the United Nations fleet in Korean waters.

In recent exercises, the Sioux defeated the British Carrier Glory, the British Cruiser Belfast, the Australian Frigate Anzac and her sister destroyer, the Athabaskan.

Sioux Gunner AB. Roy V. Wellburn of Larner, B.C., was the man behind the Bofors when Sioux shot down a radio-controlled miniature plane on its fourth run over the ship in a contest with the Belfast. The cruiser made six unsuccessful tries.

In company with the Carrier Glory and the Canadian destroyer Athabaskan, the Sioux's Bofors were first to shoot down a target being towed by a plane. In the third shoot with H.M.C.S. Anzac she shot down the target on the first try, tying with Anzac. Then she broke the tie by shooting it down again on the second next pass.

LIFE-GIVING SUPPLIES

COLORFUL VOTE

Flin Flon, Man. (CP)—In a local plebiscite on the question of sale of colored margarine, presently banned, Flin Flon electors gave 1,594 votes in favor and 429 against.

EARLY FISHERMEN

Viscount Alexander's Report On War Says Hitler Cause Of Allied Victory, Nazi Defeat

London, Nov. 1. (CP)—A ceaselessly blundering Hitler and a highly suspicious Tito are pictured by Field Marshal Viscount Alexander in his report, issued today, on the last five months of fighting in Italy.

He discloses, too, that he got a cordial send-off when he tried to link his strategic plans with those of the nearest Russian army in the spring of 1945. The Russian commander refused to discuss strategic plans.

But it is the iron-bound and fatal orders of Hitler, forcing the Germans to fight a "northern Italy war" instead of a northern Italy war when he could have obtained 21 first-class divisions for the more pressing armies and their attacks were not directed . . against the heart of the German defences and that our role was subordinate and preparatory.

"Nine months before the great assault in the west, our invasion of Italy, at first in very moderate strength, drew off that remote quarter forces which might have turned the scale in France. As the campaign progressed, more and more German formations were drawn in to oppose us. The supreme directors of allied strategy were always careful to see that our strength was never allowed to grow above the minimum necessary for our task; at one time even another no less than 21 divisions of German manpower spent a good part of the summer travelling about the province listening to submissions from every hospital board and anybody else who cared to appear before it.

Six weeks ago, the committee had in its interim recommendations to the government, its report was unanimous.

Government Tells Public

When the government told the public of four of the five recommendations and said it was going to act on them.

But it held back the fifth recommendation, which would provide financial help for hospitals whose budgets had been cut by the insurance service. (The service collects the premiums and allots money to each hospital).

At the special session of the legislature which will be called to deal only with pensions, Mr. Winch took the opportunity to pry out the missing recommendation.

The recommendation said the inquiry committee could find "no rhyme nor reason" for the hospital budget cuts.

Health Minister Douglas Turnbull immediately issued a statement saying the inquiry board "had no basis for its conclusions on "incomplete information."

Mr. Winch retaliated by demanding that resignation of Mr. Turnbull for "sabotaging" the inquiry committee.

During the weekend, there was a lot of going and coming at Premier Byron Johnson's office.

Mr. Winch said after one of these hurried meetings that the Premier had promised the inquiry board complete co-operation.

Then Mr. Turnbull, apparently inadvertently, placed some advertising dealing with hospital insurance without approval of Sydney Smith, chairman of the inquiry board, as required in an agreement with the board.

HOSPITAL COST IN B.C. $30 PER HEAD YEARLY

Family Now Pays $42 Annually

Victoria, B.C., Nov. 1 (CP)—British Columbia's hospital insurance scheme is still keeping the provincial political pot boiling.

The latest wrinkle has had the C.C.F. opposition leader lined up with seven government members against a cabinet minister.

It is the biggest blowoff since last spring's legislature session during which two coalitionists quit the party.

The coalition government, comprising Liberals and Progressive Conservatives, introduced compulsory hospital insurance in 1948. A family now pays $42 a year for hospital care, a single person $30.

Then the premiums were raised 39 last spring, the cries of protest echoed for months. W. A. C. Bennett and Mrs. Tilly Rolston walked across the floor of the House from the coalition benches and announced they would sit as Independents. They haven't changed their minds since.

Despite demands that the government resign it weathered the storm.

The eight-man committee, comprising seven coalition members and C.C.F. leader Harold Winch, was named to inquire into the hospital insurance scheme.

The committee spent a good part of the summer travelling about the province listening to submissions from every hospital board and anybody else who cared to appear before it.

Six weeks ago, the committee had in its interim recommendations to the government, its report was unanimous.

Says Intelligence Important Factor in Child Training

Regina, Nov. 1.—(CP)—Dr. S. R. Laycock, dean of education of the University of Saskatchewan, says the way in which a home meets the needs of a child's various stages of development determines whether the home is an answer or problem to a whole-some personality.

There is more to a "good" home than respectable parents and a father with a steady job, he says. "A 'good' home is a place for children to grow up in," one where parents understand the needs of their children at different age levels.

"A child learns to respond to the world as he finds it," according to this noted educationist. "This world should be one in which he has love and security, one where the child feels he is wanted."

The child must feel he is accepted both by his parents and later by his teacher and schoolmates He is establishing a sense of independence from the time he learns to walk until about it four years of age, after which he starts playing adult.

From six to 12 years of age, the child needs a sense of accomplishment, he said. Parents should never expect the impossible, but should give them things to do which they can accomplish with a reasonable amount of effort."

Entering his teens, the child has a sense of identity; he is concerned about how he looks and feels, and how others think about him. The home should be the first place where people realize the youngster does not want to be treated as a child.

Parents, said Dr. Laycock, must put certain limits on foolishness, of course, but must do so through affection and understanding, recognizing the child's right to privacy.

The final sense, one of integrity, comes mainly from parental example, and no matter what the situation, Dr. Laycock warned, parents must apply intelligence to it.

Many British Communities Bear Odd-Sounding Names

New York, Nov. 1 — (AP) — Would you like to go to Hades? Or Bedlam, or Nether Wallops? Perhaps you'd rather visit Come-to-Good, or Christmas Pie, or even Heaven's Gate.

Paradise is another attractive destination. Naturally, Adam and Eve nearby.

All of these are in Britain, and so are Ham Sandwich, Butter Tubs and Beer. If you doubt it, just ask the British Travel Association, which has just announced here a survey of curious place names in the United Kingdom.

You can send postcards home from Twice Brewed, Isle Brewers and Ale Water. Another choice pair: Nobottle and Drinker's End.

Two Wallops are in Berkshire, so locating a name it's used for three towns — Over, Middle and Nether Wallops. Gloucester has Upper and Lower Swell, and Cornwall contributes Indian Queens, Bar Stow and Hard-to-Come-By.

are nearly as quiet as Land of Nod in Victoria, a town whose people boast of having no trains, buses, shops or telephones.

Llanfairpwllgwyngyllgogerychwyrndrobwllllantysiliogogogoch is famous as the longest name in the Welsh language (or any other) and if you can pronounce it, you have a clear passport to Ypsilty Yatwith.

Scotland is famous for fashion, but it should be fun to shop in Wardrobes, Pant, Smallshoes, Stocking Green and Tody. It's a man sends something home for a special girl, what better than Sweetheart Heath's delight or Cupid's Green? Bachelor's Bump would be my own pasure, though.

Whimsey alone hasn't dictated Britain's odd and wonderful place names. Its lore, history of invasions and migrations left a record on the map. Most of the names derive from Germanic, Scandinavian or French sources; Pityme is a marsupial of Devon's fame. Many names are Welsh in origin, left when the Celts moved westward before the Saxons. The name Wales itself means "foreign."

BLASTS WAR OFFICE

London, Nov. 1—(Reuters)—A shoemakers' trade paper yesterday blasted the war office for issuing British troops in Korea with 11-year-old winter boots which "fell to pieces" after a few weeks in action last year. The shoe and leather news quoted the war office as saying that the boots—made for the Second World War—were "an economy." The paper said in storage so long the stitching rotted.

PRACTISED ILLEGALLY

Paris, Nov. 1—(Reuters)—Raoul Noe, 34-year-old French toymaker whose "electric hands" are claimed to cure rheumatism and sciatica, was fined 12,000 francs (about $34) yesterday for illegal practice of medicine. The handsome healer was carried shoulder high from the court amid cheers, while admirers — mostly young women—threw flowers over him.

NEGOTIATORS IN KOREA SAID NEAR AGREEMENT

Buffer Zone Deal Reported in Offing

BY NATE POLOWETSKY

Munsan, Korea, Nov. 1 (AP)—A United Nations briefing officer said tonight the allies and the communists are in "general agreement" on the eastern half of a neutral zone for a Korean armistice.

But he emphasized agreement on the zone would not end the shooting.

The buffer zone is only the first point of a proposed armistice, if the battle line changes substantially after an agreement is reached on a buffer, zone, Hill said it probably would have to be negotiated all over again.

Greatest Concession

Red China's Peiping radio said communist negotiators' proposal contains "the greatest possible concession" the communist can make on a buffer zone.

Hill said at the close of three hours of talks in Panmunjom today U.N. and red sub-committees were in "general agreement" on where the demilitarized zone should run from Kumhwa to the Kaesong sector and added:

Hard-Won Territory

"The U.N. command fought hard battles to get its present area. I don't think it would be willing to give up much of it."

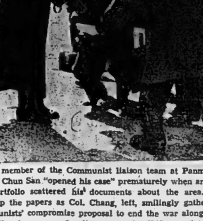
Hill said that in Thursday's session the communists got a full understanding of the reds' "last and best proposal" for a demilitarized zone.



"The communists are approaching the military realities. This is because of the strength of the U.N. command in comparison with the strength of the communists."

Hill implied that the red negotiators had no room but to give in to the U.N. delegation on many military points.

PUBLIC BROADCASTS

Washington, Nov. 1.—(Reuters)—The red German state-controlled radio will broadcast its public television broadcasts in the near future, the deputy Premier Heinrich Rau said yesterday.

"RED LETTER DAY" AT PAN MUN JOM

The huge block tumbled two storeys, from above the entrance to the Queen Mary Veterans Hospital, landing on a spot where the princess and duke had been standing not more than a minute before.

The royal couple, concluding a three-day visit to Montreal, had paid a 38-minute call at the hospital en route to Dorval Airport.

There was no suggestion of sabotage. Dr. Jules Mercier, superintendent of the hospital, said the cement was loosened by wind and water. A high wind was blowing at the time.

The chunk of concrete formed part of the triangular ornamental design above the high doorway and part of the front of the building.

On the heavy base is the name of the hospital, on the west is a cross. At each side of the base are ornamental pieces. All had cardboard, gold-dipped designs of the Union Jack wired to them.

Many Witness Fall

Several hundred persons witnessed the near-tragedy in which chunks of concrete were sprayed against the sides of automobiles in the royal motorcade which was leaving the hospital.

Staff Sgt. John Morris, on guard duty at the hospital, suffered leg and arm injuries and Donat Blais, a hospital employee, suffered chest bruises when struck by small bits of concrete.

The princess and the duke were scheduled to pay a half-hour call with the veterans, but their motorcade was seven minutes late leaving the Windsor Hotel where 25,000 crowded into Dominion Square to wave them farewell.

Crowds lined the streets along the route to the hospitals were the thinnest since the royal party arrived Monday. A light rain fell until noon when the royal party left the hotel. The wind was strong and blew decorations down all over the city.

The princess wore the same red coat she had on in Ottawa, and a black hat. The Duke wore a blue coat and carried his hat in his hand.

Their car pulled away from the door less than a minute after the stone fell, scattering a group of nurses, police and hospital officials. The couple likely did not know what had happened at the time.

MEMBERSHIP RISES

New York, Nov. 1— (AP)—Membership in Lutheran churches in the United States last year rose by a record 8,103,764, a survey showed today. The statistics compiled by the National Lutheran Council showed the total membership for the United States and Canada at 6,301,948, an increase of 168,321.

OIL HIS SPECIALTY

Iran's leading oil expert, Kazem Hassibi waves a greeting on his arrival at Idlewild Airport, New York, called in Washington by Iranian Premier Mossadegh, the special undersecretary of finance for oil in Iran's cabinet told newsmen his summons might be taken as an indication of a possible settlement in dispute. U.S. is reportedly urging Britain, Iran to agree to a stop-gap plan for moving $40,000,000 worth of stored Iranian oil to the West, as a blueprint for resuming direct oil talks between the two deadlocked countries. — Central Press Canadian.

Benefits Will Be Continued To War Veterans

Ottawa, Nov. 1.—(CP)—Medical treatment benefits now available to recipients of war veterans allowances will be continued for those men even if they stop taking the allowances to take the new universal old age pension instead, Veterans Minister LaPointe said yesterday.

At the same time ,he reaffirmed the statement that any veteran drawing the W.V.A. would have to count any old age pension he received from outside income. This meant, he said, that veterans can draw the full old age pension plus enough W.V.A. to make a total of $610 a year for a single recipient, $1,100 for a married recipient.

A single veteran now in receipt of $40.41 a month under the War Veterans Allowance Act, and with no other income, could receive $40 a month in old age pension and $10.83 a month in W.V.A. Similarly, a married veteran in receipt of $70.83 a month in W.V.A. and one with no other income, could receive $40 a month from old age pension and $11.66 a month from veterans allowance, if they have no other income.

"All veterans and their wives who have reached or will reach the age of 70 by Jan. 1 and who have not done so, should file applications for the new pension at once," Mr. LaPointe said.

HAUL OUT THREE

New York, Nov. 1 — (AP) — Masked firemen probed through a dark, underground passage yesterday and hauled out three men overcome by gas. One of the injured died an hour later. The rescuers descended into a four-foot water disposal tube in search of three missing sewer laborers. Quickly they found Henry Tolo, 37, and John Casey, 3, unconscious. Later they came upon David Klasla, 38 and lifted him out. He died without regaining consciousness.

RAWDON

Mount Pleasant United Church Will Observe 80th Anniversary

Rawdon—The 80th anniversary of Mount Pleasant United Church will be observed on Sunday, November 4th with services at 10.30 a.m. and 7.30 p.m. The new minister on Rawdon circuit, Rev. R. R. Monteel, will give both messages.

He will be assisted by a former beloved pastor Rev. Fred G. Jobbis of Port Perry, who served Rawdon circuit for 13 years.

It is expected to have written greetings from Rev. W. E. Clarke, Deseronto, who served the circuit early in 1900.

During Mr. Clarke's pastorate, a series of revival services were held in the winter of 1908. Mr. Clarke was assisted by Rev. W. H. Stevens, a travelling Baptist minister in Ontario.

On March 22nd 1908 60 people some by profession of faith and others from other churches, including several from the Mount Pleasant Baptist Church all joined Mount Pleasant Methodist Church. The Baptist Church had been closed the year previous, and their adherents had only an occasional worship service. This church was later converted into the church hall.

After these special services, Mr. Stevens linked himself with the Methodist Episcopal Church in Wisconsin, U.S.A. and later went as a missionary to New Mexico, with his wife the former Ida Currie of Stirling.

Churches United

During the revival services the Baptist and Methodist congregations of the Hobbs Hill district were united.

In 1907 Mr. Clarke realized the need of week-night organizations on the circuit, and he was instrumental in organizing "Epworth Leagues" at Mount Pleasant, Bethel and Wellman's. These groups functioned for a long time and later under union they were renamed "Young People's Union". Of the three, the one at Mount Pleasant is still alive and despite many set backs and scarcity of young people, it is still functioning under the leadership of the president, Mrs. Ruth Linn.

The pioneers of this district worked together to build Mount Pleasant Church which was dedicated on June 1871. Mr. John L. Bailey who celebrated his 80th birthday anniversary on Sunday, October 28th is the only person living today who attended that dedication service.

Many folk from far corners are planning to attend the special anniversary services and chicken dinner in commemoration of their forefathers who have passed on to their reward.

NIGHT AND DAY ON "HEARTBREAK RIDGE"

Birthday Parties

Stirling—On Thursday afternoon Mrs. Sid Demorest entertained in honor of her son Herbie, who was four years old today. The guests were Mrs. Percy MacMullen, Mrs. Harold West, Mrs. Lorne Wilson and Nancy, Mrs. Norman Ray and Barbara, Mrs. Herb Stewart and Valerie, and Miss Susan Webber.

Herbie received a nice array of gifts and thanked each one personally as he unwrapped them.

On Thursday afternoon Mrs. Floyd Armstrong entertained several little folk to a birthday party for Teddy who was four year old.

Reeve and Mrs. H. J. Wells and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Warden's banquet in Tweed last Wednesday evening.

Marjorie Eva Ketcheson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Ketcheson, Front Street, is receiving the congratulations of her many friends on having become the possessor of a new fur coat.

Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Wells and Mr. and Mrs. Harold Morrow were guests at a banquet held in the new Hastings County Home on Saturday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Jackson and daughter Frances have visited friends here over the weekend.

On Friday afternoon Mrs. Don Francis entertained several little folk to a birthday party for Dianne who was four years old.

Mr. and Mrs. Sid Demorest and Herbie were Sunday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. Luke Glover, Trenton, and Mr. John Demorest returned home with them for a few days.

The Ladies' Aid evening members of St. John's Ladies' League held their regular meeting at the home of a former member, Mrs. Gerald Cherry, Belleville.

Mrs. Burton had the business portion of the meeting. Mrs. Burton Woodbeck voiced the appreciation of the league to Mrs. Cherry for her efforts on behalf of the organization and Mrs. J. S. Whitehead presented her with a cup and saucer.

The remainder of the evening was spent in playing court whist with the prize going to Mrs. John Villeforte.

Little Benny's Note Book

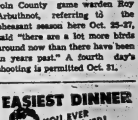
Ma was biting the end of her penholder and wondering what to write in her diary for today, an I said, hay ma, Glasses Magee is going to have a birthday next week, and us fellows would be glad to give him a surprise party if one of us was allowed to have it in their house.

Any house but this has my blessing and consent ma said and I said, Aw ma, if you let us have it here, I bet you'll be glad you did.

Name me one reason, ma said, and I said, It will make you popular with all the fellows

I'm not entering any popularity contests, thanks, ma said, and I said, Then I'll name you another reason. It will give you something to put in your diary. Don't you remember what happened when the fellows gave Short Judge a serprise party in Skinny Martin's house? we got up a game of Crime Doesn't Pay and stuck a lot of old oily rags in the furnace and set them on fire to hide the evidence, and somebody saw the smoke poring out the basement windows and turned in an alarm, and the fire engines came and everything, and Mrs. Hunt had all the thrill of a fire without any of the dammidge. If she had been keeping a diary, oh boy, I said,



I doubt you could promise me anything as wonderful as that, ma said, and I said, Well there mite be a fite, there often is at parties, and you never can tell. Pods Sibkins and Sam Cross are pritty mad at each other, and a party would just be a good place for them to break out, and if they do you can be the peace maker and separate them, ma, and maybe nuthing serious would get broke. That would be a swell entry to put in your diary, ma so why dont you just think it over, anyways, ma I said.

It's all thawt over, ma said. Meaning shallutely no, ma said.

PHEASANTS PLENTIFUL

St. Catharines, Ont. (CP)—Lincoln County game warden Roy Arbuthnot, referring to the pheasant season here Oct. 25-27, said "there are a lot more birds around now than there have been in years past." A fourth day's shooting is permitted Oct. 31.

LATTA

Latta—Mr. and Mrs. Fred Hall were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Dave Thrasher of Sidney on Sunday for dinner.

Mr. Kenneth Kleinsteuber, Mrs. W. Elliott and Mrs. Raymond Sullivan attended the opening of the new county home.

Callers on Sunday at the Hamilton and Wilder home were, Mrs. Garnet Denyes and Brian Denyes and Sergeant and Mrs. Ambrose Kirkpatrick, Carolyn and Sharon and Mrs. Downs of Belleville.

Mrs. J. W. Hamilton spent the tea hour on Thursday with Mr. and Mrs. N. Wilder.

The Plainfield community welcomes Mr. and Mrs. Horace Palmer here. Mr. Palmer was the cheese maker here for a number of years and now they are store keepers They were always a great help in church work and other activities and good friends and neighbors.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Elliott, of Campbellford, were guests for tea on Sunday evening with Mrs. W. Elliott and family and attended church in Plainfield at night.

Mr. Kenneth Kleinsteuber spent the weekend with his mother and sister at Actinolite.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. McKeowan who were married in Plainfield Church on Saturday afternoon.

Miss Annie Hamilton was a guest at the Hamilton and Wilder home on Sunday.

GOVT. MEMBER

Amid applause, he invited other commons members to join him in seeking what could be done to "put these monopolistic organizations to their place." Meantime, the best way to fight high prices was to knock down the tariff walls.

His speech highlighting the resumed throne-speech debate, cited Canada's automobile industry as "the greatest monopoly of them all" and said that was a "fact" which everybody knew. The industry could produce as cheaply as its American counterpart if forced to.

Many Items Mentioned

He mentioned soups and soap flakes, toothpaste, electric toasters, radios, washing machines, refrigerators and other goods as examples of commodities on which Canadians paid higher prices.

He scoffed at suggestions, which he said would be made, that free trade would promote unemployment. What it would do would be to give the Canadian people a chance to buy goods at prices which were not "outrageous."

Irvin Studer (L—Maple Creek), another member whose riding is close to the U. S. border, said he could not "sell" his constituents on the idea that Canadian prices are lower than those in the United States. The cost of living was paramount in the minds of the people.

While they realized things could not be produced as cheaply in this country as in the U.S., they wanted assurance they were not paying for unreasonable profits on purchases.

George Nowlan (PC — Annapolis — Kings) said the government was responsible for high prices because of its "complacency and inaction." Credit restrictions should be relaxed.

Arthur Laing (L — Vancouver South) opposed controls and subsidies because they would mean a reintroduction of rationing and an invasion of the rights of the individual.

W. D. Wylie (SC — Medicine Hat) opposed the government's plans to prohibit retail price-fixing because it would mean that the big stores would undersell small retailers and put them out of business.

ABBOTT PROMISES

2. The government's pay-as-you-go policy was a policy of "honesty and common sense." If a surplus develops, it should hardly be cause for criticism. It would help reduce the public debt and counteract inflation.

Savings Urgently Needed

3. Savings were urgently needed to finance a huge investment program now under way in Canada. This year it will claim 22 per cent of Canada's gross national output.

4. Providing no major international crisis develops, Canada can look forward to a period of increasing strength and economic stability.

He predicted that the direct investment by non-residents in Canadian industry will reach an amount this year similar to the $190,000,000 investment made in 1950. In addition, Canada had received about $600,000,000 in the issue of bonds by provinces, municipalities and corporations in the private capital market of the United States since the beginning of the year.

The huge foreign investment in Canada would not have been so great if there had been more confidence in the "stability of Canada's economic climate as a whole."

He reported that $170,000,000 worth of Canada savings bonds have been sold so far in the current campaign, an increase of 14 per cent over sales in the same period last year. Payroll savings plan sales totalled $19,000,000—an increase of about 10 per cent over last year.

"It is our feeling that progress is being made—although not quite as much as we had hoped to see," Mr. Abbott said.

The intensive period of the campaign which normally would end Nov. 3 therefore was being continued until Nov. 8.

WOOLER

Ball Team Honored By Turkey Dinner

Wooler—The Women's Institute served a turkey dinner in honor of the ball team in the Sunday School rooms of the United Church on Friday evening. The decorations were in yellow and green, the team colors.

Trophies won by the team were presented by the donors. Dr. Fred Robertson M.P. of Cobourg, Hon. W. A. Goodfellow and Mr. Geo. Coldrey of Trenton. The "Dit" Clapper trophy was presented to Mr. Clark (Barney) McColl by Mr. Jack Devine of Belleville.

Mr. Douglas Steinburg of Trenton, rendered a vocal solo, a piano solo was given by Mrs. Lloyd Bell and a saxophone solo by Mr. Karl Austin; Mrs. W. J. Ashley of Stirling contributed a humorous reading.

Rev. F. L. Bishop proposed a toast to the ball team to which Mr. Karl Austin replied. Mr. Henry McColl introduced Mr. Devine and Mr. Lorne Redcliffe thanked the Women's Institute. Rev. W. G. Fletcher said grace at the beginning of the dinner; Mr. H. Ewing was master of ceremonies and Rev. F. L. Bishop dismissed the large gathering with prayer.

The Standard Leadership Training Class concluded its sessions with a pot luck supper on Wednesday evening. Representatives were present from most of the Sunday schools in Murray and Brighton townships and each school gave a number on the program.

There were vocal solos, duets, trios, choruses, short addresses and a film shown by the Smithfield Sunday School. Rev. W. G. Fletcher and Rev. P. Beech presented certificates to those in their classes who qualified.

Mr. Henry Farrow of Hilton, president of the Murray and Brighton townships Sunday School Religious Education Council was chairman of the evening's program.

DESERONTO

William Patterson Outlines Projector Use in Schools

Deseronto — Deseronto Home and School Association, held its monthly meeting on Thursday evening. The president, Mrs. William Crabbe opened the meeting and extended a welcome to all.

The various officers submitted their reports which were approved. Letters of appreciation for cards and gifts were read. Mrs. R. Aylesworth's room won the attendance prize for the second month.

Guest Speaker

Mr. George McEwen introduced Mr. William Patterson visual education director for the Kingston public schools, who outlined and explained the use and value of projectors in the schools. The members were shown how to prepare the pupils for a lesson, present the film and the follow up by the class and teacher after the lesson.

Mr. Patterson also demonstrated the new film strip projector presented to the public school by the Deseronto association. He showed as well several films suitable for use in the class rooms along with lesson plans as used in the Kingston schools.

Mrs. Henry Bender expressed the appreciation of the association, seconded by Mrs. Don Dawson and heartily endorsed by all present. Mr. Patterson's enjoyable as well as interesting and instructive "Visual lesson."

At the close of the meeting refreshments were served by the social committee.

On Saturday afternoon the first meeting of the Homemaker's Club was held at the home of the leader Mrs. R. Putnam with Mrs. Ervon Scott assisting. Fifteen girls are enrolled in the class, the project being "Cottons May be Smart."

WHITE'S DISTRICT

White's District—Last Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sandercock were Mr. and Mrs. Clayton Curtis, of Johnstown, Mr. Raymond Stickle, of Johnstown, also Mr. Harry Slingerland, Mrs. Conley and Miss Adzane of Frankford who attended anniversary service at White's Church.

A large number from this district attended the dedication and opening ceremony for the new Hastings County Home last Sunday afternoon. All city and county residents should be proud of such a fine building.

Last Saturday visitors of Mr. and Mrs. C. White were his two daughters and family of Toronto Mr. and Mrs. Wilmot and Mrs. Mason and son Kelso and friend.

Congratulations and best wishes to Mr. and Mrs. Franklin Jones (nee Catharine Bonikowski) who were married at Holloway Street United Church, Belleville on Saturday afternoon. They will make their home in Canniffton. Until recently Franklin made his home in this district and attended White's Church and was a member of the choir and Y.P.U.

Several from this district attended anniversary services at Wesley Church on Sunday.

Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Young were Mr. and Mrs. G. Young of Winnipeg.

Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Jeffery and Mr. and Mrs. Frank Sandercock visited Mr. Ritchie Ketcheson in Kingston on Sunday.

Sunbeam M. B.

The Sunbeam Mission Band held their October meeting at Quinte View School on Friday afternoon. The president Ann Copeland, presided and opened the meeting.

It was decided to sell scripture calendars as a money project.

"Hallowe'en Jokes" were read by Anne Blong and a cross word puzzle was answered by the class also a quiz on 'World Friends' stories.

"God Sees the Little Sparrow Fall" was sung by all. Following the review of "The Family Have a Discussion" the leader read "Joe San Visits the School," from "Toshio and Tama".

FRANKFORD

Frankford—Mr. and Mrs. James Elliott and children of West Huntingdon spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Elliott and family.

The regular weekly meeting of the Frankford Full Gospel C. A.'s was held last Friday evening. Lonnie Reilly was in charge of the meeting, which opened with the C. A. chorus. Catharine Stronge led the song service.

Doreen Orr favored with a vocal solo, "Face to Face."

Miss Ella of Bannockburn was special speaker of the evening, bringing a challenging message from the Acts, "A New Testament Christ Ambassador."

Thaler Gets Four In Stratford Win Over Dutchies

(By The Canadian Press)

Opportunist . . . That's about as good a word as any for Jack Thaler of the Stratford Indians.

The speedy right winger scored four goals for the Indians as they pasted Kitchener - Waterloo Dutchmen 6-2 in the loss Ontario Association senior A league tilt played last night.

Reg. Hamilton's Toronto Marlboros, yet to be beaten in O.H.A. Junior A league play, put on an impressive display by trouncing the basement-ridden Windsor Spitfires 11-1 in Windsor.

Flyers Blank St. Mikes

In the only other action in the junior circuit last night, Barrie Flyers, sparked by goalie Lorne Howes, blanked fifth-place Toronto St. Michaels 4-0. Flyers' triumph moved them into a sixth-place tie with St. Catharines Tecumsehs.

Penalties, as well as Thaler, proved to be the Dutchmen's downfall. Three of the Indians' goals were scored with the opposition spitbucket empty.

Stratford moved into a three-way tie for top place in the senior A standings by virtue of their win.

Four Marlboros fattened their scoring averages last night at the expense of Windsor goalie Biggin: Jack Lumley, three goals, one assist; Don Poland, two goals and four assists; Eric Nesterenko, two goals and three assists; and Parker MacDonald with two goals and an assist.

Johnny Martan, rookie centre, and McKenny each scored two goals for Hap Emms' Flyers. Howes, in gaining his first shutout of the season, stopped 30 shots.

The revamped St. Catharines team will take on the slipping Greenshirts in Kitchener. Windsor will be at Barrie and Oshawa will play at Guelph in Junior games Friday.

Senior action the same night will see Hamilton at Brantford, Kitchener at Sarnia Sailors and Owen Sound Mercurys at Stratford.

Cold Storage Plant to House Curling Rink

Bradford, Ont., Nov. 1—(CP)—The Bradford Curling Club is going to make natural ice by artificial means for an upstairs curling rink.

Club officers have arranged for a curling rink on the top floor of the cold storage plant here. It will not be necessary to install ice-making machinery and lay pipes on the floor because both the ceiling will freeze the water refrigeration plant's pipes along as it is sprinkled on the floor.

The construction of the building is such that the floor is strong enough to support four feet of natural ice, much more than is needed. There will be enough floor space for five sheets of ice.

Tacoma Edges Stampeders 4-3

(By The Canadian Press)

Young Bart Bradley's goal at 2:15 of the third period gave Tacoma Rockets a 4-3 win over Calgary Stampeders in a Pacific Coast Hockey League game last night. In the only other game, the league-leading New Westminster Royals and Seattle Ironmen battled to a 3-3 tie.

Wingy Johnston, Chuck MacDonald and Bill Davidson scored the other Tacoma goals. the Stampeders tallies were counted by Milch Pechet, who got two, and Archie Scott.

New Westminster, after spotting Seattle a two-goal lead, came back with one goal in the first period and two in the second to come out with a tie. Goalie Lorien Dechene of the Royals was cut over the left eye by a flying puck but continued in the nets after treatment.

GOOD LOCATION

Saskatoon Paper Will Not Report Rough Games

Saskatoon, Nov. 1—(CP)—The Saskatoon Star-Phoenix says yesterday in a newspage story that in future it will not report on excessively rough games of the Pacific Coast Hockey League, beyond giving the result.

The story was prompted by Tuesday night's P.C.H.L. game between Saskatoon Quakers and Edmonton Flyers. During the game 34 penalties were handed out, including four majors for fighting a 10-minute misconduct and a match misconduct.

The paper says another 34 penalties could also have been called without stretching the rules.

The story continues:

"The Star-Phoenix today received numerous complaints about the rough-house affair at the arena Tuesday night and among those who saw the match was general agreement that 'whatever else it was it certainly was not hockey'.

"This, also, was the opinion of experienced sports editors, in following the Quakers on their road sport games of this nature, beyond giving the result."

At Edmonton, coach Frank Currie of the Flyers last night blamed Saskatoon for causing rough play in the game. Currie said Flyers were forced to retaliate after Quakers began playing roughly.

Currie said that Bill Coburn, Edmonton defenseman, was cross checked deliberately by George Sealck, Saskatoon forward. The Edmonton coach said his 25-year-old defenseman had his dental plate smashed and needed stitches to mend a slash across the mouth.

TO BUILD GREASE PLANT

Toronto, Nov. 1 (CP)—The British American Oil Company Limited today announced plans to build a new $1,500,000 grease plant at its Clarkson refinery.

The plant, B.A.'s first major grease manufacturing installation, is expected to produce up to 16,000,000 pounds a year and reduce to a minimum the amount of greasing imported now by the company from the United States.

The plant will manufacture automobile, industrial and aviation greases.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

PETES OPEN HERE NOV. 8TH.

According to the senior "B" schedule just released, it appears the Ontario Hockey Association did not look askance at the group's request for a four-team playoff in the five-squad loop. OHA member Frank Buckland at the last group meeting here said he did not think the Toronto boss-men would look on a four-team playoff series with approval, but apparently they were in good humor, or "sumpin" and the request was granted.

It means that one squad will get the six bye-s-he and the remaining four will battle it out with the first and fourth teams engaging in a best-of-five series if three games are played each week-end, Sunday Feb. 25th. Second and third squads also engage in a similar series as will the finalists of the group.

There will be no screwy Allan Cup headache connected with the group standing this year, and temptation to "throw games" won't be tossed in the path of any squad.

The Hawks seniors here pay the ld ad the hockey pot on Friday, November 9th when the Peterborough Petes will be their guests at the inaugural. The following week they play their second home game in a row when Oshawa Unversity are here on Wednesday, Nov. 14th. The Hawks first away engagement is scheduled for Kingston on Friday, November 16th. This game, incidentally, will open senior hockey activities in the new Memorial Community Centre down thataway.

Meanwhile the Junior Hawks are waiting more or less hopefully to hear what line ahead of them insofar as a grouping is concerned. With the rumor that Oshawa will not enter a team in Junior "B" this year, it looks as though the field will be narrowed to the local Hawks, Peterborough TOOP's, Lindsay and possibly Port Hope. It could be that the Kingston Vics may be badgered in the act-up, but that serpentine is likely to draw protesting fire from the Peterborough - Lindsay squads.

In the meantime "time's afleetin' " and there should be a junior group meeting called soon, if the youngsters are to get under way on, as is proposed, November 15th or soonest. The executive member Frank Buckland, Peterborough, is usually the hom-man insofar as groupings in the district are concerned, but apparently something has been holding up his activities along this line.

CLOSE ONE!

An eleventh - hour goal - line stand by a desperate Campbellford High School football team staved off an equally - desperate Albert College bid for victory yesterday afternoon on the college field and the village students galloped off the field with a 7-6 victory. The win forces another clash between the teams for the Bay of Quinte senior COSSA grid title. Down 7-0 going into the second half the college crew marched downfield to score a converted touchdown to reduce the margin to a point. A last-ditch barrier perched them almost on the visitors' goal-line but the sturdy Campbellford crew held them and in the dying moments blocked a college kick that would have tied the score.

The game was hard-fought throughout with a strong wind preventing any sustained aerial offensives. There were some thrilling running gains but on the whole the game resolved itself into a battle of the lines.

LOOK GOOD

Tommy Williams, Glen Ray pucksheuers had a good workout last night against the Tamworth Tigers, scoring nine goals in an expensive second period. Williams carried practically all of last year's Trent Valley League scoring honors with the Trenton whiffl. The Marlbill, Lee Geyer, Williams line experience stood out against the hard-skating Tamworth team and their finish around the nets was one of the big factors in the victory. The Glens look like a fairly well-balanced team although some of the few penalties handed out were called for misdemeanors that could well be left out of the game.

Tamworth has a fast-skating crew with two or three of the boys turning in fine efforts. A few more games under their belts and the Tigers should record and take a team that should rank with the best in their leagues. They lacked finish around the Glens nets although Barclay, especially in the beginning of the third period kicked aside plenty that seemed labelled for goals.

DEBUT!

Kingston's 1951-52 edition of senior "B" pucksters edged the Brockville Maroons 5-4 in an exhibition tilt in Brockville Tuesday night. Looking over the Kingston line-up, it cheated these optics to think. Gone were the old familiar names, with a lot of strange monickers popping up. The Kingston entry used Dougall, who tried out here last Sunday and would play here if given half the local equivalent of Fort Knox, plus the city hall thrown in, and Anderson in goal. Behind the blueline were chappies named Stewart and Birchall, while Coach Scrutton started a first line of Don Murray, a right nest hockey player, Markle, of Napanee said to be an ex-senior player, and Aitken. Others used were Ochlke, Hawkins, McKeegan, Thibeau, Watt, Bigueur, Turpel and Sabino. The teams play a return game in Kingston tonight.

Rocket Richard is Scoreless, Handed Babes-in-Wood Role As Toronto Blanks Habs 1-0

By JACK SULLIVAN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

There were no spirits or men with funny faces dashing up and down Toronto Maple Leaf Gardens ice last night. But there was a real Hallowe'en hassle between Montreal Canadiens' long-suffering Maurice Richard and most of the 13,178 paying customers.

Probably 99 per cent of the crowd went to the gardens prepared to give the Rocket a big cheer if he scored his 300th National Hockey League goal, but instead he drew boos as the Leafs out-skated but didn't out-fight-ers the Habitants from Montreal by a 1-0 count. Richard stood out like a ball-bearer wearing a crimson tie.

Belize Scores First

It was the only N. H. L. game on the schedule and the two teams set another record at each other in Montreal tonight as wee, business is to be the last on the program. The game with the Bangers-Chicago and Bogion-Detroit contests merely preliminaries.

Defenceman Hugh Bolton's first goal of the season at 14:46 of the opening period was Toronto's lead to the proceedings. But it was enough to win the game and send Leafs ahead of Chicago into third place, just one point behind the Canadiens.

It was the Rocket's night, sparked by a rail-seat fan who quipped out loud as Maurice skated past: "Haw, haw, the Great Richard." Richard brought his stick down on the boards in front of the spectator, threatened to do it again his next time out and made threatening gestures with his stick at the same spot after the final whistle.

As usual, the classy right-hander was shadowed most of the night by guys in Leaf uniform and this, with the spectator's sarcastic remarks, was akin to waving a red flag in front of a bull.

The game was one of those slam-swing affairs. Twelve penalties were called, seven to Canadiens, including a major to Doug Lowe for high-sticking—but the high sticks, mixed in with a few elbows and knees and hard thumping body checks were flying most of the time.

Not Many Chances

Richard, who now has scored 299 goals since he came to the big time in 1942-43, hadn't much chance last night to join Poison Nels Stewart as the only player to hit the 30-mark in the 34-year history of the N. H. L. Shooting scarce, his over a 15-year stretch long before the schedule balanced to the 50 and 60-game season.

The Rocket had two good chances early in the game but the shades were put on him by close-checking Leafs and he was not sole to break loose later tast for clear shots at goalkeeper Al Rollins.

Toe Leafs, who have shown a decided goal-getting weakness this season compared to their performance in 1950-51, were turned beck by goalie Gerry McNeil in the Montreal nets, a star of the night. He was particularly brilliant in the second period during the five minutes Lowe was off as Toronto power plays kept the puck in Canadien territory.

The victory for Montreal tonight, coupled with a Detroit loss to Chicago, would tie things up at the top between Canadiens and the Wings. A Leaf win would seat Joe Primeau's Leafs over champions into second place, one point ahead of Canadiens.

Name Campanella, Brooklyn Catcher, National League Valuable Player

Throughout the year, the husky, hard-hitting catcher of the Brooklyn Dodgers was hampered by injuries, but now Campanella has reaped the fruits of his labors. He was named yesterday as the National League's most valuable player for the past season by a 24-man committee of the Baseball Writers' Association of America.

The 29-year-old Dodger star collected 243 points out of a possible 336 to win in a breeze. Stan Musial of the St. Louis Cardinals, winning his fifth batting title with a .355 average, finished second with 191 points. Points were awarded on 14 for first place vote, nine for second and so on down to one for tenth.

Was Surprised

Campanella, reached in Houston where his all-star exhibition team is stopping, was surprised when informed that he had won the award.

"I had forgotten all about that award," he said. "After we were beaten in the playoff by the New York Giant, I just didn't think about it any more."

"I am surely happy about it now. I gave my best and I surely am grateful to the Baseball Writers' Association for voting me in."

Campanella, informed that he probably would receive the award at a banquet said, "Gosh, that means I probably will have to wear a tuxedo and I don't own one."

The well-liked receiver's injury string began last January when an all-burner in his home exploded and nearly blinded him. Campanella suffered a slight fracture of his right thumb during spring training.

During the season he was spiked on the hand, had arm trouble and was hit on the head by a pitched ball by Chicago's Turk Lown. On the final day of the regular season Campanella pulled a muscle in his left thigh and can only the first of the three playoff games against the Giants.

Despite these injuries Camoanella played in 140 games, collected 325, fourth highest in the league, drove in 108 runs and scored 33 home runs.

Campbellford HS Edges Albert 7-6, Last-Minute Stand Averts Defeat

A thrilling last-minute goal-line stand gave the Campbellford High School team a close win over Albert College yesterday afternoon in a regularly scheduled Bay of Quinte C.O.S.S.A. Senior 2 contest.

The win for Campbellford dredged them into a 1st place tie with Albert College with each team having but one more game to play, and that against each other in Campbellford on Friday afternoon. The winner will be the Bay of Quinte senior 2 champions.

Campbellford led in the scoring by 7-0 going into the final quarter and deserved it on the play. They were more alert to fumbles and took advantage of every break offered them. However Albert had other ideas and pushed across for a touchdown on the second play of the final frame, the kick was good and fought them within a point of a tie.

Drive to 20 Yard Line

They kicked off to the visitors and after one exchange of the ball, they started another concentrated drive. It began on their own 30 yard line and carried them to the Campbellford three yard line where they had first down and goal line to go.

One plunge pushed them back a yard. Then a quarterback sneak netted them five yards. On the third down, they elected to plunge but a stubborn visitors' line held them to a scant yard from the pay-off dirt.

The visitors backed twice and then kicked to their own 40 yard line. Albert drove to the 25 but a blocked kick left them with little hope as there was less than a minute left to play. The game ended with Albert on the visitors 29 yard stripe.

Campbellford's touchdown was the result of a pass from Reg. Rose to Jeffs and Jeffs kicked the extra point in the first quarter. Rose kicked a beautiful spiral after the score and it carried deep into Albert territory, where it was shortly afterwards and Rose again lofted another nice kick that went well into the homestretch and gone for a single point.

The second and third quarters were played on fairly even terms although Albert were penalized on several occasions that proved costly to them.

The strong wind and cold weather kept the players' hands rather stiff and provided a great deal of fumbling by both teams.

Outstanding players for the winners were Bennett, Rose, Jeffs, Doey, Lalliott and Root. Team captain Don Shepherdson, who scored the touchdown and kicked the extra point for Albert, as well as Bert Faulkner figure the pick of the homesters, although they all turned in a creditable performance.

Lineups:

Referee: Bob Cooper, Cobourg.

REFUSE EXTENSION

Toronto, Nov. 1 — (CP) Overnight signs on downtown Yonge and Front streets must be removed by Dec. 31. The deadline was set by last year's city council and yesterday the civic works committee refused an extension.

Sport in Brief

(By The Canadian Press)

Ivor Wynne, athletic director of McMaster University, said yesterday at Hamilton he thinks the chances of his Marauders football team were enhanced by the team's showing in the Ontario Rugby Football Union senior loop this year.

He denied that his team had talked of withdrawing from the ORFU.

"If we are turned down in our bid for admittance to the inter-collegiate senior loop then we may be very happy to continue in the ORFU" he said, "It will have to be discussed by the athletic board of directors."

Wynne said he was convinced that a five-team intercollegiate league would be workable although other teams in the league might have to put up with some inconveniences."

At Montreal, Jack Gelinas, deposed goal-keeper of Boston Bruins of the National Hockey League, said in an interview last night he expects to return to hockey on a part-time basis with Quebec Aces of the Quebec Senior Hockey League.

The 27-year-old netminder won the Calder Trophy in 1940-50 as the outstanding rookie in the NHL. Gelineau was dropped by the Bruins this season. He attended training camp at Hershey but returned to his Montreal home after refusing to sign a contract following salary differences.

Edmonton Eskimos, working just hard enough to keep their "edge" will be ready with some new plays for their Western Canada football final against quarterback Glenn Dobbs and the rest of the Saskatchewan Roughriders Saturday night.

The new plays came out after the Eskimos need to beat the highly-touted Riders. They didn't use them in beating Winnipeg Blue Bombers 4-1 in the sudden death semi-final last Saturday.

"We had them for Winnipeg —but didn't use them—why I don't know," says Shuken.

The weather outlook indicates Saturday night's game will be played in clear weather and on a dry field. Edmonton's high yesterday was 15 above.

At Montreal, Myer Insky, president of the Canadian Rugby Union announced yesterday that five officials will be in uniform for the Grey Cup game at Toronto Nov. 24.

Insky said rule changes and the growing importance of the 10 yard blocking plays had increased the load of the officiating staff to the point it was decided five instead of the usual four should be on duty in the Dominion title game. Insky said a sixth official would also be dressed in case of extra duties along the touchlines.

Bobby Eber, 31, a former bantam weight boxing champion of Canada, died last night at Hamilton. The Hamilton born fighter made a name for himself in the Detroit area. He retired from the ring in the late 1920s and lived in Hamilton since then.

Glen Roys Open With 14-2 Win Over Tamworth

Glen Roys Athletic Club's hockey representatives made an auspicious debut in Memorial Arena last night, defeating the Tamworth Tigers 14-2 in an exhibition game before a disappointing crowd.

Experience was one of the main factors in the Glens romping win with veterans Mulvihill, Leo Goyer and Tim Williams paving the way for the one-sided victory with sixteen scoring points. Mulvihill scored four goals and got two assists. Goyer came up with a goal and four assists with Coach Williams kicking in with a pair of tallies and three helpers.

Tamworth battled hard throughout and the score did not by any means indicate the difference between the squads. Barclay in the Glen net was in top form and his work was one of the factors in keeping the visitors score down.

Nine in Second

They exploded for nine goals in as many minutes in the second half. Mulvihill getting his quartet and Bone, Hatfield, Reeves, Cousins and Graham looking after the remainder.

Tamworth found its feet in the third and threatened on several occasions but they were weak around the opposing nets, and Glen Barclay was kicking them out in fine style. Brady scored the visitors' second goal on a neat individual effort and Williams and Goyer came through with a pair for the winners.

Nine penalties were handed out by Referees Bill Holway and Don Barrett six of them going to the Glen boys, of Tamworth drew a misconduct.

The post-game parade was disappointing with many outside Hallowe'en attractions proving too alluring. A small crowd of costumed skaters turned out in exceptionally good outfits that caused judges Alderman and Mrs. Claude Tice and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Harden a few head-scratching moments before reaching final decisions.

The teams:

Glen Roys: Goal, Barclay; defence, Cowles, Hurst; centre, Goyer; wings, Mulvihill, Williams; subs, Cousins, Bennett, Graham, Hatfield, Adams, Wright, Bone, Reeves.

Tamworth: Goal, Perry; defence, Fish, Jones; centre, Romagnoli; wings, Brady, Cox; subs, Kirkpatrick, Reynolds, Brown, Holmes, Fisher, H. Thompson, Hinch, Moore.

Referees: Bill Holway and Don Barrett.

"ROCKETS" OBJECTIVE — TO BREAK ALL-TIME SCORING RECORD

If and when Rocket Richard, top trigger man in hockey, scores his 300th goal, it will be an event of some note to hockey historians. For only one other player in the modern game ever has caged 300 counters and that was Nels Stewart whose lifetime record of 324 is now in jeopardy. Now, with 299 goals to his credit and only 28 more to go to break all-time record Rocket should be able to make the task a simple one.

Dado Marino Favored Retain Flyweight Title

Honolulu, Nov. 1 (AP)—Dado Marino, pint-sized Honolulu beer salesman, puts his world flyweight boxing title on the block for the first time tonight against dapper Terry Allen of England, the guy he won it from 15 months ago.

Marino is an 8-10 favorite to retain the 112-pound crown that he won here on a decision.

At 35, Marino gives away eight years to the Londoner. That could spell the difference over the long haul.

Sad Sam Ichinose, the politician and pal Ben Vivant who manages Marino in between his duties as a Honolulu city-county supervisor, plans to send the little brown doll in for an early knockout.

Flyers Defeat Syracuse 5-1, Sommor Gets Three

(By The Associated Press)

The three-goal "hat trick" supposedly a rarity, is being performed frequently in the American Hockey League this year.

Glen Sonmor of St. Louis Flyers, turned the trick for the 10th time as the Flyers beat the Syracuse Warriors, 5-1, last night. Last year at this stage the feat had been performed only four times.

Sonmor tallied once in the opening period and twice in the second period and twice in the second when the Flyers wrapped it up with four goals. Armand Lamieux spoiled goalie Red Almas' shutout bid with a third-period goal.

In other games, the Hershey Bears down the Providence Reds, 4-1 and the Cincinnati Mohawks defeated Indianapolis, 2-0.

Emil (The Cat) Francis made 27 saves in blanking Indianapolis to win the second shutout of the season. Ian Mackintosh and rookie Herb Dickenson scored for the Mohawks.

AT THE BELLE — Susan Hayward is the sultry Bathsheba spied at her bath by Gregory Peck as the King of the Israelites, in the most tempestuous and forbidden of the world's great love stories, "David and Bathsheba," the spectacular Darryl F. Zanuck production in color by Technicolor, showing at the Belle Theatre tonight for the last times.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Nov. 1 (AP)—Joel McCrea says goodwill tours won't revive the movie business. Only better pictures can do the trick.

McCrea has been a movietown resident since 1914. He is one of Hollywood's most respected citizens.

Here is his analysis of the film industry's ills:

Buyers Market

"We're in the same position as an auto manufacturer who had turned out inferior cars during a wartime boom. Sure, he sold his product during the war, because people were eager to buy something. But when cars are no longer scarce, people start to say, 'I'll think twice before I'll buy that car again; look how I got stung before.'

"And so it is with the movies. People got tired of poor entertainment. And so they started shopping for other forms of amusement.

"Sending Hollywood people out on tours may help our public relations. But—I may get shot for saying this—it can't help the movie business. The only thing that can do that is better pictures.

How do you do that?

"I'll tell you one way," he said. "Stop trying to see how many pictures you can turn out. The major studios brag that they will produce 52 pictures or some other amount during the year. They should stop trying to outdo each other. Instead, take a little more care with the ones that are made."

CHICKADEES SEEN

Toronto, Nov. 1 — (CP) — Southern Ontario is being invaded — by the brown — capped or Hudsonian Chickadee. The brown cap has been an extremely rare visitor to the Toronto area, but hundreds now are seen even downtown. Naturalists say overpopulation in the Laurentians is driving the brown-cap south and west and predict Grosbeaks, Redpolls and Crossbills following close behind.

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Friday, November 2

March 21 to April 20—(Aries)—Can be a tricky period for many interests. Industrial trades, laborious work, mining, masonry, handling machinery are favored by benefic Saturn rays. Tact and accuracy will count.

April 21 to May 20—(Taurus)—Your Venus' aspect now urges more care than usual in all matters, home and family affairs, and in your attitude generally. Geniality, co-operation will beget like in return.

May 21 to June 21—(Gemini)—Not all suspicious for all activities but you can supply much needed incentive and good management, skill, patience to achieve in occupational activities and all other essentials important.

June 22 to July 22—(Cancer)—Your best behavior plus a little extra graciousness aids for desired result this tricky but-can-be-interesting day. Clear desk or bench of leftovers to relax better over weekend.

July 24 to August 22—(Leo)—Can be good day for difficult tasks, for heavy work, matters of business to our government, armed forces and their needs. Handling steel, metals, tools, vehicles under fine rays.

August 22 to September 23—(Virgo) — Similar influences to Gemini now. Much is up to your management and of course the demands of your schedule. Do be patient, and have faith in your capability. Worry doesn't help.

September 24 to October 23—(Libra)—Your tendencies similar to Taurus today. Advice to them helpful. Delicate matters, work requiring finesse and artistry may take longer, more patience. Labor, trades religion topt.

October 24 to November 22 — (Scorpio) — Mars' position here warns against contention, causing or inviting haste, ill feeling. Otherwise it is a good day for you energetic, able folks, for difficult tasks, and fun, too.

November 23 to December 22 — (Sagittarius)—Few things in life are worth anger and impatience, so much more can be won by understanding, tolerance, reasoning. The seemingly difficult will succumb to your calm effort.

December 23 to January 21 — (Capricorn) — Your aspects are favored ones now with your Saturn favorably aspected above other planets. Sound matters, occupational duties (if honorable) and urgent needs can advance appreciably.

January 22 to February 20—(Aquarius)—Steady effort, attention to important details and punctuality are "musts". Day will yield if duties and general activities are managed smoothly. Needless changes can set you back.

February 21 to March 20—(Pisces)—Neither stimulating nor hindering. Moderation the order and with it initiative and a sound objective. You should benefit now and later from what you achieve under hardship.

YOU BORN TODAY are a strong character with tremendous vitality and capacity to work. A fondness for learning, travel, intelligent company, and a good time. You should never discourage at setbacks nor lack of appreciation of your talents or intentions, but with prayer at your side, continue to new attainments, greater goals. Study, improve, but be not dictatorial nor too quick to decide. Humility gives clearer vision to measure true values, make one's self more personable. You are the ..... of your fine God-given gifts; handle them all well.

.....: Warren G. Harding, 29th U.S. pres.; Jas. Polk, 11th U.S. pres.; Daniel Boone, Amer. frontiersman; Winthrop W. Aldrich, banker.

The Outsiders

By Jane Abbott

Eliza looked down at the ledger. "Of course, I shall have to go to town and make a great many things — depend on you, for a while, at least."

"As long as you need to, Miss Forrestal. Ain't me anything. Let me know when you're ready to look over the mill."

"I'll come this afternoon."

George Culbert did not quite conceal his surprise at this. Though almost at once he had fixed I'll drive up and get you at two o'clock?"

"Thanks but I have my grandfathers car here." Eliza stood up.

George Culbert got to his feet. "Sorry there's no Mrs. Culbert to do the honors. I'm afraid you won't find it very gay here in the valley, Miss Forrestal. There are only my two Doctor Shrewter and his wife, and Chris Cameron, and little schoolma'am — they may speak your language — but the rest are a rather dumb lot."

"You forget—I was born here," corrected Eliza, coolly.

Culbert saw that the kind of self-confidence to be shaken by coolness; he drove down to Mill in as cheerful a mood as he'd driven up. The girl had admitted she'd have to depend on him.

He thought with sudden satisfaction of the letter that had come yesterday from the Bendley Mills. They had approached old Hilton a few weeks ago, and decided, on the matter of buying up the valley here to convert it into a storage reservoir, and the old man had shot them up with a snort before they had said more than a few words. But after Elisha's death, he had written to them suggesting that, the situation altered, it might be possible to go through with a sale, if they were still interested. Yesterday's letter was in answer to that and indicated that they were still very much interested, and ready to go through with it. "And I'll sell the idea of it to Miss High-and-Mighty!"

As the manager drove away Eliza drew a long breath, relaxed in her chair. She had not let him see she was frightened!

She went to one of the wide windows to look down at the mill. Now, in daylight, the sheds and stacks, the piles of pulpwood were in plain outline; smoke was rising from one of the stacks. Curling up against the green of the opposite hillside.

She was stirred suddenly by a sense of possession. This mill, these hillsides were hers. She never had owned anything of value in her life. This house — never had it had a home — could call her own. She lifted the window sash and leaned far out to get a better view of immediate surroundings.

"Yes, mother must have hated it!" she murmured. Her mother who so loved warmth and brightness and an ever-changing environment. "Bull—I am going to like it!"

She closed the window, went out into the hall and into the parlor.

Not a single chair or table or old picture would she permit to be moved. Back, to the smallest thing belonged to the living that had gone on within these walls, as she would belong now, in her turn.

She went to the piano, opened it, and struck a cord experimentally. A jangle of sound splintered the stillness of the room and instinctively she covered her ears. No one could have played it for a very long time!

She never had owned a piano; often she had had to practice and play on were always rented and always left behind when she and her mother moved on. This was hers. . .

She sought out Hespeth, found her sitting at the kitchen table, a bottle of ink and a blank sheet of paper before her, a pen in her hand.

But before she could go on Hespeth spoke, her back straightening as she bent over the table. "this afternoon.

"I know, I heard him. There's no ears that couldn't of. Pension! here's no need of that— I'm very glad of it.

Eliza looked at her in consternation. Hespeth was as much a art of the living that had gone n in this house as the old chairs e tables. The place, most unlikely, "I'm not considering any hanges! Mr. Culbert was only reminded me that I could. Unless ou prefer to go! In that case I wouldn't stay a day."

Hespeth was still holding the pen. She looked at it, put it down on the table. "I don't know that I do. I'm wonted to things and folks here."

It took Eliza a moment to understand the verdict—and in that moment she saw two, thin tears slip slowly down Hespeth's leathery cheeks.

"I simply couldn't get along without you, Hespeth. I'll need you here to take charge of everything in the house—I'll be busy down at the mill." She tried to put warmth into her voice but it fell flat.

"I'll write to Miss Elizabeth and tell her I'm going to stay. Now, I'll go and get supper."

She rose, walked to the door, turned. "Thank you, Hespeth."

Hespeth made no answer.

Eliza went out into the hall, stood there for a moment, then went slowly up the stairs to her room.

She was not hungry when she came down to supper, but she ate because she knew Hespeth would be hurt if she did not. Hespeth sat down opposite her, poured tea for herself and Eliza, and began to talk.

She talked of the mill, of the men who worked there, of the village, of the people who lived in it. She told Eliza that Mrs. Culbert had been a pretty girl, but that she had died young, and that Culbert had married a girl with money going into a dirty mill, but, then of course, she had to, to get the money, didn't she? What did she do today—did she know anything?"

George Culbert laughed. "Not a George Culbert laughed. "Not a thing! She put on a pretense of understanding that I was talking about but it was pretty thin. And I talked plenty!"

Marilyn came back to her own immediate problem. "George, what should I do? I mean—to get to meet the women. I want to have a party. I've it all planned and a new dress."

George Culbert shook his head, remembering Eliza's coolness to him. "If I were you I'd abandon any idea of trying to be chummy with her. She'd move then likely give you the brush-off."

"I'm as good as she is," flared Marilyn. "Every bit as good!"

Culbert's arm went around her his fingers closing gently over one round firm arm. "I'll say! But I like to see you get mad, Lynda. Little firecracker, that's what you are!"

Lynda wriggled out of his embrace, her color high, her eyes very bright. "George!" If anyone sees us. . ."

"How about taking a little ride up into the woods?"

"Someone might see us," he mimicked teasingly, pulling a strand of blonde hair that curled in her neck.

Marilyn slipped her hand into his. "We have to be careful, George!"

He tightened his fingers around hers.

"Do you think anyone'll see if I sneak in the kitchen with you? Time to start your supper, isn't it?"

Later in the kitchen Marilyn started her supper and thought of George and the things he said to her. It was, she thought, like living in the old royals she'd read—married and another man comes along and falls in love with you. The royals she'd read—married and another man comes along and falls in love with you. The royals always married. . .

She stove in, came into the kitchen. "Hello Lyn." His voice was flat with weariness. He took off his coat looked at it a moment as if he didn't know what to do with it, then went with it to be adjoining bedroom and hung i away.

U. of T. Research Group Reports Progress In Developing New Blood Test for Cancer

Toronto, Nov. 2 — (CP) — The Ontario division of the Canadian Cancer Society said today a University of Toronto research group may have found a blood-test method of diagnosing cancer.

The test would involve a study of the amount of glumatic acid in the blood. Glumatic acid is one of the elements which help form body protein.

The division said Dr. K. W. McHenry and his co-workers at the university have established that the amount of glumatic acid in the blood is higher in patients with malignant tumors.

There is an overlap in the glumatic acid range. Dr. McHenry's investigations show that the ranges among individuals whose cancer is cancer may have been added to man's armament against this dread disease.

Dr. McHenry, native of Streetsville, Ont., is professor of public health nutrition at the University of Toronto's School of Hygiene.

The range of glumatic acid in the blood of cancer sufferers and normal persons was determined by tests on 80 cancer patients and a "large number" of normal persons, it was found that in benign tumor cases, the glumatic-acid level stays in the normal range.

"As a result of this indication, Dr. McHenry and his co-workers applied the glumatic-acid test to a series of undiagnosed-growth cases, and predicted the nature of the tumor.

"Later pathological examination of the growths showed that the test was accurate in 91 per cent of the cases."

TRUCK KILLS BABY

Chatham, Nov. 2 — (CP) Robert Charles Labadie, 1 1-2-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Hillaire Labadie of Chatham, died in hospital yesterday an hour after he had been run over by the front wheel of a two-ton truck driven by his father. The accident occurred as the father backed his truck toward the street.

24 Beer Parlors In Vancouver Closed up Tight

Vancouver, Nov. 2 — (CP)— Nearly all the 24 beer parlors in Vancouver are closed up tight.

This isn't to say that beer has fallen from favor or flavor as that Canada's third biggest city has introduced prohibition.

Four hundred and thirty-one men went on strike last week for increased wages. It created havoc in the ranks of beer drinkers. Those 431 men work at four breweries in Vancouver, Victoria and New Westminster.

There is some bottled beer left in the taverns which are still open but it's pretty hard for a man who is used to quaffing at 10 cents a glass—even when the glass has an extraordinarily-sized head—to lay out 29 cents for a bottle, which is only two glasses and a head all.

"It's just not right drinking beer out of a bottle in a tavern," one oldtimer complained as he contemplated a "no draught beer" sign in a beer parlor window.

More than 1,000 beer parlor waiters are applying for unemployment insurance stamps but their supplies are dwindling, too. Little cash-in-hand is imported.

TILLEY REFUSED BAIL

Toronto, Nov. 2 (CP) — Bail yesterday was refused for George H. Tilley, 49-year-old Toronto insurance salesman, who was convicted by an Ottawa jury of indecently assaulting a seven-year-old Ottawa girl. Tilley is appealing his conviction.

Luck Holds Good Says Major Hersey In Winning $140,000 Sweepstake

In 1932, when he was nearly broke, a pal bet him a dollar on the Yukon's notorious "Mad Trapper," good luck saved his life.

Wednesday, 19 years later, he won $140,900 in the Irish Hospital Sweepstakes.

"Yes, I've been fortunate," he said.

Maj. Hersey said he will use some of the money to educate his three children, Donald, 15, and Sheila, 12.

"Now I can furnish my home as my wife wants it. I can get a new car. . . . I can get my wife that fur coat she's wanted for some time. Other than that, I stay on at my job in the army."

In 1932, as a young army signals corps wireless operator stationed at the army radio station serving the Northwest Territories he was sent to the RCMP to help in their pursuit of Albert Johnson into the Yukon—the "Mad Trapper" who had killed two Mounties.

"We were following his snowshoe tracks along a frozen creek bed. I was about 50 feet along some yards ahead of the main posse. . . .

"I heard us coming along the creek bed but he must have mistaken the direction. There was a big bend in the creek ahead of me and suddenly I saw him coming around it, about 300 yards away.

"He scrambled into his snowshoes and started trying to climb up the bank to get out of the creek bed.

"I called back to the posse and took a shot at his park. Down the bank he rolled. He got up again and tried to get out of the creek. I hit him again and he rolled down again.

"I was shooting an army .303 rifle which is good at that range. I wasn't too worried about him shooting at me because he had only a .30-30 and ordinarily not accurate at that range.

"I crouched down on one knee, took my time, and took careful aim.

Frost Says Population Drops In Socialist Saskatchewan While Ontario Grows Rapidly

(By The Canadian Press)

Premier Frost last night lashed out at Premier Douglas of Saskatchewan for what he termed an intrusion by the head of the western province's C. C. F. government in the Nov. 22 Ontario general election campaign.

He said the Saskatchewan premier, who leads the only C.C.F. government in Canada, had participated to make radio broadcasts in Ontario in support of E. B. Jolliffe's Ontario C.C.F. forces.

For a premier, of one province to take part in an election in another province is "simply unheard of," Mr. Frost told a campaign meeting in Galt. He suggested the only excuse there could be for Mr. Douglas' intervention was that Ontario C.C.F. leadership was "hopelessly inadequate."

Jolliffe In North

Mr. Jolliffe, meantime, was in Sioux Lookout in northwestern Ontario on a campaign swing. Walter C. Thomson, Ontario Liberal leader spoke in Strathroy on his program. Results were good, and said part of the money for the project would come from "the profits of the big paper companies."

Premier Frost said of Premier Douglas:

"I should think that Mr. Douglas has his hands full looking after the interests of his own people without intruding into the province of Ontario . . . in view of Saskatchewan's static position. Mr. Douglas' time might be better employed in looking after his own people and providing the same dynamic type of economy that Ontario has been fostering."

In the last 15 years, Ontario's population had increased by more than 1,000,000 while Saskatchewan's had declined by 36,000, Ontario's still rapidly growing by 15,000 a month, with many of those persons coming here from Saskatchewan.

Frost Hits Jolliffe

Mr. Frost said Mr. Jolliffe "does not know what he is talking about" when he says the Roach report on ways of improving Ontario's economy has been virtually ignored by the government. The principal recommendations had been adopted three and the others were under study.

(Mr. Jolliffe said last week that the government accepted only three minor amendments out of the 96 changes proposed in the report.)

Anglo-American Ties Strengthened by Short Visit of Royal Couple

By R. J. ANDERSON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Washington, Nov. 2—(CP) President Truman's "fairy princess" today bids farewell to the sky-never-land that is Washington.

For 45 hours she was the dream of what might have been for hundreds of thousands in this city of government that is built on the women of the civil service.

And in 45 hours she forged another link in the chain that binds Great Britain and the United States.

For the 25-year-old Princess Elizabeth, supported by her suave, handsome husband, did more in their brief visit to cement relations between Britain and the U.S. than years of formal note-passing between the heads of state could have accomplished.

Heads of state may come and go but capital of the United States, but a real, live princess—and a real, live one that—arrives but once in a lifetime.

Tiara Straightened

The tie that binds the two countries was strengthened further today with Princess Elizabeth's presentation to President Truman of an ornamental tiara she constructed while House. A white bust of a king—a rare mirror to be over the fireplace mantel of President Truman's home.

The presentation is the rose garden of the White House was the last official act of the Princess before her stay here. The first formal farewell to her host, who greeted her in his welcoming remarks Wednesday, as a visiting princess, but as a woman of the same age as his daughter Margaret.

The president's reception set the keynote for the entire Washington stay. It was a friendly, pleasant "see-you reception. Aptly summed up yesterday by a teen-ager who called to the passing princess: "Come back again."

British Empire Medal Won For Heroism

Singapore, Nov. 2. (Reuters)— Cool concentration and steady hands in dealing with a hand grenade which was set to go off in a crowded room won the British Empire Medal for Edward Twigden, 21, of Huntingdon, England.

The incident took place last April when Twigden and his buddies were cleaning grenades.

Twigden threw one grenade to his pal, who slipped a detonator in and tossed it back to be adjusted. Twigden thought the missile was still unprimed and pulled the pin.

STAY-AT-HOME REQUIREMENT IN SCHEME OPPOSED

Pension Holder Cannot Be Away Over 3 Months

Ottawa, Nov. 2. (CP)—Opposition members fought unsuccessfully in the Commons last night against a stay-at-home requirement in Canada's new $40-a-month old-age pension scheme.

They tacked a provision of the government's old-age security bill which would suspend the pension after the recipient has been away from Canada for more than three months in a year.

Health Minister Martin, piloting the legislation, indicated the chief reason for the provision is that those who get the new universal pension when it becomes effective Jan. 1 next will have contributed nothing towards it. The requirement may be altered in a few years.

In the opening stages Justice Minister Garson disclosed the government has decided to make necessarily introduction of legislation to prohibit retail price-fixing and to place the issue before a special Commons-Senate committee.

He said those for and against the government's proposals would have a chance to air their views.

George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, said later the decision to form a committee indicated the government had announced intention to deal with inflation at this session was only a "pretence."

The pensions dispute arose at the legislation's first reading stage by all parties, moved slowly through clause-by-clause study in committee stage. Earlier, its principle had been approved on second reading.

Financed by Taxes

In brief, the scheme provides a $40-a-month pension for everybody 70 years of age by means. It will be financed by special taxes on personal and corporation incomes and by the federal share, a portion of the 10-per-cent sales tax into an especially-established pensions fund.

Britain is Out To Explore Her First Atom Bomb

London, Nov. 2—(AP)—Britain is to set sail on exploring her first atom bomb in about six months if Prime Minister Churchill has his way.

Churchill told parliament last night Lord Cherwell has been given orders to speed up Britain's whole atomic energy program, which includes the development of nuclear weapons. Lord Cherwell is paymaster general, with atomic affairs in his charge.

Churchill has publicly stated he thinks atomic weapons are a factor in modern diplomacy. He told parliament last December that the west would be silly to promise it will not use the atom bomb first. Such a pledge, he argued then, would amount to holding five fingers behind the back to shoot dead. He has described American supremacy in atomic weapon production as "the best hope for peace against Russian aggression."

News of Churchill's policy statement since the ministry announced American-British-South African plans have begun to develop to extract uranium — the fissionable material which gives atom bombs their power — from the tailings at key points along the Witwatersrand gold reef.

Between them, 10 gold mines operate in the Witwatersrand district of South Africa. They will — something like 57,000,000 tons of gold ore annually. The supply of residue is virtually inexhaustible.

Lord Cherwell — formerly professor Frederick Alexander Lindemann — was Churchill's wartime scientific adviser. He has been given cabinet rank and a house until October on the prime minister's residence at 10 Downing Street.

PLACED IN TAVERN

Baltimore, Nov. 2 — (AP) Mrs. Anna M. Lewis, 70, explains her way: "If my bar's good enough to make it respectable, it's good enough to be laid out in." Her family remembered the statement. Today the casket bearing the body of the 66-year-old woman was placed in the tavern she operated for 30 years. She will be buried later today.

INQUEST CALLED

Bilton (Northumberland), Ont., Nov. 2 — (CP) — Acting Coroner V. S. Grigg of Thessalon, Ont., called an inquest into the death of Roy Foltz, 33, shot on a hunting trip Thursday. No date has been set.

Constable J. McDonald of the Provincial Police at Blind River said Foltz was shot 10 miles north of here by a companion, Roland Lavigne, 20.

Foltz is survived by his wife and four sons, the eldest 10.

Students Lost $10,000 in Stock Deal

Toronto, Nov. 2—(CP)—Three Toronto youths who belong to a stock-trading club at the University of Western Ontario in London are reported to have bought a gold stock on the advice of a fast-talking Toronto promoter and lost $10,000.

A public accountant has been brought in to unravel the affair, which has caused a stir about Gold. He has described American supremacy in atomic weapon production as "the best hope for peace against Russian aggression."

The student "investment syndicate" of at least 12 students of Western, which has been bought shares in an unlisted mining stock against the advice of their club's broker, the brokerage business. When the stock fell, they owed two London brokerage firms $10,000 and others smaller amounts.

Rescued Salesman Figures He Owes His Life to Chocolate Bars, Apple

"This is what I thought my way out of that place for," the 37-year-old Montreal salesman said at Sturgeon Falls last night as his wife Madeleine rushed to the lobby to meet her arms around him on his arrival home.

Looking at Vannier I thought my way his small daughter, Camille, the man who started trekking out of the bush country after he was forced landing because "a man he had to see sometime" was whisked off to hospital for a check-up.

Doctors who examined him said he was in good physical condition after his ordeal. Vannier was found in a snowbound 65 miles northwest of here. But he had lost 20 pounds and he was extremely weak when an air searcher spotted him yesterday.

Carburetor icing had forced down the rented plane he was using on a business trip to district bush camps He made a landing on tiny Yorston Lake.

"I'd have been drowned," he said, "except for my flying suit. It kept me afloat long enough to make shore."

After waiting through six days of bad weather—during which a helicopter crash killed one of the rescuers looking for him—Vannier left a log lean-to he had fashioned out on the island in the lake and paddled ashore.

About that time a passing R.C.A.F. Dakota spotted Vannier's plane, blown upside down by strong winds. The big pontoon equipped plane landed beside the missing craft. Searchers found the unconscious stuck in a jar in an old trapper's cabin:

"It's 9 a.m. Thursday, I guess, "Am just leaving as it took me longer to build my raft than I thought. If I can't find trail at south end I may come back for bush is dense. Too weak to walk through that stuff.

"Should you find this before I get there leave someone patrol

'You Have Captured Our Hearts' Truman Tells Royal Visitors

Elizabeth and Philip Leave Washington for Montreal

By R. J. ANDERSON
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Washington, Nov. 2 — (CP) — Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh left Washington today, assured by President Truman they had "completely captured" all hearts and contributed to world peace in their 45-hour visit.

The princess and her husband, Philip, took off in an RCAF plane for Montreal at 1:36 p.m. EST after a fine rain.

Tired by the fast pace of their activities in Washington, capped by a quick - moving morning tour of Washington show places, the royal couple planned a weekend in the Laurentians before completing their visit to Quebec and the Maritimes.

Part at White House

The president and the royal visitors said their farewells at the White House.

"Your visit here has tightened the bonds between us," the president told them.

And, he said, peace depends in great measure "upon how well our two countries stick together and work for world peace."

The farewells, winding up a busy 45-hour visit by the royal couple to Washington, were said at the White House.

The princess said she hoped they would be a "welcome adjustment" to the renovated White House.

The president called it a "magnificent gift" and said the King was "very thoughtful and generous" to send it.

While making the presentation, Elizabeth said she and Philip had had a "delightful and memorable" visit to Washington. She described the presentation as a "fitting climax."

She said:

"Mr. President, we have spent two very happy days as your guests. Here we have seen, therefore, very glad to present to you a gift from my father, the King. I feel that this ceremony makes a fitting climax to what has been a delightful and memorable occasion for both of us.

"The renovation of the White House has attracted interest all over the world. Everyone knows how closely it has been bound up with the history of your country and how important it is to your people as a symbol of national pride.

Father Wished to Mark Event

"It it had been impossible to preserve this beautiful building, many people in Britain would have shared your disappointment. As it is, we are glad to join with you in celebrating its restoration. We shall take away with us many happy memories of his own stay in the house, has wished to mark the occasion."

NEWFOUNDLAND TO HOLD GENERAL ELECTION NOV. 26

Premier to Seek Mandate for Program

St. John's Nfld., Nov. 2—(CP)— Premier Smallwood said today Newfoundland will hold a general election, Nov. 26.

The Liberal premier told the legislature today that the house will be dissolved tomorrow and the election proclamation issued.

The premier, who announced the election in the house yesterday but did not set the date, said he was going to the polls to seek "a mandate for the government's development program."

The government's legal term expires in 1954, but the premier said he will call the election "without delay" for support of the government's policy of aiding European and mainland North American groups with dollar loans to get new industries under way.

Standing in the 38-member house is Liberals 30, Progressive Conservative five, Independents two. One Liberal seat was left vacant following the appointment of former Premier Lester Herman W. Quinton to the Canadian Senate.

Mr. Smallwood's Liberal party lost another member when former resources Minister Edward Russell became an Independent. He resigned in protest of the government's development plans.

CLUTTERBUCK GOING HOME

RESULTS OF WOODLOT CONTEST WILL BE ANNOUNCED IN DEC.

Results of the Hastings County woodlot contest will be announced at the December meeting of the county council, it was learned today.

Included on the panel of judges were Col. Roscoe Vanderwater, David Mavrocs, Stenehouse and Arthur Robinson, Actinolite, assisted by the county and Zone Forester W. R. Edwards, Napanee. It is reported that many of the woodlot entered were excellent.

HERRING CATCHES GOOD AT WELLINGTON

Commercial fishermen operating in Wellington harbor vicinity state that recent herring catches are the best in years. White-fish catches in the Bay of Quinte so far have been very poor.

EXTRA HEAVY DEMAND FOR DEER LICENCES

The deer had better take warning. Life won't be as easy in the north woods this hunting season as in previous years.

Licence issuer Ed. Thomas said today that the sale of hunting licences thus far exceeds the total sold by the same date last year by 75 per cent.

LARGE FLOCKS DUCKS REST ON BAY

Three large flocks of bluetail ducks are said by hunters to be 'grounded' on the lower stretches of the Bay of Quinte in this district.

A few blacks and mallards have been noticed in bogs and lakes in the southern part of the district, but the real fall ducks have arrived in any great numbers. Blame the weather, boys.

PARENTS WILL MEET TEACHERS AT MEETING

At the Home and School meeting on Nov. 8th, the teachers will be presented to the parents by Mr. G. E. Currie. It was felt that this would help the Home and School aim of teamwork on the part of the working partners in the development of the young people.

The meeting will be in the nature of a farewell to the present Mrs. F. R. Harbick, who is moving to Ottawa.

A program of music and social entertainment has been planned, and Rev. T. R. Harbick has been asked to address the meeting. Every parent of a Collegiate student is invited to attend.

OAK PULPIT DONATED

A beautiful dark oak pulpit has been donated to St. Andrew's Anglican Church at Wellington, Ont., by the rector and wardens of St. James' Church, Hespeler, Ont. The pulpit was used for the first time at the services held last Sunday.

CHECKER TAXI ADDS ANOTHER RADIO CAR

Checker Taxi, the first cab service in the city to instal radio equipment has added another radio car to its fleet bringing the total to six vehicles. In all the local taxi firm now has a total of ten cabs with and without radio equipment.

COURT COSTS OF $61 ON THREE CHARGES

Gerald Stapleton, Herchimer Gulf, received one month suspended sentence and was ordered to pay fines, court costs and restitution amounting to $61.00 after pleading guilty in magistrate's court today to three separate charges.

He was charged with assault of a local restaurant operator, with theft of five cigarette lighters and with being drunk in a public place.

On the assault charge he was ordered to pay $13.25 restitution for damaging the restaurateur's organizing wrist watch bracelet and to pay for a torn shirt. Costs in this charge were $19.50. Costs on the theft charge amounted to $15.00 and fine and costs on the drunk charge, $13.00.

Visit of Royal Couple to City Given Special Prominence In Many British Newspapers

Although technically but a "whistle stop" in the flight royal tour progress, the brief visit of Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip to Belleville three weeks ago has the news in the English papers with special mention.

And all because of the Princess' introduction to two members of the proud Mohawk Indian tribe.

Most of the English papers made special mention of the visit to Belleville where the royal couple were introduced to Chief Tayoleta, chief of the Mohawks at Deseronto, and Mrs. Herman Claus, who exhibited communion silver presented to the tribe back in 1714 by Queen Anne.

In his coverage of the royal tour one English writer had this to say: "Just one little town—Belleville—added something new. One Indian chief and a bonnet-dressed Indian, alone and aloof from the rest of the people behind the platform fence.

Surprised Indian

"A very surprised Indian indeed he turned out to be as reporters rushed from their train to interview the Indian chief.

"But, no, his name had not anything to do with Sitting Bull or Running Water, he was just plain Nelson Green, 38, a Mohawk from the nearby reserve.

Another English paper, the "Daily Graphic" whose writer had a bit more imagination cited the Indian name of the Mohawk chief adding that "Tayoleta" meant "green grass". It reported the Indian chief as offering the pipe of peace to "The White Princess".

In any event the prominence that Belleville got in connection with the royal tour caused a wave of nostalgia for at least one London resident, in Mrs. Catherine A. Grant, formerly Mrs. Jack Leigh, who left this city back in 1907.

Writer Interested

In writing to the Ontario Intelligencer Mrs. Grant said she was very interested in the royal tour.

"It was also reading about Quebec, Montreal, Ottawa and the "whistle stops" she wrote, "then out of the blue, my favorite reporter mentioned Belleville." she enclosed the clipping.

"I myself felt quite a wave of nostalgia that I could not resist writing to Say hello. And as the royal tour passes on I'll cherish the thrill I got when instead of reading about another whistle stop Belleville registered itself as that "somewhat different."

And just in passing Mrs. Grant wondered if Nelson Green, or Chief Tayoleta, could be (the nephew of Green" who helped Belleville win the baseball pennant with Windsor Chicks in 1923.

Joyriding Pair Ordered to Pay $78.95 Each

Court costs and restitution amounting to $78.95 each took the cost of "joyriding" for two local youths who this morning in city magistrate's court pleaded guilty to two charges of taking an auto without the owner's permission.

On two different Saturday nights the two youths had taken vehicles and had car lot at Gouley Motors. They ran one vehicle until it ran out of gas in the Tweed district, while the second developed mechanical trouble in the same general area.

Investigation of the matter by Detective Harold Reid resulted in the apprehension of the two youths.

The court was told that the towing charges and the repair bill amounted to $83.90, restitution having been equally shared by the two youths.

Magistrate Wills gave one year's suspended sentence in each case and ordered payment of court costs totalling $37.00 each.

Robt. McCulloch, local lawyer, who appeared for the two youths in court said they had "learned their lesson."

Obituary

MRS. ALFRED A. COULTER

Mrs. Alfred A. Coulter, 71, of 306 MacDonald Avenue, Belleville, died at her home early today after several months' illness.

Mrs. Coulter, who was widowed in 1945, was a native of Hoskin, but had lived in Belleville for more than 30 years. She was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Wm. Cockins. Mrs. Coulter was a member of Bridge Street Church, a past president and life member of the Woman's Auxiliary to the Church and a member of the Church Guild. She was active in the affairs of the Women's Conservative Association.

Surviving her are five daughters: Mrs. Karl Van Allen, Hallifax; Mrs. James R. McIntosh, Kingston; Mrs. Harry L. Purvis, Marlbank; Evelyn Coulter, Belleville, and Mrs. Robert T. Moore, Toronto. She leaves also nine grandchildren, four great-grandchildren and one brother, Edward Anderson, Roblin.

Resting at the Pinkston Funeral Home, 60 Victoria Avenue, at Church St., the funeral announcement is made elsewhere in this edition.

FRED J. MILNE (Detroit-Belleville)

After an illness of lengthy duration, Fred J. Milne, formerly of this city, but a resident of Detroit, Michigan for the past 30 years, died in a Detroit hospital on Tuesday. He was born in Belleville 66 years ago, being the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Robert Milne. His brother, Robert Milne was a C.N.R. engineer in this city for many years and was killed in a train wreck some years ago.

The late Mr. Milne was a member of St. John's Church in Detroit and surviving are his wife, the former Sarah Milyea, one daughter, Mrs. W. F. (Mary) Hall of Detroit, Mich., one brother Francis Milne of Detroit, one sister, Miss Margaret Milne in Toronto and two grandchildren.

Resting at the Corrigan and O'Brien Funeral Home, West Bloor Street, the funeral announcement is made elsewhere in this edition.

MRS EMMA CORDES
Ottawa-Belleville

Following an illness of some duration, Mrs. Emma Cordes, died in Ottawa General Hospital early this Friday morning. She was born in England, 80 years ago, being the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Marshall. She has resided in Ottawa for the past two years but for many years she lived in this city where she was well known and highly respected.

The late Mrs. Cordes was a member of Bridge Street Church and when health permitted was active in all branches of the church.

She was the last of her family and surviving are two sons, James Stanley (Lily) Carter of Belleville and Mrs. John (Louie) Hatchford of London, England. Her husband, the late James Charles Cordes, died some years ago.

Resting at the Belleville Burial Company Funeral Home, Campbell Street, the funeral announcement is made elsewhere in this edition.

WAYNE WILBUR

Ill for the past three years, Wayne Wilbur, 2 Bridge Street West, died early Friday at his home. He was 45.

Born at Rossville, son of Mr. and Mrs. Bruce Wilbur, Mr. Wilbur had lived in Belleville practically all his life. He was associated with the Reward Shoe Stores and acted as manager of the Belleville store and later managed the store at Stratford. During the past two years he had worked at the city hall.

He was a member of Christ Church and was a member of Eureka Lodge, No. 23.

He is survived by his wife, the former Dorothy Gibson, and one son, Harley, at home; two brothers Newton C. Wilbur of Belleville, and Stanley Wilbur of Toronto, and one sister, Mrs. Fred Myles of Capreol, Ont.

F.R. Wotten Prominent in Business And Civic Life of City Dies Suddenly

Prominent in the church, social, business and civic life of this city for many years, Frank Russell Wotten, 33 Catherine Street, died suddenly at his home early this Friday morning at the Belleville General Hospital. He made his way to his physician's office at 8.30 a.m. Thursday and went to hospital where he succumbed to the attack shortly after admittance.

In the death of Russell Wotten this city has lost an outstanding citizen. Since coming to this city, 40 years ago, he has taken an active part in every worthwhile project for the benefit of his adopted home. He was a man of genial character, made friends easily and retained them.

He took an active interest in the Bridge St. United Church Sunday School and for 25 years was pianist for that organization. He was a member of many boards of the church and was always available for any work on behalf of the congregation.

Active in Kiwanis

He was interested in the Kiwanis Club and for 25 years a charter member of the club. He was for three years a regular attendant and was rewarded for service by election to the presidency. At the time of his death he was a distinguished member and always attended the special functions of the club, especially the installation of officers at the beginning of the year. He was also a valued laborer in early life in the Masonic Order and was a life member of Ionic Lodge, A.F. & A.M. No. 293. He gave unsparingly of his talents at the piano during the ritual ceremony in his home lodge.

In civic affairs he was most prominent, having served on practically every governing body in the city. At time of his death he was chairman of Public Utilities Commission and has served continuously on that body since 1944 and in that time was chairman for 1945, '47 and 1950. He started his municipal life in the early fall of 1938 and served continuously until the end of 1951. In 1941 he re-entered the council and served as a member of the Board of Education. During the interval between serving on the council he was a member of the High School Board and the re-organized Board of Education.

The late Mr. Wotten was appointed to the High School Board by the city council in 1933, served for three years and then was appointed for another three-year term. In 1938 he was elected as a member of the re-organized Board of Education and chairman of the board in 1939. During his time as alderman and as a trustee he served on practically every committee of these bodies and was chairman of many. While a member of the council he was chairman of the Waterworks Department. He became interested in Hydro affairs and for many years as a Hydro Commissioner, he gave valued service in the rapid progress of that utility.

F. Russell Wotten, well known in business, succumbs to heart attack.

Established Own Business

In the business life of the city he played an important part. He came to Belleville as advertising manager for the Ritchie Company and a few years later, established his own business, a lucrative wear store on Front Street, which he has continuously operated to the present time. Not only did he operate a successful business, but he found time to give to the Chamber of Commerce and other mercantile bodies. At the time of his death was secretary to the Ladies' Wear section of the Merchants' Division of the Chamber of Commerce.

The late Mr. Wotten was born at Enniskillen, near Bowmanville, 57 years ago, being the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Wotten. In early life he moved to Peterborough from which city he came to Belleville.

Surviving are his wife, the former Eva May Skinner, and two daughters, Mrs. A. M. (Helen) Hallquist, of Ottawa, and Miss Ann Marie at home.

Resting at the Belleville Burial Company Funeral Home, Campbell Street, the funeral announcement is made elsewhere in this edition.

ANCIENT CHURCH

The Greek Orthodox Church was established in A.D. 1054 after a split with the religious authority of the Pope.

TORONTO STOCKS

Agriculturres, constructions and foods retained a majority of fractional advances to form the market's strongest sections. Utilities, steels, manufacturing companies and retail stores held gains and losses in balance but papers and textiles softened. Refining oils and miscellaneous industrials dipped sharply.

Western oils climbed strongly. Pacific Petroleum was a standout as it jumped 1 1-8 to 11 1-8 following reports of a successful drilling on its Peace river holdings.

RENAME UNIVERSITY AVENUE

Toronto, Nov. 2 (CP)—Toronto's broad, mid-town University Avenue may soon become an "International Boulevard." Members of the consular corps in Toronto yesterday outlined a plan to plant trees along the avenues and have them dedicated by representatives of 27 countries.

Butter, Cheese Production Drops

Toronto, Nov. 2 —(CP)— Production of both butter and cheese dropped at Ontario creameries in the first nine months of this year.

The Ontario Agricultural Department said today in its monthly dairy report that butter production dropped 2,445,100 pounds to 84,181,000.

It was estimated 1,842,733,000 pounds of whole milk were used for these two products, compared with 1,972,536,000 pounds in the preceding year, a decrease of 6.5 per cent.

The report gave production of processed milk products to the end of September as 197,203,000 pounds, or 18.1 per cent more than in the corresponding 1950 period.

Practically all the increase was in vegetized-whole-milk case goods which rose from 62,872,500 pounds to 120,348,500.

Dates of Oratorical Contest Announced

Dates of public school oratorical contests in the South Hastings Inspectorate were announced today by Mr. G. Daugharty, president of the South Hastings Educational Association.

Sidney township contest gets under way tonight at Wallbridge Hall. Thurlow school will compete at the Cannifton School on Monday, November 5, with Tyendinaga schools competing at Melrose Hall on Tuesday, November 6th.

Mr. Daugharty expressed the hope that all sections will be represented at the meetings since he is presenting, on behalf of the S. H. E. A., free books on the teaching of guidance to every school in each township.

The finals of the contest will be held at Queen Alexandra School, Ann Street, on November 9th.

The winner of the South Hastings contest will go to Brighton November 16 to compete in a five - counties competition to decide a representative in the provincial contest being held in Toronto next Easter.

Two-Year Prison Term Given For Car Theft

Pleading guilty to the theft of an auto in the city last week, Harry Arona, alias George Brooks, age 38, of Toronto, was sentenced this morning in magistrate's court to two years in the penitentiary.

Arona pleaded guilty to the theft of an auto owned by R. H. Widdifield, Albert Street, from where it was parked in the vicinity of the local armouries. When he was apprehended at Newtonville, a pair of licence plates stolen at Port Hope, were on the car.

Arona had a lengthy police record dating from 1933 and had served time in the penitentiary.

He was represented in court by Robt. Temple, local lawyer, but on his own behalf pleaded with Magistrate T. Y. Wills for leniency.

"I am not asking for suspended sentence," he pleaded, "but I do not want to go to the penitentiary. I want a chance to start life again."

In view of Arona's lengthy criminal record Magistrate Wills considered dealing with him as a habitual criminal but decided on the two-year term in the penitentiary.

ESTATE AUCTIONED OFF

Newcastle — Under — Lyme, England, Nov. 2 — (Reuters) — An estate once owned by King Henry VIII was auctioned off yesterday to pay inheritance taxes owed the government by the family which bought the land 400 years ago. The Sneyd family collected just under $1,000,000 for the property, broken up now into residential subdivisions.

Talk on Insurance Given Y's Men

Insurance was the topic presented from various angles by underwriter members of the Y's Men's Club at the club's weekly meeting in the YMCA on Thursday night. Those taking part were Garth Sine, William Hoiway, Vern Wehr, and Don Williams. Arnold Smith, statistics of Ontario and other documentary support the speakers reminiscent of their experience were guests of insurance selling.

The panel received the appreciation of the club from Ron Cass. The president Bryson Leslie was in the chair and was assisted by Oscar Wagar, Max Maguire gave a brief account of his recent wedding trip.

Y's Men were continuing their efforts to complete their work in connection with the Red Feather Community Chest canvass in which many of them had been participating. The president urged the pushing of efforts in the next few days.

A successful Hallowe'en party for the children of the city was reported. The program included a street, parade and fine entertainment and contests in the YMCA gymnasium.

Roy Reid reported good progress towards the completion of plans for radio auction. Much of the publication had been completed and fine merchandize for the auction had been procured.

GIVE GENEROUSLY

Citizens are urged to give as generously as their means permit toward the fund being collected for the Belleville and District Community Chest through the Red Feather campaign presently being conducted.

The agencies which share the funds collected by the Belleville and District Community Chest are four in number — the Children's Aid Society, the Y.M.C.A., the Victorian Order of Nurses and the St. John Ambulance Association.

All four organizations are deserving of public support. The Children's Aid Society looks after children who have no one else to do so. The Y.M.C.A. provides healthful recreation for young people of both sexes and thus helps keep them away from places where the atmosphere might be less wholesome. The Victorian Order of Nurses gives nursing service to many people who cannot afford to pay the entire cost of such service. The St. John Ambulance Association provides a program of training for public safety, first aid and life-saving.

The objective of the campaign in Belleville is $20,000, which is the minimum amount necessary to underwrite the current deficits of the participating agencies. Since the population of Belleville is more than 20,000, the sum asked is less than $1 per head of the city's population.

Remember, when the canvasser calls on you, that $1 today has a purchasing power of no more than 60 cents had in pre-war days, and give as much to these worthy charities as you can possibly spare.

COURTESY WORTH THE EFFORT

When there seems to be trouble everywhere and a fresh crisis in international affairs every day, it is refreshing and encouraging to notice anything that suggests a return to those pre-war days which seem, by comparison, to have been so pleasant.

It was with such thought as this which occurred to us, when we learned of the presence in Belleville last week of T. R. Tubman, district manager for Famous Players theatres, for the purpose of stressing upon service employees the importance of courtesy and service to patrons.

Mr. Tubman said that the theatre chain had started a nation-wide movement to bring the service given by the theatres back to the level of a few years ago. Mr. Tubman emphasized the desirability of giving the public both courtesy and service.

Since about 1940, when conditions brought about by the war created a scarcity of labor, clerks, waitresses, waiters, taxi drivers and others engaged in catering to the public have, too often, assumed an indifferent attitude. Many types of labor are still scarce and the wartime attitude is still encountered.

Canadians of British or Anglo-Saxon extraction have a good deal to learn from the French-speaking communities in connection with any trade or calling which has to do with serving or waiting on the public. The waitress in English-speaking Canada, for example, usually greets her customer with something like: "Well indeedy, what?" A French-Canadian waitress is much more likely to say: "It makes me happy to serve you, sir," even when she has no way of knowing in advance that her efforts are going to be rewarded by a thin dime left under the plate.

Courtesy does not cost anything except a little effort on the part of the individual, yet it creates such a good impression on the customer worth much in good will.

Sometimes it is the little things in life that count for much. Courtesy is one of them and it would seem that Famous Players management is moving in the right direction. Others catering to the public could do worse than following the example set by the theatre chain.

STATISTICS PROVE ANYTHING

Figures do not lie, someone once remarked. No, sometimes else answered, but liars do figure.

Some such thought occurred to us when we saw two news items, published within a few days of each other.

One was to the effect that there were more unemployment in the Windsor area, and consequently more "distress," than anywhere else in Canada.

The second said that more television sets had been sold in Windsor than anywhere else in Canada; 2,318 in the first eight months of 1951. In the much more populous Toronto-Hamilton area, only 7,811 such sets had been sold. An average television set costs not less than $400.

Thus, the people of Windsor and Essex county may believe whatever they want to believe. They are either living in the midst of one of the most destitute parts of Canada or in one of the most prosperous.

"GONE WITH THE WIND"

Said a newspaper headline the other day: 500 Egyptians Shout: "Down With Churchill." A little thing like that will not worry the aged but redoubtable descendant of the first Duke of Marlborough. Only a few years ago, 80,000,000 Germans were shouting the same thing, and look what happened to them.

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO
Nov. 2nd., 1931

The organization of citizens for unemployment civic relief has been completed and the work is now progressing in an efficient manner; all sub-committees being in action under the general relief committee and co-operating with the Women's Christian Association, the churches, the Salvation Army, the city council, the Chamber of Commerce and all organizations having to do with welfare and relief. The sum of $10,000, is the objective, which is to be supplemented by grants from the city, the province and government, making $30,000 in all.

Mr. Wesley Gray, Deputy Reeve of Thurlow township, has been appointed game inspector during the hunting season in the north. The deer season opens on Nov. 5th. and continues until Nov. 20th.

10 YEARS AGO
Nov. 2nd., 1921

Mr. R. E. Casement of Madoc has been appointed police magistrate for the townships of Marmora, Madoc, Elzevir, Hungerford, Tudor and Tyendinaga, Hastings county, and for the town of Madoc, including the incorporated village therein.

The fifteenth annual banquet tendered to the members of the Belleville Horticultural Society, John Elliott, manager of the Belleville branch of the Standard Bank, was held at Hotel Quinte. The principal speaker was the Hon. Manning Doherty, Ontario Minister of Agriculture. The chairman was Mr. F. W. Fyfe, solicitor for the Standard Bank, and this was the fifteenth time he ably discharged the duties of chairman at the banquet. Other speakers besides the Minister of Agriculture were Mr. R. M. Mitchell, President of the Belleville Cheese Board; Mr. R. J. Graham, Mr. H. F. Ketcheson, Mr. John Elliott, Mr. Bob Bushnell, Kingston, and Mr. Jemieson Bone, President of the Belleville Chamber of Commerce.

40 YEARS AGO
Nov. 2nd., 1911

Mr. Charles R. McCullough, one of this city's successful old boys, now of Hamilton, and who is the President of the Association of Canadian Clubs, will speak on the "Semi-Centennial of Confederation" at the meeting of the local Canadian Club on the evening of Nov. 6th.

Mr. Robert Cooke, Reeve of Rawdon township, is the Conservative candidate for North Hastings, was a visitor in town today.

Dr. W. J. Gibson of this city, accompanied by his nephew, Dr. J. A. Crozier of Port Arthur, Ontario, have left to attend the Clinical Congress of Surgeons of North America in Philadelphia.

Belleville Market Prices: — Butter 20 cents to 25 cents per pound; eggs 25 cents to 27c per dozen; chickens 30 cents to 70c per pair; ducks 60 cents to 80c per pair; geese 50 cents to 75c each; turkeys 75 cents to $1.50 each; potatoes 45 cents to 50 cents per bag.

A barn owned by Mr. Thomas Walker, 4th concession of Rawdon township, was destroyed by fire together with the season's crops and farm implements. The stables also were destroyed and it was with considerable difficulty that the horses and cattle were removed to safety. The cause of the fire is as yet unknown.

Many sidewalks in town are badly in need of repairs.

Mr. W. B. Northrup, M. P., went to Toronto today.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE DAY'S WORK

For many years the late Dr. William Osler was the physician to the Mayo family. On a beautiful summer afternoon they were visiting in the poet's Canadian home when suddenly the poet exclaimed:

"Ah, the glory of the day's work, whether with head or hand I have tried To exalt the present and the dead,

I have often turned to that record instance in Dr. Osler's little book "A Way of Life," and read it and re-read it. It contains so much. If we cannot gain glory from our day's work, where are we to find it? Certainly not in idleness or in a complaining of our lot, about which I have a happy one. We, in ourselves, are the architects of our own fates, as the poet Longfellow once wrote.

In my youth I heard of an interesting interview with three workmen. One was asked what he was doing. He replied that he was mixing mortar. The second man said that he was laying bricks, and the third man said he was building a cathedral! Each one of us builds our own cathedral would be well if we were all engaged in "building the cathedral!"

The day's work is a link in the chain that completes our life activities. It is from our privileges and our opportunity to make that chain as strong a one as possible, so as to hold fast to the ideals and achievements of our life in the strongest fashion.

In the recent World Series baseball contests we had the example placed before us as to how important each and every player throughout the season was. Had every game, among the leaders, been looked upon as a crucial one, the story at the end might have been different. We should be impressed with the glory of each day's work as a crucial one.

The significance of the day's work does not lie greatest in what is earned, but what it brings in human happiness and pleasure from the work itself.

DID NOT GET FAR

Guelph, Nov. 2 (CP)— A man who tried to hold up a shop here with a toy gun didn't get very far. The manager, Mrs. O. Goodwin, waved to a friend on the street, the friend waved to a policeman, and the man was arrested. Roger Desgrosellars, alias Gerry Mitter, has been charged with demanding money.

OVER HIGH MARK

Hamilton, Nov. 2 (CP)— An increase of nine-tho $4,000,000 over the previous high mark in building permits was reached here at the end of October. The $18,442,000 of building permits issued in 1948 was a record until a total of $22,843,900 was announced for just the first 10 months of this year.

OUR TOWN

By JACK SCOTT

THE MAGIC EGG

The Scott Twelve-Foot Shelf entitled "I Don't Know About Chickens" is now at the publishers and I thought that while we have all sitting around waiting we might take an ecstwhile peek into what it portends.

I bring nothing to this subject whatever except a magnificent humility before the miracle of the egg. Each morning, on finding an egg in the nest, I hippity-hop for the house crying, "It's another one! Another egg!" If they laid gold door-knobs I couldn't be any more amazed.

Oh, I can hear you people out on the farms snorting. Indeed, I can hear the man next door snorting. He expects to find an egg when he goes to his chickenhouse and has probably never, in all his life, passed among his chickens handing out cigars.

But for me, a city boy with the soot still in his hair, it remains a thing of wonderment and delight.

If our pullets have a shifty, embarrassed look about them it is because they are wondering privately over their shoulder when they're going to lay something and they can do it again. I don't suppose it helps them, that hot hand groping under their fluffy breast, but I am impatient for the magic.

Before all this I could take eggs or leave them. Now I am fattening slightly at the cost per dozen. Now when I find an egg in the hen-house, I am apt to sit down, sing in the straw like a gem in Bizet's Carmen, and wonder how I could ever have taken them so much for granted.

Here for the fee the gods (did you ever eat an egg that was snatched from under a hen?) and the hens, I am getting a measure of beauty. I never know whether to eat them or put them on the mantelpiece.

The 'Broody'

I purchased the six White Leghorns (pronounced "Leggrons" if you are one of us poultrymen) in Belleville, through the help of a neighbor's boy. Because ten seconds for a hearty laugh over that.

But for me, the "hens" you fool) cost three bucks apiece. Then one day this fall, leaving mash, grain, straw and chicken wire. I have now estimated that it cost me $18 for each egg I am laying day and lives to the age of 48 I will be in the clear. At the moment, if my figures are correct, I am paying a cool 80 cents per egg.

This doesn't include the labor, of course, and if my boss could see me with a hoe in his hand he would be in a chicken house in 24 hours (please not while I'm eating!) you'll know that the manpower required is considerable.

They tell me, too, that there are certain strange, macabre habits that chickens have and I anticipate these with certain foreboding. They get "broody," for one thing Mr. Evans, the man who sold us the chickens, spoke a great deal about this, but I was so eager to get the birds home and producing that I didn't pay much attention. So far as I can remember a "broody" hen is one that gets tired of laying duds, wearies of all the fuss, as it were, and crawls to a corner of its own and a little family. She then sits around on the nest all day, reading True Love Stories, and probably wishing she were dead.

This means that you get one egg less each day and all hell breaks loose on the poultry market. Also "broody" hen is a factor in our cost of living and a threat to our free enterprise way of life.

Mr. Evans said you have to be "broody" to notice hens. I don't like to think of it, but I believe he said to tie the "broody" hen by one leg to a post to soothe her ardor. That sounds logical, doesn't it? How would your ardor stand up if you were tied to a post?

I know in my heart I'll never be able to do this. I'm just one of those White Leghorns get that brooding look and daddy will be in the pot for a country roast. I will all be up to our hips in chicks.

Small Crisis

Chickens go all against the Freudian theory, that much I know. Mr. Evans was very patient and frustrated. Mr. Evans was very positive about that.

Yet I suppose it to be that if the chicken is bored enough and discontented enough it will get into the egg-laying habit and stay in it.

Sometimes, watching our six White Leghorns, which I do by the hour, I think they are bored with themselves, "Oh, life, life! Same old grind every day, another egg, all lay no egg just to break the monotony". I once knew a man who got himself into the high cost of living habit and that's another story and, in fact, he laid something of an egg himself.

So far there's been only one crisis in the coop. When I went out one morning and found five eyes shining with greed, I found one of the pullets attacking the other. It was plucking viciously at the other pullet's neck, and ripped the feathers away and was drawing blood.

I ran up and down wringing my hands, but it did no good. I made my way post haste to Mr. Evans, or "Doctor" Evans, as I now think of him. He was pouring over my story. Put a little salt in their water, Mr. Evans said, and so I did, now that.

The whole thing is fraught with mystery and reward and the heck with the expense.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

The Packsack had a little item earlier in the week about sleep. Sleep is a fascinating subject, and grows more so as modern civilization dedicates itself to murdering sleep.

Take farmers, for instance. Only a few years ago, it was traditional, it was practically universal among farmers to go to bed not long after supper time, certainly before ten o'clock. Once a week or even less often, there might be some events in the neighborhood that would keep the farmers up to near midnight with their bugies or sleighs, but farmers might go visiting their neighbors at night now and then. But everybody on the farm knew that the cows and pigs, the horses and chickens would be clamoring soon after the sun rose. There was no sleeping in on the farm.

The motor car, the radio and now television have created a revolutionary situation on the farms. Where a trip to the nearest town by horses and wagon was the undertaking in the boyhood of most present farm grandfathers, the motor car brings the metropolis of the province into reach of every farmer in the district. The radio and television do not really get hot until around ten p. m. What time do farmers go to bed nowadays? A night drive in the country will answer that. The lights are still agleaming well forwards midnight in many a farmhouse you see.

Yet cows and pigs, horses and chickens cannot be persuaded to sleep on. You may mechanize a farm but you don't mechanize a cow.

It was thought by our deeper thinkers in recent years that the mechanization of farming might persuade a larger number of farm-born people to stay on the land.

Will six hours' sleep is not enough for anyone, and ... about what the farmers are ... by our present state of society.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

THE ERRORS OF FAITH

Any parent whose heart is not an absolute stone cannot help being moved by the trust and confidence which small children display. No matter what the trouble is—a tumble downstairs, a broken bone, a strange noise—the refuge of Daddy or Mother's arms is all that is needed. In their large, unfamiliar, ever-widening world, full of objects and events which they cannot control, the faith of little children in their parents still provides them with an unfailing source of comfort and joy.

No parent who is also a Christian should overlook this revelation. For not only did Jesus command us again and again to have faith in God, but He frequently used children as examples: "Suffer the little children to come unto Me and forbid them not: for of such is the Kingdom of Heaven."

Children may outgrow their faith in their parents as they approach their own wisdom and maturity. But what presumption it is to outgrow faith in God—for what human being can ever approach God's wisdom? And what folly it is!—for to lose faith in God is to lose the only absolutely firm footing in a changing and unpredictable world.

It was Thomas Russell who said, "The errors of faith are better than the best thoughts of unbelief."

Personal Health Talks

By WILLIAM BRADY, M.D.

Signed Letters, Not More Than One Page, or 100 Words long, Pertaining to Personal Health and Hygiene, Not to Disease, Diagnosis or Treatment, Will be Answered by Dr. Brady if a Stamped, Self-Addressed Envelope is Enclosed, Etc.

CALCIUM AND RHEUMATISM

Wiseacres who think they know as much about health and medicine as an "ordinary" doctor, or even more, and who act as a "specialist" does, will dismiss this talk as just a tiresome contribution of my harping upon the subject of rheumatism or arthritis. I gather that from the letters I get from readers.

The wiseacres, I find, take calcium in one form or another for a few weeks or months and then, as they still have the rheumatis, decide that I don't know what I'm talking about. So do some doctors who deign to take note of what appears in this column.

A word to the wiseacres will probably do no good but it may help readers who do not think they know as much as an ordinary doctor (such as the author of this column) knows about health and medicine.

The word is this: I do not believe and have not suggested here or elsewhere that taking calcium in any form will cure chronic arthritis or rheumatism. I do not now and have not ever suggested that calcium is a cure or a remedy for arthritis or any ill called rheumatism. You fathends who think I do suggest or have suggested calcium as a remedy for joint trouble should learn how to read.

In the pamphlet Calcium and Rheumatism, now written for quest If you provide stamped, self-addressed envelope, what I say.

Certainly I do not believe that drinking more milk will cure any ill called rheumatism. But I do earnestly advise every one who has any form of chronic arthritis or any longstanding inflammation of joints or spine which is not obviously of specific infectious character or a mechanical injury to try eating an optimal daily ration of calcium and vitamin D regimen you notice or experience even slight betterment or improvement in general well-being, in addition, then you will continue the regimen indefinitely of your own accord.

In any case it will do no harm. Here and there who report their

Trenton Council Told Ottawa Ponders Big Filtration Plant To Serve R. C. A. F. Station

Trenton (Special)—In the business session of the Trenton council meeting Tuesday night, councillors were informed that the Dominion government is making enquiries with respect to the location of a $500,000 filtration plant within the town limits for the purpose of supplying the Trenton Air Station with water. The proposed plant would, it was revealed, release enough spring water to supply Trenton with enough water for 25,000 people.

In the letter the government proposed to bear the majority of the cost. Trenton's investigation revealed that spring water would be paid back out of the sale of water to the air station.

Suggesting that spring water be sought for sale to the air station, councillor Ross Burtt explained that he did not want to see the air station sold water that the townspeople would not use themselves. Mr. Burtt was told that the water, while not as good as spring water, would be filtered and tested according to government specifications. It was informed that the government had asked for the water and that it seemed satisfied to utilize hay water and filter it.

Mr. Burtt suggested that tests be made of water at the east and west ends of Cronk's Island, as he had been told by oldtimers that there were fresh water springs in the bay in these locations. Mayor Couch voiced interest in Mr. Burtt's information, saying, that the tests of the underwater springs would be suggested when arrangements to locate the plant had been completed.

Lee Sends Letter

A letter from Harry Lee asked council to consider his proposal to open a gate in the parks board's fence at the rear of his building on Dundas street west. The fence separates the rear of Lee property from the parking space on the dockfront.

Councillor Donald Sutherland explained that the gate would allow Mr. Lee's tenant freedom of movement behind their stores.

Mayor Ken Couch was of the opinion that the fence should not be touched without consulting the parks board. Councillor Charles Allore agreed with the mayor. Councillor Claude Grisham felt that the town should permit Mr. Lee to install the gate providing he signed an agreement to close it after each time it was opened. He considered that the town had the authority to provide a permit. Clerk - Treasurer O. W. Larry told council that the park's board was a separately constituted body and was not under the jurisdiction of the council. It was disclosed that the parks board had been a non-functioning body since the chairman, Senator W. A. Fraser, and its treasurer, C. G. Alyea, resigned.

Larry Reads Letter

Clerk-treasurer Larry read a letter from the municipal board which pointed out that it was not legal for the town to use municipal funds for the erection of a new bus terminal; nor was it legal, the letter said, for the town to lease property. The letter suggested that a new terminal could possibly be provided by a special act of legislation. Mr. Larry informed council that it would cost in the neighborhood of $500 to have a special act legislated. Mayor Couch said it was worth it.

Councillor V. R. Ryan favored removing the old terminal. He said that contractor R. E. Wiggins had told him that the old building could be fixed up for $3,000. Councillor Graham sided with Councillor Ryan.

Terminal manager Norman Rickett was called upon to give his views. He reported that people were laughing at Trenton's present terminal. He said that while it was really none of his business and whatever council decided was suitable to him, he was anxious to see something done. He, thought that council was wise to have legislation enacted as he would want to see council give it to an individual for commercial purposes.

Mr. Rickett described the terminal as a valuable attraction where people from all parts of Canada stopped. He revealed that 170 buses a day were dispatched from the terminal. He said he had provided a P.A. system for the terminal.

A plan for a 50 by 30 terminal provided by the H. J. McFarland Construction Company was passed around to the councillors by Councillor Norman Banfield.

Commenting on the plan, Mayor Couch said, "a new terminal was all that the town lacked."

Councillor Ryan remarked: "I am not opposed to a new terminal but I am opposed to the town going into the real estate business."

DONALD McIVOR KILLED

Wingham, Nov. 2 — (CP) — A Huron township farmer, Donald McIvor, 43, died in hospital last night of injuries received while tearing down a barn. A timber is reported to have fallen, striking him on the head while he was working on the ground below.

Actress Upset by Order

Sydney, Australia, Nov. 2 — (AP) — Hollywood actress Joan Parker disclosed today she was ordered to leave Sydney's Bondi Beach because her swim suit was too revealing. She says she's very upset about it.

A beach inspector told the film star: "Your costume is much too scanty. I'm sorry, you'll have to leave."

"I've never been so embarrassed in my life," Joan told a reporter. "I've worn this swim suit in California and several places without complaint."

Princess Wins Praise

Washington, Nov. 3—(Reuters) —The Washington Post in an editorial today says that during the royal visit to Washington, which ends today, Princess Elizabeth was charming and Prince Philip "everything a prince consort should be."

"We shall feel closer to the future queen from now on and we shall understand why the British Commonwealth is proud of her," it added.

"I gave the King great pleasure when he found the ornaments which is before you now. The work of 18th century artists, and embodying the finest British craftsmanship, it seems perfectly suited for the place which it will occupy.

"It gives me great pleasure on behalf of my father to present this ornamental to you. It is his hope and mine that it will be a welcome ornament to one of your proudest national possessions and that it will remain as a mark of our friendship so long as the White House shall stand."

At the national airport, the royal couple's RCAF plane was waiting to take them to Montreal. They plan to go from there to the Laurentians for the weekend, then on Monday to resume their tour of Eastern Canada.

As the tour drew to a close, the royal couple crammed in a whirlwind sightseeing trip of the city. They had a quick look at the beautiful Washington Cathedral, visited Capitol Hill, the Library of Congress and the nearby Supreme Court building.

British Commandos in Korea Make Life Interesting if Unhappy for Reds

By GEORGE A. McARTHUR

Off Wonsan, Korea, Nov. 2— (AP)—Far behind the battle lines a communist supply dump blows up or a red convoy truck explodes on a mined road. The British commandos are at work.

The British Royal Marine commandos are ready to raid at any time to keep the communists nervous and frustrated.

The commandos have struck in more than a dozen raids. Some were made by several hundred men; others by just a few marines slipping through communist territory.

"Nothing really big," explains their commander, Maj. Dennis Aldridge of London, whose raiding experience extends back 14 years in the marines.

When the raids are over the commandos rest up within easy artillery range of red batteries and wait to go again.

The communists have diverted troops from the front to guard the area raided periodically by the British forces.

"We've forced them to do that, Aldridge said, "but it has made it more difficult for us."

The commandos also have primed red fears of possible allied amphibious landings on either coast.

It is believed the reds have been working feverishly on their coastal defences recently, making the shores around Wonsan into an oriental Normandy beach —honeycombed with trenches and gun emplacements.

To penetrate the communist screens, the commandos move in stealthily with their highest trained scouts leading the way.

The infantry-trained scouts also are experts in underwater demolition and parachute jumps.

Little Benny's Note Book

My cousin Artie came over yesterday and stayed for supper, being lam stew without dumplings, and me and Artie happened to look at each other over the tops of our milk glasses just when we were both taking a drink, and we started to giggle and the more we tried to stop the lam we couldn't, and pop said, Would you mind stopping that cracking long enough to tell us the joke, so joy may be unconfined — and not restricted to the younger element?

Making us giggel even worse, and pop said, For Peet sake cut it out. What is this, a mumbley house or a civilized dining room? he said.

Now William, you know boys, ma said, and pop said, Of course I know boys, and I also know wild parrots in the Brazilian Jungles, but I never suspected the twain would meet around my own dinner table.

Oh, just disregard them and they'll come to their own senses, ma said. After all, is there anything serious about a little giggeling? she said, and pop said, There certainly is. Children who are encouraged to giggel at nothing are liabel to grow into adults that laff at their own jokes. Do you want to be responsible for 2 snitch adults rite in your own family he said.

Aw G, pop, we're not really giggeling at nuthing, I said, and pop said, Well, I'm relieved to hear it.

Sure, pop, we're actually sniggeling at something, I said, and he said, What, for instance?

We're giggeling at how mad you got when we really were giggeling at nuthing, I said, and ma started to laff, saying, That's a good one on you, William.

It's the silliest remark in the history of silly remarks, that's what it is, pop said.

Making ma laff even more, and the result for all my everybody laffing, including pop.

BREAK REPAIRED

Carmi, Ill., Nov. 2 — (AP)—An explosion ripped a natural gas line yesterday, leaving many Carmi residents without fuel for several hours until a welder repaired the break. The workmen said the explosion was caused by contraction of the buried pipe.

WEDDINGS

MITCHELL—COUSINS

St. Thomas' Anglican Church, Belleville, was the scene of a pretty wedding on Monday, Oct. 8, at 2 p.m., when Archdeacon, the Venerable Arthur Smith, rector, united in marriage, Mary Isabel Cousins daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Cousins, of Belleville, to John Albert Mitchell, son of Mr. and Mrs. Claude Mitchell, also of Belleville.

Professor Ernest Wheatley, church organist rendered the wedding music.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a lovely bridal gown of white lace and satin featuring a molded bodice of lace with long, sleeves pointed at the wrist, and full skirt having a panel of matching lace and ending in a cathedral train. Her fingertip veil was fitted at the front, forming a half halo with seed pearl trimming. She carried a shower bouquet of red roses.

Mrs. Gwen Sinclair, was matron of honor, gowned in mauve, in floor-length style, with matching accessories. Miss Joan Clarke, cousin of the bride, in a green floor-length gown and matching accessories, and Miss Barbara Wood, in pink with matching accessories, were bridesmaids.

Mr. Robert Mitchell, of Rosemore, was groomsman, and the ushers, Mr. James Mitchell, brother of the bridegroom, and Gary Little, cousin of the bride.

The reception was held at the bride's home, where the bride's mother, wearing a wine velveteen ensemble with green accessories and corsage of yellow roses, received the guests, assisted by the bridegroom's mother in rose and black taffeta, with green accessories and yellow rose corsage.

Following the reception the young couple left for points west, the bride travelling in a sand-colored suit with brown accessories and yellow rose corsage. Upon their return, they will reside in Belleville.

Guests were present from Toronto, Aylmer, Springfield, Union and Prince Edward.

LIVED IN SHACK

Newport, R. I., Nov. 2.—(AP)—Antonio Cazzetta, 60, lived in a shack on the city dump. Until his death he was a familiar figure, wearing several suits or coats at the same time on his family's gathering rounds. Yesterday's inventory filed in probate court disclosed he left $22,343.

C.N.R.A.A. Ladies, Auxiliary Holds Colorful Bazaar, Tea

The I.O.O.F. Temple, Front Street, for two successive days, again yesterday afternoon, echoed to the hum of many voices, when the Canadian National Railway Athletic Association Ladies' Auxiliary held their annual bazaar and tea. Two outstanding facts highlighted this auspicious day: it was All Saints' Day, and it was also the appearance of the season's first snowflakes. Though the outside air had that threatening 'arly, yet within the Temple, all was warmth, coziness and cheer, with the fluttering yellow and green fringes of the different emporiums waving their colorful welcome.

Mrs. C. Alexander, treasurer, and Mrs. G. Rogers, president of the Auxiliary were reception hostesses, giving most courteous welcomes to each and all, while were then free to wander at will, visiting the attractive booths with their equally attractive merchandise.

Many Aprons

The first emporium was that of the aprons, with its pretty fringes of deep yellow, green and red where many dainty aprons were on view, of many kinds of materials, organdy, calliopaze, prints, and unbleached cotton. Some were large, the cover-all kind, while others were medium and small; some with bibs and others the half apron, so much in favor at the present time. There were pretty organdy ones with stencilated panels made with red rickrack braid, and edged with the same; others were of green broadcloth in polka dot and having white embroidery inserts around the hem; while others yet again were of a midnight blue with lovely, great dahlia-like blossoms in gray forming a deep border at the bottom. The plastic aprons were of green and of pink, with frills of the same, in an all-over pattern of tiny daisy flowers. Mrs. J. Vinkle with her assistants was in charge of this.

The next booth was a work of art in itself having a vaulted canopy of interlaced ropes of brown and gold, while around the front hung tiny little doll dresses of many designs and sizes, for this, as you have guessed, was the doll booth, conversed by Mrs. Pam Boyle and her assistants. In the centre, standing upon a scarlet satin dais, was a lovely bride in white satin, complete with full length veil, and white bouquet, attended by her pretty bridesmaids, one in yellow taffeta with matching hat, and the other in mauve taffeta with matching hat.

A Wee, Bonnie Lassie

Then there was the cutest little lassie free the land o' the heather, beautifully gowned in MacArthur plaid with tiny velvet jacket and matching tam with the Cock o' the North feather. The little skirt was full-pleated, and the jacket sleeves had full ruffles of lace.

Truly "a wee bonnie lassie", just like the one Sir Harry Lauder used to sing about. Not far distant was a cotton dog, a cross between a white terrier and a bloodhound—judging from the drooping ears,—amusing himself by a continuous barking at the white puzzy cat in the opposite corner, which was either sticking her red tongue out at him, or just laughing at his wasted efforts, and scattered roundabout were many little dresses and everything that a prim little doll would want for a wardrobe.

Belonging to this booth, but upon a separate table, was a doll's bed, complete with mattress, sheets, pillow and cretonne spread, which would go to the holder of the lucky ticket. This was in charge of Mrs. B. Cross.

"Touch and Take"

The "Touch and Take" table was next, ornately decorated with a deep valance across the top having two hands, one on the left, the other on the right of a big green bow, with lettering, saying "Touch" and "Take", one word on each hand. At the foot of each upright pillar was a large hamper filled with lovely roses that needed no water, and between these all manner of parcels, square, round, oblong, narrow, wide, all nicely tied which became the possessions—for a stipend—of the one who "fingered". This was conversed by Mrs. Rhoda Mattis and her assistants.

Beside the Homecooking booth, and at either end, were two golden pillars, one tall, the other shorter, silently saying how golden the dainty foods displayed. There were apple pies, lemon pies encircled with cherries, and one luscious looking pumpkin richly dark with spices—; south-western confections; little tarts; chocolate cakes; cookies; buns; drop cakes; rolls; fancy cakes, tasting just as good as it looked, and macaroni salad, also. There were candies, fudges, brown and divinity; maple creams, and yum yums dripping goodness, and several other dainties over which Mrs. N. Gerow and her assistants held sway, and did a thriving trade.

Around the corner was another little eye-catcher, a generous basket of groceries, which would go to the one guessing the number of beans, or the nearest number, in the little jar, conversed by Mrs. R. Shaddock. Down at the opposite end of the room, in military state sat Mrs. W. G. Fairborn guarding a glistening electric tea kettle. This, too, would become the possession of the lucky drawing number.

Dainty Tea Table

Within the enclosure, with its pretty ferns, and pots of brown mums was the daintily appointed tea table, with its white linen, lace-edged cutwork cloth, centred with a crystal bowl of bronze mums and on either side the shining silver tri-branched candelabra holding aloft tall, yellow, flickering tapers; while at either end, the glistening silver services. Those presiding were, Mrs. G. Foster, wife of the president of C.N.R.A.A.; Mrs. A. Meagher, wife of the past president of C.N.R.A.A. and Mrs. P. Kerr, president of O.L.A. and Mrs. W. Smith, vice president, B.R.T.

Surrounding the tea table were the little white covered guest tables, each centred with a tiny, glass globe in which, resting on a tiny lace, were three little woman florets. Mrs. E. Faulkner, Mrs. M. Mark, Mrs. W. Gray, Mrs. D. Anderson, Mrs. H. Ivury, Mrs. F. B. Cross, Mrs. P. Ronsky, Mrs. P. Boyle, Mrs. A. Dickson, Mrs. G. Ethier, Mrs. B. Clarke, Mrs. D. Dimend, Mrs. W. Waite, Mrs. C. Young and Mrs. L. Urch and Mrs. R. Johnston, the tea room hostess, were the gracious attendants for the many guests.

The doll bed was won by Mrs. C. J. Belshaw, Boswell St.; groceries, Mrs. Nina Sharpe, Station St.; the electric teakettle by Mr. R. J. Ferguson, Belleville, R.R. 8; chocolates, Mrs. J. Alexander, West Moira St.

Much credit is due the conveners and all those who assisted in this finely arranged bazaar and dainty tea.

Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Victor Kennedy are shown cutting their wedding cake, following their marriage at Johnstown United Church. The bride is the former Miss Muriel Loreen Sickle, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Sickle, of Trenton R.R. No. 8, and the bridegroom, the son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Kennedy.

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

Please give me your help. I have a sister-in-law who has monopolized me and bothered me for so long that I am fed up with being turbed and run-down condition. She broke her arm, and takes the attitude that she can do practically nothing. She has two children, both of whom work. She brings foods for me to cook for her, her laundry for me to wash and iron, and asks me to do many other things that she can easily afford or have done for her. I have two young children, and although I dress my arm a while ago she is also very busy herself, I paid to have my work done, not even asking my husband to help after his daily work. But my sister-in-law spends money for things I couldn't afford, and she is so selfish and thoughtless and really ignorant, that I just dread her coming. How my husband too is getting fed up with this situation. Don't you think it is his place to let her know that this must stop?

C. D.

Whether or not the "in-law" in this situation means that your sister-in-law is the wife of your husband's brother, I do firmly advise that it is your husband's "place" to "take over" immediately and to stop this sister-in-law's harassing on you, so harmful to your peace of mind and health. Apparently there is no reason, financial or otherwise, why you should take on any jobs she wishes to inflict on you. Stop being a door-mat!

A kind and gracious reader writes: "Dear Mrs. Beechman: Your column is read by so many and followed with profit by so many that I wish you would call to your readers' attention to the frequent misuse of the word "nee" in announcements of (for example, wedding announcements and death notices). Please remind your readers that Mary Smith, who marries John Brown, is not "nee Mary Smith" but only "nee Smith". The French word "nee" means "born". Mary Smith is born with the surname Smith; therefore, in announcements, she is either (1) "formerly Mary Smith" or (2) "nee Smith". Will you please sometime use this frequent error for your "daily text"? A Reader (nee Wright).

Thank you, very much indeed, for reminding me to speak again of this error—I don't remember mentioning it in my column for some time. And it should be mentioned, for, as you say, "nee" is so often misused. Particularly, it should say, in death notices. And you have explained perfectly the correct use of "nee" and the incorrect use. Thank you again.

Standing when being introduced to a clergyman or wife of a clergyman

Dear Mrs. Beechman:

Will you please answer some questions for my wife and myself concerning introductions to clergymen?

(1) Should I stand when I am being introduced to a clergyman?

(2) Should my wife stand when she is being introduced to a clergyman?

(3) Should my wife stand when she is being introduced to the wife of a clergyman?

O. S. L.

(1) Yes.

(2) Yes.

(3) Yes. All three of these gestures show respect for the clergy and for the official positions they represent.

Fashion Flashes

NOT FORGOTTEN amid the wealth of new designs and fabrics are the good old standbys. One old favorite, the jumper dress, is better than ever and comes in velveteen, corduroy, velveteen and worsted jersey in lovely colors. Many have interesting pocket detail, and many are partly or fully buttoned from neck to hem.

A FIND is the good dress that, while casual, has much style to it and is right for casual wear in town and for general country or suburban wear. One such treasure is a dress of hand-blocked wool challis, covered with tiny beige, black and white horses on a red or green ground. Shirt collar, flared cuffs and flared skirt with pockets. The waist is cinched by a wide leather belt.

A BARGAIN for the restricted wardrobe is the blouse that is good with a variety skirt or with dressy at-home slacks. Shantung taffeta, in a wide range of beautiful colors, is used for a blouse with a dropped shoulderline and full sleeves gathered with the black silk cord tassels. Collar and front closing are piped in black velvet.

TOPPING full skirts in many style presentations are brief fur wraps, such as a curve-waisted jacket in gray broadtail. It has a rounded, all-in-one shoulderline with batwing sleeve fullness; the standing, collarless neckline extends to rolling revers. Much style in brief dimensions!

DISCREET glitter marks many of the new short-skirted dinner dresses. In one dress, a high-necked, long-sleeved dull silk has a top to worn with a full skirt of black Chantilly-type lace all over embroidered in tiny sequins and jet beads. Hips are lightly padded, and there is a silk fully underskirt. A band of tiny rhinestones marks neckline and cuffs.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Her husband's away, and jealous

Dear Miss Fairfax:

My husband is in the army, and stationed at a post in the South. He is very jealous of me and thinks that I should be just as jealous of him. I try not to give him any reason for jealousy, and I would like to know how I can help him to get over it.

He is 21, and I am 18, and we have been married not quite six months. I am very much in love with my husband, and I feel that he loves me just as much, so I'll be very glad if you can help me.

C. T.

Dear C. T.:

It is too bad your husband feels the way he does and yet, on the other hand, try to remember that in his place, you might feel the same. You have been married only a little while, not really long enough to have built up the kind of secure confidence between you that comes after a husband and wife have lived together a long time. Now, after only these few months of marriage, your husband has had to leave you, probably for quite a while. He is afraid that because you are so young, and still so new to marriage, you might get restless while he's gone and want to go out with other young men. In time, he feels his memory might grow a little dim, and someone nearby might attract you.

What you should do is not to try and argue with him about this because it's something that arguing really won't help. Try telling him that you can understand why he feels as he does but that he needn't be afraid, because you love him. Tell him in your letters all that you are doing, and keep reminding him that no matter what you do, it isn't the same without him. In other words, keep talking about how much you love and miss him, instead of discussing his jealousy, and if he is the kind of man you think he was when you married him, I think he'll eventually realize that he has nothing to be jealous about.

She loves a man who distrusts all women

Dear Miss Fairfax:

The young man I go with is 24. I am 19 and have been married, but my husband is dead.

I love this man very much and would like to marry him but he was married before, too, and his wife did him very wrong, so I think he believes all women are the same. He says he isn't going to get married again.

Is there any way I can change his mind and show him all women are not alike? Could you tell me some way to make him love me? I have no desire to live without him.

O. C.

Dear O.C.:

The only way you or anyone else will ever have a chance of winning another person's love is for you simply to be yourself or, perhaps I should say, try always to be your best self. If the kind of person you are when you are your best self doesn't appeal to the one you are trying to interest, then the only thing to do is to wait for someone else to come along.

It's foolish to say you have no desire to live without this particular young man. You have already evidently discovered that you're not going to spend the rest of your life mourning your first love, whom you married, and if you don't get this other man for your second husband, you won't mourn him forever either.

All you can do at this time in regard to his attitude about women is to be a good friend to him, and wait for his wounded faith to heal. If you try to rush him when he feels as he does now, you are much more likely to lose him than if you are content to take it slow and easy.

MARIO ... in his distinctive feature about FOOD What's Cooking?

Elderly people whose symptoms were confusion and irritability showed noticeable improvement when given the B vitamin that cures pellagra, according to Dr. J. Fleetwood of Dublin, Ireland, reporting his experiments to the Gerontological Congress in St. Louis.

The lunards require a little more skill in cooking than the many common meat cuts. But they have a delicate texture and flavor which make them gourmets' delights.

Sweetbreads should be first soaked in water to remove any foreign flavor, and then simmered until the soft tissue becomes somewhat firm. At this stage the meat can be handled without breaking and can then be prepared for broiling, frying or sauteing. Use calf's sweetbreads or fresh beef breads.

Sweetbreads with Mushroom Sauce—Serves 4.

1 lb calf's sweetbreads
Salt—pepper
1 tablespoon vinegar
Flour
Salad oil or vegetable shortening
1-4 cup dry white wine
1 can condensed cream of mushroom soup
1-3 cup milk

If frozen sweetbreads are used, thaw in the refrigerator. Soak the sweetbreads in cold water, three to four hours. Drain. Cover them with cold water. Add 1 teaspoonful salt and the vinegar. Bring to a boil. Reduce flame and simmer 10 minutes.

Sprinkle the sweetbreads with salt and pepper. Dip in flour.

Fry the sweetbreads in a saucepan, using only as much oil or shortening as is necessary to keep them from sticking to the pan.

Add wine to the pan. Cover the pan with a tight lid. Simmer slowly until the wine evaporates. Take care not to scorch sweetbreads.

Add the soup and 1-3 cup of milk to the pan. Heat up to the boiling point but do not boil. Serve the sauce separately at the table.

500 Will Sail From Quebec On Monday

Ottawa, Nov. 2 (CP) — Five hundred Canadian troops will sail from Quebec City Monday with no official farewell and a reminder that they can do a lot to beat communism by the way they behave in Europe.

They will make up the first contingent of the main body of the 5,500 men of the 27th Brigade assigned to Germany as part of Gen. Eisenhower's integrated Atlantic Pact force. Five other sailings between Nov. 12 and Dec. 13 are scheduled to get the whole brigade into the Hannover area of northwestern Germany by the end of December.

A 200-man advance party already has reached Europe.

Defence Minister Claxton and senior military authorities will be on hand at Wolfe's Cove to say Canada's official farewell to a group of more than 500 soldiers including brigade headquarters staff and a number of other units sailing on the steamship Canberra.

The biggest of the sailings will leave Quebec Nov. 12 with 1,400 men including the 1st Infantry Battalion.

A 30-page booklet entitled "off to Europe" will be made available to all the 5,500 men.

Written by Author

It was written by Lionel Shapiro, Montreal-born foreign correspondent and author, who is one of two correspondents sailing with the troops Monday. The other is Douglas How of the Canadian Press Ottawa Bureau.

The booklet makes these among other points:

1. Some of the allied troops stationed in Europe "are deeply hated."

2. Canadians should remember that they are ambassadors of their country, that their conduct will have an important bearing on the reaction of Europeans to their country.

3. The average European girl has an extremely high standard of behavior. You can't take liberties with them. "Forget the fixed impression you have about European women."

4. Canadians are going to Europe to defend Canada, not Europe.

5. Europeans are naturally fed up with foreign soldiers after 12 years of them but proper behavior by Canadians might tip the scales one way or the other in the pre-war trial between communism and democracy.

Search and Rescue Arm of R.C.A.F. Wants More Cash

Ottawa, Nov. 2 (CP) — The search and rescue arm of the RCAF, a country-wide network of planes and parastroopers trained in rescue work, may exceed a $3,000,000 budget this year.

The reason, RCAF spokesmen said yesterday, is search for civilians missing mostly on plane trips into the northern wilds.

Most costly search this year has been the fruitless, two-month hunt for Bill Barilko, Toronto Maple Leaf defenceman, and his fishing companion, Dr. Henry Hudson of Timmins, Ont.

They vanished early this fall in Northern Ontario. At one time search and rescue had as many as 11 planes in the hunt at once. The planes flew 1,345 flying hours and some $285,000 was spent.

Another search concerned Jonrny Bourassa, civilian pilot who was lost north of the Yellowknife earlier this year. In 750 flying hours, the RCAF located his plane, but there was no sign of Bourassa.

Not all searches are for Canadians. For instance, this summer RCAF aircraft scoured the northern Saskatchewan Lake country for some days for two Wisconsin fishermen, subsequently found by a United States aircraft which joined the hunt.

Search and rescue maintains rescue co-ordination centres at Halifax, Trenton, Ont., Winnipeg, Edmonton and Vancouver. They employ special planes, including seaplanes, Canso, Norsemen and helicopters.

Doctors, Patients, Hospitals Complain About Health Plan

Frankfurt, Nov. 2 — (AP) West Germany's socialized health - insurance system is under fire from all sides.

Doctors, patients and hospitals — all are complaining.

The doctors, in recent annual convention, charged the insurance system is exploiting physicians and recommended a one-day strike in protest against the low fees doctors are paid.

The patients complain they are not getting adequate treatment. They object to the law's limit on the value of medicines which can be prescribed for them — 4.5 marks ($1.08) in a three-month period.

Hospitals complain that they are getting too little financial support from the boards which operate the huge system.

Even the boards are unhappy. They complained at a recent meeting that their resources are being drained by the rising sick rate — a 100-per-cent increase since 1932. They claim they can not maintain reserve funds to combat epidemics.

Germany's social insurance dates back to 1884 when Prince Otto Von Bismarck, the "Iron chancellor," initiated it.

Today about 14,000,000 people in West Germany — nearly one-third of the population — are insured. They pay 2,100,000,000 marks ($500,000,000) a year.

Every worker earning less than 375 marks ($89.25) a month must belong and pay two per cent of his salary into the fund.

Doctors are paid according to the number of insured patients registered with them. The doctor's fee is 3.5 marks (80 cents) every three months for each insured patient.

Medicines and hospital expenses theoretically are covered by the insurance. But if a doctor prescribes more than the allotted amount, he may find himself having to pay for the excess.

Said Churchill Is Concocting Bitter Pill

London, Nov. 2 — (Reuters) — Winston Churchill, who asked and got a doctor's mandate to remedy Britain's economic ills, is concocting a bitter pill, it was learned last night.

Sources close to the 77-year-old Prime Minister said last night he will brace the country for fresh hardships and sacrifices when parliament meets next week.

They said he plans to confront Labor— now the opposition party in the House of Commons — with an immediate debate on the looming financial crisis.

The Conservative government will announce the measures it proposes to close the gap between Britain's income and the expenditures required for foreign purchases.

Waste in government departments will be the first objective of Churchill's curative program. But an even more urgent problem will be the trade gap, now running at more than $1,680,000,000 a year.

Though Britain has a bigger dollar reserve than she had in 1946; it is dwindling at an alarming rate. Churchill's government is pledged to pursue the £4,700,000,000 rearmament program, which involves large imports from abroad.

Go See It . . For an Inspiration!

You ought to go and look at a Cadillac. You ought to walk around it and look at it from every angle—and you ought to open the door and get in and sit down.

You ought to slide over behind the wheel and look out over that jewel-like dash into the wonderful, exciting beyond.

And you ought to do this, whatever the car you own today—and whatever the car you expect to own.

For it will lift up your spirits and give you an inspiring picture of all that is meant by superb automotive craftsmanship.

Yes—it's an inspiration just to see it. You look at those beautiful, flowing lines—and you can't escape the conviction that Cadillac's artistry in metals is unsurpassed in all the world.

You look at the wonderful fabrics that tailor the seats and cushions—and you realize that Cadillac is unapproached for sumptuous luxury and faultless dignity.

You look at the flawless execution of every structural detail—and you recognize the undoubted fact that Cadillac craftsmanship is in a class by itself.

But your greatest inspiration is yet to come. You ask the attendant on the display room floor to give you the price of the lowest-priced Cadillac model—and you find that it's within the means of a broad range of discriminating Canadian families.

Where else, in all the world—you ask yourself—could there be such a blending of luxury and practicality? And the answer, of course, is—"nowhere." Cadillac, and only Cadillac, has so much to offer.

Since you're coming in to see the car, we won't try to tell you too much about it. But come with your hopes set high.

For here is the new standard for the automotive world. It is new in beauty, in comfort, in luxury and in performance.

We'll be looking for you—some day soon.

Two Wheelsmen Say Mechanism Became Locked

Buffalo, N.Y., Nov. 2. (AP)—Two wheelsmen from the freighter Pennsylvania told a coroner's jury last night's disastrous collision and fire in Buffalo harbor, said yesterday the vessel's steering mechanism had become locked on two occasions during the last three years.

The men testified at a board of inquiry hearing into the collision between the Penobscot and a gasoline barge being pushed by a tug.

Ten seamen apparently lost their lives in the resulting explosion and fire. Three bodies have been recovered and seven men are missing, six from the tug, the Dauntless, and one from the barge, the Montale-130.

Capt. Thomas S. Sorenson of the Dauntless testified earlier that the Penobscot swung to the right of its course just before the collision. He said otherwise he might have slipped the Dauntless and the barge past the bow of the freighter.

But the captain of the barge, Lars Stromsland, told the board that he observed no change in the course of either the Penobscot or the tug and barge between the time he saw the freighter and the time of the collision.

Samuel C. Lewis, 46, is a former living near Kars, Ontario. Born on a neighbouring farm, he was educated in a rural school and married Margaret Hyland, also of Kars. They have an 11-year-old daughter, Joan. Mr. Lewis has a 100-acre farm and 20 head of cattle. He ships milk to Ottawa. A brother lives in London, Ontario, and another brother and a sister in Ottawa.

*MR. SAMUEL C. LEWIS...

Do you own your farm, Mr. Lewis?
Yes. I took over it from my mother about 25 years ago.

Do you like farming?
Yes. I sure wouldn't be at it if I didn't.

Do you believe in saving?
Oh, yes.

How do you save?
Mainly by Canada Savings Bonds. I buy several every time they are on sale.

Why do you buy these Bonds?
I can lay my hand on them whenever I need money.

Why do you prefer them to other forms of investment?
I consider them safest. I could invest my money in other ways that would bring in more at greater risk, but I want to be sure of a safe investment and a steady revenue.

Have you cashed any of the Canada Savings Bonds you bought?
Yes. I did once because I needed some extra money to buy a new tractor.

How do you pay for the Bonds?
When they're on sale, I take what spare money I have from my bank account and buy the bonds outright.

Do you plan to buy some more this Fall?
Yes.

NOW BETTER THAN EVER

Odd Fellows Install Officers For Coming Year

The officers who will take care of the interests of the Tweed lodge during the coming year are as follows: Junior Past Grand, F. Mitchell, Noble Grand, Earl Graham, Vice Grand E. Clarke, Recording Secretary, Leo Taylor, Financial Secretary, Heath Jones, Treasurer, William Woods, Warden, Wilber Bateman, Conductor, Arthur Albert, Outside Guardian, Harold Foster, Inside Guardian, Earl York, R.S. N.G., M. Bush, L.S.N.G., N. Countryman, R.S.V.G., Harry Leal, L.S.V.G., S. Eaton, R.S.S. C. Pack; L.S.S., Norman Thompson, Chaplain, J. Sager.

Other members of the installing staff were District Deputy Grand Marshal, J. E. Bridel, D.D.G. Secretary, J. Atkinson, D.D.G. Financial Secretary, E. Dooker, D.D.G. Treasurer, W. Hill and D.D.G. Warden E. Leigh.

During the course of the evening Mr. Naylor presented Junior past grand jewels to Fred Mitchell, retiring noble grand, and to J. Sager, retiring recording secretary. The two members thanked the D.D.G.M. for his very kind remarks and also thanked the Tweed lodge for supplying these jewels.

A lovely banquet arranged by L. Clarke and his committee with the assistance of several Rebekah ladies, was thoroughly enjoyed by all present and a social half-hour brought the evening to a close.

Celebrate Anniversary

On Sunday, November 4, St. John's United Church of Tweed will celebrate its 59th anniversary with special services in the morning at 11 a.m. and in the evening at 7 p.m. The guest speaker for the day will be the former moderator of the United Church of Canada, Right Rev. Jesse H. Arrang, B.A., B.D., Toronto. Special music has been prepared by the senior and junior choirs with H. S. Connor conducting and Fred Porter at the organ.

Gabag Overseas

Howard Long, son of Mr. and Mrs. Ed Long of Tweed, is presently located with the Royal Canadian Signals and Royal Canadian Engineers at Barrierfield but expects to leave with the 27th Brigade for Hamburg, Germany, shortly after the 1st of November.

Howard joined the army in May, 1951, and has been at Barrierfield ever since. He took a course as an armour artificer in connection with heavy artillery.

Service during the Second World War saw him overseas with the 4th Canadian Armoured Brigade workshop. He was quite badly injured when his motorcycle was involved in an accident in England. Upon discharge he was sent to his home in Tweed.

His wife, the former Ramona Lindeman, and their two children will remain in Belleville.

Sunday School Lesson of the Week

Moses Could Not Forget

BY ROY L. SMITH

Modern business methods and efficiency experts place great emphasis on the importance of memory. Magazines and newspapers advertise "memory courses" that are guaranteed to improve one's rating at the office and increase the probabilities of advancement. But all memories are not good. Some things ought to be forgotten.

Choose What to Remember

The greatness of many a man has consisted of his skill in remembering the things that ought to be remembered. The weakness of many a failure is to be found in the fact that he remembered a great many things that should never have been perpetuated.

Elizabeth Fry was never able to forget the sight of those wretched prisoners she saw in the English jail, and British prison reform resulted. Abraham Lincoln was never quite able to get out of his mind that slave block on which he saw a negro girl sold in the city of New Orleans, and eventually emancipation resulted. William Booth could not dismiss the memory of the "lost souls" of London's east side, and the Salvation Army came into existence.

Moses Had Security

Moses' brush with the Egyptian police and his escape to the desert had seemed to be very successful. It was not likely that Pharaoh would ever call upon Jethro to extradite the fugitive, and even if he did the old desert sheik was not likely to turn his son-in-law over to his pursuers.

If security had been all Moses wanted out of life he could probably have died in peace at a ripe old age, for his "old days" as a prince in the house of Egypt were also half a century behind him. He had learned to sleep at night.

Moses Has Memories

As Moses tended the flocks of Jethro (to which he might some day succeed as owner) he found himself contending with his memories. The sight of slaves swarming like flies, and dying the same way, annoyed him. He could not dismiss them. And he thought that he—the refugee — ought to do something about them.

He could watch an old ram browsing contentedly on the bitter desert grass and he could at the same time remember the glories that had been his and the beaten miserables whose agonies cried out for vengeance. When it dawned upon him that there was a great difference between himself and the ram he believed that the God of Sinai, of whom Jethro had told him, had revealed it to him. For that difference he could find but one explanation. That God breathed into his nostrils the breath of life and man became a living soul." There could be no other.

That meant that Moses had to do something about it. It was not enough that he felt sorry for the poor wretches; it was not enough that his soul revolted against the brutality of Pharaoh. It was not enough that the people were to blame for not striking out for their own liberties. Moses' memories demanded that he take action.

In the Name of God

No man ever strikes more effectively against any evil than when he strikes in the name of God.

"He has the strength of ten men, whose cause is just," is the proverb we get it. In Moses' case, the strength of the Creator of the universe was arrayed against the mercenaries of Egypt. In such a case the outcome was a foregone conclusion.

The greatest weakness with which Moses had to contend was the fact that the Hebrew slaves knew nothing about Moses' God. They had grown up in ignorance of all religious faith, and in the hour of their extremity had no great convictions upon which to fall back.

No leader suffers a greater handicap than when he undertakes to lead those who do not believe in God or themselves.

On Saturday afternoon a Belleville bantam all-star team will travel to Picton to play the return game between these two centres. Belleville won the first game by a score of 4-0.

Campaign Workers Redouble Efforts to Speed up Canvass

As contributions passed the half-way mark in the campaign for the minimum objective of $20,000 Red Feather campaign workers were redoubling their efforts to speed up the canvass. Many citizens have assisted materially by sending in their contributions to community chest headquarters.

Workers have reported inability to reach numbers of people after two and three calls. It is expected that at the weekend these persons, most of whom would be generous subscribers, will be contacted. Captains have been urged to be in touch with their workers before night fall Friday to obtain returns which workers have not found it possible to report, in most instances, these workers prefer to keep on the job of collecting rather than taking time out to report their success.

At a late hour this morning, the special names total amounted to $5,686; the general canvass $3,268; and the employees contributions were $1,120. Over 1,200 subscribers have contributed a total of $10,014.

Thorn Blooms As Elizabeth Visits U.S. Capital

Washington, Nov. 2 — (AP) — At thorn tree said by tradition to date back to the days of Christ and to bloom when royalty is near has put forth four blossoms with Princess Elizabeth here.

The tree is Washington, Cathedral's Glastonbury Thorn. That tree, according to legend, grew from the staff of Joseph of Arimathea, the man who took Christ down from His cross. Joseph is said to have gone to the British Isles, and, where Glastonbury now stands, to have thrust his staff into the ground to claim the isles for Christ. The staff, the story goes, took root, and grew into the Glastonbury Thorn.

In the middle ages it became custom to pluck a bloom from the revered tree when royalty came near, and present the flower in a silver box.

Canon Charles Maffitt, headmaster of St. Alban's School at Washington Cathedral, an Episcopal church, told the Washington Post the cathedral thorn had three blooms when royalty visited Washington. Other times, it is said, it blooms only at Christmas.

The princess and the Duke of Edinburgh visited the cathedral today and Princess Elizabeth received a bloom from the famous thorn, in a tiny silver box.

Montreal Woman Not Guilty Of Manslaughter

Peterborough, Nov. 2—(CP)—A Peterborough county jury early today found Gladys Long, 43, of Montreal and Lindsay innocent of manslaughter in the traffic death last June 9 of 10-year-old David Sanderson of Smith Township.

But on charges of dangerous driving and failing to remain at the scene of an accident, she was found guilty. Miss Long will be sentenced next Tuesday.

The verdict was reached at 2:15 a. m., after the jury had been out 6 1/4 hours.

Miss Long accepted the verdict with no sign of emotion. She was taken to the women's cells.

The three charges arose from a fatal hit-and-run accident about 11½ miles west of Peterborough.

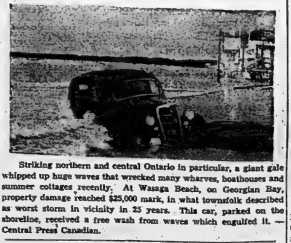
Peter Newmaster, 9, was also pushing a bicycle some distance behind David. He was either bruised in the ground or fell and did not see the car strike his companion.

There were no eye witnesses to the accident.

Miss Long said she did not see the boys on the hill because she was watching an oncoming car.



"As I met the car I felt a bump and heard a noise. I drove over the hill and heard a flapping sound. So I began to look for a place to stop."

Britain Cracks Down on Egyptian Boycott

Carrying banners demanding the boycotting of British goods, Egyptian demonstrators are seen driving through the streets of Cairo. Recalling that several countrymen were killed in recent riots, the parsders announces each plaster sent is "a bullet in heart of an Egyptian." Britain cracked down on another boycott campaign intended to deprive her of all Egyptian labor in the Suez Canal zone by arresting Egyptian police captain Lufti el Kholi who threatened death to workers if they remained on the job. — Central Press Canadian.

Ontario Summer Resorts Hit by Lashing Gale

Striking northern and central Ontario in particular, a giant gale whipped up huge waves that wrecked many wharves, boathouses and summer cottages recently. At Wasaga Beach, on Georgian Bay, property damage reached $25,000 mark, in what townsfolk described as worst storm in vicinity in 25 years. This car, parked on the shoreline, received a free wash from waves which engulfed it. — Central Press Canadian.

Winter Weather Hits U.S. Areas

Chicago, Nov. 2. (AP)—Snow and cold hit wide areas of the United States today, snapping a spell of mid-autumn mildness.

There was lots of snow—in the northeast, the midwest, the Rocky Mountain region and in Texas. Falls in some areas were the heaviest on record for so early in the season.

The cold weather was extensive—from the Rockies to the New England States and south into Texas. Not much warming was in prospect.

A snow storm which moved up the Atlantic coast from Canada left six inches of light snow at Denver. The blanket of white spread as far east as Dodge City, Kas., which reported a fall of three inches.

There were sub-zero readings in midwest regions—the Dakotas and Minnesota. Readings were 10-15 above zero during the day near the Canadian border and in the 20s and low 30s in the Central Plains States.

The coldest spot was in Montana. The Weather Bureau at Helena said thermometers dipped to 29 below at Summit in Glacier National Park. The snow measured 35 inches.

Colder in Ontario

Toronto. (CP)—Snow fell around Ontario last night and the weatherman said more is on the way.

Northern and western Ontario got flurries. Clear Creek, east of Sudbury, was one of the few southwestern Ontario centres to see snow.

About an inch fell on Sudbury last night and North Bay had a trace.

Thermometers in Toronto hovered around the freezing point but the temperature went much lower in other parts of Ontario.

Coldest on Record

Sault Ste. Marie, (CP)—The coldest Nov. 3 on record here—the temperature dropped to 14 above—has been blamed today for ruining most Algoma district grain and potato crops, and for traffic accidents which injured 29 below at Summit in Glacier National Park. The snow measured 35 inches.

Losses running into thousands of dollars have been suffered by farmers. Thursday's snow and cold wiped out crops which farmers could not harvest earlier because of heavy rain.

Farmers said today there is no chance of harvesting potatoes this year.

GIVEN BABY ELEPHANT

Los Angeles, Nov. 2 — (AP)— A California boy returned from India yesterday with a pet that will make him the envy of every kid in his neighborhood — a baby elephant given to him by the Maharajah of Mysore. Joey Maxmore 14, of Montebello, arrived by plane with the 220 - pound elephant. Joey is a television actor who accompanied a crew to India. The boy and the rich Indian ruler became friends.

Manitoba Sugar Beet Crop Reaches All-Time High Mark; Farmers to get $2,625,000

Winnipeg, Nov. 2—((CP)—The first bag of sugar produced from beets in Manitoba said at auction for $2,000.

That was 11 years ago. This years more than 1,000 growers in the province will receive $2,625,000 for their crops.

The province's only processing plant—a $1,000,000 structure at Fort. Garry—expects to extract sugar from a record 170,000 tons of beets before it shuts down for the year early next January.

Since harvesting began six weeks ago, belly mechanical pickers and strong-backed laborers have plucked the sweet crop from almost 30,000 acres planted last spring. Sugar output should reach 44,000,000 pounds compared with last year's record of 25,000,000 pounds.

Manitoba's first sugar beet crop dates back at least 80 years when the provincial government harvested small experimental plots. Up-to-date sugar marketing during two world wars to persuade government officials and farmers that the industry had a future.

The Canadian sugar beet industry is scattered in four provinces—Alberta, Manitoba, Ontario and Quebec. Alberta yields are considerably above the other provinces' partly because beets are grown on irrigated land.

Alberta's crop this year is expected to be 480,000 tons from 306,840 acres planted. Ontario has the next highest crop with 347,000 tons expected from 31,550 acres.

Manitoba is third followed by Quebec which reports 10,000 acres sown and an exported crop of 1,100,000 tons.

In Manitoba the processing plants makes individual contracts with growers—according to the company's needs.

Based on Sugar For Test

Payment is based on the amount of sugar per ton. Last year's growers received an all-time high of $15.30 but will get less this year because sugar content was lessened by late September frosts.

Like all farmers, sugar beet growers are prey to hosts of parasites and unpredictable weather. Sugar was released to western Canada in 1942 when a cutworm infestation dropped beet sugar production by 10,000 pounds.

The sugar beet webworm—a small caterpillar—sucks the juice from beets, leaving in lower sugar content. Growers have often plowed under fields mauled by flying insects.

Growers have had to harvest crops from their fields when the ground was felt suddenly. Last year Manitoba floods delayed harvesting. There is usually a severe shortage of labor for harvesting. One great handicap this season has been the large amount of mud lifted, with beets which required extra washing.

Weather is the main reason why no sugar beets are grown in Saskatchewan. Beets require up to 20 inches of rain and a good testing crop has never been built.

Sugar beets are not grown in British Columbia due to competition from cane sugar growers. Good port facilities would make the industry unprofitable.

By-products from sugar beets produce an added source of income to farmers. Tops make excellent feed for cattle fattening. Sugar beet molasses is fed to show cattle to provide better glaze to coats.

The only opportunity U.N. air forces in Korea have to strike at red air power mustered in Asia is the few fleeting seconds when enemy jets dart within range of U.N. plane guns.

More than a half-year of fighting the MIG15, fewer than 100 are known definitely to have been destroyed. Against this is the fact that the number of these carefully piloted warplanes is equal to the best of U.S. fighters, is estimated at between 600 and 800. They are based on Manchurian air fields.

The MIG15 is known to have advised the United Nations that if such warplanes cross the enemy or ground forces in Korea occur, the prohibition against striking into the Manchurian sanctuary should be lifted.

Some air strategists are in the upsurge of red air activity in Korea a definite indication that the first step toward such air attack on ground troops may be in the making.

'RADIO-ACTIVE JOE' THINKS A-TEST 'NOT SO BAD'

First U.S. Infantrymen Taught Atom's Power

Las Vegas, Nev., Nov. 2 (AP) —Radio-active Joe, America's first atomic foot soldier, brushed himself off, gritted his chattering teeth and creeped.

That—if United States spokesmen are correct—might be the consensus of the pioneer troops to shock troops take in exercise Desert Rock yesterday.

Joe's own story of life with the A-bomb is slated to be told in part at a press conference today. A dozen or more front-line soldiers will tell what it was like to be within 10 miles of the powerful blast, which broke store windows 25 miles away.

Today four correspondents who witnessed the historic manoeuvre issued a statement saying tactical atomic weapons, if delivered accurately and used in sufficient numbers, can give troops a sledge-hammer advantage.

Politicians' Present

Representatives Melvin Price (Dem., Ill.), Charles Elston (Rep., Ohio), Carl Hinshaw (Rep., Calif.) and Chet Holifield (Dem., Calif.), members of the Atomic Energy Committee, said:

"We were impressed by the finite (limited) nature of a single atomic blast. The explosion yesterday morning could not by itself have performed military miracles. To attain decisive results on the battlefield we would need massed atomic firepower, just as we have always needed massed conventional firepower.

"In talking to the troops about their reaction, we gained the impression that they developed both a healthy respect for the power of atomic force and a sense of confidence that they can use it effectively against an enemy and combat its use against themselves."

Fair 30 Miles Away

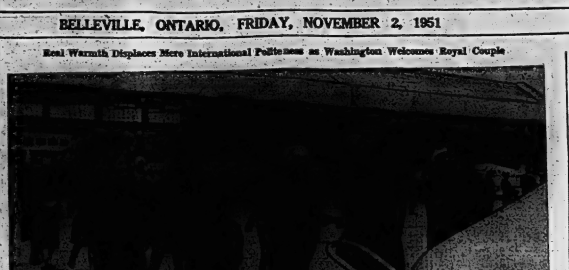
There is little doubt that radio-active Joe "had it" yesterday. Although he was well protected, hunched low in scientific observation areas in the hills surrounding the Yucca Flat test site, you can imagine what the blast must have been to his position. Reporters 30 miles away said their building was whipped by the blast.

This fourth detonation in the A.E.C.'s test series was of course but less spectacular than the third one Tuesday. Plane-dropped, it burst at less than 1,000 feet.

The A.E.C. reported above-normal radiation in the area, but said it was not enough to be considered harmful to humans, animals, crops or water supplies.

Air Commanders To Revise Tactics In Korean War

Washington, Nov. 2 (AP) — Out of a conference of top United States Air Force commanders may come a revision of tactics to deal with the now-dangerous communist air force in Korea.



The presence at the meeting of Lt.-Gen. Otto Weyland, chief of Far Eastern Air Forces made it evident that the gathering had high priority in the discussions.

Should a new effort be made to lift the ban on bombing red air bases in Manchuria from which the Soviet-manufactured MIG-15 jets fighters are slashing at allied bombers and fighters operating over Korea?

The question is a touchy one which air force officials prefer to discuss only in private and among themselves—remembering what happened to one advocate of the plan, Gen. Douglas MacArthur.

Convention Told Highway Systems Are Inadequate

Toronto, Nov. 2—CP—Military and civilian roads were discussed today by delegates to the 32nd annual convention of the Canadian Good Roads Association.

Brig. R.W. Love, commander of the northwest highway system—the famous Alaska highway—told the convention that present highway systems in Canada are inadequate for war conditions. He said the threat of atomic bombing made by-passes around principal cities essential.

Maj. R. R. Young, senior highway superintendent of the northwest system, said that the Alaska highway is "of great strategic value to Canada" and is "a vital means of opening up and developing the vast wealth of northern British Columbia and the Yukon."

Vast distances through uninhabited territory, extreme winter cold and mountainous terrain make it one of the most difficult roads in the world to maintain, he said.

On the civilian front, R. B. Baillie, director of traffic safety for the Manitoba highways department spoke of the Manitoba program of "better education and stricter laws" that has reduced accidents in the province by 25 per cent between August 1950 and August this year.

Every driver in Manitoba is scored on a point system for accidents and traffic convictions and at eight points the driver must come in for clinical instruction or lose his licence. He said the system permits concentration on the 20 per cent of drivers responsible for 80 per cent of the accidents.

Might Be Continuous Stream

Brig. Love said that military traffic in a war might be a continuous stream of heavy vehicles travelling for days of weeks without cessation. To prepare for this he said, Canada required highways that by civilian and peacetime standards appear grossly uneconomical.

He urged standardization of road standards between provinces to aid military planning, and asked for detailed information on road and bridge capacities, river widths and other necessary facts for planning.

Maj. Young said that the Alaska highway was not a permanent road when Canada took it over from U.S. army engineers in 1946. Most of the bridges and 8,000 culverts were untreated timber and many sections of the road had to be relocated to escape bad grades or permafrost.

Equipment and men must be moved hundreds of miles to attend to any break in the road. He estimated that reconstruction of the road would be necessary every three or four years.

Hunter Hitches Duck Decoy To Live Carp

Rock Island, Ill., Nov. 2 (AP) —A decoy hitched to a live carp is a new duck hunting wrinkle uncovered in this area.

Harold Knight, Rock Island County conservation officer, said he was informed of the new stunt by a federal officer. The officer said a duck hunter approached him in Illinois River duck hunting region and asked if the stunt is legal. The officer said it is legal as far as he knows.

Hunting from a pond, the ingenious hunter puts through the carp's gills a harness that is attached to the decoy. The carp is small enough that it doesn't pull the decoy under water.

The device is limited to use in small areas, if it was used on an open body of water, the carp probably would pull the decoy out of range and out of sight.

Hunters have been trying to fashion fetching decoys since live decoys were outlawed several years ago.

Future Queen Made Two Outfits Do During Day

Washington, Nov. 2 (AP)—The future queen of Britain demonstrated yesterday that a woman can make a costume carry her through a hectic day of business and pleasure.

No woman could have been stared at more or commented upon more than the 25-year-old heir presumptive to the British throne. And she knew in advance it would happen.

Yet Elizabeth, when she got up yesterday morning, put on sleek blue figured silk frock with matching coat and hat and made it do until she changed into a turquoise and cream brocade evening frock for the dinner she and her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, gave in honor of President and Mrs. Truman.

Accompanied by the Duke and Margaret Truman, Elizabeth went to Mount Vernon, visited Arlington Cemetery, received Commonwealth diplomatic representatives, lunched with the Trumans, and received nearly 2,000 guests at a reception.

She did it all in the same dress with an occasional refreshing from her powder puff and bright lipstick.

The big British Embassy reception, arranged by the British Ambassador and his wife, Sir Oliver and Lady Franks, was acclaimed by guest after guest as one of the best-organized big parties ever held in Washington.

This town is used to big receptions, and guests take in grumbling stride slow-moving receiving lines, delays in getting drinks, wraps, cars and taxis.

But so carefully was every detail worked out before hand at the British Embassy that there were no bottlenecks, even though it was the largest party ever held at the Embassy.

Increases Will Add $45,000,000 To Railway Bill

Ottawa, Nov. 2 (CP)—Freight-rate increases that would add about $45,000,000 a year to the nation's transportation bill are being sought by the railways.

For several months, the carriers have been looking for an increase that would give them 7½ per cent of this amount, and yesterday they filled with the Board of Transport Commissioners a new application calling for a boost of about 10 per cent over existing rates.

Hearings on the new applications are expected to begin before the board Nov. 12, the date it has set for taking evidence on the companies earlier application for a smaller rate increase.

The new application involves a rate jump of between five and six per cent above what already was before the board.

The railways applied originally several months ago for a five-per-cent increase to cover "the higher cost of a wage boost for employees last year, and one of between 14 and 15 per cent to cover higher expenses for a short work week resulting from the recent wage settlement with the unions.

The board granted a straight 12-per-cent boost in July and set Nov. 12 as the date for fuller hearings on the question of whether the temporary July decision should be continued or changed.

In the new application, the railways asked that the original request for a 14-15 per cent increase be extended to one of 17-18 per cent to take care of the 30-per-cent "defence surcharge" on income tax that the federal government put into effect last spring in its budget.

BURNS TO DEATH

Toronto, Nov. 2 (CP)—Joseph Hickey, 22, was burned to death early today in his bed in a rooming house. Firemen said he apparently fell asleep smoking a cigaret.

Arab Middle East Folk Demand Land Redistribution, Say Landlords too Greedy

Cairo, Nov. 2 (AP)—Cries for land reform are being heard in the Arab Middle East.

The demands are opposed by the big landowners in the area, who own the most and the best of the land.

The result may be an open clash some day. There already have been skirmishes.

There is widespread poverty, ignorance and disease here. There are Moscow-trained agitators, too working skilfully and secretly to capitalize on the discontent.

A United Nations economic survey of the Middle East, issued as a preliminary section of a 1949-50 world economic report, states the problem in a nutshell.

Absentee Landlords

Excepting Israel, Jordan, Lebanon and Turkey, it said:

"A large proportion of the cultivated land is held by large—generally absentee—landowners. Thus in Egypt 12,000 landowners hold 26 percent of the cultivated area while 2,600,000 small farmers own only 33 percent.

In Iran, Iraq and Egypt, the rural estates take a big cut of the available land for cultivation. There have been a few scattered gestures in which plots of Crown land were distributed to the landless peasant, but this has only scratched the surface.

But the call for land reform is being heard the loudest in Syria.

Syria's new constitution provides that ownership of agricultural lands be restricted to 100 hectares (247 acres) of irrigated land a person or 500 hectares of un-irrigated land.

A bill to translate this into law is before the parliament, but as in most Arab countries, the parliament is dominated by the landowners. When the land bill came up for debate, the landowners boycotted the sessions and there was no quorum.

Socialists Active

The Arab socialist party in Syria recently called an "anti-feudalism" rally in Aleppo, attended by thousands of peasants. Several open clashes have been reported in Syria between peasants and landowners.

Egypt banned a similar meeting of Egyptian Fellahin (peasants) called by Communists in Cairo. The leader of the party was arrested for questioning.

Even those who do own or rent small pieces of land in the Middle East do poorly. Cash rents are high. So is the interest rate for rural money lent over to the landlord on shares.

Interest rates higher than 100 percent annually may be charged by village moneylenders who sell fertilizer. Thus most small landowners are constantly in debt.

Labor Minister Says Plan Pays Highest Benefits

Toronto, Nov. 2 — (CP) Ontario's workmen's compensation plan provides the highest benefits of any workmen's plan in the world, Labor Minister Daley said today.

In an address prepared for delivery during a cornerstone ceremony marking the official start of construction of a five - storey headquarters for the Ontario Workmen's Compensation Board, he said:

"I know the Ontario (compensation) act is most generous. It is a non-contributory accident insurance act, administered by a government - appointed board. It is supported by a tax on production without giving unfair advantage to competitive areas and without extinguishing free endeavor."

MISSIONARY RELEASED

Montreal, Nov. 2 (CP)—Mrs. Stewart Allen, wife of a Canadian medical missionary imprisoned by the Chinese communists, said today her husband has been released and will return home soon.

Mrs. Allen said she received a telegram yesterday from Margaret Brown of the United Church Mission in Hong Kong saying her husband had been released and was expected in Hong Kong. He has been a prisoner in Chungking.

EDEN WILL TRY TO RESOLVE EGYPT IMBROGLIO

Will Hold Paris Parley On Suez, Sudan Row

Cairo, Nov. 2—(CP)—Foreign Minister Salah El Din Pasha will meet Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden of Britain in Paris soon to discuss the Anglo-Egyptian crisis, a foreign-ministry spokesman said today.

He said "no negotiations proper will take place there," but added that Salah El Din will tell Eden what Egypt's attitude will be before the cancellation of the Anglo-Egyptian treaty."

Foreign Minister Zafrullah Khan of Pakistan yesterday offered his services in the dispute, which arose out of Egypt's abrogation of an Anglo-Egyptian treaty allowing Britain to station forces along the Suez Canal and another accord giving British joint control of the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan.

Blockade Reported

Meanwhile, Egypt claimed a partial British blockade had been clamped on her oil supply.

Interior Minister Fouad Serag El Din said British forces, operating from bastions along the canal zone, had stopped movies, had halted overland oil shipments into Cairo. Gasoline and kerosene were still being moved by pipeline, but rail and road shipments were stopped.

(Reuters News Agency reported that a British military spokesman denied that oil supplies to Cairo had been cut. The spokesman said the pipeline to the capital was still carrying gasoline supplies, and that a fleet of road tankers was in operation after being stopped for two or three days for "security reasons.")

World Starve Eyed

An embargo at the British-held oil heads at Port Suez would starve Egypt of heavy industrial fuel within a few days and might lead to "troubles and revolution," the interior minister said.

At the same time, implied censure of Egypt's refusal to join in a middle-east defence pact was criticized in the opposition weekly newspaper Akher Lahza.

It said the other Arab states, "finding themselves hardly prepared for any real defence against foreign invasion, possibly "have decided to make an attempt whereby they may secure the far reinforcements of the armies."

"It will not be long before we realize what we should really condemn and censure," the paper said, adding: "We should not blame the statesmen of other Arab countries if they decide to consider such proposals which should ensure the full independence and sovereignty of such states."

Government Hit

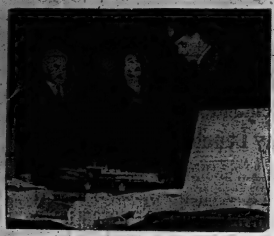
The government also came under fire from the Kotla party, which splintered from the Wafdist eight years ago.



The independent newspaper Al Ahram quoted a Kotla demand that Egypt denounce British occupation of the Suez area and the Sudan with these "positive actions" to follow: severance of diplomatic relations with Britain; dismissal of the British governor-general of the Sudan; abolition of the British Sudan agency in Cairo; and nationalization of the Suez canal "a fact and not by law only."

Al Ahram also reported that the diplomatic ministers of Egypt's allister Arab states had refused to meet in Cairo to discuss Egypt's refusal of the western defence invitation.

WETS WIN VOTE

Campbellford, Nov. 2 (CP)— This Canadian Pacific town, dry for 40 years, yesterday voted overwhelmingly for a liquor store and a beer outlet. A heavy poll showed 1,162 in favor of a liquor store and 611 against. On the brewers' warehouse question, 1,146 voted for it and 627 against. In the last plebiscite on the liquor question, held May 29, 1946, Campbellford remained dry by a narrow margin.

Royal Tourists Charmed by Canada's Largest City

Enthusiasm of Montreal crowds set back royal schedule one hour as Princess Elizabeth and Duke of Edinburgh carried out a 14-hour-day program, highlighted by a visit to McGill University and University of Montreal, two mammoth gatherings of school children in Molson Stadium and visit to an aircraft plant. Climax of the eventful day was a full-scale state dinner attended by 1,300 citizens. During their stay in Montreal, royal couple visited Canada's largest shipyard, where the Duke showed a sailor's interest in this model ship, while Princess Elizabeth's glance strayed more than once to large group in attendance. — Central Press Canadian.

ROCKY'S "PRESENT" REALLY HIT HOME

Brig. J. M. Rockingham, commander of 25th Canadian Infantry Brigade Group in Korea, took great pleasure in personally delivering a "present" to enemy troops on the other side of no-man's-land. The gift, the 100,000th shell to be fired by the 2nd Regiment, Royal Canadian Horse Artillery, bore an sentimental message, "Present from Rocky, 2 R.C.H.A., 100,000 round." The gun crew, seen left to right: Bdr. Paul Cloutier, Kingston, Ont.; Gnr. Ira Childs, Lark Harbor, Newfoundland; Brig. Rockingham; L-Bdr. Del Johnson, Winnipeg, Man.; Gnr. Earl Dolson, London, Ont.; and Sgt. E. M. Evoy, Carleton Place, Ont., scored a direct hit on an enemy position. — Central Press Canadian.

Captain, Helmsman, Heroes of Marine Disaster

Among the thousands who gathered at Buffalo waterfront to view spectacular blast, top, when freighter "Penobscot" collided with a gasoline barge, loaded with 2,500,000 gallons of gasoline, were many Canadians who saw the glow from across the border. Above, spectators view bodies of two of the 17 victims of accident, worst marine disaster in Buffalo waterfront history. Captain Louis Guyette of the Penobscot and his helmsman, Roy Richardson, 56, both of Fort Huron, Mich., died heroes' deaths when they remained in the pilot house and pulled the freighter away from the side of the flaming barge. The stern of the vessel piled into a pier allowing five of the 30-man crew to slide down a rope to safety. — Central Press Canadian.

NEW REPORT CARDS

Toronto, Nov. 2 (CP) — Children in Toronto public schools will be competing with themselves on their report cards rather than with other children. ### SOMEONE NEW HAS BEEN ADDED TO U.N. TRUCE TEAM

For the first time since the new cease-fire talks were opened at Panmunjon, Korea, Maj. Gen. Howard M. Turner (second from left) makes his appearance as a member of the U.N. truce negotiating team. Gathered outside the conference tent are left to right, Rear Adm. Arleigh Burke; Gen. Turner; Vice Adm. Lee Hyung Keun, South Korean representative. After a week of fruitless talk, communists break the deadlock by making a "final" buffer zone proposal which approached that asked by the Allies. True to form, however, reds insisted on retaining Kaesong, which U.N. considers essential in guarding their military approaches to Seoul. — Central Press Canadian.

Labor Top Bottleneck in Canada's Financial Future

J. GERALD GODSOE ROBERT A. BRYCE

Shortage of manpower and materials are two "bug-bears" marring Canada's financial landscape, according to industrial leaders attending 32nd annual "business parliament" of Canadian Chamber of Commerce, in Quebec City. However, among others, J. Gerald Godsoe, president of Toronto Board of Trade, and Robert A. Bryce, Toronto financier, foresee a bright financial future for Canada if increased immigration and development of Dominion's minerals and oil continues at present rate. — Central Press Canadian Photos.

LUCK HOLDS GOOD

"But I guess he was fed up. He pulled his rifle from his pack and, without even stacking, snapped a shot at me. It hit me and I collapsed.

"In the meantime, the rest of the posse had left the creek and circled around behind the trapper. Less than a minute after the trapper shot Mr. Hersey, the posse killed.

"The bullet that had hit Mr. Hersey was a semi-nosed dumdum. It pierced his elbow, tore a hole in his chest, punctured his lung and started blood vessels hemorrhaging.

"Mr. Hersey said his first bit of luck, apart from not dying immediately, came in that Wilfred (Wop) May, famous northland flyer, had been overhead during the shooting, and was able to fly him to hospital at Aklavik within an hour.

"They say we are at the hospital they didn't think I was alive. But I was fortunate in having a very skilled surgeon to attend.

"He was Dr. (Doc) Urquart, a McGill graduate who had been appointed to Aklavik after some years of service in Hong Kong.

"When he saw me, he reached in through the hole in my chest, pulled out the broke arteries and tied them off.

"A man with less experience might have started probing for the bullet and I might have died to death.

"In the hospital bed the next day, I felt something on the sheet against my back. It was the bullet. It had lodged just underneath the skin against my back ribs."

FROST SAYS

In St. Catherines, Labor Minister Daley told a campaign gathering in his home riding of Lincoln that more of the Roach recommendations will be put into effect as soon as the province's administrative quarters in Toronto are enlarged.

Mr. Thomson told 200 Middlesex South residents that he will finance his hospital plan partly from forestry levies. His first move if elected would be to double stumpage dues. Any tax surplus would go to building lowrental houses, hospitals and mental institutions.

"We will not be robbing Northern Ontario, as Premier Frost likes to point out. It will be taking our money from the profits of the big paper companies."

Jolliffe Critical

At Sioux Lookout, Mr. Jolliffe again pledged his party, if elected, to liquidate the stockstarering racket in Ontario. He told a public meeting that the government "deliberately and knowingly" let a licensed ring of American and Canadian stockmen use Toronto as a base for illegal activities.

"The Frost government championed the stockstarers to sell their piratical promotions in Toronto. They can safely raid their very abroad, just as long as they behave themselves at home."

Tonight Premier Frost speaks at Oakville, near Toronto. Mr. Jolliffe broadcasts from Fort William. Mr. Thomson has an open date preparatory to heading north to Sudbury for a speech tomorrow.

STAY AT HOME

M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. leader, moved that the suspension feature be struck out, but his motion was ruled out of order on the grounds it would increase government spending—a power vested only with members of the federal cabinet.

Winning support from other opposition members, he suggested that an individual, once he had contributed to the pension, should be entitled to it regardless of where he lived.

The provision finally was approved.

As opposition members—and some Liberal supporters—urged that the increase be increased beyond $40, Mr. Martin cited pension figures in other countries to support his contention that Canada's scheme was the most generous in the world.

Stanley Knowles (CCF—Winnipeg North Centre), George Cruickshank (L—Fraser Valley) and F. D. Shaw (SC—Red Deer) said $40 a month wouldn't give the aged enough for a decent standard of living. Mr. Knowles wanted the figure set at $60.

Mr. Martin said it shouldn't be forgotten that the $40 payment was recommended by the parliamentary committee which studied the problem. And it never had been suggested that $40 a month was enough for a person to live on.

"Wish I could be flying bac' instead of trekking it out but man has to go home sometime 'ny wife must be worried sick.

"So long."

Vannier was struggling alor through the woods when rescuer found him.

Supplies were dropped to the pilot. As soon as he was sighted the good news was radioed back to North Bay.

Veteran pilots and bushmen said it was a miracle that Vannier survived his experience. He is believed to have had no food with him and temperatures dropped to 10 degrees above zero Wednesday night.

The pilot's father, Rod Vannier of Sturgeon Falls, had posted a $1,000 reward for his return. He said yesterday he would decide next week who would share the reward money.

TRUMAN'S

Elizabeth and Philip end their whirlwind U.S. visit at noon today after a brisk round of sightseeing and a call on the president. They were due at Montreal's Dorval airport at 3 p.m. on their way to a well-earned holiday in the Laurentian hills before touring the Maritime provinces.

They needed the break.

The Princess' first visit to the U.S. had an Alice-in-Wonderland flavor.

Like Indulgent Uncle

The head of the state acted more like an indulgent uncle than a busy man of affairs; photographers and reporters were as flitterbugs after stars. If she were a football hero; and her husband drew a Sinatra-like reaction from thousands of pretty girls.

Yesterday was one hectic round of activities from the time the royal couple left Blair House until the Canadian Embassy dinner wound up late in the evening.

A motorcycle escort whipped them at a mile-a-minute speed through the chill wind to Mount Vernon, where they visited the farmhouse where George Washington was born and the tombs of Washington and his wife Martha.

The Princess and the Duke joined in placing a wreath on the Washington tomb, then sped back to Arlington Cemetery to honor the tomb of the unknown soldier.

Next stop on their tight schedule was a reception at the Canadian Embassy—a small affair for representatives of Commonwealth countries.

High point of the day—and of Elizabeth's stay here as a princess of Canada—was the 2,000-guest reception at the British Embassy in the afternoon.

Glittering Affair

The capital's social lions and lionesses, along with a sprinkling of non-headline folks, turned out for the most glittering affair in many a moon.

"It was enchanting—perfectly enchanting!" was the breathless verdict of a leading authority—Mrs. Morris Cafritz, who ranks as Washington's No. 1 hostess.

Another guest, Mrs. Hiram Cole Houghton, president of the General Federation of Women's Clubs, said she didn't see how their Royal Highnesses did it:

"They were so casual and friendly that I couldn't help watching to see if they acted the same way with the next 200. They did. The Princess kept right on being sweet and the Duke had a personal word for everyone."

What She Wore

The Princess wore a turquoise and cream brocade evening gown with a diamond necklace and a diamond tiara. She wore a feather hat and open-toed black pumps. Philip had changed from his naval officer's uniform to a dark-blue civilian suit.

Margaret Truman, one of the early arrivals, wore a dark-blue frock under a mink cape and a small blue hat.

Last night's dinner for the president, Mrs. Truman and Margaret at the Canadian Embassy wound up the second day of the royal visit. There were only 18 persons around the table. The menu was pretty simple, considering the kind of affair it was: soup, lobster, lamb, peas, potatoes an apricot dessert and assorted fruits.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

"LOUIE" LETS LOOSE!

Mention the Ontario Baseball Association in Picton and a hush falls over the town's baseball-minded.

Mention it to one of the individuals associated with the Picton Baseball Club, and you might as well plan to spend a spot on the nearest hotel verandah, fight a stogy and relax, for you're there for at least an hour with nary a chance of getting in a word sideways, edgewise or fistwise.

The other day we were strolling down the main avenue in the little "Spanish Town" and inadvertently committed the unpardonable sin. We fully deserved what was coming, although it must be said it made interesting listening.

With the reportorial mind on the forthcoming speech by the Ontario Hydro Power Commission chairman R. H. Saunders, we went so far as to forget ourselves by greeting that five-foot-two scion of Picton energy, one Louis Yanover with the salutation, "What goes in baseball?"

Louis cleared the main stem between the Royal Hotel and his side of the street in two bounds. In fact two English sing-song mailer his legs in the second hop. His hair rose erect. His eyes carried the light of battle. The little fella was a bounding ball of fighting energy and as he slid to a stop in a cloud of dust, he yelled, "Listen, buddy, gain minutes!"

We slipped a nickel in the nearest parking meter, for we figured Louis would need that much coin when he went into argumentative, or rather oratorical action. He did.

It seems the Picton baseball club after relinquishing all hopes of getting anywhere in the Central Ontario Baseball League affiliated itself with the OBA, an organization which operates east of Trenton and flattens the provincial loops, leagues and teams; tells 'em what to do; what not to do, changes its mind and tells 'em what not to do, then what to do, and ends up by dishing out a lot of back-door championships.

Louis stopped a sidewalk rhumba to enquire, "We go four hundred in business in the hole — and we think does this (deleted by editor) OBA do. We get in the playdowns with Lindsay and each win a game. Lindsay refuses to pay us the regulation expenses, and what happens?

Louis let nothing until the small crowd had dispersed before continuing with Chapter Two. "I call the OBA. Wall, calls the OBA, we all call the OBA (he didn't say what). We are told to forget about it, don't do anything. Everything will be okay. It was. We waited. No word. Then the OBA acted. The next thing we read in the papers was that Lindsay had defeated some other team in the first game of the finals playoffs."

Louis boomed his big gravel. Fire streaked from his eyes. "Arnie we call the OBA. What happened? We are told we are out." (Time out Ed's for a brief war dance). "And us four hundred bucks in the hole". (Louie, my friend, that is no in community known in the best rueing hockey, baseball or American basketball circles, mere peanuts).

Asking Louie if he knew what happened Batawa, merely fanned the flame of his oratorical effort. "Batawa!" he exclaimed (Chief Biddle strolled by, and Louie put both feet on the ground checking another accent just in time).

"Of all the bloody — bloak — (fill in three blanks yourselves) in-and-out-again, off-again-on-again outfits in this entire in Toronto. Bowmanville quit, I'm told, three times. Batawa was kicked out and reinstated as many times and meanwhile they received word the day after they celebrated winning the intermediate "A" title, that they had to play the Shamrocs for the championship. I'm asking you, what kind of a run-around do you call this?"

It's just that, Louis m'boy. Did you know that the Gananoque "B" junior baseball team was ordered to play Shallow Lake, a village some 20 miles north of Owen Sound, a best-of-three finals series starting November 1st or thereabouts. Gananoque respectfully declined since the boys down thataway are not sufficiently expert in the art of chasing baseballs on frozen ponds.

"What should happen," went on Picton's mighty mite, "is that Eastern Ontario should form an overall baseball association of its own and let the OBA go fly its kite. (That segregation, we repeated, upheld most with unanimous approval in a lot of baseball quarters down in this neck of the woods.)

Louis took time out, with third down and one to go. He waited until his vocal cords had attained the proper state of contraction, and we figured we were at bat.

"Don't you think, Louis, that the Picton Baseball Club had had sufficient dealings with the OBA last year (1950) to warrant it leaving that august body to its own devices", we ventured. "Don't you think, Louis that you pushed out that champion of your club spine by entering the OBA playdowns, or did you? And did you forget, as you did a year ago, to post notice of change of residence of certain players with the OBA?"

Just then the noon whistle blew, and all hands reached for the lunch baskets.

"RED'S RAIDERS!"

"Red" Townsend's powerful junior football squad romped through its season with one of the best records ever compiled by a Bearcline gridiron crew — wearing the colors of dear old B.C.I. They defeated the opposition with more or less effortless ease in what were termed exhibition games since the squad was named the Bay of Quinte COSSA junior "B" champions early in the season. They piled up a scoring total of 243 points for and only 41 scored against them. Well-balanced with plenty of offensive and defensive power, fast - running backs and hard-blocking linemen, Townsend's younger crew should make themselves felt in the forthcoming COSSA playdowns. They are scheduled to meet the winners of the Lakeshore District on October 30 at Number 10 ni home, with the winners playing the Georgian Bay-Niagara Falls districts winner on a Quinte or Lakeshore field on Saturday, November 17th.

Habs Winger Fuses Fireworks As Leafs Nip Canadiens 4-2; Bruins Clip Wings-Hawks Win

By JACK SULLIVAN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Tactium Maurice Richard does most of his talking with a hockey stick. But when that stick died other things besides score goals, the reverberations are heard throughout the National Hockey League. Look what happens:

His Montreal Canadiens drop two straight to Toronto Maple Leafs and gave up second position behind Detroit Red Wings to the not-so-timid Stanley Cup champions. Maurice doesn't score a goal in the 120 minutes, but he is the talk of the sports pages with his non-scoring shenanigans.

The Montrealers were walloped 4-2 on home ice last night following the 5-3 Saturday night affair at Toronto and, apart from the switch in positions, the pattern of parade to the penalty box and first-aid rooms for attention, high-flying Maurice was a one-man riot.

Habs Drop To Third

Now Canadiens are in a third-place tie with Boston's surprising Bruins who clobbered the Red Wings 3-3 at Detroit last night. The other game saw the fast-skating Chicago Black Hawks whip the Rangers 4-2 before a 4,994 crowd at New York as the season attained annce of the N. H. L. season.

Detroit has 11 points, Toronto 10, Montreal and Boston nine each, Chicago eight and New York five.

A reason's high crowd of 14,780 squeezed into Montreal Forum undoubtedly attracted by the Habs' lowe'en scorcer when Richard made a pass at a referee with his stick and tempers were at the breaking point among the players. And those who like their ice blood with their hockey weren't disappointed.

Richard, still looking for his 300th goal of his N. H. L. career, was in the middle of the delayed fireworks—a rip-snorting 10-minute free-for-all in the second period with Richard taking on defenceman Fern Flaman and Bill Juzda. When the players were untangled the penalty count read: Richard, double major and game misconduct; Juzda, major; Flaman, major and a game misconduct; Butch Bouchard of Canadiens and Juzda, majors.

Things had barely settled down when Ken Mosell was given a major for slamming defenceman Gus Mortson into the boards and drawing blood. Apart from these five-minutes sentences, Leafs received six minors and Canadiens three.

Juzda Out Cold

The fracas started when Flaman, taking exception at something Richard did, went after him with fists flying. Flaman was sent from the ice and Richard to the penalty box when Juzda got into the act with a rematch and the Rocket bounced out swinging.

The next scene in this two-act thriller will be in the office of league president Clarence Campbell who doesn't take kindly to such conduct as threatening paying customers with a hockey weapon and bouncing guys around with fists.

Rocket has been on the carpet before for his ice antics. In the 1947 Stanley Cup finals—against Toronto—he blew his top in one game and injured two Leafs players in a stick-swinging incident.

Name Tom Fool Strong Favorite In Rich Stakes

Baltimore, Nov. 2 (AP) — Tom Fool has only to repeat his victories over the best two-year-olds in the country today in the $25,000 Pimlico Futurity to be named the unquestioned champion youngster in the land.

He probably will go to the post for the mile-and-a-sixteenth grind at 4 to 5 odds. Only the unpredicted could keep him and jockey Ted Atkinson from the winner's circle.

But who's better at the unpredicted than the long-nosed Italian with the pearly-smile — Eddie Arcaro? The Cincinnati veteran will be riding Bisque Rouge, who was beaten only a half length by Tom Fool in the Belmont Vive Stakes, which was the same distance as today's futurity.

Bisque Rouge probably will go off second favorite to the Greentree Stable's joint entry of Tom Fool and Begorra at about 7 to 2. All three will carry 119 pounds.

Starters in the eight-horse field are Jet's Date, carrying 117; Injurego 119; Cajun 122; Lord Privilan 119; Cobber 122 and Norwich 122.

Tom Fool has romped home first in five of seven stakes this year. Those wins included the Belmont Futurity and the Sand View Stakes—the latter significant because of the longer distance of today's grind.

The impressive pile of firsts has earned the John Gaver-trained stables $153,910 so far, and a Pimlico Futurity victory would send the season's earnings over the $200,000 mark.

LAST NIGHT'S STARS

(By The Canadian Press)

Toronto's Ted Kennedy who scored twice for the Maple Leafs downed Montreal Canadiens 4-2.

Doug Bentley scored a pair of goals to give Chicago Black Hawks a 4-2 victory over New York Rangers.

Richard Good-So Is Howe, Morenz Best of All - - - Stewart

Humberstone, Ont., Nov. 2 — (CP)—The man who could care the most but doesn't—says Rocket Richard can't miss cracking the National Hockey League's lifetime goals-scoring record before the season ends.

Nels (Old Poison) Stewart when 334-goal total is what Richard is shooting at—figures Richard's game will go into the record books as one of his before long. Richard has scored 299 so far.

"From the blue line in there isn't any better than Richard," said Stewart, whose own reputation as a star in 13 seasons of play was built on his ability to get the puck into the net.

Made to Order

Now living in almost complete retirement from hockey in this town some five miles south of Welland, Stewart said the Montreal Canadiens' great right wing-er would have starred in any hockey era.

"Today's game is made to order for him. He's got the brain. He doesn't back-check much—but then, neither did I. Some players have to wind up, but not the Rocket. He gets started on a dime, is actually strong and also balls his way in."

Stewart entered the controversy over hockey's greatest modern right wing as saying that for all Richard's goal-getting skill, Gordie Howe of Detroit Red Wings is a better two-way player and more useful to a team. Howe, he thinks, is the Howie Morenz type.

Not to Same Stable

"They don't come like Morenz very often—about once in a century," he said when asked whether Richard was greater than the late Stratford Streak. Morenz was named in a Canadian Press poll last winter as the greatest hockey player of the last half-century.

"He had everything — could rush, score goals back-check. You couldn't put the Rocket in the same breath as Howie—and that goes for everybody else—including Bill Cook. None of them was in the same stable."

Argos-Riders Hold Spotlight; Out West It's Saskies, Eskys

(By The Canadian Press)

Football fans could take a tip from the quarterback system of football this Saturday and employ the last-pin method of selecting winners in Canada's senior football championship.

In Edmonton, it is the start of the best-of-three western football final with the Edmonton and Saskatchewan Roughriders. The boys are playing it safe.

Eskies Need This One

Coach Annis Stukus of the Eskimos has his players practising forward-pass plays on observers as they do the same between while intelligence from the Roughies camp says coach Harry Smith is preparing a defence for Edmonton's hard-running ground attack.

"We'll pass 'em this week," Stukus said last night.

Edmonton needs the victory on home grounds because it will be the last time this season the Eskimos will play at Clarke Stadium. After Saturday's game, the series moves to Regina for the windup.

In the Big Four a crowd of 27,000 is almost assured for the Toronto Argonauts at Ottawa Rough Riders scheduled finals. Argos, in a second-place tie with Hamilton Tiger-Cats, have been on Riders every time out this season. This is likely big one.

Dr. Paul McGarry of Toronto Balmy Beach in the Ontario Rugby Football Union is the most confident coach in the country. He figures the Beaches to whip Kitchener-Waterloo by at least 15 points in the opener of the home-and-home total-point series at Toronto Saturday night.

But observers figure McGarry is whistling in the dark. He took over this week when coach Art Scott was fired one day before the regular season closed last weekend since then seven Beach players have walked out. They protested Watt's ouster.

Inspirelair walloped Beaches 36-9 last Saturday and the experts can't see how they will lose to what must be a disorganized bench team.

The Intercollegiate Union heads into the home stretch with McGill meeting Queen's at Montreal and the unbeaten University of Toronto Blue tangling with the University of Western Ontario Mustangs at London.

Schwabs, Bowlers Top Major 'A'

Schwab's and Lawn Bowlers got away to a good start last night in the second section of the Major "A" Bowling League four-quarter schedule, taking seven points from Callaghan's Ice and C.N.R. respectively. City Cleaners and Moore's Cleaners helped themselves to five each at the expense of Belleville Golf and Kinsmen.

Mohawks Scalp Syracuse 3-1

Indianapolis, Nov. 2 (CP) — Cincinnati Mohawks scored twice in the first 3 1-3 minutes of play to score a 3-1 victory over Indianapolis Capitals in an American Hockey League game last night.

Twenty-one penalties were called in the rough game. Emile (Cat) Francis, Cincinnati goalie, who shut out the Caps Wednesday night, almost repeated, but Vic Stasiuk got a shot past him at 12:34 of the last period.

Herb Dickinson and Ian MacKinlock set the Mohawk's first period goals. Eddie Kullman added the other early in the second period.

Famous for historic buildings, Ravenna was the capital of Italy from the fifth to the eighth century.

Pro Basketball Referee Arrested On Bribe Charge

New York, Nov. 2—(AP)—A professional basketball referee was arrested early today by District Attorney Frank S. Hogan on charges he had received bribes to help insure fixing of three games in the National Basketball Association last year.

The referee was identified by Hogan as Sol Levy, 41, of Brooklyn. He is the first official to be taken into custody since the gambling scandal was revealed in college games early this year.

Hogan charged through his secretary, James O'Leary, that Levy had received bribes to insure a point spread in three separate basketball games, and would be booked on charges including conspiracy.

He said the games were between the Boston Celtics and Washington Capitals in Washington Nov. 11, 1950, which Boston won 78-77; the Boston Celtics and the Indianapolis Olympians at Boston Nov. 18, 1950, which Boston won 79-75; and the Syracuse Nationals and New York Knickerbockers at Syracuse, won by Syracuse 97-85, on Nov. 18, 1950.

Hogan said an unusually large number of personal fouls were called in the Syracuse-New York game—46 against New York and 39 against Syracuse.

Player Purchase Scale; $10,000 Tops For Junior Franchise OK'd by OHA

Toronto, Nov. 2 (CP) — The Ontario Hockey Association Junior 'A Council yesterday took the first step on a proposal to place a maximum value of $10,000 on a franchise in the junior group and a scale of purchase prices for players.

The players would be valued at a maximum of $500, $1,000 and $1,500 for one, two and three years of Junior A experience, respectively. The joint proposal by Al Murray of Galt and Roy Mason of Guelph could place a value in the neighborhood of $25,000 on Junior A teams.

In approving the proposal the council appointed a committee to meet with George Dudley, OHA secretary. The committee is composed of Murray, Mason, Staff Smythe of Toronto Marlboros and Happy Emms of Barrie Flyers.

Proposa Conditions

The following conditions were proposed for the sale of a franchise.

1. A franchise purchaser must have the majority approval of the other clubs in the league.

2. The purchaser to have first chance to buy the club's players.

3. If no agreement is reached by the new owner to buy the players, the old owner would have until 1954 to dispose of them. After that date they would become free agents.

The proposal also disclosed that if no purchaser could be found for a club, the franchise would be suspended for two seasons. At the end of that period, new owners could be admitted with approval of the council.

The dispute between Kitchener and Galt over the hockey services of Jim Farelli also came under discussion. The OHA executive is scheduled to hold a hearing on the case this Saturday.

Farelli came from Fort William to Galt in 1949 with Galt, but he said by Montreal Canadiens on a C-form and was ordered to play for the Canadiens' farm club at Kitchener.

Varsity, Western Football Game Is Sell-Out

London, Ont., Nov. 2 (CP) — With last-minute ticket seekers still on the hunt for tickets for Saturday's big Toronto-Western game, a complete sellout is assured for J. W. Little Memorial Stadium as the two schools renew their senior Intercollegiate football rivalry.

The Toronto Blues, who beat Western 17-6 in their previous meeting, rate heavy favorites to topple the Mustangs but Toronto hasn't won a game in London since 1936.

Already this season another streak was broken when McGill beat the Mustangs here, the first win for the Redmen in London since 1935.

Look for Upset

The Mustangs, with only one victory in four games, are in the throes of one of their poorest seasons in several years. However, coach Bob Masterson, of the Blues, looks for one of the toughest games of the season. Johnny Metras is pointing for an upset over the league-leading Blues who are sailing along undefeated in four games.

Western will have Bob McMurdo and Jack Fowler out of action against the Blues. McMurdo is still suffering from a rib injury suffered in the McGill game while Fowler is out for the season with a knee injury.

Metras will dress Dan McIntee to fill Fowler's spot at inside. There is a possibility that quarterback Ray Truant may not dress because of an arm injury. In that case, Bert Vincent and Bud Obal will share the quarterbacking.

NFL Official Wants Changes In Score Rules

There would be no points after touchdowns, and deadlocked teams would play a sudden-death overtime period if a plan recommended by Bell is accepted.

"I feel in doing away with the point after a touchdown we would reduce by 99 per cent the gambling on pro games," the commissioner explained. "Of course" he added, "this is not meant for colleges.

"The extra point is something almost automatic. The experts hardly ever miss. The field goal is a cat, but by eliminating the extra point, we will do away with the one-point spread in which gamblers are so much interested.

The commissioner said he would make touchdowns count seven points instead of six. "This would put more emphasis on a touchdown and put it out of reach of two goals, which count six points.

"The team to score first in the extra period wins the game. We don't care how long that extra period lasts. Most stadiums have lights."

Captain and centre Reg Ort, inside Milt Cork and middle Bob McMonagle graduate this year and will be making their last start before a hometown crowd. All three have been standouts along a good Western front-wall.

British Linksmen Hope to Regain Ryder Golf Cup

Pinehurst, N.C., Nov. 2 (AP)— A supremely confident British team of golfers will open their 1933 matches at Pinehurst today to regain custody of the huge trophy which has remained in American hands for 18 years.

The visitors were certain that after today's four matches over the No. 2 Pinehurst Country Club course and Sunday's eight singles they'd be entrusted with the care of the cup which has eluded them since they won the matches at Southport, England.

Faulkner, the 35-year-old British Open champion, said that he didn't see "how we can lose. Our boys are playing too well, it's been difficult to decide which eight of our 10 players should play in today's foursomes."

Performances this week over the 7,007-yard, par 72 course, indicate that the British will have to score well if they are to achieve their goal. The American professionals have been touring the rugged layout in three or four under par more often than not and appear ready for the job ahead.

Marino Retains Flyweight Title

Honolulu, Nov. 1 (AP) —Dado Marino, Hawaii's 112-pound fighting grandfather, won a close fast, 15-round decision over Terry Allen of London tonight to remain world flyweight champion.

It was Marino's first defence of the title he won from Allen in Honolulu 15 months ago. The referee's and judges' decisions were unanimous.

On a point basis, referee Walter Cho called it 77 to 15, Judge Al Berthelho 76 to 15, and Judge Louis Freitas 77 to 15.

The Associated Press score card had it 76 to 16.

There were no official knockdowns. But Marino hooked and pushed Allen to his hands and knees three times for no count. Allen knocked Dado on his rear for a no count in the first round.

Despite their eight years difference in age, 37-year-old Allen and Marino, at 33, father of five and grandfather of a baby girl, were too evenly matched for much blood letting.

Marino weighed 112 and Allen 111 1-4.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

It is a wise bridge player who knows and obeys the signals of his own partner. Therein lies the whole secret of a consistently successful bridge pair.

A defensive overcall in an opponent suit shows nine tricks, guarantees no losers in the opponent suit; and is forcing to game. Therefore, neither partner may let the bidding die at less than game.

If there is no intervening bid, partner must bid even with a trickless hand. In that case, he must show his longest unbid suit. Be it ever so weak, he must bid his longest unbid suit.

If there is an intervening bid, however, partner of the overcaller may pass, because the bidding has been kept alive. The opponent has kept it alive for the overcaller.

In which case, the obligation to keep the bidding open falls back to the overcaller. The overcaller must then keep the bidding open. His own signal promised that such would be the case.

Suppose the overcaller now makes a bid that is not yet game. In that case, partner is again obligated to keep the bidding open. The fact that he once passed does not relieve him.

You have this east hand:

♥9 5 4
♣Q 8 5 3

South opponent opens with a heart. You west partner bids two hearts; an overcall in opponent suit. If next opponent passes what do you do with your east hand? Bid two diamonds.

Suppose your partner then bids two spades. It is not a game. So, if next opponent passes again, you must now bid three clubs. If your partner then bids three spades you must bid again. With support for his redoubtable suit assist to four spades.

When forced to bid you must obey the signal until the force is released. You must. You must. You must!

AT THE BELLE — Lovely Elizabeth Taylor and Mon gomery Clift enact a stirring romance in Paramount's "A Place in the Sun," a love story that will live for everyone. This brilliant George Stevens production lines out as an unequalled story of youth, in a desperate, reckless search for love and fulfillment.

AT THE CAPITOL — Glenn Ford, Rhonda Fleming and Edmond O'Brien respectively portray a rugged cowpoke, a mysterious redhead and a quick-thinking secret agent in a fresh and fast-paced outdoor adventure, "The Redhead and The Cowboy," now at the Capitol Thea're today and Saturday, for its first Belleville showing. On the same program, "My Friend Irma Goes West," starring Dean Martin, Jerry Lewis and Marie Wilson. Continuous show Saturday from 1.30 p.m.

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Nov. 2 — (AP) — Margaret Truman today won high praise from a fellow performer, Tallulah Bankhead, who predicts a rosy future in show business for the president's daughter.

"She's a fine, talented girl," said Tallou, the "dahling" of radio.

"When Margaret first appeared on her "big show", we were a little afraid of how she would be since she had never done that type of thing before. But we were enchanted with how she came through . . .

Good Sport

"She's a wonderful sport, too. She hangs around the stage and kids with all of us. We've never had to change the script for her. Her only request has been that we say nothing that would poke fun at her father. But she said we could say anything we wanted about her.

"Yes, dahling. I think Margaret can make a fine career for herself in show business . . . she has simplicity . . . the simplicity that goes with greatness."

Miss Bankhead added that she had reactions from the White House from Margaret's appearance. Mrs. Truman penned a letter of appreciation. (Yes, she writes letters, too.) And the President telephoned Tallulah after one of the shows.

DIES DEATH HE ENACTED

Rome, Nov. 2 — (Reuters) — Ermanno Randi, Italian movie actor yesterday died the death he had enacted before a movie camera only six hours before. He was shot five times after a fight in the apartment he shared with singer Gulseppe Maggiori. Randi, 30, had just finished filming a scene from "My Trieste," in which he plays the part of Sicilian bandit Salvatore Guiliano. Police charged Maggiori with murder.

The Outsiders

By Jane Abbott

He came back into the kitchen. "Mrs. Larkin has a cancer."

Mrs. Larkin—Marilyn placed her as the woman who lived on a farm the other side of Spruce Hill. "So what?" she demanded.

John had crossed to a window and was standing there looking out of it, his back to her. "Nothing I suppose. She's worried hard all her life, brought up eight children on that barren farm, to have them all go off somewhere else. She's had courage—not a scrap out of her now, and she is tortured with pain. But I guess there's nothing in courage."

Marilyn made a little face at his back. She wasn't going to let him bore her with his fussy talk. She said, pally, with an energetic wallop of her mixing spoon, "Ask Chris Cameron that one! Does ask me!"

He did not answer this or turn from the window and after an interval of the silence Marilyn's ready impatience burst out of control. "The thing is—and I should think you'd think of it —do you get any money for going up there and holding that old woman' hand?"

John stiffened, swung around, one hand going into his pocket. He pulled out a crumpled bill, threw it down on the table. "Make it. I don't want it—I'll stake anything it was the first cent he had in the house! It's yours." His strode out of the room.

"Well!" spit out Marilyn on a choked breath. She caught up the mixing bowl and angrily turned it upside down in the sink.

On this same afternoon Chris Cameron appeared at the kitchen door of the big house. "How do you do, Hespeth? And how is Major?"

Hespeth caught her apron up by one corner, her usual gesture of greeting company. "I'm doing the same. The dog, though, he don't seem to take a big step. Like he's been laying, there in that stall in the barn. Growls, these last two days when I go near me coming."

"I'll see if I can get him out. He can't go on much longer like that."

Chris laughed. "I must ask her. If I may speak to Major!" He looked down at his muddy boots, laced high over dungarees. "I'm not dressed exactly right for a call, but where can I find her?"

"Set off for a walk a piece back. Went past the barn and up the trail."

"It's my opinion she isn't one you let or don't let, Mr. Cameron."

"Well, I'm going after her. I'll look in on Major after I find her." He turned on his heel as he spoke and went off with some haste.

There was every possibility of a stranger losing his bearings if he went too far along the trail, Chris knew. Turns, other trails descending from it, crossing it, stretches where it narrowed and disappeared entirely in the thick undergrowth, outcrops of rock to climb over.

A half mile up the trail he saw her, sitting on a wide flat-topped rock that jutted out from the side of the hill. Surprise as much as relief halted his step. Sitting there in slacks and a pullover, her arms clasping her knees, her hair blown into disorder, she did not look like a city bred the sophisticated, young woman of London and Paris that he had been certain she would be.

Elisa had not gone far enough to lose her way. She had seen to live then, climbed up to it and sat down on it, partly to get her breath, but partly to dwell on the experience of the afternoon, recapture the thrill of it.

There was so very much she had to learn! The manager had had her from one room into another, explaining each separate process in a flow of technical terms that had made her head spin. While he talked, the sweet, rich, damply smell hanging over everything, the slight shake of the building, in rhythm with the machines.

George Culbert had taken her first into her grandfather's office. It had a fine, unoccupied look and the manager explained that he had moved almost everything from it into his own office in an adjoining shed. You won't need to come here, Miss Forrestal. I'll be delighted to go to you, when there's anything to talk over."

"But I want to use it," she had told him.

Then we'd better doll it up some—make it more suitable for a young lady like you."

It had thrilled her to hold in her hand a sample of the finished paper. Book paper the manager called it. There's more money in the finer grades, but your grandfather never put it in. This mill had started with book paper and was going to go on making book paper. He was good pay in his own ways. He knew how to manage these mill men though. Yeahh, all of them, and a pig-headed lot, and he kept a tight hand over 'em. I've followed his policy since. Of course, if you've any different ideas. . ."

She had no ideas.

"I want everything to go on as my grandfather ran it."

She did want it so. And he would learn all she had to learn. She would go to the mill every day, watch and study each machine. She would admit her ignorance to George Culbert, ask him questions. Some of the books on her grandfather's shelves must have to do with the manufacture of paper—she would find them, study them. That old ledger, too.

A less pleasant thought suddenly intruded sharply in upon her reflections. The truth that, not yet in her life, had she continued through with any single thing she had started. That winter she had taught the English class in Miss Willy's school in Rome, three weeks when she was a reception-ist in an American embassy clinic in Paris, the next year when she had taken over Carl Friedman's beginning class in Spanish—in each instance her work had been cut off abruptly by her mother's taking a sudden fancy to live somewhere else.

Her spoiling had been interrupted in the same way six months in a school and then a change to another with a tutor. What friendships she had made were abruptly broken off.

She drew her knees tighter about her knees, threw back her head. Then, this time, it was between herself and that girl—she was free to make a new life. Here where Forrestals had lived for generations.

As she meditated on her life as it had been, a twig snapped behind Elisa and she turned, startled, to see a man in rough clothes emerging from the trees. Suddenly realizing her complete isolation, she sprang to her feet, instinctively took a step backward.

"Look out there! You'll go off!" Chris Cameron leaped out on the rock as he shouted his warning, caught her arm, and drew her to a safer spot. "Whew! You were within an inch or so of tumbling down the hill!"

His voice and manner and his concern did not go with his rough appearance, nor did his clean-shaven face, nor the smile that broke on it. Elisa drew a shaky breath. "I didn't think anyone—I thought I was alone on the hill."

"I'm sorry—I should have called out to you from the trail. Hespeth told me you'd come up it. Not a very wise thing to do, Miss Forrestal, until you're familiar with it. You might have lost your way. At this hour that wouldn't have been so good—a night in the woods! I came after you."

"It was kind of you to concern yourself—though it wasn't necessary!"

Chris laughed. "There's a temptation to go on and on that's hard to resist, I know—I've gotten myself lost many a time. Anyway, I planned to call on you some day soon, Miss Forrestal, and we can start this in it. Aren't you going to invite me to sit down?"

Elisa laughed and answered in the same light vein. "Please have a seat. It may not be very comfortable but it is the best I can offer."

"After you, Miss Forrestal!"

She sat down, clasping her knees again, conscious of a little self-raising warm in her palms instead of the frozenness she almost always felt when she met a strange man. But that was that other life.

"I'm very sorry to have no card with me," said Chris, keeping up the pretense of formality and his smile crinkling his eyes. "I must introduce myself. I am Christopher Cameron, neighbor, if one discounts a mile or so. I live up at the Notch."

"The Notch?"

Chris pointed a hand in the direction of the Notch. "You can't see my place from here, of course. At that there isn't much to see up close—one big room and a lean-to for a kitchen. I built it against an old chimney I found still standing after a hundred years or more. It's warmed a good many people in that time. I like to think of myself as another 'it taken on."

"Then you're not a native here?" She was a little disappointed.

"I came in two years ago. I'm an outsider." Eliza looked a little puzzled and went on to explain. "That's what they call us in these parts when you come in from the outside. There's only a few of us here—Doctor Streeter and his wife, your manager down at the mill, Jerry Penny, the little school teacher, myself and now, you."

George Culbert had named these same persons over, including her by name, but "But I was born here," she protested as she had to George Culbert.

"True you were."

Eliza heard his tone holding something back, saw his eyes sobering as if he were weighing her. She lifted her head a little, said defensively, "you're thinking—that I have to prove that I belong?"

He did not speak for a moment, appearing to consider how he would answer. Then he said, with directness and a note of sympathy, "I've an idea you will

Little Benny's Note Book

Pods Sinking was sitting on his front step shaking his old mind to start going again, which it wouldn't. and Pods said, I can't find anything wrong this clock. What's good about a stopped clock? I said, and he said, It's only stopped temporary. It's just about ready to go again, and I can t..l you why, he said. Why I said, and Pods said, Because there's nobody more anxious to get up and start going than people that have been in bed for a year, and that's just how this clock must be feeling by this time.

Making me more intristed, and I said, Well hey, I mite consider swapping you my dime bank that rings like a cash register every time you put in a dime. The only trubble just now is something happened to it that keeps the bell from ringing and clogs up the place where dimes are suppose to go in, I said. Well heck, what do I want with a bank that dont work? Pods said, and I said, That's the most useful thing about it, because when people see you trying to stick dimes in it, they give you credit for trying to save, and at the same time your still have the pleasure of spending the dimes if you feel like it.

That's just why this stopped clock is useful, Pods said. You can set it to wake you up exterly so you can finish your home work, and still enjoy sleeping with a clear conscience because it's not your fault if it's still accidently out of order. Now that I come to think of it, I dont think I even want to swap it, he said.

Being the same way I was starting to feel about my bank, the result being we didn't swap.

STATISTICIANS SAY LIVING COST STILL CLIMBING

Biggest September Hoist Recorded in Clothing

Ottawa, Nov. 3—(CP)—Up, up, up. That's the direction of the cost-of-living index and the September trend didn't backtrack, although it did slow up.

The Bureau of Statistics reported yesterday that living costs reached a new peak in September mainly due to increased clothing prices.

The cost-of-living index went up six-tenths of a point to 190.4 from 189.8 points during August. It is based on 1935-39 prices equalling 100.

The clothing sub-index jumped 6.9 points to a peak 213.8 from 206.9. The increase was said to have been due to the introduction of new fall and winter lines, higher in prices than when these items were surveyed last March.

Meat, Egg Drop

However, another important group, the food sub-index, showed its second drop in two months. Lower meat and egg prices, although somewhat offset by increases in the cost of dairy food items, dropped the food sub-index 1.4 points to 249.7. Foods have been as high as 251.4 in July.

Other family budget items such as coal and wood, theatre tickets and health care—went up slightly. Rents were not surveyed.

Nevertheless, the September index climb was the smallest in five months, since the two-month-of-a-point increase during April. The biggest increase in any month was the 4. 5 points last February.

Wholesale Prices Up

On the wholesale side, the bureau's index for 30 industrial material prices during October reversed its downward trend in the four previous months and moved up. So did the index on farm products.

Displaying a radiant smile and the charming manner that captivated Washington during her visit Princess Elizabeth happily played hostess Thursday night for a formal dinner of the Canadian Embassy in the United States capital. ## Six Newspaper Feature Syndicates Are Suspended

Chicago, Nov. 3 (AP) — The Chicago Tribune says today that the anti-trust division of the Department of Justice has served subpoenas on six newspaper feature syndicates in New York.

The subpoenas demand productions of all records relating to the sale or lease of comic strips, columns and other features, the paper says.

Named in the orders are Bell Syndicate, Inc.; United Feature Syndicate; McNaught Syndicate Inc; NEA Service, Inc; King Features Syndicate; and Chicago Tribune-New York News Syndicate.

The Tribune says it has been the practice among syndicates to restrict the sale of a feature to only one newspaper in a competitive area.

THE WEATHER

Toronto, Nov. 3 (CP) Synopsis: Snowfall over Southern Ontario ranged from two to three inches as a result of Friday night's snowstorm. The heavier falls were reported over eastern Ontario with Killaloe measuring seven inches and Pembroke five. The storm centre responsible for the snow'all was now New York City early this morning but will move northeastward into Quebec today. Skies cleared overnight in the Windsor and London areas permitting temperatures to drop to 18 at Windsor and 18 at London. Although this storm is expected to weaken in the Great Lakes area it will likely have sufficient energy to contribute a light fall of snow to most of Southern Ontario tonight and early Sunday.

Temperatures throughout the provinces will continue cold or slightly colder over the weekend.

WRESTLES WITH BUCK DEER

Birmingham, Ala., Nov. 3 (AP) — A 200 caretaker who wrestled with an eight-point buck deer for more than 15 minutes before police killed the animal, today nursed deep wounds.

Gillian caught its antlers after the buck had gored him twice, once through the thigh and again through its head. Then he bulldogged the animal's nose to the ground.

Three Residents From Michigan Killed in Crash

Kingsville, Nov. 3. (CP)—Three residents of Royal Oak, Mich., were killed in a two-car mobile collision near here last night.

Dead are: Donald MacGregor, 56, his wife, Leona, 53, and Mrs. Lillie MacGregor, an elderly woman believed to be Mr. MacGregor's mother.

Mrs. Gordon MacGregor was taken to Leamington hospital but died a few hours later. Her husband and his mother were killed instantly as was the family pet, a fox terrier, in the crash.

Glen R. Walter, 17, Staples, driver of the second car escaped with facial lacerations. A passenger in Walter car, Freda White, 16, of Kingsville, had facial cuts and a broken leg. Her condition is not serious.

Frost Says Ontario Finances In Strongest Position Ever, Budget Balanced Every Year

(By The Canadian Press)

Premier Frost said in a Nov. 22 Ontario general election campaign address last night that his policies as provincial treasurer have helped raise living standards, developed natural resources and provide a healthy environment for industrial expansion.

The premier, in the Toronto area on his campaign tour, spoke on two broadcasts and made addresses in Markham and Oakville, near Toronto.

E. B. Jolliffe, Ontario C.C.F. leader, made a broadcast from Fort William and addressed a rally in that lakehead city.

A. A. MacLeod, Ontario leader of the Labor-Progressive party, criticized mental hospital policy.

Mr. Frost said his government had sought to keep debt low and the province's credit position strong to balance the budget and to confine taxes to those which had the smallest impact on the cost of living.

Completely Successful

"In these objectives we have been completely successful. Ontario's financial position is the strongest it will enjoy in two months of the province."

In a broadcast in which four members of his cabinet joined him, he said the Ontario budget had been balanced for a record eight years.

He said at Oakville that his government's sale of control of liquor laws has taken the province away from conditions under the Liberal government "when licenses were scattered across this province in a period of a few months and given to political friends." At Markham he said 1,000 homes under the federal - provincial - municipal housing plan will be taken up by the end of the month.

Will Equip Hospitals

Mr. Jolliffe, in his broadcast, again pledged his party, if elected, to an all-out attack on the housing shortage.

"In eight years, Mr. Frost's government has not built a single house. That is part of Mr. Frost's record on which he is standing for re-election. His policy is the same as the policy of the Liberal government at Ottawa: If houses must be built, let someone else do it. There must be an end to his buck-passing, this defeatism and incompetence."

He said a C.C.F. government would establish an Ontario housing corporation to divert materials into house-building and help municipalities and individual citizens to finance new housing.

Wants Mental Hospitals

Mr. MacLeod, seeking re-election in Toronto Bellwoods, accused the Ontario government of doing nothing to ease a shortage of beds in mental hospitals. He said in a broadcast the government had spent nothing on psychiatric research during the last three years and that the province has only one psychiatrist for every 1,225 persons.

Tonight both Mr. Thomson and Mr. Jolliffe speak in the north. Mr. Thomson at Sudbury and Mr. Jolliffe at Sault Ste. Marie. Premier Frost plans an afternoon address at Stonehedges in the Muskoka district.

Elizabeth, Philip Holidaying Amid Snowy Laurentians Before Going to Maritimes

By JACK BRAYLEY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Ste. Agathe Des Monts, Que., Nov. 3 — (CP) — Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip awoke today to a snowy Laurentian wonderland to begin a two-day holiday before concluding their North American tour in the Maritimes.

Unless the snow builds up to more substantial proportions, there is little chance of skiing and the five couple will likely hike through the beautiful scenic trails, snap pictures and come home to a blazing log fire in a comfortable hearth.

Their hike will take them through brush — taking winter precautions against snakebites including man-made they have been on royal tour routes throughout the country.

For gleaming white coverings from the bare limbs of hardwood groves and add Christmastide decorations to the tall stands of hemlock that surround the holiday estate.

Winter's first serious snowfall arrived with the royal tourists at Montreal's Dorval airport three days away, yesterday and followed them to their holiday retreat.

Famous Resort

And throughout the route to this famous mountain resort and despite the fact they were an hour behind schedule, thousands of persons clad in parkas and snowboots stood in the wintry bluster to cheer them on.

Most of the route was taken in darkness and driving was a factor of snow was so thick that one provincial police motor bike skidded on a curve. Constable Ed Meyer into the guardrail on the side of the highway. He picked himself up, shook himself and continued his escort duty.

The darkness gave orders that the royal car was to slow down at each crossroads. There groups of persons stood and waved flags, bandanas and even bright lumberjack's hankies. She waved back with the prince from the comfortable recesses of her big limousine when she was not bundled in her long mink coat and covered with an electrically-heated blanket.

She wore a green-feathered, off-the-face bonnet that dripped with snow atop, she alighted for an impromptu welcome at St. Jerome. Philip was in mufti and used a brown hat mostly for waving energetically in response to cheery French greetings at each crossroads.

The 50-mile drive occupied 2 hours and ended in a winding, hilly by-way that led through lofty evergreens to a Norwegian-style lodge.

Their host is J. W. McConnell, Montreal publisher and philanthropist. The lodge on side of a well-stocked lake and under the shadow of a mountain. It had a grass roof for insulation in a manner of Norwegian country homes and was built in Norwegian style.

The royal guests are on their own until Sunday when they attend church and receive the official welcome of the province. Meanwhile, twice-daily reports of their activities are being issued from the royal train standing at a nearby siding.

At 10.30 aircraft, the princess graciously reviewed her most unique guard of honor of the tour at Dorval. Thirty Canadian soldiers drawn from up in regimental order on skiis and wrapped warmly in blankets. They waved their flags and cheered. Three of their number, pale invalids, gave the princess flowers and got a warm smile and word in return.

Two Belleville Residents Hurt At South River

South River, Nov. 3. (CP)—A five-vehicle accident, caused to some extent by the season's first icy roads, yesterday sent two persons to hospital here, Provincial Police Bay and caused damage estimated by police at close to $5,000.

Included in the damaged vehicles was a police cruiser which went to the scene to investigate.

In the hospital in North Bay are Allan Carswell and Herbert Wood, both of Belleville. Their injuries were cut of control and slewed broadside on the road. A northbound truck struck it broadside. The car, a 1950 model, was overturned by the impact.

Carswell and Phillip-start back from Toronto 12.

Truman told the pale, obviously tired Princess that she and the Duke of Edinburgh "completely captured" the hearts of thousands of Americans they met here, and thus strengthened the bonds between this country and its chief partner in the North Atlantic Alliance.

This might have sounded like

GOVT. PLAN BRISKLY OPPOSED IN COMMONS

Charges Hurled By the Opposition

Ottawa, Nov. 3 CP) — The government's plan to turn its anti-price fixing legislation over to a committee for further study ran into brisk Commons opposition yesterday.

Charges of "smokescreen," "red herring" and "stalling" emerged from the opposition benches as the government moved to establish a Joint Commons-Senate Committee to hear representations on the legislation, foreast in the Speech from the Throne.

Opposition members accused the government of altering policy—first it had said it would bring down legislation to prohibit manufacturers from fixing retail prices of their products; now it was using the delaying device of sending it to committee hearings.

John Diefenbaker (PC — Lake Centre), the chief Progressive Conservative critic of the government move, objected to the vote when he moved an amendment aimed at giving the committee power to range through the whole of the government's anti-inflation policy.

Speaker Ross Macdonald ruled it out of order on the ground no prior notice was given, and the Progressive Conservatives appealed. They lost 96 to 21.

Introduces Motion

In the opening stages, Hazen Argue (CCF—Assiniboia) introduced motion to initiate a debate on the new railways' application for freight-rate increase. Speaker Macdonald declined to allow it to stand.

The chamber, seeking to get away from too much night work, also adopted the report of a special committee recommending that it sit only three nights a week for the remainder of this session.

Labor Minister Garson, moving to set up the new prices committee, said the government believed that necessary because It has been "strongly urged" by the Canadian Chamber of Commerce to give them a chance to have a say on the new legislation.

But he hoped the committee would finish its hearings in time for the legislation to be considered at this session.

Read as Motion

He recalled that the proposed legislation is based on the recommendations of a committee appointed last year to study possible changes in the combines investigation act headed by Mr. Justice J. H. MacQuarrie of the Supreme Court of Canada. When it made the recommendation after considering representations from various organizations.

Mr. Diefenbaker, suggesting the government was trying up the parliamentary committee as a "smokescreen" to protect itself from the wrath of the people, said there is no justification for a house committee going over the ground studied already by the MacQuarrie commission.

Temporary Boost In Freight Rates Sought by Rails

Face $160,000 Loss Daily Unless Increase Granted

Ottawa, Nov. 3 (CP) — The railways today applied for a temporary five-per-cent increase in freight rates.

They asked the Board of Transport Commissioners to grant the higher rates almost immediately, in view of the board's postponement of Nov. 14 hearings in which the board was to have heard an application for established increases of about 10 percent.

The railways asked that the new application, which also would involve a 10-cents-a-ton increase on coal and coke, be dealt with Nov. 12.

The rapid postponement of the main hearing would result in loss of revenue of $160,000 a day from what they might have received if the 10-per-cent application were heard and granted.

Today's move by the railways comes just two days after they applied for an increase of between five and six percent on top of a five-percent application pending before the board for several days.

The temporary increase would cost freight shippers about $22,500,000 a year. Representatives of provinces opposed the general increases, who were served here last night with formal notice of the interim application, today took that it will be opposed just as strongly as the more permanent increases obtained by the railways in the last few years.

J. J. Frawley, Alberta government freight-rate counsel, and Rand H. Matheson, manager of the Maritime Transportation Commission, said they were "amazed" that this action should be taken in view of the Nov. 12 postponement.

Storm Cause Of Eight Deaths

Toronto, Nov. 3 (CP) —Eight persons died in traffic accidents last night as the first general snowfall of the season turned highways into skating rinks and reduced visibility.

John M. McDonald, 37, of Avondale, N.S., Loretta Enright, 24, of Toronto, and Hugh McDonald, 33 of Westhill, Ont., were fatally injured in a two-car collision on No. 11 Highway a few miles south of Orillia.

Three residents of Royal Oak, Mich., Donald MacGregor, 56, his wife Leona, 53, and elderly Mrs. Louise MacGregor, believed to be Donald's mother, were killed in a collision between two cars near Kingsville, Ont.

Heaviest snowfall was in the Ottawa area and in the province. Killaloe reported seven inches and Toronto five.

The Dominion public weather office said the storm centre was near New York City and moving northeastward into Quebec. At Maritime Transportation Commission, said they were "amazed" that this action should be taken in view of the Nov. 12 postponement.

The storm is expected to weaken in the Great Lakes area, it probably will bring light snow to most of southern Ontario tonight and early Sunday, the weather bureau said.

Temperatures in the province will continue cold over the weekend.

Skies sky cleared overnight in London and Windsor areas and temperatures dropped to 18 and 18 respectively. Toronto registered 28, with a high of 35 expected today.

Elizabeth Best Ambassador To Ever Visit U.S.

Washington, Nov. 3 (CP) — The Evening Star, in an editorial headed "Lillet's Conquest," yesterday cites Princess Elizabeth as "one of the very best ambassadors Britain has ever sent to these shores."

"As she swings her way homeward via Montreal today," the newspaper said, "Princess Elizabeth, even though it may strike her as empty praise, is going to be told the simple truth by somebody. The simple truth is that she has captured the heart of the capital of the United States of America. Together with her handsome husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, she has charmed and captivated the city to such an extent that our oldest inhabitants searching around their memories have been put to recall the name of any past visitor quite comparable to her in beauty of peaches-and-cream good looks and sweetness of personality. . ."

Allies Watching Salient in Korea At Times Nearly on Top of Reds

Wonsan Harbor, North Korea, Nov. 3 — (AP) — The strangest salient of the Allied battle line in Korea sticks along hillands off the besieged port of communist-held Wonsan.

Allied occupants are so close to shore they must be supplied by night — or have supplies dropped and floated in on the tide.

United Nations soldiers, marines and sailors on the islands, act as spotters for naval guns. They are part of an unending battle by the U.N. navy to keep the reds from sending supplies down east coast highways to the front.

The Allies are on islands in the harbor, north of the harbor and south of the harbor. The U.N. has offered to give up these islands in the event of an armistice.

Some men watching the shore through binoculars are so close to the communists that — in the words of a marine sergeant they can "count the hairs on the reds."

The battle between Allied warships and the reds for control of Wonsan highway has been going on daily since February.

Highways and rail lines to the eastern and central fronts run through Wonsan, 70 miles north of the 38th Parallel. The reds have to use these roads, relying solely on long exposed routes winding tortuously just north of the battle line.

Allied destroyers cruising lately in Wonsan harbor are rumored for days. Then, suddenly, communist batteries open up furiously.

"You just can't figure them out," says Lieut. Jack Lewis, 25. "Some days they will raise hell. Others they will leave you alone to read the papers."

Last Wednesday, three 75-millimeter guns on the U.N. minesweeper Orprey. One sailor was killed, three wounded.

The damage naval guns do to the communists is hard to determine. Thus far, the Allies have had on the islands do their work.

They are close enough to see what happens.

"You can look over and see them like ants," one spotter said. "There are plenty of them there and you can tell they aim to stay. Most of them are dressed in white like civilians but we know there aren't any civilians on that beach."

Washingtonians Figure Elizabeth And Philip Well Earn Their Salary

Washington, Nov. 3—(AP) — Ever wonder what Princess Elizabeth and her husband do to earn their $50,000 a year British budget provide for their support each year?

Well, in the opinion of President Truman and a number of other Washington officials, they do a lot toward preventing a third world war. And if that is so, the cost of keeping them in style may be a bargain.

Truman spoke his kind words about the royal couple shortly after they arrived at the White House grounds for a 12-hour capital visit.

Elizabeth and Philip-start back from Toronto 12.

Truman told the pale, obviously tired Princess that she and the Duke of Edinburgh "completely captured" the hearts of thousands of Americans they met here, and thus strengthened the bonds between this country and its chief partner in the North Atlantic Alliance.

the polite utterances public figures are given to making on such occasions. But there was a ring of solemnity in the president's voice when he said the hope of averting war depends in large measure upon how well our two countries stick together and work for world peace.

Underneath all the frivolity that surrounded the royal visit, there was a serious purpose—the bettering of Anglo-American relations.

We'd have found it hard to detect any such underlying purpose though, if you had followed the crowds and her husband on their fast and furious Washington tour.

Their visit to the house chamber yesterday, for instance, was more like an old home day than affair of state.

Congress is in recess, but some 40 members "just happened" to be in their seats when the royal pair entered, and they lined up eagerly as Boy Scouts in a chow line for a handshake and a fast how-do-you-do.

Only Few Vendors On Market, Egg Prices Up

Five inches of snowfall during the night put a quietus on the outside market Saturday as only a few vendors put in an appearance on the market square. On the other hand the inner market was a bit busier than usual as vendors sought space on the inside.

Egg prices increased by three cents over last week with firsts bringing 64c per dozen, mediums were 60c and pullets 55c. A few extras sold at 70c the dozen.

The price of potatoes went up to $3.25 per 75-lb bag with bushel lots selling at $2.50. Pecks were 75c. Vegetables such as carrots, beets and parsnips were 25c the half peck with cooking onions 10c for the same measure. Cabbages ranged from 10c to 15c each.

There was no change in the price of apples with McIntosh selling at from $1.50 to $1.75 per bushel; Talman Sweets were $2 per bushel with basket lots bringing 50c. Snows sold at 45c per basket.

"A GOOD PLACE TO DEAL"

City and District Traffic Slowed by Six Inches Snow

Belleville and district got its first taste of winter weather Friday night when roughly five and a half inches of wet snow fell over the area slowing vehicular traffic on highways and making walking difficult.

The snow started to fall late Friday afternoon but did not commence in earnest until after the supper hour. Then by midnight at least two or three inches of snow had fallen.

The municipal plows were taking advantage of the first snow and many had alleys out by midnight and early. Others were satisfied with rolling snowmen and still others got themselves into good natured snowball fights.

Householders had their first burn at the snow shovel as they cleared off walks leading to their homes while service station attendants cleared their premises of snow before it turned to slush.

And the weatherman says the snow is quite likely to remain at least for a day or so. Freezing rain is continued cold with snow again on Sunday.

Where, oh where, is that Indian summer weather that disappeared so quickly.

Red Feather Campaign Will Continue Next Week

"The canvass will continue next week" was the word received from Red Feather Campaign headquarters at the Y.M.C.A. Friday night. Regardless of the exceptional effort made by a loyal group of workers who have been giving up hours of their time this week, it has been impossible for many to complete the canvass as quickly as had been hoped.

Many of the canvassers have been unable to reach numbers of their prospects who have been out of town or away from their homes or places of business. As a result it has meant three and four return calls for canvassers.

The special names division was materially boosted by an additional report of $882 by workers directed by Lorne McDougall who have not yet turned in their reports totalling $3,864. An amount of $1,525 has been reported by John Deacon and Mrs. Ross Ketcheson, returns or $1,235 brings the special names total to $6,578. In the general canvass captained by C. Mc-Quire, slightly over 1,300 subscriptions amounting to $3,541 have been received at an early hour this morning. Mr. McGuire was urging that canvassers be responsible for many to continue their efforts today and early next week anticipating that probably less than half the total subscriptions had been received.

Phil Cane reported at an early hour this morning that the amount of $1,192 so far collected in the employees division was but a small part of the anticipated total, but that weekend payday would substantially increase this amount. The total of $11,328 received at the community chest office in the YM C.A. at the opening hour this morning represents about 55½ per cent of the minimum objective of $20,-000 which J. J. Trudeau was confident would be obtained. The people of Belleville district were understanding to the degree that they would see that the deficit of the particular agencies would be underwritten and thus enable their needed services would be continued without curtailment.

HANDY MEASURE

The cubit, ancient measure of distance, was the length of a man's forearm from elbow to the end of the middle finger.

Beavers Outwit Conservation Officer in Struggle Over Dam

Don't sell Brer Beaver short when it comes to brains.

The amphibious flat-tail has plenty of whys it takes when it comes to grey matter. He has a piece more in his head than razor-sharp teeth.

It is the logging season for next year's fur coats, and the colonies are out in strong force getting ready for winter, and its food necessities.

The boss man of a colony operating on Moira River decided to cut some choice poplar trees for his winter's supply.

The beaver buckaroos went to work. Just to show they meant business they felled two choice trees that dropped on the cottage.

That was too much. They were chased away from the spot. But mere human couldn't do that to busy beavers.

The next morning the owners awakened to find the mid-night shift had dropped the clothes-line support in the tracks.

But they were eventually stymied. City rags tied around the lower part of the trunks saved the remaining poplars from a similar fate.

Next night the colony moved in, and the dam break was repaired.

Sen. Fraser Plans to Prevent Restaurant Dumping Garbage On Government-Owned Land

Trenton (Special) —Through a letter written by barrister B. Gregory Butler, the proprietor of the Boston Cafe, Harry Lee, applied to council last Tuesday for permission to cut a hole in the fence and install a gate between his property and the government dock property south of Dundas Street.

Three members of council favored Mr. Lee's proposal, while Mayor Kenneth J. Couch and two of his councillmen advocated outlining the parks board before the fence was touched. Following much controversy and confusion Mr. Burtt's suggestion that Mayor Couch approach the parks board with Mr. Lee's application, Mr. Couch accepted the job.

Senator's Letter

In connection with opening a gate in the fence, Hon. W. A. Fraser has addressed a letter to the clerk-treasurer of Trenton. The letter reads:

Mr. Oswald Larry, clerk-treasurer, municipality of Trenton, Trenton, Ontario.

Dear Mr. Larry: It has been brought to my attention that you have received a letter from Mr. Lee, requesting on behalf of one Mr. Harry Lee, that the town open a gate through the existing fence to give access to Harry Lee with ingress and egress behind his restaurant property.

I would suggest that the above mentioned letter was read before the meeting of council last Tuesday night and that the request was vigorously supported by Councillor Sutherland and Mr. Burtt.

Would ask you to bring to the attention of the mayor and council that the said Harry Lee has been ingress and egress to his property, both westerly and easterly.

2. The reason he wishes ingress and egress on government property is that it is his intention to extend his buildings across his present lane thus eliminating his right-of-way which is necessary to the conduct of his business.

3. As chairman of the Parks Board, it took me two years to force the restaurant owner to stop dumping his garbage and filling garbage on federal government property. After coming to the conclusion that the only way to prevent an existing eyesore, accompanied by objectionable smells and odors, was to put up a fence on federal government property and keep the said restaurant owner on his own premises, a fence did not immediately eliminate all the trouble, because the restaurant owner proceeded to throw his crates and other debris over the fence.

4. Might further bring to the attention of the mayor and council that it cost over $250 to remove the use of service clubs and others to hold dances, carnivals and other entertainments, and for the benefit of the public in general. To further improve the area and for the pleasure of the public, a shelter was built on the dock area with seats, so people could enjoy the waterfront.

Before the erection of the fence in question, visiting yachts were complaining of the objectionable smells and the eyesore that existed on the adjacent dock property. The situation was intolerable and no chances will be taken that will permit a recurrence.

The attitude of Councillor Sutherland and Councillor Burtt last Tuesday night in their endeavor to bring pressure upon the mayor to open a gate through the fence was just another demonstration of how they ignore the interests of the public for some unexplainable reason or reasons. Yours truly, W. A. Fraser.

Europe as I See It

By Raymond R. Cánon

Origin of Basque Race Mystery

(Article 44)

San Sebastian, Spain — (Special to the Ontario Intelligencer) — From time to time in the streets or on the docks of San Sebastian, or in the vernacular taverns of the surrounding countryside, you will hear a strange language being spoken by a strange people. There is no need to listen closer for their speech bears no relation to Spanish whatsoever. Nor, in a way, do the people speaking, although they are classed as Spanish citizens. These are the Basques, the mystery race of Spain in fact of all Europe.

No one is exactly sure from what part of the world they came nor when, nor why. Of course there are many theories but none seem to be conclusive. Philologists have been of little help for the language is just as big a problem as the people. It bears no direct relation to any spoken tongue known to man. The most widespread belief is that the Basques originally came from Asia because the sending of certain words in their language bear a slight resemblance to several Asiatic languages, among which is Japanese. Others claim that the Basques were one of the first races in Spain. Certain it is that they have been here as long as anyone can remember.

Sturdy Race

At present there are slightly over a million Basques, all residing in the mountainous terrain of north-central Spain, or in the area around Bayonne in southwestern France. They are a very sturdy race, quite tall and thin. Another thing is that they are pure blooded to a remarkable degree. That is, Spain has seen the advent of the Romans, Goths and Arabs, all of whom mixed with the Spanish people, and intermarriage was frequent.

The Basque, however, in spite of the fact that he has been a continual inhabitant of Spain, kept to himself and intermarriage between Basques and other Spaniards was comparatively rare. They have not developed this into an obsession, however, such as the Aryan and Non-Aryan" theories of National-Socialist Germany.

Like most solidarity groups the Basques have had to fight for their existence. They were ably assisted somewhat by the mountainous country in which they lived, which made it extremely difficult to catch any number of them at one time. In times of peace they formed only a very loose collection of people, but in times of danger, were able to forget their differences, elect a leader, and defend themselves, often even going on offensives.

Resisted Visigoths

They successfully resisted the Visigoths, and if the mediaeval French epic, "La Chanson de Roland" can be believed, they formed part of the heathen group which cut off and destroyed Charlemagne's rearguard at Roncevalles in the Pyrenees. Relations with the Arabs were none too good either, but the Basques fought off any attempts made to overcome them. Gradually however, their land was absorbed by other sections of Spain, without themselves becoming absorbed to any great extent.

Before the coming of Christianity, the Basques had their own distinct religion, which included a diversity of gods among which was a god to death, and a god to the stars. In the third century the first Latin missionaries reached them, but progress was slow, and in the eighth century there were still tribes which retained their ancient religion.

During the Spanish Civil War in the late thirties, the Basques for the most part resisted Franco, hoping at the same time to win back some of their former autonomy. In this they were not successful, and today they are just another part of the population, without any special rights.

Perpetuate Their Language

It has usually been the rule for small groups to take definite measures to prevent their language from dying out entirely. The Basques are no exception for they have organized a committee of three Basques from France and nine from Spain into what is known as the "Academia de la Lengua Vasca," and it is the job of these men to tabulate all the dialects and subdialects which exist, make a scientific study of the language and to promote its use among the people. Of course every child learns Basque first and Spanish later. It is just as well that very few foreigners, outside of a few philogists, have to learn it, for it is one of the most difficult of languages, with a rich system of noun declensions and a complicated verb system.

Besides supplying many workers for the many industries of the north, the Basques are occupied with the most part in farming and fishing, and it is the products of these two industries which form a substantial part of their diet. They take a great interest in games of strength and endurance. They also have their festivals in which they appear in very colorful costumes, with white and red colors predominating. Their dances, which are an essential part of these festivals, remind one of the dances of the early American Indians. Since one more guess as to the origin of the Basques will not do any harm, perhaps at one remote time they came in contact with the Indians and learned these dances from them.

BRITONS' WIVES RETURN

Liverpool, England, Nov. 3 — (AP) — The troopship Empress of Australia returned today from Egypt with 416 disappointed wives and children of British servicemen aboard.

A month ago they sailed to join their soldier husbands and fathers in the canal zone. En route, the British government decided it was unsafe for them to land in the zone because of some rioting and shooting after Egypt scrapped the 1936 Anglo-Egyptian treaty. The wives and children were ordered to return.

Mayor Ayrhart, Campbellford, Presents Gift

Campbellford, Ont., Nov. 2— (CP)—Princess Elizabeth says she is "delighted" with a warm wool poncho, coat presented to her on behalf of the citizens of this Eastern Ontario town.

That was the word brought back by Mayor J. Ernest Ayrhart on his return last night from Montreal, where the presentation was made.

The mayor sent word to the princess that the coat, of an amber shade called "Yellow Crocus" is intended to protect her from "our bracing Canadian air" during her holiday this weekend in the Laurentian Mountains north of Montreal.

RICH RESOURCES

Lumber is an important product of Manchuria, which also possesses iron, gold, coal, magnesite and oil shale.

Tabernacle Church to Hold Special Services

Members of historic Tabernacle United Church will observe the 141st anniversary of their Church on Sunday with special anniversary services scheduled for the morning and evening.

Speaker for both services will be Rev. Frank Harback, the anniversary to be the last occasion on which he will be in the pulpit prior to his leaving for Ottawa where he has accepted a charge.

Mr. Harback will speak to his own congregation at the morning service. In the evening Holloway Street United Church and Bridge Street United Church will unite with Tabernacle. A welcome is being extended to friends of the congregation in the city and district to attend both services. Special music will be provided by the church choir under the direction of Mr. H. McNish.

HAVE WE POCKET BOROUGHS?

In Great Britain two centuries ago and later, when parliamentary government was being developed, there were ordinary agitations to end certain abuses whose existence could not be denied even by those responsible for them.

One of these abuses was what were called "pocket boroughs." A "pocket borough," in case you have forgotten the British history you studied when you went to school, was a community of in significant population which had the right to send a member to the British House of Commons, even although some large cities did not enjoy that right.

Usually, a "pocket borough" was a village with a population of perhaps 200 or 300 persons lying entirely on the estate of some great landowner. Since everyone in the village was also a tenant of the landlord, whoever was elected as a member of parliament for that borough (or constituency) was sure to be friendly to the landlord.

In addition to "pocket boroughs," Great Britain in those days had an even worse defect in its electoral system. This was the existence of "rotten boroughs." A "rotten borough" was a borough (electoral constituency) which did not have even a few hundred residents. The "rotten borough" was a locality which had formerly been the site of a village or town, but which had been abandoned by its inhabitants, or abandoned by all but one or two.

The "pocket borough" and the "rotten borough" had a good deal in common. The difference was only a difference of degree. In the pocket boroughs, the landowner could usually make sure that whoever was elected would be friendly to the landowner. In the rotten borough, the landlord could make sure that the borough's elected representative was a mere nonentity. In both instances, in these circumstances, representation by population was a farce. The British people fought vigorously before this situation was corrected, but it was corrected. Nothing has been heard about pocket boroughs or rotten boroughs in Great Britain for many decades.

But all this, some will say, took place long ago and in another country. There is no such thing as a pocket borough or a rotten borough in Canada. Perhaps not, but how much of the Canadian constituencies (or boroughs) which send members to the House of Commons, as listed by the 1951 edition of the Canadian Almanac, with the population of each:

Simcoe, 113,902; Glengarry, 18,732; Mercier, 85,380; Kings, 19,415; Spadina, 86,431; Middlesex West, 22,822; Halifax, 122,656; Russell, 27, 319; St. James, 93,851; Wellington North, 23,805.

The foregoing constituencies are widely scattered. Niplssing is in northern Ontario. Glengarry is in eastern Ontario. Mercier is in Quebec. Kings is in Prince Edward Island. Spadina is in Toronto. Middlesex West is in southwestern Ontario. Halifax is in Nova Scotia. Russell is in eastern Ontario. St. James is in Montreal. Wellington North is in southwestern Ontario.

It is not suggested that the Canadian politicians have juggled and gerrymandered the voting power of Canadians as badly as it was done in Britain long ago. But the foregoing figures indicate that at least a little revision would be in order here. One individual should not have five or six times the voting power of another.

COST OF HIGH LIVING

Is it the high cost of living that is causing so many to complain these days, or is the cost of high living?

In 1939, 4.4 million gallons of spirits were consumed in Canada. In 1950, consumption of spirits was 7 million gallons.

Between 1938 and 1950, beer consumption tripled; the increase was from 4.9 million gallons in 1938 to 15 million gallons in 1950. Even the consumption of wine increased from 3.5 million gallons in 1938 to 4.9 million gallons in 1950.

It might be added that the cost of alcoholic beverages has increased sharply since the war, also that the alcoholic content of the beverages has been reduced.

It may be argued that not everyone drinks alcoholic beverages, but the fact remains that the number of people, in this country as anywhere else, who will buy whisky or beer when they need pork chops is very small.

One conclusion we can reach from perusing these figures is that the people of Canada are not altogether destitute.

THE TRUE ARTIST

I stood and watched him mix his paints
I saw him at the landscape stare;
I heard him voice the old complaints:
"I cannot match the colors there.
In every tint of red I make
There's something missing, something lost,
In spite of all the pains I take,
I cannot equal old Jack Frost.

"The finest man-made paints I buy,
Always the canvas best
I use.
For color I've an artist's eye
And every shade with care I choose.

But, many an autumn scene I've seen
In rage into the fire I've tossed
Because among them all not one
Has matched the work of old Jack Frost.

"I've often stayed awake at night
To wonder how his paints are made
And why his blends are always right,
And so well-managed, light and shade.
Since so superb his art appears,
If time and patience are the cost,
I'd like to live a thousand years
To learn to paint like old Jack Frost."

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

November 3rd, 1931.

There, this morning, fourteen transients at the city police station last night and the night before were given breakfast at the city hall there.

Mr. Harold Coppin, traffic manager with the General Motors at Oshawa, is here to spend the week-end with his father, Mr. Thomas H. Coppin, Canadian National agent here.

Harold Coppin is another native of Belleville of the younger generation, who is progressing to the fore in the bigger business life of Canada and the automotive industry in particular.

Give a man a job is a good idea and there should be many of them. Let the men unemployed; storm windows and doors to be put on, leaves to be raked, cellars to be dug for the winter, wood to cut, etc. Even one week-end will help, because there must be many odd hours work to be done with an army which would give work to a number of men.

30 YEARS AGO

November 3rd, 1921.

In a basketball match between the G.T.R. team and the Bankers, the former team won the game by 36 to 23. The following composed the team: G.T.R.: Young, Meagher, Hurley, Stokes, Cassidy, Bateman, Holland, Armstrong, Jamieson. Spares, McCarthy and Chesnutt.

At a meeting of the Belleville Library Board 1,198 boxes of white cheese and 170 boxes of colored cheese were offered for sale and 81 sold at 13 13-16 cents.

After the canvas of the parishioners of Christ Church the sum of $750 was realized. At a social gathering in the Parish Hall last evening and more is expected. The canvassing for the place of the annual bazaar and the result is most gratifying. In addition to this amount the sum of $430 was received at the annual Thanksgiving service recently.

Mr. Tom Campbell of Calgary, Alberta, is visiting his mother, Mrs. T. E. Campbell, Patterson Street.

40 YEARS AGO

November 3rd, 1911.

In the early days of Belleville that part of the city which is now Front Street was a cedar swamp which the inhabitants traversed on stepping stones. The cedar trees and bushes have disappeared, but many wonder where the street has to be crossed is no better than it was before the street was made.

Belleville Market Prices: Butter, 26 cents to 28 cents per pound; eggs, 30 cents to 32 cents per dozen; chickens, 60 cents to 75 cents per pair; ducks, $1.25 to $1.50 each; turkeys, 24 to 32 cents per pound; $1 to $1.80 per pair; potatoes $1.50 per bag.

Mr. T. C. Thompson is spending a few days in Toronto.

50 YEARS AGO

November 3rd, 1901.

At a meeting of the Epworth League in connection with Bridge Street Methodist Church, the following officers were elected: President, Miss F. Lazier; First Vice President, Mr. C. D. Eshelman; Second Vice President, Miss A. Morton; Third Vice President, Rev. E. R. Dozsee; Fourth Vice President, Mr. T. Bynn; Secretary, Miss M. L. Johnson; Treasurer, Mr. J. T. Luton; Pianist, Miss E. Embury.

Black squirrels are numerous this year. Yesterday Ed. Bateman, J. McNeil and Thomas Gay shot thirteen black squirrels, one grey squirrel and a partridge in the woods not far from the city.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

"I REMEMBER, I REMEMBER"

Perhaps we may well say that memory is our one greatest mental gift. Without it all schooling and knowledge would be of no use. Without it we could not profit by our mistakes, note our progress, and the progress of the world by remembering what has been accomplished and what the world has gone through.

In early childhood, before the plastic impressions are made that never quite fade away. Older people remember their youth, and all attending incidents, whereas we forget even the immediate things. Perhaps this is what the Creator had in mind when He gave us memories that would sustain us during the coming years.

There are whole passages in Milton that appear "memory-borrowed," but as Milton, so has he been with many others, whose memory from reading has been so remarkable that they unconsciously write what another once wrote. I have studied a dear friend who was ill, and there I sat and listened to him repeating Shakespeare from memory by the hour!

What a blessing is this memory of ours. How much more blessed if we could but remember the good and happy things of life, and easily forget the sad. How many happy memories! Too many people remember only the unhappy things. Let us be more mindful of us pray to God that we may only recall the good and happy out of life.

In that remarkable address on "Memory" delivered by Dr. Osler, at St. Andrews University, May 3rd, 1913, Osler referred to a saying, someone had made, that "God gave us memory so that we might have roses in December." Memory gives far more than that. It gives us the memories of God, so that if we have lived it well, we may have it as a friend in old age.

Thomas Hood once wrote a beautiful poem entitled by himself, taken the subject of this talk. I quote the last stanza, as it is so expressive of the experience of us all.

"I remember, I remember,
The fir tree dark and high;
I used to think their slender tops
Were close against the sky;
It was a childish ignorance,
But now 'tis little joy
To know I'm farther off from heaven
Than when I was a boy."

NO DISCRIMINATION

Ottawa, Nov. 2 (CP)—Transport Minister Chevrier gave assurance yesterday that no retired employes of Canadian National Railways will forfeit any of their pension benefits through acceptance of the new $40-a-month old age security payments. He told Stanley Knowles (CCF-Winnipeg North Centre) in the Commons that no pension will be reduced, withdrawn or withheld" because of the new old age pension, which begins Jan. 1 next.

OUR TOWN

BY JACK SCOTT

CASH AND CARRY

It's a mile early, I know, but I've made my one and only New Year's resolution for 1952. I am referring to it as Operation Money.

It is my intention, as of January first, to put a Pay-As-You-Go system into the financial chaos of my domestic life. After years of treading the path of easy credit terms, nose barely above the surface, I have decided at last to build me a raft.

From that day on I'm buying with cash and I propose today to explain how the decision came about.

It is now close to 15 years since I slipped a thin gold band on the third finger, left hand, of the girl of my choice.

The wedding ring, itself, was one-third mine. I owned only the vest of the new suit, a brown serge with a white stripe, purchased for the occasion. The automobile waiting outside was my property six months away from being in my name. I owned maybe the steering wheel and a couple of tires.

The invisible guests at our wedding were the corporate members of the Retail Credit Men's Interlude Association. They have remained a shadowy part of my family life since that day.

At regular intervals in those 15 years I have had to speak about my home and scan the keyboard of a piano, one-sixth of a radio, half a rug, four-sevenths of 24-volume set of the Encyclopedia Britannica, three-sixths of a dining room suite, half a frigidaire.

These were the parts of my possession due to be truly mine. The rest were a sort of protoplasm gracing my home by virtue of the Credit Lamp known as "friendly credit."

For all these years my home economy was a relation of one borrowed time. Never have I had anything more than a quick peek through my eight-ball.

The Revolt

Looking about at my friends I find we've all been in the same boat. We're all living over our income. Never over them when we were making peanuts and we're living over them now when we're earning a decent wage.

Credit made it easy for us to have the luxuries we've made it seem easy, and I think it's to blame, as much as inflation for the high cost of living. The people I know are burdened with debt.

I have friends who can't afford a night at the movies in the last week's end. Yet they put out $30 a month for a new car. I have friends who have new modern gadgets in their home from electric blankets to kitchenware. Yet they have developing ulcers worrying about their budget. And for 15 years I've wrestled with them.

It was about a year ago that I began to rebel. I put it roughly this way to my wife.

"I'm tired of renting things. I'm tired of paying possessions because the credit people make it easy and attractive. I want to live so it,

MARMORA

Catholic Women's League Holds Pot-Luck Dinner

Marmora.—The October meeting of the Catholic Women's League took the form of a quilting and pot-luck dinner in Sacred Heart Hall, on Tuesday.

At 8:30 p.m. the regular meeting opened in the usual manner with the president, Mrs. Charles Cook, presiding.

Following the correspondence read by the secretary, Mrs. Ed. Warren, the treasurer's report was given by Mrs. J. O'Neill, showing a substantial balance on hand.

The president advised that the P.A. System in the church and P.A. System in the stage curtain for the hall, had been paid for totaling $972.

Visit Sick

Mrs. Hugh Brady and Mrs. J. A. Shannon were volunteered to visit the sick and shut-ins for the month of November.

Group number seven was asked to provide the refreshments for the November meeting.

The members were asked to bring articles for packing a box to be sent to Our Lady's missionaries and also used cotton goods for bandages and they will be picked up.

The president advised that gifts had been sent to Mr. and Mrs. D. Shannon and Mr. and Mrs. S. Bertrand on the occasion of their golden wedding anniversaries and letters of thanks and appreciation had been received.

The president thanked the members for their contribution of sewer pipe, sand and wheel, pie and to the fancy goods booth at the bazaar, and also for their assistance and co-operation during the bazaar.

A discussion was held and it was decided the objective for the coming year would be to pay for 100 chairs for the new parish hall.

League Commended

The Rev. J. A. O'Neill addressed the meeting, thanking the ladies for their efforts and assistance during the past year and asked them to undertake the drive again this year for subscriptions to the Canadian Register. Lists of subscriptions were handed to group leaders for canvassing and Father O'Neill commended the League for the resolutions passed at the National Convention in Ottawa recently regarding some radio broadcasts on religious subjects.

Mrs. Hugh Brady sang "Our Lady of Fatima", and "Mother, at Thy Feet is Kneeling", with Mrs. J. Black at the piano.

Mrs. J. Black gave a humorous reading entitled "Case of the Missing Salads".

After a few games were enjoyed refreshments were served by the ladies of Group 8.

Mrs. James Shannon was called to Toronto, this week owing to the illness of her mother, Mrs. E. Mulligan.

Mrs. M. J. Maloney has returned home after an extended visit in Kingston, with her daughter, Mrs. John Savage and Mr. Savage.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Crawford spent a few days in Toronto, this week.

Canon J. M. Brownlie are several laymen of St. Paul's, attended the annual Hastings Deanery Laymen's Association banquet and meeting in Canterbury Hall, Trenton, on Wednesday evening.

Eggleton Church W.A. Holds Pie Social

Madoc Junction—The pie social held at Eggleton United Church, under the auspices of the Eggleton W.A. proved a splendid success.

Rev. M. Clarke was chairman over a variety program, which consisted of, musical numbers by Mr. Mayhew and Mr. Smith on guitars with Mr. Mayhew singing a couple of songs; vocal solos by Miss Margaret Fisher and Miss Joan McCurdy and Mrs. Maurice Clancy and a humorous reading by Miss Gladys Clarke.

Instrumental numbers were given by Rev. Clarke and Mr. W. Vanderwater on guitar and violin and two numbers on the guitar by Master Bobby Clarke.

Two popular songs with guitar accompaniment by Mr. D. Denille and piano solos by Mrs. Donna Stapley and Miss Joanne Reide; a duet by Misses Grace and Anna Mae Clarke.

The ladies served coffee, sandwiches, and an abundance of pie.

TULIPS

Tulips have a fascinating history going back as far as the year 1634 when Holland developed what historians called "Tulip Mania." Some varieties sold for as much as $3,000.00 for a single bulb.

By studying catalogues one can make a selection of the many varieties and colors offered. They well repay a modest investment with their glowing, lovely colors. Any good garden soil suffices it well drained. An application of bone meal will provide slowly available plant food for the bulbs. It is best to put a handful of meal below each bulb. Plant about 6" deep and 6" apart. Mass effects are to be desired.

RAWDON

River Valley W.I. Sponsors Fine Hallowe'en Party

Rawdon.—On Tuesday evening, River Valley Women's Institute sponsored a Hallowe'en party at the school house for all the folks in the River Valley district; about 125 men, women and children were in attendance.

Mr. Richard Chard was master of ceremonies which opened with "O Canada".

For the very small children, Miss Nancy Finkle won the prize.

The school children were divided in two groups with Miss Dianna Richardson winning fancy dress and Miss Vicky Armstrong the comic.

Humorous Program

The program was mostly humorous with readings by Mrs. Ernest Carr, Mrs. Reg. Coombes and Mrs. Will Ashby.

Mrs. Harry Morrow delighted with two piano selections.

Mrs. George Heasman led in the sing-song in which all participated.

The pupils of the River Valley school sang a "Hallowe'en" chorus and their rhythm band gave a number.

Mrs. Ross Bush and her committee prepared a special bag of treats, an apple, candy and peanuts, for each child who attended the function.

The committee served bountiful refreshments, and wishes, pie and coffee.

A silver collection was taken to defray expenses.

MADOC JUNCTION

Madoc Junction.—Mr. and Mrs. Seymour Ashley, of Batawa, visited Mr. and Mrs. Hiram Ashley, on Saturday.

Mr. and Mrs. Connell Smith and Eric, of Toronto, spent the past weekend with relatives here.

Mr. Carl Reid spent last week-end at Guelph.

Mrs. Charles Stapley and Marilyn, have returned home after visiting with relatives at Carmel.

Sunday guests at Mr. and Mrs. Milton Reid's were, Mr. and Mrs. Keeble and Wayne of Belleville; Mr. and Mrs. Earl Benson and family, of Ivanhoe.

Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Flichel visited Mr. and Mrs. Oliver Stapley, Monday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Reide and family, were recent dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. George Nelson, Warkworth.

Mr. and Mrs. Maurice Clancy and Lloyd, were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Merrick on Friday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Bert Reide, Mrs. Warren Harlow, Mr. and Mrs. Carl Bridges attended Thanksgiving anniversary service, Sunday evening.

BULLETINS FROM BIRDLAND

by WINIFRED E. WILSON

NOCTURNAL

City dwellers cannot realize what absolute darkness is like until they find themselves far from any settlement on a cloudy, moonless night. Then the darkness can almost be felt. One of the greatest mysteries of nature is night migration. Mysterious, too, is the way owls, Wilson's snipes, rails, and black-crowned night herons manage to get around when most creatures are sleeping.

Though many birds are night migrants, they have not chosen to travel at this time because they like it, but from necessity. In daylight they must stop over to forage as well as rest. They face many dangers as they travel, the worst being bright, dazzling lights such as they encounter at lighthouses, and tall, city buildings, against which they are apt to fly and perish.

Perhaps you have come across an owl sitting on a branch, dozing in the sunshine. It is possible to go quite close before the bird takes flight, and for that reason people are inclined to think that owls are blind in day time. This is not really so, they are just trusting that they will not be noticed. A few even hunt by day, but habitually they are quite nocturnal, doing much the same work in darkness as hawks do in sunlight. Nevertheless, like bats, they seem to prefer moonlight nights to complete blackness, and their calls are most often heard during the first part of the night and in the early morning.

Several other kinds of birds are not absolutely nocturnal, yet they move around after dark. The Wilson's snipe often keeps fairly quiet through the day, then, after sundown, runs over the marshy ground, probing for worms. Towards dusk the rail appears from its cover, walking ten-fashion, with upturned tail and bobbing head, at the border of its home bog. The black-crowned night heron, as its name indicates, seems to prefer night to day for feeding. As twilight deepens, it leaves home, and seeks its favorite fishing ground, which may be several miles distant. There, with lowered head and curved neck, it patrols the water's edge, and woe betide any fish or frog that comes within reach of its long, sharp bill.

We have a bare nodding acquaintance with birds that keep such strange hours. Unwittingly, we must often stand within touching distance of an owl; the snipe can almost be stepped on before it rises from the grass; rails and night herons are scarcely known by sight.

VETERANS SEE FALLS

Niagara Falls, Ont., Nov. 3 — (CP) — Twenty-six wounded Korean war veterans from several United Nations countries last night saw the falls for the first time. They were guests of the Niagara Parks Commission and greater Niagara Chamber in the refectory over-looking the cataracts.

CENTENARY

Centenary.—Anniversary services at Centenary Church will be held on Nov. 4.

Mr. and Mrs. R. Hart are spending a week visiting with the former's brother, Mr. E. Hart and Mrs. Hart, Spreadbing, N.Y., and Miss Grace Wright, Utica, N.Y.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Sills attended anniversary services at Aikens' Church on Sunday and were entertained at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Harleigh Hamilton.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Hart and family dined on Sunday at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Ken Jones of Belleville, attending church services at Aikens' Church.

A Hallowe'en party under the auspices of the Home and School Association was held at the school on Wednesday evening. At the close of the evening, Mr. and Mrs. Burton Hubble, (nee Sills), a recent bride and groom of the neighborhood were called to the front and were presented with a lovely torchiere floor lamp, on behalf of Centenary community.

An address to the popular couple was read by Miss Betty Radford. The presentation was made by Keith Sills and Fred Edmondson.

Mr. and Mrs. Gordon Woods and Dawn, were Sunday night supper guests of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Backstal, 4th Thurlow.

WEDDINGS

McCULLOUGH—GRAVER

The marriage of Lena Lorraine daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Wilfred Graver, to Mr. Robert McCullough, son of Mr. and Mrs. John McCullough, of Toronto, took place in St. John's Anglican Church, Stirling, on Saturday, October 20.

Bouquets of white and yellow mums formed an effective setting for the double ring ceremony at which Rev. H. C. Secker officiated. Miss Katherine Wright played the wedding music. "Because" and "The Lord's Prayer" were sung by Miss Marilyn Eggleton.

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, was charming in a ballerina gown of drift white Chantilly type lace over satin. The jacket was buttoned to the neckline and fashioned with petal collar, and long, tight sleeves. The strapless bodice of the gown was cuffed, and the very full ballerina skirt featured a crinoline. Her bouquet was of red roses and white 'mums, and her tulle shoulder veil was caught by a cap of net over taffeta.

Mrs. Fred Sayers attended her sister as matron of honor, and Miss Mary McCullough, sister of the groom, was bridesmaid.

Both wore ballerina gowns of Pacific green taffeta, fashioned with bolero jackets featuring roll collars and short, ruffled sleeves. The strapless gowns had full skirts accented by a crinoline, edged in matching green net. Their bouquets were bronze 'mums.

Mr. Fred Sayers acted as groomsman and the ushers were Mr. John Smith and Mr. Gerald Moore, cousins of the bride and groom.

At the reception, which was held at the Golden Acres Inn, Belleville, the bride was received in violet crepe with grey accessories, and a corsage of white gardenia. The groom's mother assisted, wearing navy blue crepe and a corsage of red rosebuds.

Following the reception, the happy couple left amid showers of confetti and good wishes for Quebec, the bride travelling in a grey suit and navy accessories and a corsage of red rosebuds. Upon their return they will reside in Toronto.

MELROSE W.I.

The Melrose W.I. held their October meeting at the home of Mrs. N. Demille with an attendance of two visitors, 25 members and 12 children.

This stage has been completed and recently the second stage was put into operation.

Glad to Serve

All males between the ages of 19 and 26 who had not yet served in the army were called for registration. Tens of thousands of Israelis have been passing through the medical examinations and have found a place in the framework of the reserves, each one according to his personal qualifications and aptitudes. I might add that the Israelis are happy to serve in the reserve forces because they fully realize how much their safety and the safety of their families depends on a strong Israel.

The reserve army is built on a territorial basis. That is, all the members of one unit belong to one town or district. This has the advantage of simplifying the training arrangements and in an emergency saves time. This has the advantage of simplifying the training arrangements and in an emergency saves time. This has the advantage of simplifying the mobilization and assembling the units. This type of reserve army has already been successfully carried out in Switzerland.

Each soldier in the reserve force has to present himself for military training one day a month and for a complete month a year. The concentrated month of training takes place in camps at a military school under strict discipline and rigid military rule.

Live Under Canvas

The soldiers live in a camp, and eat in messes, and every soldier receives his personal equipment. Tents, cooking and military services are set up on the spot, i.e., kitchen, clinic, canteen, quartermaster's stores, sports apparatus, and a cultural room with newspapers and radio reception is attached to physical training and the fostering of comradeship, self-confidence, and endurance.

The organization of the reserve forces of the Israel army, a great people's army is being specially organized, ready to be called to the colors at any time when it will be withstand any attack on the young state of Israel.

Lack of Accommodation Limits Nursing School Enrolments

Toronto, Oct. 31—(CP)—Atom bombs occupied the attention of the Ontario Hospital Association's 27th annual convention yesterday.

Dr. L. O. Bradley, executive secretary of the Canadian hospital council told delegates to the threeday hospital convention that their part in a possible atom-bomb attack.

If Toronto were attacked, he said, the Toronto General Hospital would have to look after more admissions than are normally handled in eight months.

About 30,000 deaths could be expected in the first week after the bomb was dropped, 40,000 persons would be injured and half of them would need care.

Hospitals of every type in Ontario and border provinces would be called upon in varying degrees to aid the stricken area, he said, Dr. Dorothy G. Riddell, inspector of training schools for nurses told the convention of a shortage in accommodation for student and graduate nurses.

This lack of residence space is the principal factor limiting enrolment of students in Ontario's 19 city schools, she said.

Other hospital problems were discussed by the Toronto Hospital Auxiliary Association of Ontario, also meeting in Toronto.

Dr. George Pesrock, medical superintendent of the Kingston General Hospital, said: "We want emergency, not the panic we create, at the same time we do not want the cost of hospitalization to become prohibitive."

He said that hospitals could do a public relations job by informing the public of the cost of hospital service and how much "their dollar" at play falls short of maintaining services which they enjoy."

He stressed the importance of social insurance such as Blue Cross. "Without social insurance many families will be faced with bills when they are least able to pay them."

Elizabeth Did More Than Charm Washington Socially on Visit

Washington, Nov. 2—(Reuters)—Princess Elizabeth did more than charm Washington socially during her visit here which ended yesterday. She impressed those she talked to privately with her sense of her responsibilities and her practical interest which she takes in the free world's production effort.

The best example of this is a conversation between her and the United States defence mobilizer, Charles E. Wilson. The 56-year-old official told friends yesterday that he started talking to the princess after the White House dinner in the usual polite but not unduly serious strain which a veteran industrialist might use towards a young lady.

She surprised him by directing the conversation to the responsibilities of seeing in action the production of frames for Sabre Jet engines in Canada.

Wilson was one among many guests but the princess appeared to him to be thoroughly conversant with his functions as the mobilizer and the U.S. armament program.

Referring to her conversations with C. D. Howe, the Canadian production minister, during the Canadian tour, she added: "your opposite number, you know."

Many such anecdotes are circulating throughout Washington today following the departure of the royal party. They are the direct result of the informal and serious and responsible determination of the princess to talk to as many people as she can and to make her conversation with them something more than merely the polite exchanges of social pleasantries which everybody in Washington expected.

Thursday's giant British embassy reception was one of the largest, most smoothly organized and democratically attended embassy parties ever given in a capital famed for its entertaining in recent years.

The consensus in diplomatic circles at the reception was that the princess, the duke, and the British ambassador, Sir Oliver Franks, who organized it, had done more in one blow than anyone in the last 12 years to destroy the impression still prevalent in the U.S. that diplomatic people from Britain must behave like "stiff, stuffed-shirt, striped-pants snobs."

London Women See Fashionable Clothing Modestly Priced

By MURRELL NARRAWAY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London (CP) — Suits and dresses with a fashion-plate look, at prices most working girls can afford, were shown to a large audience of women in London's coliseum, well-known theatre in St. Martin's Lane.

Sponsored by a popular women's magazine, Women's Own the show was aimed at the young women, rather than buyers, some of the 14 models of up-to-date styles and colors obtainable at prices suited to every pocket.

Costing as low at £4 and fashioned to suit all tastes, styles ranged from the classic bolero through dress with its easy pleating to light-skirted Paris fashions with pencil slim skirts, big draping and balloon sleeves.

For £5 to £6 there were clothes even the fastidious might find "suitable for "that special date." Much of the new season, ever, lies in the choice of clever accessories.

Black suits and dresses with stark simplicity of line were highlighted by fur neck scarves in jade-green hat and gloves. The new charcoal greys might be teamed with leopard muff and fur-trimmed hat.

"Lady in Black"

A sophisticated "Lady in Black" outfit worn with Black accessories and priced at £7 10s. had a flowing line to the wide, waist-deep grosgrain revers, which formed the cowl-type over-flap to the apron front. The only touch of color to this delicate model was a yellow-and-brown waggor coat in birdseye check.

An up-to-the-minute garment with a utility price was the black suit, a look with new shoulder line, tiny pointed collar and red lining. Worn with black accessories or with a black suit, it had the somewhat sinister look reminiscent of Victorian melodrama. It may also be used as a reversible evening wrap.

Afternoon and evening wear included housecoats, cocktail strapless and evening dresses all at moderate prices. A lovely housecoat in black gold-trimmed sequra cost £7 19s.

Baby' Rose Marie Grows Up; Now 26 She is Gotham Star

New York, (AP)—She is five foot two eyes of baby blue, bright eyes and the 1951 figure, but I remember 21 years ago when she stood three feet high and her baby eyes gave me an enchanting twinkle.

Yes, Baby Rose Marie has grown up—26 years of her in all the right places, taking her vocal abilities right up the musical ladder to her present fame.

It was September, 1930, when we first met. Baby Rose Marie was RKO's new child scenario and critics hailed her as the one to succeed Sophie Tucker, Belle Baker and the other great vocalist singers then captivating the night club world. Pets was when Rosy Rose Marie had reached the age of five.

Rose Marie's mother did most of the talking and all the brunette, blue-eyed lass wanted to do then was climb onto my knee and whisper that she really knew what Amos and Andy looked like without make-up.

The other day she wasn't climbing onto my knee for obvious reasons and the brown hair had given way to blonde. But her eyes were still sparkling as the kid star grown up talked of her four-year-old youngster and discussed with me our mutual problems about the stage.

Bit of Sentiment

"I still haven't got quite rid of the Baby Rose Marie characterization," she said. "When I go to a night club I wear a Baby Rose haircut and costume and try to be Baby Rose Marie again for a night. Baby, and against it, I realize I don't fool anyone about my age. But, it makes me feel young again."

Miss Rose Marie—"Baby" that she says she played every vaudeville house in the country, starting at five as Baby, and again at 19 when she grew up to Rose Marie.

"But, before I tour the stages as 'Madam' I want to be on Broadway as a grown up, glorious and glamorous actress."

"Baby" is heading for that for she opens soon on Broadway with Phil Silvers and Joey Faye in the

American-Canadian Relations Discussed By Women's Guild

"American-Canadian Relations or Partners in a Free World," was the topic of study and discussion at the monthly meeting of the Women's Guild held on Monday evening in the home of Mrs. H. C. Seldon, Bleecker Ave. The program leaders, Miss G. Elson and Mrs. R. D. Scripture, held of an unofficial conference held at Niagara Falls, Ont., May 29 to June 5, at which "sources of disquiet" between Canada and the United States were aired and criticism of each other voiced without offense.

Differences of Opinion

Differences of national opinion occurred in relation to Japan, Germany, Iran, Formosa, India and the American Negro. United States feels that Canada is not carrying its weight in Korea, while Canada feels that United States becomes somewhat hysterical and inconsistent in international affairs.

Canada and Iceland are the only nations in the North Atlantic Treaty organization which do not have conscription. Canada can sympathize with India, Pakistan and Ceylon in a "neutral" attitude; but United States may be accused of having no care for the feelings of other nations; these and many other points were discussed at the Niagara Conference.

No disagreement however existed in support of NATO, in unity between the United Nations as the overall objective, that Southern Korea must be kept out of the Soviet orbit and must be helped to higher living conditions; that Germany is a decisive place, and none suggested that war is inevitable.

A worship service on the Christian National Responsibility, conducted by Mrs. A. Wells, and Bithngy into the program topic.

The president, Mrs. George Wright, opened the meeting and reminded the members to vote in the coming provincial election.

Mrs. A. Bell's group arranged a concert. At the close of the meeting, Mrs. Gelsthorpe's group served refreshments and a social time was enjoyed.

SISTERS ALL

By JEAN LOVE GALLOWAY

Hundreds of little business people from all over the country, as well as the lawyers and real estate men, write or visit one of the most important little shops in Toronto. Half hidden away in the ancient Arcade to the very heart of the city you can find the firm of Dye and Durham. Packed to the ceilings with its wares, all the store sells is legal and business forms.

There are forms for leases on farms, mortgages, offers to purchase, forms for agreements and contracts of every kind. Most printed forms cost 5c or 10c each.

If you want to rent your house on a lease for a certain term, or if you are about to rent one from someone else and you want a lease to bind the contract, all you do is shop for a duplicate printed lease form. You fill in the form, add any additional information, sign in the provided spaces and save yourself legal fees. At the same time you protect your own interests in writing.

In this day and age, there are forms for everything. They say there is nothing new under the sun. This particular store in Toronto's Arcade will supply you with a printed form for everything. And if they have not got it, they will set up, they'll make one to order.

Many people would save themselves great trouble and worry, if they would learn to make use of printed forms to order their business with others. Often an agreement doesn't seem to warrant the wheel of the car himself to go up to the city and consult a lawyer. And Uncle says no real man could ever prefer to be driven by somebody else.

* * *

Something inexpensive for lunch or bedtime snacks if you are fond of them, are pickled pigs' feet. They are packed in sealed glass jars which means the contents need no room on the shelf. Another item which we got this week for the first time, was a tasty bottle of mint sauce. It seems foolish to fuss making this sauce when you can add bit of lamb when you can have a bottle of delicious prepared sauce on the shelf for only 10c.

Uncle Frontchaz says he was told when he was a boy that the Duke of Edinburgh took the wheel of the car himself to go up to the castle Vancouver Island. Uncle says no real man could ever prefer to be driven by somebody else.

Some Tasty Ways to Serve Potatoes

Some like them new and some like them old,
Some like them hot and some like them cold,
Some like them mashed and some like them whole,
But uses for potato are still untold.

As colder weather approaches and appetites expand, a satisfying touch to breakfast, lunch or dinner may be found in the Canadian homemakers' old friend, the potato. This member of the vegetable family is a joy to cook. It can be served in many ways by itself or in combination with almost anything edible. It is easy on the budget and as a left over it has many uses.

Since potatoes are more frequently served with dinner than at any other time, serve them a different way each day of the week and surprise the family.

Baked potatoes cut in half, sprinkled with grated cheese and placed under the broiler until cheese is melted and golden brown, are a change from baked potatoes with just a lump of butter inserted in the top. Another idea is to remove a length - wise piece from the centre of a raw white, and the lid of an apple core. Stuff the hole with cooked meat, sausage or cheese. Plug ends with some of the potato that was cored out and then bake.

Duchess Potatoes

Variations for boiled potatoes, with an optional lucheon, are mashed or creamed, may include Duchess potatoes, consisting of mashed, seasoned potatoes with butter and beaten egg yolk added. The mixture is whipped until fluffy, placed by spoonfuls on a pan, or for fancy shapes pressed through pastry tube then brushed with slightly beaten egg white and browned in the oven. For that special occasion Chantilly potatoes may be served. They are mashed potatoes, seasoned and placed in a casserole, topped with whipped cream, sprinkled with grated cheese and placed in the oven until light brown.

Left over boiled potatoes may be served as hash browned, when they are chopped finely, seasoned with salt and pepper and browned in a frying pan. Lyonnaise potatoes, when they are cut in cubes, seasoned with salt and pepper, onion and parsley and pan fried until brown; Delmonico potatoes, when they are mixed with a cream sauce, seasoned and put in a casserole, topped with bread crumbs and browned in the oven; or as creamed, when sliced potatoes are shaped into cylinders, dipped in slightly beaten egg, rolled in bread crumbs and deep fat fried.

But don't restrict the use of potatoes to dinner menus. For breakfast the family may enjoy fried potato slices with their bacon and egg or potato pancakes instead of toast. For the pancakes, cooked mashed or grated raw potatoes may be used. For lunch, a hot or cold potato salad is always enjoyable. The home economists of the Consumer Section, Canada Department of Agriculture have provided a recipe for a tasty potato loaf.

Potato Loaf

2 tablespoons milk
1-4 cup butter
1-3 cup mayonnaise
2-4 teaspoon salt
1 tablespoon finely grated onion
1-3 teaspoon paprika
4 cups hot mashed potatoes (6 medium potatoes)
10 thin slices process cheese.

Add milk, butter, mayonnaise, salt, onion and paprika to the hot mashed potatoes, blend thoroughly. Mould in a loaf pan, 8 x 4 inches. Chill thoroughly. Remove from pan and cut into 6 crosswise sections. Place 2 slices of cheese between each section, allowing them to extend above the top of the loaf. Place in a baking dish or platter and bake in a moderate oven, 350F., until cheese is melted and a golden brown, about 10 minutes. Serve immediately. Yield: 6 servings.

Other Suggestions

Other ideas for using potatoes include soups, scalloped, nut breads, cookies, cakes and poultry stuffings. Recipes will probably be found in your favorite cook book, but if there are none, then try a little experimenting. It's lots of fun.

Originating in Peru, the potato travelled to Europe and then to North America. In Canada, there are many varieties but one variety may be better known in one part of the country than in another. The most common varieties of early potatoes are Irish Cobblers and Warbas Katahdin, Green Mountain, Sebago, Chippewa and Netted Gem are the later ones, which store well and are the ones seen in shops during the winter months.

Care in buying and storage of potatoes is important. For quality and uniformity in size, buy them by grade.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Here's a man to avoid

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 19, and in love with a man of 27. My parents don't object to my going out with him, but when I talk about marrying him they tell me it's wrong to marry a man so much older.

There is more to this problem, though, besides my parents' attitude. I love this man and want to marry him, and he says that he loves me but that he won't marry me, and he won't tell me the reason why.

I am jealous, and when we are out together he does everything he can to make it so, and then he tries to tell me he won't marry me because I am like that. I know though, that' is not the real reason. He was in love with another woman whom he intended to marry, and then they broke up. Could it be possible that he is still in love with her?

Miss C.

Dear Miss C.:

You are a very foolish girl, and only asking for trouble if you keep on going around with this man. Your parents are entirely right in their objections, not only because of the great difference in your ages, but also because, at his age, he is certainly a man of worldly experience, and you are totally inexperienced. Moreover, the way he treats you certainly shows him up as ungentlemanly, to say the least. On top of everything else, I don't believe for a minute that he has the slightest intention of marrying you, or that he is in earnest when he talks about being in love with you.

If you don't break off with him immediately and permanently, you are extremely likely to be very sorry.

A neighbor makes a pest of herself

Dear Miss Fairfax:

What does one do about a pest?

I have known a certain woman for four years, and in that time she has practically ruined my marriage by calling up my home at all hours of the night, telling me my husband isn't any good, that her husband isn't any good either, and that she doesn't like the way I raise my children. Because I am 24, and she is 44, she tells me I am like a daughter to her, hence her interest in me.

I have tried to get my husband to resent with her, but he tells me she has been the same way with him for at least 15 years; that she is just hopeless.

I have been taught to respect my elders, but so help me, I am at the point where I just can't take any more. Her daughter asks me to add that her mother is interfering with her marriage, too, and that her husband is at the end of his rope, trying to put up with his mother-in-law.

P. P.

Dear P.P.:

If I am to judge merely on the facts you tell me, I would say this woman is mentally ill. It is completely wrong that you or anyone else should have to put up with such annoyance, and if her husband can't do anything to put a stop to it, then I think you have a right to report it to the police. If you are unable to solve the problem any other way, I advise you to do this.

MARIO ... in his distinctive feature about FOOD ... What's Cooking?

The City Hotel of New York in 1794 had no leftover bread in the kitchen pantry. They solved this problem by the simple device of requiring guests to bring their own bread and rolls.

Left over bread for making crumbs should be exposed to the air to harden or else should be baked in a very slow oven, 250 degrees, until crisp but not brown. It should then be ground in a food chopper or crushed with a rolling pin, sifted and stored in a covered container.

One of the best uses of bread crumbs is to make bread sauce—an old favorite served with game or fish. Milk and bread crumbs are heated together until the sauce reaches the required thickness. No added flour or other starch is needed in this sauce.

Whole cloves and onion are heated with the milk for flavor, and then removed before the bread crumbs are added. For the best flavor use white—not toasted—bread crumbs. Try light bread sauce, garnished with ripe olives in today's fish recipe.

Halibut with Bread Sauce
Serves 4.

1 1-4 lbs. halibut steak
1 tablespoon vinegar or lemon juice
1 small onion
2 whole cloves
1 cup milk
2-4 cup hard white bread crumbs
Salt—pepper
1-3 cup pitted ripe olives
1 tablespoon butter or margarine
1-2 teaspoon worcestershire sauce

Cut the halibut into 4 equal portions. Sprinkle with salt and pepper.

Place the fish in a saucepan. Add 1 cup water and the vinegar. Cover pan with a lid. Bring water to a boil. Simmer 13 minutes. Reheat just before serving.

Cut the onion into thin slices. Put the onion, cloves, and milk in a saucepan. Heat over a small flame until bubbles appear around edge of saucepan, but do not boil.

Strain the milk and mix with the bread crumbs. 1-3 teaspoon salt, 1-8 teaspoon pepper and the butter. Simmer until sauce is thick. Cut the olives into quarters and add to the sauce.

Remove sauce from the flame. Add the worcestershire sauce and salt and pepper to taste.

Drain the fish. Pour the hot sauce over the fish in serving plates.

BEAUTY

By HELEN JAMESON

Reddens hands angered nervousness.

Hands up! Do they qualify?

Styles bring changes—in faces, figures, clothes, even hands. During the Victorian period the ideal hands were soft, small, insipid, lily-white affairs. The woman with large hands felt that she was at a disadvantage pictorially. When the sisters got the vote and fared forth to get jobs, the useless-looking hand took a back seat. The capable one has more character and is more interesting. It can pound a typewriter, run a car or an airplane, wield a golf club—activities about which our feminine ancestors never dreamed. Those old girls wore skin-tight gloves, while we slip into ample ones quickly and comfortably.

The shape, the length of the fingers, the general palms and knuckles are part of the physical ensemble that we inherit from our ancestors. But the appearance of the flesh and the manner in which we use our hands are our responsibility. Neglect can ruin the loveliest one; constant, confident, proper care may make the plainest ones beautiful. And beautiful hands are an asset of considerable value. What about yours, my friend? Are you doing right by them?

Like the complexion, they need frequent creaming. Like the complexion, they are benefited by massage. The nails and the skin rounding nails can be kept in condition only by the free use of a lubricant and friction. The color of the nails is provided by the blood streams in the underlying flesh. If they are rosy-pink you can know that your blood streams are travelling as they should.

There are two indispensables that should be placed near the wash basin—a small brush to the when washing the hands, and a nail-white pencil. While lathering with a bland soap, pass the pencil under the nail saver. It will bring out the dust quickly.

We suspect that some of the younger beauty-seekers, who use the rosy polish, sometimes neglect the eye-cleaning. Mustn't do. Germs may lurk there. We can pick them up from doorknobs, from nails, all sorts of objects.

Tranquil hands have greater appeal than flutter ers—those that are always waving in the air, twisting a lock of hair or fiddling with bracelet or necklace. Restless hands suggest nervousness, lack of poise. Sometimes they belong to the type of woman who is extra conscientious. Disturbed by self-consciousness, she thinks she must always be doing something with her hands.

Variety Show Offered Many Fine Attractions

Variety, color and music featured the fine entertainment presented in the Collegiate Institute auditorium last night under the auspices of the Belleville Baseball Association.

Although the inclement weather kept the attendance down somewhat, there was a good turnout.

One of the highlights of the evening was the presentation of "The Lord's Prayer", by the boys' choir of the Y.M.C.A. Other numbers rendered by this body included "Emperor Napoleon", "Grandfather's Clock," "A Week Day Song", "Old MacDonald's", "Comin' Round The Mountain", "Are You Sleeping", and "Whispering Hope."

Featured soloists were Sylvia Mosley and Ronald Elmy, recent local winners of scholarships presented by the Society For the Preservation and Encouragement of Barber Shop Quartet Singing in America.

The Formalaires, a recently formed barber shop quartet, offered several selections, to the complete enjoyment of the gathering.

Solos rendered by members of the boys' choir included "Monastery Garden" by Larry Tucker, "April Showers" by Walter Richards, and a trio rendition of "Mocking Bird Hill" by Larry Regensburg, Roddy Grills and Ron Poste.

Alec Gordon entertained at the console of the organ throughout intermission and during the program.

A draw for valuable prizes was conducted at intermission by Frank Grandams with the winners being as follows: Gary Flinder, Mrs. M. Marshall, Ernest Trumble, Don Lockyer, Mrs. Nell Daniels, Mrs. A. W. Cunningham, Charles Mott, Shirley Lloyd, Mrs. W. Cooley, Shirley Smith and W. Whelan.

Slippery Roads Direct Cause Of Car Accidents

Slippery streets and highways caused by the first snowfall of the season were the direct cause of numerous motor vehicle accidents in the Bay of Quinte district during the night as vehicles skidded off the pavement into the ditch.

In no case, however, were any serious injuries reported, although the occupants of one car were taken to hospital for treatment and later allowed to proceed on their way.

At least a dozen or more cars and transports skidded into the ditch between Trenton and Desoronto, while several were in the ditch on No. 14 highway both north and south of the city. Towing trucks did a land office business as they were called out to haul the cars back onto the road.

A loading transport was reported to had slid into the ditch between Belleville and Trenton.

In the city damage of approximately $750 resulted on Station Street, when a vehicle driven by William Steed, Murney Street, skidded and bumped two parked autos.

Steed was westbound when he saw a car emerging from the Doctor Hotel parking lot. He slammed on his brakes but the car skidded on the slippery roadway and crashed into a parked auto owned by Mr. George Tice. The Steed car then turned around in the street and bumped into another vehicle owned by Kenneth Wensley. Five hundred dollars damage resulted to the Steed car while the Tice auto was damaged to the extent of $225.

BLAST ROCKS PLANT

Buenos Aires, Argentina, Nov. 3 — (AP) — A strong bomb blast rocked downtown Buenos Aires today, damaging a printing plant which published Mrs. Eva Peron's book, "The Reason for My Life".

It was not immediately known whether the explosion caused any casualties.

Mrs. Peron is the wife of President Juan D. Peron.

First Snowstorm Blamed for Three Deaths in Ont.

Toronto, Nov. 3 (CP)—Southern Ontario's first snowstorm of the season was blamed last night for three deaths in traffic accidents.

Many minor mishaps were reported as up to 3½ inches of wet snow cut down visibility on streets and highways over a wide area.

A head-on collision between an automobile and a truck near Orillia killed John N. McDonald, 37, of Avondale, N.S., and Loretta Enright, 24, of Toronto. Injured in the same crash were A. x McDonald, 41, his 31-year-old wife, Violet, and Hugh McDonald, 33, all of Toronto. Linton Robinson of Orillia described by police as the driver of the truck, escaped injury.

John Hornbrook, 65-year-old retired farmer, was killed when struck by a transport truck during the blinding snowstorm. Provincial Constable Vince Coffey said no charge will be laid against the driver, Kenneth Johnson of South River, Ont.

Provincial police in the London district of western Ontario reported cores of accidents, none serious. Visibility was so poor that motorists could drive only between 20 and 25 miles an hour in safety.

Nearly four inches of snow fell on highways 3 and 19 in the Tilsonburg area.

Wildcat Walkout Appears No Nearer Solution

New York, Nov. 3 — (AP) —A strike threat by east-and gulf coast ships' officers was gone today, but the paralyzing wildcat walkout of longshoremen appeared no nearer solution.

The 20-day stevedore work stoppage has frozen more than 100 ships in New York and Boston harbors.

A grave new maritime tie - up that would have hit every port between Maine and Texas was averted last night after the officers put off their midnight strike deadline until the stevedore dispute is settled.

Charles F. May, president of the Masters', Mates' and Pilots' Union, (A. F. L.) said negotiations will continue in the officers' contract disoute with shipping operators.

The 13,000 officers seek increased pension and welfare benefits.

In the billion - dollar dock tie-up, some 20,000 members of the International Longshoremen's Association, (A.F.L.) are rebelling against their president, Joseph P. Ryan. They demand that he reopen contract negotiations with employers.

John J. (Gene) Sampson, leader of the rebels, said last night that Ryan was "the only way to end the strike."

Thought Hawker Was Selling Confederate Flag

A New York Times reporter covering the visit of Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip to Washington wrote of the success of hawkers selling Union Jacks to spectators in the American capital.

He wrote, "A young woman across from the Treasury turned up her nose as one of them (hawkers) came her way.

"Isn't it silly," she sniffed to the young man at her side," this silly fad for Confederate flags."

Vast Sum Said Owned by France To Thiery Heirs

Namur, Belgium. (Reuters)—Fortune hunters with claims on $4,300,000,000 lavished for an "invasion" of Paris.

Frozen by the French Government since Napoleon invaded Italy, the fortune grew back to the 17th century and has been gathering claimants but no interest ever since.

De Lieer, founder of the International Foundation of Jean Thiery Heirs, urged his "dear relatives" to "strengthen their ties and demand from France the fortune of our ancestor". Invade Paris, he said. Just how he would go about this, he did not say.

He got a job in Italy and met rich Greek merchant Athanase Tipaldi, who asked him to go on a world tour.

The Greek had no family and when he died left his money to Thiery. Even then it was valued at the equivalent of $56,000,000 and consisted of ships, sacks of gold and jewels and real estate in Italy and France.

When in came his turn Thiery willed the fortune to his family at Chateau Thiery, France. But the bulk of it was deposited in the Tosca Bank, Venice.

Napoleon got his hands on it in 1797 when he occupied the city. He took it back to Paris in 22 wagons. The French government used the booty to re-equip its army in Italy.

Churchill Ready With Plan To Save Britain

By ALAN HARVEY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Nov. 3—(CP)— Winston Churchill, British prime minister for the first time by the votes of the people, presents to parliament next week his plans for saving the country from what is depicted as a really alarming crisis.

In a setting shorn of much of the usual pageantry, Britain's 40th parliament — opening formally Tuesday—assembles to receive the outlines of government policy prepared by a Conservative party newly installed in office.

The policy statement which will be made public in the Speech from the Throne, comes at a time of suspense and tension. Britain's balance-of - payments problems have seldom been more starkly portrayed than in the last few weeks. There are suggestions in responsible newspapers that Richard Butler, new chancellor of the exchequer, was "stunned" by treasury surveys of the country's economic position.

Will Restore Stability

Measures aimed at restoring stability are sure to be forthcoming in the throne speech, which will be read at a combined meeting of the lords and commons by the new lord chancellor, Lord Simons. The King is still too ill to attend.

Conservatives and socialists will then plunge into details, with former Prime Minister Clement Attlee and Churchill revealing the roles they have played for the last six years.

Fail-dress debate on financial affairs is not expected to start until Thursday, when Butler is expected to detail Conservative plans for arresting inflation.

Gloom Over City

One of the special ironies of the situation lies in the brooding gloom of the city, London's business district. For years the city has been impatiently awaiting the fall of the socialist government. Now it finds itself wincing at the prospect of deflationary measures by the Tories.

Political columnists, editorial writers and financial editors have contributed to the mood of the suspense in which the Conservative proposal are awaited with surprising unanimity. Papers of such diverse political sympathies as the Liberal News Chronicle and the Conservative Daily Mail keep urging Churchill to tell the people in toil-sweat-and-tears phrases—just how bad things really are.

900 EMPLOYEES AFFECTED

Detroit, Nov. 3 — (AP) — Suspension of Lincoln and Lincoln Cosmopolitan model car production in its Detroit plant was announced yesterday by Ford's Lincoln-Mercury division. Production will be resumed late this month. Approximately 900 employees are affected by the shutdowns.

POPULAR IN U. S.

Oxford, England, Nov. 3 (Reuters) — Sir Waldron Smithers, Conservative member of Parliament, told a meeting last night that Winston Churchill is so popular in the United States that if he ran for president he would be elected.

Moslem King Making Plans To Wed Dancer

El Paso, Tex., Nov. 3 (AP)— Sheppard (Abdullah) King III, with a Mexican quickie divorce in his pocket, made big plans today to wed his beloved Moslem belly dancer.

King got rid of his wife Gloria, at a 30-minute session yesterday in a civil court at Juarez, Mexico.

Next it's off to the land of the Nile and the arms of Egyptian torso tosser Samai Gamal for the Texas oil heir.

Until he leaves in a couple of weeks, he'll stay in El Paso to "brush up on my tequila drinking and the mambo," King told a reporter.

King met Samia in Paris. After their love blossomed, he embraced the Moslem faith and acquired the name Abdullah.

Then it was disclosed he hadn't been divorced from Gloria, whom he married twice.

King said he will leave late in November for Cairo and "we'll get married as soon as I get there."

Asked about a Moslem ban on drinking, Abdullah said:

"Sure, Moslems have rules against it, but I'm what you might call modern Moslem."

HIT PAY DIRT

Liverpool, England, Nov. 3 (Reuters) — Sixteen investigators, sent here from London to track down a big-time gang of nylon smugglers, hit pay dirt last night. They found a cache of 33,000 American-style nylon stockings, 18 cases of American cigarets and crates of costume jewelry.

Three Women Hurt in Police Cells at Hamilton

Hamilton, Nov. 3 — (CP) — Three women were injured last night in a disturbance in the women's section at Barton Street jail.

They were identified as Mary Hadfield, 39, and Margaret Carroll, both of Hamilton, awaiting trial on charges of illegal possession of drugs, and Darlene Mascelli, 29, of Toronto, sentenced yesterday to reformatory on a shoplifting charge.

T. M. Gourlay, Ontario's chief Inspector of prisons, said in Toronto that Miss Carroll asked to be taken to the jail doctor. When she returned to the prisoners' corridor, the two women caused a diversion and the matron broke her key in the lock. The women then broke windows.

Later, after officers had got into the corridor, Miss Carroll struck her hand with glass, Mr. Gourlay said.

All three women were taken to hospital. Miss Radford was kept in the hospital for observation while the others were returned to jail.

Twelve other women prisoners quieted down when placed in cells.

COWS CAME BACK

St. James, Md., Nov. 3 — (AP) — Two 19-year-old reformatory prisoners who went after the cows and kept right on going were left behind bars today. John R. Sugars and John A. Cuthbertson were sentenced the cows came back but the prisoners didn't. They were nabbed yesterday in St. James.

OIL GRAVITY FURNACE -- Gives More For Your Money!

SAVE ON FUEL DOLLARS AND HAVE A BETTER HEATED HOME

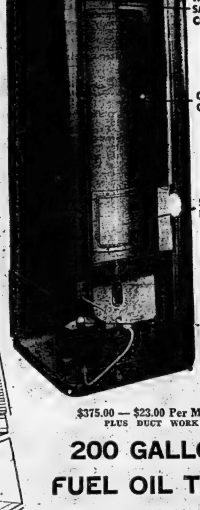
This Coleman Warm Air Oil Furnace does more than just produce heat and deliver it into the home. It MOVES THE HEAT—circulates it through all the rooms, providing uniform warmth. This means warm floor comfort. Approximately 35,100 cubic feet of freshly warmed air are moved by this furnace every hour.



It is a factory assembled unit—shipped as a complete package. This means easier, quicker installation — another saving—low first cost—low cost installation—low cost operation.

EXCLUSIVE COLEMAN DRAFT METER

The Coleman Draft Meter automatically and accurately controls excessive drafts. Prevents loss of heat up the chimney. The Draft Meter and Coleman Low Draft Burner operate as a team to assure maximum heat delivery from every gallon of oil consumed.

$375.00 — $23.00 Per Month
PLUS DUCT WORK

200 GALLON FUEL OIL TANK

Supplied with TANK GAUGE, OIL FILTER and all
AUTOMATIC CONTROLS

3-WAY SYSTEM

A very low-cost system to which individual runs to every room can be added at a later date—consists of supply grille and two return air grilles. Best results are obtained by placing warm air grille in a central location. The return air grilles can be placed near outside walls. Return air is carried back to the furnace through lined joist spaces, connecting to the return boots on each side of the furnace with drop pipes. A four-way system similar to this method except that two supply grilles are used can also be installed at low cost.

THERMO SAFETY CONTROL

A safety feature that prevents burn-out. If, for any reason, the furnace becomes overheated, it automatically shuts off the flow of fuel to the burner. It is directly connected to the Fuel Control Valve and if the furnace should reach an excessive temperature, it immediately trips a lever that closes the fuel valve completely.

2,590 Sq. In. HEATING AREA

A large area combustion chamber made of heavy copper-bearing steel transmits heat into the air stream flowing into the house. Copper-bearing steel absorbs heat quickly and releases it rapidly to heat the air. The size of this heating unit is in correct ratio to the air space between it and the outer casing so that all of the moving air will be thoroughly heated before flowing into the home. The casing is live air insulated so that it never becomes over heated. This keeps the heat in the air space so that more air can be heated at a faster rate. Service door is "weather-stripped" with an asbestos gasket. Combustion chamber is baffled to retain the heated gases until the heat can be transmitted into the home.

FUEL OIL CONTRACT

MAJOR

AUTOMATIC COMFORT

The Coleman Central heating plant comes fully equipped with this automatic electric temperature control. It regulates the heat output so that the temperature remains at the point you have selected for your own best comfort. The control set consists of a wall thermostat, a transformer and an electric head which is installed in the fuel control valve. When the thermostat has been set to the desired temperature, the necessary flow of fuel for that temperature is automatically controlled by the electric head. The temperature remains always the same without watching or adjusting. This prevents heat loss and saves fuel.

BIG TYPE STUFF!

Skusku, Dick Irvin doesn't have to resort to any carbon copy of Conny Smythe's tub-thumping bait such as that flamboyant "Battle of the Bulge" of many or less recent date. He has the greatest publicity medium in the world right under his nose in the person of Maurice, who some call "The Great", Richard.

The blasts of the anti blood-letters will echo loud and long after the Rocket's recent scalping whirl among his old pals of the Leafs, but their cries will only add to the publicity given to Les Canadiens and a goodly portion to Ire Maples with Richard in the leading role.

Richard bids fair to snatch the "temperamental" title away from operatic stars, a studio that full-busted sopranos and alien and pretty lovers and bosoms have enjoyed since Eve snatched Some one over to Mrs Hesse" to apple — hearty Pappo Adam.

It seems all that is necessary for the Rocket to blow his top is to approach within whispering distance of some kind of an NHL record, suffer some momentary frustration at the hands and skates of the forwards, the referee, the lid comes off and a wild and woolly Rocket takes off in a cloud of jet vapor.

He has already been tabbed with a couple of husky fines and suspensions for such schoolboy capers, but Prexy Clarence Campbell of the National Hockey League may take an even more serious view of the Rocket's recent blood-letting jamboree, not to mention a couple of whacks fired in the general direction of batting spectators.

It has been suggested that the Rocket is blessed or whatever you want to call it, with the generous helping of frenzy-runner complex. Last season in the now famous scoring race with Howe of the Red Wings, the Rocket demanded that he be sent "red-dened" for almost every game in the usual case. And he wasn't happy until he was out there.

Richard may be one of the greatest players of all time, from a goal-scoring point of view. But it takes something more than goal - scoring ability to earn the title of the "greatest player in history" or even a runner-up.

As Nels, "Ole Poison" Stewart said the other day, "Gordie Howe is the greatest hockey player in Richard and more useful to a team. He is more of the Howie Morenz type."

Morenz, Stewart said, was the daddy of them all. "They don't come like him very often — about once in a century. He had everything a coach could seek, grit, heart, skill, speed. You couldn't put the Rocket in the same breath as Howie and that goes for everybody else — including Bill Cook. None of them was in the same stable."

And as a step in his own right and holder of the present goal-scoring record of the National Hockey League, although it likely will be smashed by Richard or Howe, Stewart should know. He played against Morenz and has watched both Howe and Richard in action since they made their debut in major league hockey.

Leafs Must 'Double in Brass' If They Want to Be Around, Says Goal-Hungry Mr. Smythe

NAMED MOST VALUABLE IN NATIONAL LEAGUE

The Baseball Writers' Association of America has named Roy Campanella, the stocky Brooklyn Dodger catcher who refused to "fold" as the National League's most valuable player. The receiver, considered in many quarters to be the game's best since Bill Dickey, piled up a total of 342 points, 52 more than second placed Stan Musial, of the St. Louis Cardinals. A 24-man committee did the voting in New York which saw a first-place ballot counted as 14 points. Nine points were awarded for second place, eight for third and so down the line. Campanella was named on 11 1st-place ballots. — Central Press Canadian.

(By The Canadian Press)

It looks as though Toronto's Maple Leaf players are going to be highly interchangeable.

That's what managing director Conn Smythe says he wants in a National Hockey League player. It was one reason for the shunt to the minors of forwards Danny Lewicki and Ray Timgren.

"If you're going to stay in the hunt for the Stanley Cup you can't introduce too many young fellows and train them," said Smythe in an interview last night. "A team has to be interchangeable—every player must be able to do more than one job."

Other Changes

He was commenting on the recall from Pittsburgh Hornets of Rudy Migay and Bob Solinger. They'll replace Lewicki and Timgren. But Lewicki, 20-year-old Port Arthur, Ont., native said last night he wouldn't report to American Hockey League club. Smythe's said he didn't, he'd be suspended. Tingren left last night.

Smythe said that with the Leafs striving for more scoring punch the moves was necessitated in part by a defensive setup which allows a team to dress only 15 players, two less than last season.

He added there's no punishment was a game misconduct penalty which carries a $50 fine. President Clarence Campbell of the N. H. L. said yesterday "the incident is terminated" and no further action will be taken against any of the players involved.

Tonight, Toronto and Detroit Red Wings take on the Habitants in their two game Sunday night—New York, whose weekend contests give them a distance in the rear, plays at Montreal Detroit, while Boston Bruins go to Chicago Black Hawks.

Durando Verdicts Young in Ten, May Meet Gavilan

New York, Nov. 3 (AP) —Next Stop for Ernie Durando, Bayonne N.J., bomber, may be Nov. 16 date with Kid Gavilan, the welter champ, in a non-title 10-rounder.

Al Weill, International Boxing Club matchmaker, was in touch last night with Gavilan's manager. Durando after Durando, 156 1-2, upset Paddy Young, 159 1-2, in a 10-round split decision at St. Nicholas Arena.

Union Gavilan is injured in his Wednesday night Detroit date with Tony Janiro, the match will go on to fill an empty Madison Square Garden date.

Weill and Referee and Judge Bill Recht voted for Durando, Judge Nick Gamboli for Young. Miller had it 5-4-1, Recht 6-3-1 and Gamboli 5-4-1.

Sedgman, Savitt Meet for Title

Sydney, Australia, Nov. 3 — (AP)—If the seedings run true to form, Frank Sedgman, United States champion from Australia, and Wimbledon titleholder Dick Savitt of the United States, will meet for the New South Wales tennis title.

The Davis Cup aces topped the seedings announced today for the tourney starting Nov. 19. Sedgman headed the domestic list and Savitt the foreign draw.

The tournament will be the last test for U.S. and Swedish cup forces, who meet in the Interzone final the second week in December. The winner will challenge Australia Dec. 26-28.

Vancouver Plays Fifteen Games With Not a Win

(By The Canadian Press)

It's not likely to happen, but it's a good bet that the Vancouver Canucks are wondering whether they'll ever break into the win column in the Pacific Coast Hockey League.

In 15 games they have yet to come up with their first victory. Last night they came close again as they hammered home two goals in the final period to gain a 3-3 tie with Tacoma Rockets. It was their fifth deadlock against 10 defeats.

In the other two games last night, Victoria Cougars blanked Calgary Stampeders 3-0 and Edmonton Flyers beat Saskatoon Quakers 5-2 to run their unbeaten streak to six tills.

Against the Canucks, Tacoma held a 3-1 lead at the end of the second period with Barton Bradley, Len Balderson and Moe Young scoring for the Rockets and Hugh Currie for Vancouver. Lorne Davis got the Canucks' second counter and Ray Manson the tying goal.

Earl Johnston led Edmonton's attack against Saskatoon with a three-goal effort. Colin Kilburn, Johnny Raynak and Nellie Podolsky each added one apiece to the tallies. Red Hunter, Neil Strain, Johnny Chad and Alec Kaleta scored for Saskatoon.

Favor Hill Prince In Rich Race

Camden, N.J., Nov. 3 (AP) — New Jersey's richest harness race is at stake today—the $50,000 Trenton Handicap—and there will be a lot of surprised bookmakers if C. T. Cheney's Hill Prince doesn't breeze home in front of the pack.

Hill Prince "Horse of the Year" in 1950, has been having his troubles since injuring a foot in California. The Virginia-bred horse was beaten by Counterpoint in its last two outings, but evidently showed enough improvement to rate top weight of 130 pounds in the field's 9 which is slated to run a mile and an eighth at Garden State Park today.

Two other threats are leadore Belber's Palestinian and Greek Peters' entry, Brookmeade Stables.

Greek Ship is teemed with stablemate Picador.

Other challengers are the Bedford Stables' Call Over—a 15 to 1 shot—Mrs. E. L. Hopkins' Three Rings; Mrs. Walter M. Jeffords' Ted Cash; William G. Helzer, Jr.'s filly, Drifting Maid, and Mr. Harry Paul's trio of Inexorable, Seaward and Oil Capitol.

Yankee Golfers Take Firm Grip On Ryder Cup

By KEN ALYEA

Pinehurst, N.C., Nov. 3 (AP)—The grip Uncle Sam's golfers have had on the Ryder Cup for 16 years was considerably firmer today as the American team romped to a 3-to-1 victory over Britain's best in opening foursome play.

With play suspended today, the United States team needed only a split in Sunday's eight singles matches to retain the cup it has held since 1935.

It took a surprising 2-and-1 victory by Charles Ward and Arthur Lees over Henry Ransom of St. Andrews, Ill., and Ed (Porky) Oliver of Seattle to give the confident invaders their only victory.

Captain Sam Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., and Lloyd Mangrum of Niles, Ill., dealt a 5-and-4 trimming to Jimmy Adams and Jean Rainon. The U.S. open champion, Ben Hogan of Fort Worth, Tex., and Jimmy Demaret of Ojai, Calif., prevailed by the same score against Fred Daly and Ken Bousfield. Clayton Heafner, Burly Charlotte, N.C., pro and Jackie Burke of Houston, Tex., ganged up on Britain's open champion Max Faulkner and David (Dai) Rees, 5 and 3.

Counterpoint Opposes Thirteen In $50,000 Race

New York, Nov. 3 (AP)—C. V. Whitney' Counterpoint today gets another opportunity to prove that he is the best of the turf's three-year olds and the No. 1 candidate for horse-of-the-year honors.

The classy son of Count Fleet opposes 13 others in the $50,000-added Empire City Handicap at Jamaica. The field includes such top-notchers as Greentree Stable's Hall of Fame, Brookmeade Stable's Bold, and Hampton Stable's Alerted.

Counterpoint has twice beaten Hill Prince, 1950 horse of the year, and has won the Peter Pan Belmont Stakes and Lawrence Realization.

But he will carry 130 pounds for the 1 3/16-mile test, No horse has ever carried that much wei ht to victory in the race.

Dave Gorman will be up on Counterpoint, Ted Atkinson on Hall of Fame, and Willie Shoemaker on Bold.

Sport in Brief

(By The Canadian Press)

Snow and rain fell here yesterday and the weatherman predicted frozen fields for the start of the Western Canada football final between Edmonton Eskimos and Saskatchewan Roughriders tonight.

As the dreary weather dashed hopes of good conditions for the first game of the best-of-three final, fans wished that the tarpaulin that the Canadian Rugby Union has already for the grey cup final in Toronto Nov. 24 was in Edmonton instead.

Big, wet snow-flakes came down here for three hours yesterday morning, then turned to a drizzle. Rain at the field was a drizzle kept up all afternoon, then turned back to snow at nightfall.

"It will be a frozen field," the weatherman said, "with the temperature about 30 above at 8:30 p.m. (game time)."

At Los Angeles, second baseman Jackie Robinson of the Brooklyn baseball team innocently disclosed yesterday that Branch Rickey has already been rehired as manager of the Dodgers.

Robinson was talking about the criticism aimed at Dressen in Boston. Praising Dressen as a "great guy," Robinson added: "when Walter O'Malley (Brooklyn president) announced in the clubhouse after the playoffs with the Giants that Dressen would be back, we all cheered.

"I'm certainly glad he's going to be back and we'll prove we're behind him 100 per cent."

There has been no official announcement from the Dodgers about Dressen and 1952.

Mud turned into gold yesterday for Hal Price Headley when his Cajun raced home first in the Pimlico Futurity at Baltimore. The way to the $46,540 pot was left wide open when Greentree stable decided not to risk running Tom Fool on the waterlogged track. Tom Fool had been expected to be an odds-on favorite of five stakes victories. He is the leading contender for two-year-old honors of 1951.

Cajun came tearing up along the rail to beat G. F. Strickland's Lord Prian by nearly a length and pay $33.20. Brookfield Farms' Injureye finished third.

Mexicans Protest Irish Jumps Win; Canadian Team Takes Second Event

By JOHN CHANDLER

New York, Nov. 3 (AP)—International relations were slightly strained today at the National Horse Show as the Mexican captain objected to a decision giving Ireland first place in the West Point Challenge Trophy.

Col. Humberto Mariles complained that Capt. Michael Tubridy had cut inside a time marker flag during his tour of the 11-jump competition. He said he'll ask the matter be back in Madison Square Garden if his protest is disallowed.

No Official Protest

Brig. Gen. Alfred G. Tuckerman, president of the show, said any official protest must be made to the American Horse Show Association, which in turn would relay it to the Federation Equestrienne Internationale, for a ruling. A spokesman said it was doubtful if Mariles would make his protest official.

Tubridy, Maj. John Russell of the United States, Alvaro Toledo of Brazil and Mariles were 1-2-3-4 in the event. The four had ridden without a fault, but Tubridy had the best time, 33 2-5 seconds.

Tubridy was the last rider to compete, and talked to the judges before starting. He asked them if he could cut the time flags and was advised he could, Tuckerman said.

Tuckerman explained the markers were not shown on the chart of the course posted before the competition, and it was the option of any rider to cut them if he desired.

The all - Toronto Canadian team yesterday won its second international jumping event a good chance of taking the three-day low-score jumping competition in its final event Sunday.

W. B. Millard and Tom Gayford rode abreast in nearly flawless fashion over the nine jumps to come out with only one-half a fault.

The Canadian team, which also includes Lt.-Col. Charles Baker won the first day of the competition without a fault.

Bilts' Swamp Generals by 7-0 Score; 'Grandpa' Childs Stars in Tiger Win

(By The Canadian Press)

Art Childs, some say, played his first hockey game before Jerry Joy Watson knew what boxing was, and likes it.

Wilson may be a grand-daddy for the ring, but Childs, veteran Hamilton Tiger goalie, performed like a young colt in Brantford yesterday. The 40-year-old star in Ontario Hockey Association Senior A league win over Hamilton Redmen Childs blocked 42 shots in thwarting the Brantford attack.

Barola Sabres started to a 5-3 triumph over Kitchener-Waterloo Dutchmen, while Owen Sound Mercurys and Stratford Indians battled to a 4-4 overtime tie in other senior tilts.

Bilts Lead Loop

Guelph Biltmores again forged into the O. H. A. junior A series lead by skating to an easy 7-0 win over ninth-place Oshawa Generals.

A three-goal performance by rookie Greg Hicks sparked Kitchener Green shirts to an 8-4 decision over St. Catharines Blackpees. The win snapped a four-game losing streak and lifted Kitchener into third place.

Windsor Spitfires still looked for their first home victory, however, dropping a 7-1 verdict to the revamped Barrie Flyers. Flyers' new coach into a fifth-place tie with Toronto St. Michael's.

Hamilton evened up in a mild game—only two penalties were handed out—put them in the league lead. Lieutenant Governor Fred Pasowski each got a pair of tallies to lead Hamilton attack. Cormorant added the other. Stemmler, Holstead and Oberholtzer scored for the losers.

Owen Sohnd and Stratford remain deadlocked for second place at 3 apiece with their 4-4 aswift. Jack White, Don Heinbuch, Jack Thaler and Jack Lancaster scored for the Sailors, with Tommy Burlington, Roy Jackie, Moe Leiland and Gord Grant scoring matters.

Two goals in the final period by Ted Garvin and Chuck Hamill enabled Sarnia to hand Kitchener-Waterloo their fourth straight loss. Dave Ed Kulik and Harvey Jacklin matched first-period Sarnia goals for Gash and Don Emms. Billy Taylor accounted for Sarnia's other goal in the second period.

Murphy Gets Two

Ron Murphy, the league's top goal-getter; scored twice for Guelph with Ken Lundman, Aldo Guidolin, Andy Bathgate, Dean Prentice, McCreary and Louis Fontinato adding singles. It was Chuck Hagan's first shutout of the season.

Doug Mohns, with two, and Bob each by Don Cherry, Paul Knibb, Reg Cleodon, Campbell, Johnny Martan and Don McKenny accounted for Flyers' scoring. Bob Brown gave Norm Rowser his 3rd goal.

Bandits Hicks, Art Joyce, Red Ingoldsby, Mike Holowaty, Orv Teasier and Ron Austin scored for Cornwall Colts. Ken Ullyett, Brian Cullen, Orrin Gould and Buddy Boone were St. Kitt's markers.

Seven games, including four in the junior loop, will be played tonight. Senior games will see Sarnia at Kitchener, Brantford visit Hamilton and Owen Sound play host to Stratford.

Kitchener at Oshawa, in junior games tonight. A doubleheader is slated for Toronto Sunday afternoon, Galt at Marlboros and Guelph at St. Mike's.

Girls' Volleyball Jamboree Slated For OSD Nov. 7th

With thirteen secondary schools of the district entered, the annual Girls' Volleyball Jamboree held at the Quinte School for the Deaf gets under way on Wednesday, November 7th starting at three o'clock.

Competing teams include the OSD, Belleville Collegiate Institute, Trenton High School, Napanee C.I., Brighton High School, Belmont High School, Madoc High School, Stirling High School, Wellington Consolidated School, Campbellford High School, Albert College, Tweed High School and Picton Collegiate Institute.

Miss Isabel Gibson, of the OSD staff who is in charge of the jamboree stated yesterday that all schools of the district are invited to the tournament as well as the general public. Dancing will follow the completion of the jamboree which is expected to conclude about eight o'clock.

Protect Your Eyes While Shooting

BY JOHN ALDEN KNIGHT

(Noted Sportsman, Author and Creator of Solunar Tables)

It was a pleasant November day and my son and I were walking across a clearing toward a swale where we had found some grouse a few days earlier. As we pushed our way through the brush that fringed the clearing I realized that my shooting glasses were still in the car.

My son offered to go back to the car and get them for me, but I told him not to bother — I'd be careful. So on we went.

I was careful all right, up until the time we flushed the first grouse. Out he bolted from the far side of a briar patch. As I swung my gun to bear on him a fine branch laid across over the barrels and scraped across my left eyeball.

Result — a day's shooting ruined, a hurried trip to the doctor, blurred vision for at least two days, and nine permanent scratches across the line of vision of my left eye. All because I was careless.

Eye Injuries Common

Today, as I was writing this, I called a friend of mine, a doctor who specializes in the care of eyes. I asked him whether or not eye injuries were common during the shooting season.

"Very common," he replied. "Not just a couple; many of them, too many. Year after year they come in, most of them with injuries which shooting glasses very well could have prevented."

I must admit that I dislike wearing glasses of any sort, particularly in the outdoors. They bother me even on dark days and on rainy days they are an abomination. But I would much rather suffer some annoyance than risk damaged eyesight.

Each September my son and I journey to Maryland to shoot rail. This shooting is done, as you may know, under rather hazardous conditions.

At high tide the gunner and his "pusher" paddle to the area to be hunted. Then the mud of the marsh is under water and the little birds cannot run ahead of the boat. Thus, they take wing and furnish excellent shooting.

The rushes, reeds and wild oats in the marsh grow high and this, of course, cuts down the range of vision. Rarely does a day pass when a gunner is not sprayed by bird shot from another boat.

Of course the shot pellets are small, number 9 mostly, but they are plenty large enough to injure unprotected eyes. We wouldn't dream of going into the marsh without wearing shooting glasses of some sort. Even the pricker call "beards" are a constant threat.

Carrier Two Kinds

In my shell box I always carry two kinds of shooting glasses — the green or blue-tone for sunny weather and the chrome-like for gray days. Thus equipped I can shoot without fear of unpleasant eye complications and the two types of lenses eliminate loss of efficiency in both.

If you do much upland gunning, you know that eye injuries are common — so much so, that there is a name for them. It is small used, but enough for the one of the shooting party was "twigged."

I had to learn about shooting glasses the hard way. I guess that most folks do. Then in a three- cornered chunk missing from my right cornea, gouged out by a damp birch bud. When I read, this gives the impression of a small spot, but enough across the page. The left cornea, as I told you, has across it nine permanent scratches.

Good shooting glasses are expensive, but it is false economy to buy cheap ones. The reason for that is obvious. However, there is a substitute that works quite well.

You may recall that last spring I wrote a new story about the polaroid eye shields as an aid to fishing. This year we tried them out on a rail marsh. I'm not at all sure that I don't prefer them to any prescription shooting glass.

Polaroid eye shields do two things for me that my glasses do not do — they cut down glare from reflected light almost completely and they act as a visor to protect my eyes from the side.

Two Suggestions

I asked my friend, the eye doctor, if there were any suggestions he me to pass on to those who may suffer eye injuries in the field this fall. This is what he replied.

"Yes, there two; tell them to wear protection of some sort — - - glassed, polaroid shields or what have you. I they do happen to suffer an eye injury, caution them to find medical attention as soon as possible. A slight injury may cause infection and that, in turn, can be very serious. Don't neglect an eye injury."

I hope that my eye injuries in the field are at an end. To be sure, accidents always can happen, regardless of how many precautions are taken, but believe me mine will be reduced to the absolute minimum by wearing adequate protection. My eyes are too important to me to take chances.

Looks Like Cold Weekend Over Most of U.S.

Chicago, Nov. 3 (AP) — It looks like a cold weekend over most of the United States.

The central and mountain states were frigid areas yesterday, with sub-zero temperatures from the Rockies to Lake Superior.

Snow fell over wide sections of the south from Alabama to New Mexico. Snowfalls in Arkansas measured up to six inches.

Light snow pelted areas in Tennessee, Alabama, Mississippi and most of Kentucky.

Cooler weather was predicted for parts of southern Florida over the weekend. And freezing weather was forecast for northern Florida Sunday morning, threatening tender truck crops.

A killing freeze also was predicted for the winter vegetable area around Laredo, Tex., Sunday.

At least seven deaths in Texas were attributed to the cold.

A warm wing pushed into Colorado last night, sending temperatures to 44 below, as compared with six below zero yesterday. Oregon also reported some warming.

PLAN MARRIAGE NEXT WEEK

New York, Nov. 3 —(AP) — Crooner Frank Sinatra and actress Ava Gardner plan to get married in Philadelphia next week, but they're sitting out the three-day waiting period in New York.

The couple applied for a marriage licence yesterday in Philadelphia. They tried to get a judge to waive the 72-hour wait required by state law. But the judge said no.

So earlier the pair can be married is Monday. However, friends said the ceremony will take place Wednesday in Philadelphia.

SAYS:

ACTRESS EVE ARDEN, equally well known as "Our Miss Brooks" (CBS), is a delightful person, as I learned in a Toronto-to-Buffalo train interview. With two small adopted daughters, Eve married actor Brooks West, who gives the family two Brooks. Eve's hobbies: collecting pewter and primitive paintings by children. The worst experience of Eve Arden's acting career happened recently during "Our Miss Brooks." Eve lost her voice! While her leading man "covered" for her, while members of the cast handed her glasses of water and cough drops on which she munched furiously, the tears poured down her face and she stood speechless before the mike. It was agonizing. Finally regaining her voice, Eve Arden carried on expertly, the radio audience unaware of her plight. "Our Miss Brooks" heard CFRB, January 6th, 1952, when the New Liberty-Bob Kesten Annual Award as Best Comedy Show of 1951...

TWO LITTLE GIRLS, Laurie and Lynn, had a fine big pumpkin in the window last Wednesday. Their dad, newscaster Jack Dennett, was out to share. With a sharp knife-court, Jack and his wife decided to carve a big grinning face for their daughters' Hallowe'en. Followed months of work and, in the end, a very pleased pair of youngsters. "Biggest thing we ever saw," said Jack resolutely. The Dennett Hallowe'en pumpkin, with candle-lit face, was the envy of the neighborhood. Did the Dennetts now have 49 pumpkins to give away. AT THE BELLE — The kiss, a subject of universal concern ever since Adam and Eve decided to go steady, is treated eloquently and ample, Elizabeth Taylor and Montgomery Clift combine restraint with intensity in a searing embrace that may well become a film classic. Other vividly realistic love scenes in this romantic drama pair Clift with dynamic Shelley Winters. "A Place in the Sun" was produced and directed by George Stevens.

The Ribbicer

The beauty of signals in bridge is that they cut out most of the doubt. They give partner a picture of what you hold. They save you from guesses about what your partner holds.

There was this deal:

♠K Q 7 2
♥A Q J 8
♦ 5
♣K Q J 7

| WEST | EAST |
|---|---|
| ♠8 3 | ♠J |
| ♥K 10 3 | ♥7 6 5 4 2 |
| ♦K Q J 9 4 | ♦10 8 6 3 2 |
| ♣A 6 5 | ♣10 9 |

SOUTH
♠A 10 9 6 5 4
♥9
♦7 2
♣8 4 3 2

The bidding went like this:

| | | | |
|---|---|---|---|
| Pass | 1 D | 2 D | Pass |
| 2 S | Pass | 4 NT | Pass |
| 5 D | Pass | 6 S | All Pass |

The two diamond bid by north was an overcall in an opponent's suit. Such a defensive bid shows at least nine tricks and guarantees there are no losers in that suit. It is also forcing to game.

Thus, if no bid intervenes, partner is forced to make a responsing bid of some kind. However, since any bid he makes is forced, he is likely to have not a trick when he bids.

But south has four tricks; the ace, two short cards in hearts, and one short card in diamonds. His partner has promised at least nine tricks. So south sees enough tricks for a slam.

Thus, south gives north some signal to show his hand is much better than a blank. He does so with a jump bid of two spades. Which gives north slambitions.

The four no-trump bid by north is the convention for asking partner how many aces and kings he holds. The five diamond response is the convention for showing only one ace and no kings.

With an ace now known to be in opponent hands, north decided to stop at a small slam. So, he bids six spades and south must not disturb it. The four no-trump decides the final contract.

That's horse sense, too.

Albert Scores 23-14 Win Over Campbellford

Albert College senior B football team won the championship of the COSSA Bay of Quinte district yesterday afternoon defeating Campbellford High School 23-14 in a deciding playoff game on the latter's field.

The college crew spotted the village team 13 points in the first quarter and looked like curtains for the city students. They rallied in the second quarter scoring an unconverted touchdown while holding the homesters scoreless for a half-time score of 13-3.

Two converted major scores in the third stanza against a single point gave Albert a 17-14 lead and they went on to win in the fourth quarter with a single and a converted touchdown.

Dave Elliott, Napanee, was the shining light for the collegians with quarterback Shepherdson going the yeoman service in calling the plays.

Wells, Rose and Ibey were the outstanding players for the hard-fighting Campbellford squad.

If the northern section of the district does not want to go further the Albert team will meet Whitby, Lakeshore winners next Saturday in the COSSA playdowns.

Movie Column

Hollywood, Nov. 3 — (AP) — Nina Foch, newly discovered as a sexy beauty, can't figure it out. "It's the same old 'story," she sighed. "You have to go to Broadway to show Hollywood you can do good movie roles. And you have to be seen in the movies to land good stage parts."

When she was under contract to Columbia, the studio could think of her only as a portrayer of neurotic females. "You're not sexy," she was told.

But M-G-M thought otherwise. In her three films there, she has been an eye-appealing clothes horse. In "Young Man in a Hurry," she competed with Denise Darcel for Glenn Ford. And she plays Marie Marie Antoinette in "Scaramouche."

Unhappy?

Nina isn't too happy about the turn of events. "Now I'll have to go back to Columbia to get a neurotic role again," she sighs.

June Allyson has a casting problem, too. But she isn't getting sexier. Just younger.

June plays most of the time in "Too Young to Kiss" as a 16-year-old.

"I'm going backwards," she declared. "Isn't it awful? I understand they are now dusting off a few old Margaret O'Brien scripts for me."

KILLED BY GUN BLAST

Schenectady, N. Y., Nov. 3 (AP) — Pearl Thomas, 26, was killed by a shotgun blast last night as she was leaving her fiance good night at the door. Police said she was shot by Robert Richmond, 58, who roomed on the second floor. The woman's fiance, Matheo Long, 28, was not injured. Police quoted Richmond as saying he had warned the couple to move along and "cool" when they took their time.

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is according to the stars.

For Sunday, November 4

March 21 to April 20—(Aries)—Venus and the Moon in favorable position, and no planets unfavorably aspected, augur for a pleasant day if you lend a helping hand. You in armed services, all: seek God's comfort through prayer.

April 21 to May 20—(Taurus)—Encouraging for your interests, family and worthy social affairs. Necessary tasks should be done quietly, cheerfully. Start day at church; pray for all mankind, world peace.

May 21 to June 21—(Gemini)—Good indications; Selfish desires are not wanted. Among most favored are artistic home and family matters, and of course religious devotion. Urgencies need not worry, take them in stride.

June 22 to July 23—(Cancer)—Your Moon's fine position stresses doing your best, whatever the schedule. Go to church; if not possible, pray at home. Urgent work, military matters favored. Be hopeful, cheerful.

July 24 to August 22—(Leo)—Pleasant though not exciting tendencies. Indulge rightful Sunday activities, church services, friendly gatherings, healthy fun, and some needed rest. Essential tasks first. Blessings!.

August 23 to September 23—(Virgo)—Your Mercury among the generous, benefic aspects now. Brain work, smart ideas not difficult if you really try. Also sponsored are recreation, reading, the arts, spiritual devotions.

September 24 to October 22—(Libra)—Taurus and Cancer notes applicable to you today. Catch up with neglected charity duties, correspondence, visiting friends, the ill, etc. Fine day for all wholesome interests.

October 24 to November 23—(Scorpio)—Mars, Saturn nil: other planets very friendly tend to make this an adaptable, quieting, albeit productive, period. Keep an even disposition, go to church, get some exercise.

November 23 to December 22—(Sagittarius)—Similar tendencies to Scorpio now. Your day can bring happy returns depending muchly upon the effort you expend and your attitude generally. Prayerful occupations recommended.

December 23 to January 21—(Capricorn) — No unfriendliness with which you cannot cope. Home and other personal interests, study, good reading and brain work greatly favored. Remember your duty to God; don't do unnecessary things.

January 22 to February 20—(Aquarius)—Familiar matters, the usual daily routine can be made more pleasant by your co-operative, cheerful attitude. Create happy activities for family, worthy friends, and don't neglect soul's needs.

February 21 to March 20—(Pisces)—Neptune advises all to be especially careful in water sports, shipping, etc. Today generally is encouraging; benefic and can give you much happiness as well as profit. Pray, rest.

YOU BORN TODAY: Fiery Mars is your planet and you have striking characteristics, among them daring, enthusiasm, great activity, determination and personal magnetism. If your true self, you are keen of perception, fond of travel, (yet truly love your family), are usually self-controlled and practical. Guard against flattery, being too self-confident, this latter can cause nervous strain through your procrastination. Talent for music, writing, oratory, strongly inherent. You should do well in public work, as journalist.

Birthdate: Guido Reni, famed Ital. painter; Will Rogers, Amer. humorist.

MADOC

St. Peter's W.M.S. Commemorates 65th Anniversary

Madoc.—On Thursday afternoon the members of St. Peter's Women's Missionary Society held a special meeting commemorating the 65th anniversary of the first W.M.S. society in their church, at Madoc.

While members and their friends were gathering, quiet music was played by the pianist, Mrs. Crawford, with Mrs. Field Allan, the president, conducting.

The service opened with the singing of the 90th Psalm and was followed with Rev. W. H. Hoelip reading the lesson from the 103th Psalm and leading in prayer.

The president extended words of welcome to the many visitors present. Mrs. Ivan Blakley, the secretary, read letters of greetings from the following former members of the congregation: Rev. John Poole, Rev. and Mrs. Marshall, Rev. R. S. Graham and Mrs. Graham, Rev. and Mrs. Larsen, Rev. J. G. Murdock, Rev. and Mrs. Armstrong, Mrs. Jean Muldrew, Mrs. Kate Wigg, Mrs. Elwood Cseely, Dr. W. A. Harper, W. Rupert and Mrs. F. Lethbridge.

An appropriate solo, "Bless Thou, O Lord, For All Thy Blessings", was sung by Mrs. Franks.

Kingston Greetings

Rev. M. W. Hoelip brought greetings from the Kingston Presbytery paying special tribute to the women of the various societies of the church, particularly the W.M.S.

Greetings were given by Mrs. Hoelip in the absence of Presbyterial president, Mrs. Smart, for the Kingston District by Mrs. Rutherford, of Peterborough, brought greetings from Peterborough Presbyterial.

A poem "Thanks Be To God", was read by Mrs. Cecil Wood.

A short memorial service was conducted by Mrs. Earl McCoy, who spoke briefly of the work of the pioneer women.

Flowers were placed on the communion table in memory of Mrs. W. Rupert and Mrs. Ed. Hallidon, by members of their families. The singing of "For All The Saints Who From Their Labors Rest", paid a beautiful tribute to all.

A life membership certificate was presented to Mrs. John Armstrong, who has been an active and faithful member of the W.M.S. by Mrs. John Hallidon.

Special Speaker

The guest speaker was Mrs. Tate, of Millbrook, vice-president of the Provincial Society of Toronto and Kingston. She brought greetings from the board and said it was a n auspicious occasion as she had attended many 60th anniversaries but very few 65th. In an interesting and fitting address for the occasion, she said, "we must build on the foundations of the past, and in these anxious times, we must advance. Today is your day, Today is my day, and we must all play a part, no matter what is God's plan, so that we do not know and we must face the 'to-morrow'. All that we have, all that we are, we owe to the past, but all we can give, we owe to the future. Summed up in four parts, we must give of our substance by the gift of love; by the gift of a living witness by the Word of God, and lastly by the gift of prayer."

A quartet "I'll Go Where You Want Me to Go", was sung by Mrs. R. Lewis, W. Hill, Alvey Attinson.

Rev. W. H. V. Walker, of Stirling, gave the dedicatory prayer for the offering.

"Story of the Years"

"The Story of the Years" was ably given by Mrs. John McCaffrey, who is now one of the oldest members of the society. She paid tribute to the memory of the late Mrs. W. Mackintosh who, through the years has kept a record of the society and also was the first president. Mrs. Blakley was also an active member and her daughter, Jean Sinclair McKay, became a missionary in India. Tribute was paid to all who have passed on and to their work.

Miss Mary Mackintosh read the names of the other members who have all passed on. Mrs. Hoelip gave the story of the Mission Band, and Mrs. Alvey Hill reported for the C.G.I.T.

A candlelight service was held for St. Peter's church and those that are branched from it for their days, St. Paul's, Elzevir, St. Columbo, Cooper, St. Andrew's-Congdon, and St. Peter's Mission Band and the C.G.I.T. Mrs. Allan Franks sang an appropriate solo "The Lord Bless'er", which was followed by a hymn and closing benediction by Rev. R. W. Hallidon.

The ladies were entertained in the school room with Mrs. Fred Curry and Mrs. George West pouring tea. Mrs. Thos. Leslie, of Queensborough, cut the birthday cake.

Mrs. Allan Johnston thanked the guest speaker and all who had contributed to the afternoon meeting on this memorable occasion.

Guests were present from Belleville, Stirling, Trenton, West Huntingdon, Queensboro and sister charges of Madoc-Village, St. John's Anglican and Trinity United.

The Outsiders

By Jane Abbott

"Who is this man? How does he know? How much does he know?" whirled through Eliza's head, and she felt the old guard-whoso stiffening her, confusing her for the moment.

"If you mean my mother taking me away when I was little . . . she knew that right it she wanted to? I was as much her child as I was my grandfather's granddaughter."

"I don't mean that in itself and she did have that right, but . . ." I was thinking—your grandfather and the mill stood for more to the people here than a big boss and a means of livelihood. They'll wait to see if there is a change—what you're going to do. They are thinking of your different upbringing."

Eliza felt the panic of the night before catch at her throat. But she was not going to let this man, this stranger see it! She rallied indignation as a defense. She got to her feet. "Thanks for your warning, Mr. Cameron."

Chris stood up.

"Miss Forrestal, if I can help you at any time, will you let me?"

Eliza lifted her head higher.

"Thanks but I do not need your help."

That, she thought, should effectually silence him, but Chris exclaimed, in a wholly different tone, his regard of her changing to a puzzled interest, "Miss Forrestal, have we met before? When you said that, the way you said it—it rang a bell."

She said icily, "that isn't possible, I've only been in this country two weeks." Then without looking at him, she jumped down from the rock, ignoring the hand he put out to help her.

She walked down the trail, and Chris followed, making no attempt at further talk, until they were in the barn, when he caught up with her.

"By the way, I really came up this afternoon to see Major." The friendliness that had made his voice pleasant before was gone from it now.

"Major?" Then Eliza closed her lips. She had meant to speak to him again.

"You don't know? Your grandfather's dog. Hasn't Hespeth told you of him? He's refused to eat since your grandfather died. That is quite a long time, now. I'd like to get him over to my place and see what I can do with him. With your permission of course." He turned toward the barn door as he spoke.

Without her permission! Though her indignation was to go in the house and into it and shut a door on Mr. Christopher Cameron for good and all, Eliza followed him into the barn.

The barn was big and dim. From a stall in a corner came a low growl.

Chris walked over to it. "Now boy! Don't you know me?" He went into the stall, but he was positioned backward so Eliza to stay out. "It's Chris! Here, boy, get up."

Chris looked down at the dog, then over his shoulder at Eliza. "That's your grandfather's car in the driveway, isn't it? I recognized it. I'll carry Major out to it and you can drive us over to my place." He spoke with some curtness.

"That isn't necessary. I'll call a vet from Cranford," said Eliza from outside the stall.

Chris came to her. "And if Major goes before a vet can get over from Cranford?" He stood close to her looking down at her, his face stern.

"Wouldn't that be a mercy?"

He did not answer that but went past her and out of the barn. Another growl from the stall sent her hurrying out, herself. She saw Chris Cameron going into the kitchen as she went around the house to the front door and then into her grandfather's study. Certainly he would not follow her now to pursue her here!

She dropped down in the chair at the desk; her heartbeat fast. The room, facing east as it did had gathered shadows and all of a sudden she felt small in it and too alone, as she had up on the rock, that moment Chris Cameron appeared, and she sprang up and switched on the old crooked-neck desk lamp and then a lamp on a table and another on the wall. . . .

Hespeth said, putting her dinner down before her, "Mr. Cameron told me to tell you he got the dog to eat some. And that he'd be coming up tomorrow morning. To see the dog, he said.

"Tell him, when he comes, Hespeth, that I prefer to have a vet take care of the dog!" She said it coldly.

A vet?" Hespeth stood a moment, as if she had more to say, then turned and stalked out of the room.

The Cranford vetinary told Eliza over the telephone, the next morning, that he could not come to the valley until late afternoon or evening. He was busy, he said, and it was a considerable distance.

Eliza was a little disturbed until it occurred to her that, if Major had eaten something in the night before he most likely would again, this morning. She would feed him herself—prove to Mr. Chris Cameron that she was capable of taking care of the dog without his help.

She asked Hespeth, "what do you think Major might eat?" She herself knew nothing about feeding dogs; her mother had detested having a dog near her.

Hespeth allowed her face to show surprise. "Milk," she said. I've some crusts to soak in it." Without more words she got out a pitcher of milk and a bowl and began to break the crusts of bread into it.

Eliza looked at her wrist watch Nine-thirty. When Major was attended to, she would go to the mill, remain there all morning.

She had spent her breakfast before reading a book which she had found on her grandfather's shelves. Its introductory chapter had told of the first making of paper by hand, that called it an "art." She had read it with deep absorption, and by the beginning of the long, long way this art had come, from the Chinese to the Arabs, to Europe, to England, to America, to this valley. . . .

There hadn't been time to read the whole book but she would have another morning, every evening she would study, this and other books on the shelves. The glow of the old desk lamp and shut her in pleasantly.

She recognized her eagerness to get to the mill as a little like the eagerness she felt whenever she entered a new school—the reviving hope that it would give her something she had not had before.

Hespeth put the bowl in her hands. "Maybe he'll eat it and maybe he won't."

She carried the bowl to the barn. But no sound of a growl came from the stall as she walked toward it, calling encouragingly, "Hello Major! Good boy—I've something nice for you!"

She went cautiously into the stall. Major lay against the wall, asleep she thought. She spoke his name again and then she gave a little appalled cry, Major was dead!

"Hespeth! Hespeth!"

She called it as she ran out of the barn, the milk sloping over the rim of the bowl and running down over her skirt. "Hespeth! I think—Major is dead!"

Hespeth came out, went into the barn and Eliza waited at the kitchen door, trembling a little, her fingers tight on the almost empty bowl.

"I am not to blame!" She found herself repeating it aloud, defensively. "He'd have died anyway . . . It's absurd to shed tears for a dog I never met until yesterday afternoon!" Though she knew the tears that stung her eyes were not from grief.

"He's dead," pronounced Hespeth returning from the barn. "It's a pity—he was a good dog." She went past Eliza into the kitchen.

Eliza heard the brief words a judgment passed on her. Of course Chris Cameron had told Hespeth he had asked the Major home with him, and that she refused. . . .

She followed Hespeth into the kitchen, "What will we do with him?"

"Mr. Cameron'll likely want to bury him. He set a lot of store by him. He used to come here evenings and sit with the old man talking, before the fire, and the dog at his feet between them there."

They'd talked about her perhaps—that was how he knew so much about her.

"Then if you will tell him. . . ." said Eliza. "I'm going down to the mill."

"Look at your skirt," said Hespeth.

Eliza looked and saw with consternation the stains on it. "Ive nothing else to wear!"

"If you'll take it off, I'll wipe it clean and press it," offered Hespeth.

Eliza stripped off the skirt and gave it to Hespeth. She sat in a chair, an apron wrapped around her knees and waited impatiently, while Hespeth with maddening deliberation sponged and pressed the garment. Any moment Chris Cameron might appear!

Hespeth finished at last. Eliza hooked the skirt around her waist, pinned up her hem and with a quick "thanks" directed toward Hespeth's back, went out to the car.

But as she opened the door of it Chris Cameron came around the corner of the house. He lifted one hand in salute. "Good morning, Miss Forrestal!" He came up to the car.

Eliza gripped her fingers around the steering wheel. "Major's dead," she said, her eyes on the driveway ahead.

"He is, is he!" Chris said it quietly. He was silent a moment. Then, in the same quiet tone, "I'll help him, if you'd like to have me take the job off your hands."

MACBETH TO SINGAPORE

Toronto, Nov. 2 (CP)—Jack Macbeth, Toronto-born newspaper man who last year spent six months in Korea as an Associated Press war correspondent, is off to the far east again—as for the AP—this time to Singapore. Macbeth, 30-year-old Royal Canadian Navy veteran and former sports editor of the North Bay Nugget, went to Korea in midsummer of 1950. He was with the U.S. Marines in their evacuation from Hungnam last winter. He visited Canadian troops shortly after the arrival in the Korean theatre.

J.P. Bickell Estate Of $14,577,518 Goes to Charity

Toronto Financier, Mining Man Died on August 22

Toronto Nov. 5.—(CP)—John P. Bickell left an estate of $14,577,-518, it was announced here today. Much of it will be used to create a philanthropic fund to be known as the J. P. Bickell Foundation.

A Toronto financier and mining tycoon, Mr. Bickell died at New York, Aug. 22. He was 67.

He founded his Canadian business and finance spanned four decades that saw the dominion grow from a predominantly agricultural country to an industrial nation.

He started his brokerage business in Toronto when he was only 23 and retired after 12 years to devote himself to growing mining interests. At one time he was president of three mining enterprises, the largest of them McIntyre Porcupine Mines, Ltd.

In 1946, Canadian-born Lord Beaverbrook called him overseas to help with Britain's aircraft production.

Half the income from the plan-ned J. P. Bickell Foundation will be paid in perpetuity to the Toronto Hospital for Sick Children. The balance will be used for charities as the foundation trustees decide.

The will directed that the trustees pay 10 per cent of the foundation's annual net income to educational organizations "to be used solely for medical research."

Another 10 per cent a year will be paid to Ontario educational organizations for scholarships and bursaries in mining, geology and geophysics.

Child at Hermon Burned to Death, Home Destroyed

Bancroft—Trapped in his blazing upstairs bedroom despite frantic efforts on the part of his mother to save him, Morrell MacConnell, 2½, son of Mr. and Mrs. Richard McConnell of Hermon, 16 miles east of here, was burned to death early Saturday night.

The McConnell home was completely destroyed with all household contents.

Five other children from six to 13 years were saved from the burning home. The mother, 46-year-old Mrs. McConnell, was seriously burned about the head, face and arms in the attempt to rescue her son and is being treated in Bancroft Red Cross Hospital.

Rescued from the blaze were Clarence, 6, Gordon 8, who were asleep in the lower upstairs room and Clayton and Claude, 10-year-old twins, and Rose, 13 years, the older sister, Vicky, 15, and the father were not at home at the time of the fire.

Screams Heard Upstairs

Mrs. McConnell had put her youngest son to bed at 7 o'clock and an hour later as the rest of the children were getting ready for bed a scream was heard from upstairs.

The mother and Irene rushed upstairs only to find the boy's bedroom ablaze with flames already billowing out the door. Mrs. McConnell attempted to quench the flames with a pail of water but was unable to do so. In the excitement she slipped and fell headlong downstairs.

Then, with most of the hair singed off her head and with serious burns about the face and arms she gathered her four other sons and pushed them out into the night. The temperature was well below freezing and 10 inches of snow was on the ground.

Family Given Shelter

The McConnell's received shelter for the balance of the night at the home of the neighbor, Mr. and Mrs. Ramsbottom. Mrs. Ramsbottom gave Mrs. McConnell first aid before she was sent to hospital.

Cpl. A. Graying of the Ontario Provincial Police in Bancroft said after investigation that the fire apparently started from a defective chimney flue in the room the boy's upstairs bedroom. He quoted the family as saying the pipes had been cleaned Saturday but the base of the chimney had not been cleaned. Two pet dogs owned by the McConnell's also died in the flames.

The McConnell home was on an isolated road two miles north of Hermon. With the exception of the Ramsbottom's, there were no other neighbors.

Found in Basement

The body of the dead boy was not recovered from the ashes of the home until late Sunday afternoon. It was then found, charred beyond recognition, amid the debris in what was the basement of the home.

Coroner Dr. G. Anderson was called but it is not expected there will be any inquest. The funeral will be held Tuesday.

Residents of Bancroft and district Sunday came to the rescue of the destitute family. A group of members of the Lions Club and the Lioness Club of Bancroft, a complete set of clothing for all the children was provided as well as additional clothing for the father.

Mr. McConnell, a carpenter and laborer in the Bancroft district, was not at home at the time of the fire and did not learn of the blaze until later. Savings of $100, won by the eldest daughter, Vicky, were lost in the blaze.

DIES OF HEART ATTACK

Kingston, Nov. 5 — (CP) — Samuel Abramsky, 51, vice-president of the Joseph Abramsky and Sons, Ltd., department store, died yesterday of a heart attack while on his way to a deer hunting camp at nearby Ompah.

500 SPECIALIST TROOPS ON WAY TO GERMANY

First of Main Body Of 5,000 Troops to Sail

By DOUG HOW
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Quebec, Nov. 5 — (CP) — Five hundred specialist troops of the 27th Canadian Brigade set out today for Germany to take their place among western Europe's defence forces.

The men, from a dozen units and sub-units of the brigade, are the first of the main body of the 5,500-man Canadian force to sail.

They have been preceded by advance parties which have organized the brigade's camp area near Hanover in the British sector.

I boarded the 13,500-ton Canberra, a Greek Line passenger steamship, here last night and early today by dismissing their chauffeur and driving the Canberra yesterday morning.

Then we leave the Laurentian snow and wintry weather for the cool, frosty weather of the Maritimes.

Before they cross the Restigouche into northern New Brunswick they will be given their last stops to make at St. Hyacinthe, Drummondville and Riviere du Loup Rimouski and Mont Joli.

Fredericton First Stop

First Maritime stop is the New Brunswick capital of Fredericton Tuesday morning. After that they go in order to Saint John, Moncton, and Sackville, N.B.; Truro and Halifax, N. S.; Charlottetown, P.E.I.; Sydney, N. S., and finally St. John's, and Portugal Cove, Nfld.

They leave the royal train at Charlottetown and make the stops after that in the big Canadian cruiser Ontario.

Maritimers were hoping their beautiful fall weather and colorful scenery would hold for the royal arrival but there is little left of the autumn leaves and gold on the rolling hillsides and rugged coastline.

Royal Couple Rolling Down To Sea for Nautical-Flavored Welcome Before Going Home

Ste Agathe Des Monts, Que., Nov. 5—(CP)—The royal couple today were rolling down to the Maritimes for a nautical-flavored hail and farewell.

Ca sade's four Atlantic provinces will say the country's goodbye after an 8,000-mile whirlwind program by sea, land and air, from coast to coast and a sidetrip to Washington.

A little Newfoundland fishing fleet will escort them over the Sea-quid jigging ground of Portugal Cove to board their liner Empress of Scotland at St. John's, less than a week later they'll be home with Prince Charles and Princess Anne.

The final leg of the trip started early today in a minor blizzard with this covered Laurentian skiing resort 1,500 feet above sea level after a jave-day holiday —the most informal of the tour. It was a holiday in which they threw snowballs, built a "Mr. Churchill" snowman, went for a sleigh ride, had brief Christmas card scenery and finally surprised everybody by dismissing their chauffeur and driving the Canberra yesterday morning.

Then we leave the Laurentian snow and wintry weather for the cool, frosty weather of the Maritimes.

Before they cross the Restigouche into northern New Brunswick they will be given their last stops to make at St. Hyacinthe, Drummondville and Riviere du Loup Rimouski and Mont Joli.

GREECE, TURKEY BRING 500,000 MEN INTO NATO

Not Most Efficient But Most Determined

Athens, Greece, Nov. 5. (AP)—Greece and Turkey, facing Russia across patrolled borders, will bring more than 500,000 fighting men into North Atlantic defences.

These prospective members of N.A.T.O. may not have the most efficient troops offered to Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, but they probably are among the most determined.

These neighbors occupy two of the most important positions in the global concept of possible battle. Greece is a many-fingered peninsula jutting into the Mediterranean. Turkey guards the Bosporus and the Dardanelles — Russia's only direct outlet for surface ships to that strategic sea.

United States military officials on the spot say both countries are vital to European defences and must be held.

They say that concept and the apparent loyalty of both countries to the west that the U.S. has based on Greek and Turkish fighting arm and revitalize the Greek and the Turks.

A quick swing through the two countries is sufficient to catch the feeling of grimness that has been reflected in the ferocity with which Turks and Greeks have fought in Korea. It also showed the outlines of major problems yet to be solved.

Top Heavy

In proportion to population, the two countries maintain top-heavy armed forces.

Turkey, with a population of 21,000,000 has 22 divisions totaling more than 440,000 men in uniform.

Heavy Red Attack Drives UN Forces Into Off Strategic Hills

Battle on 8-Mile Front Strongest in Two Months

U.S. Eighth Army Headquarters, Korea, Nov. 5 (AP)—Chinese Reds today hurled back allied infantrymen attacking two hills lost to tank-led communist north-west of Yonchon on the west front.

Reds won the hills Sunday when they threw elements of a division of 10,000 men against one eight-mile front. It was their biggest attack in two months.

The U.N. positions along an eight-mile front. It was their biggest attack in two months.

Battle Continues

First reports said Allied infantrymen and tanks drove back the reds and regained all lost ground by Sunday midnight. But an Eighth Army communique by U.N. forces were "heavily engaged" in continued fighting in the area Monday morning. It said the allies had withdrawn from two hills, features west of Yonchon. It gave no details.

Warplanes knocked out six of 20 red tanks and one of three self-propelled guns sighted in the assault during eight hours of vicious fighting Sunday. Monday, Allied planes were hunting the tanks that got away, as well as supporting ground troops.

The U.S. Fifth Air Force said its jet pilots shot down two MIG-15s, probably destroyed two and damaged six in three dogfights Monday over northwest Korea. No allied planes were lost in aerial combat, but two were shot down in other parts of Korea by ground fire. Both crews were rescued, but the air force added.

In all, 93 American Fighter planes were pitted against 145 of the Russian-made MIGs.

An official breakdown found no special significance in the reds' heavy ground assault. He said it is continuing "as part of the Allied outport or advance posture with a numerically superior force.

Advance Two Miles

Across the peninsula Allied units advanced two miles in one objective attack northwest of two miles Monday in a limited operation. The reds were reported attacking U. N. units occupied a hill against light red resistance south of Kosong.

Only action reported from the central front was a platoon-sized red attack southeast of Kumsong. The attack was repulsed.

The attack on western front began in later afternoon after a day-long artillery duel in which allied officers said the reds fired about 10,000 rounds before sending their infantry into the attack. It began before the wave of Chinese in-fantry that the Allied lines had period of reasonably good health now."

Health of King Steadily Improves In Last 2 Weeks

London, Nov. 5—(Reuters) — The health of the King has steadily improved during the last two weeks, but need for care remains, an official bulletin from Buckingham Palace said today.

The bulletin said:

"The King's health has steadily improved during the past fortnight.

"His Majesty is up for the greater part of the day and though he has been able to attend to some affairs of state without undue fatigue the need for care remains."

The bulletin, issued since the King had a lung operation Sept. 23, was signed by the five doctors who have been attending him.

A London medical expert familiar with the phrasing of the bulletins described the word "improved" as "very reassuring."

The attack on western front began in later afternoon after a day-long artillery duel in which allied officers said the reds fired about 10,000 rounds before sending their infantry into the attack. It began before the wave of Chinese in-fantry that the Allied lines has period of reasonably good health now."

Canadians Fight Nine-Hour Battle With China Reds

By BILL ROSS
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

West-Central Sector, Korea, Nov. 5 (CP)—Canadian troops were subjected to a nine-hour attack by Chinese Reds today, it was disclosed today when a 48-hour censorship on the nationality of troops involved was lifted.

(Ross's previous cable on the action identified the troops only as Canadians.)

Waves of communist troops came on four times, surrounding a Canadian outpost position held by the Canadians, in platoon strength, fought back to the main defence lines, inflicting casualties on the enemy.

Lieut. E. J. Mastronardi of Toronto, the platoon commander, called for artillery fire on his position while it was surrounded, but this was refused.

At one time his flare pistol fell from his hand. Pulling his revolver jammed as he fired it at point-blank range, he snatched a bury gun from a dying Chinese to continue the battle.

Private Johnny Johnson of Windsor, Ont., calmly stripped his jammed rifle, worked in the heat of the action, and put them back in service. It was his first day with the company.

U.S. Reported Asking British, French Support for New Peace Formula To be Put Before U.N.

Paris, Nov. 5 (AP) — The United States is reliably reported today to have decided to propose a world-wide arms census including a system of verification for all atomic weapons.

The U.S. plan, which will be placed before the United Nations assembly here this week, would call for a system of verification for the atomic accumulation. It would prove to be the stumbling block which could hold up indefinitely any disclosure of the number of atom bombs in the U.S. and Russia.

Informed quarters said the arms proposal is the heart of a reported peace plan which President Truman will present Wednesday night and which Secretary of State Dean Acheson will present later, the United Nations Assembly, perhaps on Thursday.

Drastic Change

Inclusion of atomic weapons in the proposed arms census represents a drastic change in U.S. policy. The census question has been before the U.N. since 1946, but was linked with Russia's veto because the U.S. refused to include atomic weapons.

Word of the American States policy shift leaked out as the U.S. delegation prepared to move to launch its 1951 meeting here tomorrow. The U.S. is reported ready to back any move to support its new peace formula, aimed to head off the new peace punch before the Soviets have a chance to renew their expected peace propaganda. The main idea appears to be to bring together the leaders of western nations under one heading, launching them as a package proposal. According to best information available, this might include a plea to Russia for peace in Korea, the arms questions and an appeal for a unified election in all of Germany.

Confirmed by British

First reports of this new approach circulated during the weekend and were confirmed by British sources yesterday. Britain's new foreign secretary, Anthony Eden, had separate talks with both Acheson and Premier Pleven. Minister Robert Schuman within a few hours after he arrived here to head the British delegation to the U.N.

Wonder Drugs Losing Their Punch Against Germs Say Army Doctors

San Francisco, Nov. 5 (AP)— The wonder drugs are losing their punch like waging prize fighters, and doctors are beginning to wonder where their next antibiotic are coming from.

Penicillin, streptomycin, aureomycin and chloromycetin, all are less effective against microbes than they were two years to four years ago, says a study made by Drs. Donald M. Kuhns, and Matthew H. Fussile and Miss Monroe J. Romansky of Walter Reed army hospital, Washington, D.C.

The study was presented as an exhibit at the clinical Congress of the American College of Surgeons.

The most striking example shown was the weakening of penicillin against golden staphylococcus, a germ which causes abscesses and boils.

In 1947, the army doctors said, the survival rate of this microbe was only 30 percent in test tubes involving standardized doses of the drug. In 1948 and 1949 50 percent of the microbes survived the same dose.

In 1950 the survival rate was 80 percent and they were two to four years ago, says a study made by Drs. Donald M. Kuhns, Matthew H. Fussile and Miss Monroe J. Romansky of Walter Reed army hospital, Washington, D.C.

Fifth A-Blast In Current Test Series Exploded

Las Vegas, Nev., Nov. 5—(AP)—The fifth atomic blast in the current test series exploded at 8:31 a.m. EST today.

Thirty seconds later the atomic cloud customary in the detonations touched the ground and began rising over Yucca Flat test site, 75 miles away.

It was a big one, perhaps the biggest yet, reported observers here who have seen the previous blasts.

There was a purplish color to the mushrooming cloud.

An indication of the size and potency of this detonation was indicated by the attempted rain-making from the Atomic Energy Commission.

Radio stations in a wide area covering Goldfield, Beatty, and Caliente, Nev., were asked to warn residents to open windows in their homes and stores.

The reason this would be to lessen effects of tremendous concussion expected.

Seven minutes after the detonation there was a perceptible rumble in Las Vegas, along with a sudden blast of wind.

The brilliant flash of the burst was seen in Las Vegas at the same last Thursday, the first detonation in which troops participated in shock wave manoeuvres.

The cloud rose on its stem, and the mushroom above quickly acquired formations that looked like two ice gaps.

In Case of Frostbite Warm Frozen Parts Rapidly It Will be Painful

By HOWARD W. BLAKSLEE
Associated Press Science Editor

New York, Nov. 5 (AP) — Here is the latest from science on how to treat frostbite this winter.

Warm the frozen parts rapidly. Use warm water if possible, at body heat temperature.

This will hurt more than slow warming, but there won't be as much damage. Also the warmed rubbly less risk of an aftermath of gangrene.

Don't rub with snow. That just delays the recovery, even though it may not hurt as much.

This is all you can do, and what the doctors can do in soldier companies a few drugs that thin the blood or dilate blood vessels. These speed recovery and may prevent gangrene.

Last year there were high hopes of finding a new remedy for frostbite, because of the thousands of Korean fighters barely free from the cold.

Mrs. Dorothy Mae Stevens, of Chicago, the woman found rigid, by 11 below zero weather, in body temperature 64, the lowest recorded for a living human.

It was thought that her case might lead to a discovery considered the ideal treatment for recovery. She lost both legs because of the knees, but by all previous standards she was beyond hope of life.

Whatever she had that saved her remains a mystery.

The Korean war spurred military research. But all that came out was assurance that the old method of warming up quickly is still the best.

THREE RUNS MADE BY FIRE DEPARTMENT

Three runs were made by the local fire department over the weekend — all for minor blazes.

The first call was to 250 George Street where a toaster got overheated and the fumes filled the George St. for a chimney fire. The third was to the McDougall block on Front Street, where smoke from the furnace room filtered up through into apartments and resulted in the alarm being turned in.

ELECTORS REQUESTED TO CHECK LISTS

With the municipal election now less than a month away, voters in the city who have any doubt that their names are not on the voters' list are advised to check at the city hall and avoid disappointment at the polls.

It is pointed out by city hall officials that the municipal voters' list is compiled from the assessment rolls and it quite often happens that families move or arrive in the city after the assessor has made up his rolls. Those whose names are omitted from the list through no fault of the assessor's.

A check at the city hall will quickly determine whether a name has been omitted. Those in doubt are asked to call and check the lists personally.

STAFF MEMBER NAMED DIRECTOR OF SOCIETY

Mr. Harry J. Coppal, staff member of the Entomological Department at Belleville, was named director of the Entomological Society of Canada at their first annual meeting held in Ottawa Saturday. The meeting was held in conjunction with the 83th annual meeting of the Ontario Entomological Society.

Mr. Coppal who is with the forestry department is a graduate of Syracuse University.

TWO KITCHENER YOUTHS APPREHENDED

Two Kitchener youths, Vernon Shipley, 18, and Bill Gingrich, 17, were apprehended by city police early this morning in possession of a stolen car.

Police officers were patrolling on Wellington Street when they noticed a car in the ditch near Parker Street. Investigation showed that the had been stolen and through no fault of the assessor's. The two youths will be returned to Kitchener to face the car theft charge.

MINOR ACCIDENT ON FRONT STREET

An accident of minor nature occurred on Front Street in Sidney when autos driven by Orval Radford of R.R. 3, Belleville, and Marc Miller, R.R. 1, Frankford, collided at the corner of Campbell and Front Streets.

Miller, driving a 1937 Ford coach, pulled out of an alley between two stores in front of Mr. Radford who was going north on Front Street. The latter's hockey failed to grip immediately and as a result the two cars collided damaging the front fenders of both.

Damage was estimated at about $30 to the 1941 coach of Mr. Plymouth, and $10 to Miller vehicle. City police investigated.

RONALD G. MOORMAN ASSUMES POSITION WITH RIGGS MOTORS

Mr. Ronald G. Moorman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Moorman, of this city, has assumed a position with Riggs Motor Sales Limited. He becomes assistant to his father who is Vice-President and General Manager.

Mr. Moorman was born in Belleville and received his public and secondary school education here. He graduated from Queen's University, Kingston, in 1948, with the degree of Bachelor of Science. Following his graduation he entered the employ of the Ford Motor Company of Canada Limited, Windsor, where for three years he has been on the engineering staff of the Overseas operations division, during this period he had a wide and varied experience in the automotive industry. His many friends will welcome him back to Belleville.

BIGGER REWARD OFFERED

Toronto, Nov. 5—(CP)— The price on the head of the hatchet-slayer of Mrs. Edwin Davidson has been raised to $3,000. Relatives of the 43-year-old housewife, slain in her husband's midtown hardware store last June 6, offered an additional $1,000 reward during weekend. The police commission three months ago announced a reward of $2,000.

BRITAIN'S FESTIVAL ENDS

London, Nov. 5—(Reuters) — Speeches, cracking fireworks and a beauty queen contest Saturday night marked the closing of the Battersea Park funfair—and the end of the 1951 Festival of Britain. The big amusement park on the banks of the Thames River was the last principal festival attraction to shut down.

Magistrate Lloyd Dies Suddenly At Northbrook

Stricken with a heart attack Magistrate John Lloyd died suddenly at Northbrook in his sleep Sunday night. He was found dead in his bed by his family this morning.

Well known throughout the central and eastern Ontario district where he had acted for many years as police official or police court magistrate, Magistrate Lloyd was born at Cox Hill in 1872, son of Magistrate Lloyd and Mrs. Lloyd. He was 83.

His early life was spent in Northern Ontario where he was engaged in mining. Then in 1913, at the request of a friend, Mr. Edward Morely, he moved to Northbrook and has since resided there. Prior to his being appointed magistrate in 1931 he sold life insurance and operated a motor livery at Northbrook.

Following his appointment as magistrate he held courts in Renfrew county and at Kingston and in 1936 was given the northern parts of Hastings, Lennox and Addington and Frontenac counties as his itinerary. He held court as the occasion demanded at Sharbot Lake, Tichborne, Tweed, Madoc, Marmora and Bancroft.

Acted in City

During the war years following the death of Magistrate E. J. Butler, Magistrate Lloyd was acting magistrate at Belleville until the appointment of Magistrate T. Y. Wills in 1945.

A member of the Church of England, Magistrate Lloyd was also a member of the Andrews Masonic Lodge at Arden, the A.M. Madoc and King Baldwin Preceptory No 8 at Belleville, and Ranness Shrine, Toronto.

Surviving are his wife, the former Grace Zeller of Northbrook; two sons Lionel, building contractor at Kingston, and Lorne, department of Highways engineer residing at Northbrook, and two daughters, Mrs. George (Violet) Hope of Loon Lake, near Cloyne and Miss Mary Lloyd at home.

Two brothers, Thomas of Bancroft and Fred of Napanee, and four sisters, Mrs. Harry (Harriett) Webster of Toronto, Mrs. Harold Mabbitt, Asbury of Frankford, Mrs. Norman (Theresa) Hastings, Arden and Mrs. Harry (Alice) Bird, Madoc, also survive. A brother, Henry Lloyd of Bancroft died two months ago as result of an accident.

The funeral is being held Wednesday afternoon with service at the United Church in Northbrook. Interment will be in Northbrook Cemetery.

ARRIVE WITH AIRCRAFT

Lisbon, Portugal, Nov. 5—(AP) — The Aircraft Carrier Corregidor arrived yesterday with a consignment of aircraft for the Portuguese air force granted to Portugal under the mutual assistance provisions of the Atlantic Pact. The Corregidor is to leave for America Wednesday.

Central Ontario Bowling League

Belleville Recreation continued to top the keglers of the district by rolling 3584 to take a five point win from Trenton Bowl-O-Drome on Saturday night in a regularly scheduled Bay of Quinte league game. Trenton Guays took five points from Belleville Bowl-O-Drome in the other encounter.

The victories kept them in first and second place respectively after the second week of the schedule. Recreation has 13 points, followed by Guays with 9, Trenton BOD 8 and Belleville BOD with 2 points.

Clare Niddery (Guays) topped everyone with a triple of 826 followed by Jim McKenzie (Rec.) 779, Ted Greenfield (Belleville BOD 767, Leon Parnis (Guays) 755, "Lefty" Reid (Rec.) 720 and Jack Bennett (Belleville BOD) 702.

High single was taken by Jim McKenzie with a sparkling 322. Other games over 300 were rolled by Ted Greenfield, 312, Cec Tyler 307, Clare Niddery and Bill Gill 303.

Next week sees Recreation and Guays tangling on the latter's alleys in a battle for 1st place while the two Bowl-O-Dromers meet in Belleville, both games on Saturday night.

Weather Man Beats Indian Summer to Punch

The weather man has either skipped a page in his date-book or Jack Frost has beaten Indian summer to the punch.

Winter got in its first touch over the weekend with blustery snowy weather that at times threatened to develop into an old-fashioned blizzard.

In the wake of this, temperatures plummeted to a new season low last night, the mercury dipping to 18.5 degrees.

Whipped by a driving wind, snow scurried over an already whitened city and district on Sunday with intermittent blanket squalls that reduced visibility to a near-minimum.

Traffic on main highways and rural byways as well, was reduced to a slow speed.

The cold clip was the signal for the early appearance of snow shovels, plows, fur coats and rush calls for furnace fuel. Emergency coats for males were resurrected from the mothballs and storage plants, while youngsters revelled in the first snowy approach of winter.

Footwear shops noted an upping in sales of rubbers, rubbers and other winter pedal necessities.

And the weather man offers little respite from the wintry aspect in his prognostications. Tomorrow, he predicts, it will be clear and sunny, and colder.

Three Arrested In Allegedley Stolen Car

Spotting the licence number of an allegedly stolen car as he was patrolling between Trenton and Belleville, Provincial Constable Harry Mackenzie Saturday night arrested three men in the vehicle.

Arrested and returned to Toronto to be charged with auto theft was James MacDonald of Simcoe. The two other men Edward Purik, 22 of Montreal, and Douglas Showier, also of Montreal, are being held on vagrancy charges and are also expected to be taken to Toronto.

The car in which the three men were riding was said to have been stolen in Toronto.

Anglican Rectors To Attend Synod At St. Catharines

Ven. Archdeacon Arthur Smith, rector of St. Thomas Church, and Canon J. B. Creegan, Christ Church, leave today for St. Catharines, Ont., where they will attend the 10th session of the Synod of Ontario. The previous session was held in Brantford four years ago.

Presiding at the session will be the Most Rev. John Lyons, archbishop of Ontario. The synod is composed of bishops, accredited delegates and laymen for the seven dioceses of the province.

Archdeacon Smith is the secretary of the Upper House of Bishops and will be absent from the city until Thursday. During his absence the Rev. A. L. Page, St. Margaret's will be temporarily in charge of St. Thomas' parish. The Rev. Everett Smith will assume the duties of Christ Church while Canon Creegan is away.

Equipment, Tools Taken From Office Of Swift Canadian

Office equipment valued at several hundreds of dollars, together with other articles, were stolen from the office of the Swift Canadian Plant on Station Street sometime during the weekend, it was reported today by police.

Missing from the office were two calculators, an adding machine, two electric drills, a set of pipe fitting dies and a blow torch. It was believed that entry to the building was gained through a window.

The company representative reported that a case of tea bags valued at $12 had been stolen from his truck, while parked outside a local hotel.

ARREST FOLLOWS MURDER

Creston, B.C., Nov. 5—(CP)— Gregory Nicholas was arrested and charged with murder Saturday night three hours after his wife, Theresa, was found shot to death in their one-room shack on the Kootenay Indian reservation near this interior British Columbia city. Police said there was evidence of drinking in the shack.

Mussolini Family Back in Rome On Small Farm

Rome, Nov. 5 (AP)—Members of Benito Mussolini's family, freed of their island of Ischia exile, again are living in the ancient capital with few or no aware of it.

The Italian State, which confiscated all Mussolini family holdings in 1945, has relented a little. It has returned to the family a small farm of 11 hectares near Predappio, where Mussolini was born.

Donna Rachele, his widow, now grey and nearing 70 has one persistent desire, to obtain the former Duce's remains and bury them in the family plot at Predappio.

Edda Ciano, Mussolini's eldest daughter and widow of Italy's wartime foreign minister, Count Galeazzo Ciano, is tired and ailing. She no longer is the Flamboyant firebrand who shared the Duce's limelight at the height of his power.

Romano, 10 years and overshadowed by his other brothers Vittorio and Bruno, who died in an airplane accident, now is 24. He carefully shuns publicity. He is studying law. Vittorio now is a textile dealer in Buenos Aires.

Anna Maria, a little pigtailed girl when Mussolini took Italy to war in 1940 is 22.

Not Active in Party

Officials of the surging and fruitful Italian Social Movement (MSI) say all members of the family are far too much interested in the party, but not active in it. None of them visits the party headquarters. To do so might lead again to their removal from Rome, where they live in modest flat.

The Mussolinis successfully shun the publicity which still blazes around the name of Benito Mussolini, six years after he was strung head-down from a Milan service station.

Reports recently were renewed that the Italian Government had agreed to surrender Mussolini's remains to the family for burial, but the family three times requested the delay and the government refused.

Winter Jerked Into High Gear Ahead of Schedule

Chicago, Nov. 5—(AP)—Lashing cold and snow which jerked winter into high gear ahead of schedule boosted the winter death toll to at least 32 today in eastern and midwestern United States.

Temperature records continued to crack and shatter.

Two Arctic cold fronts a day apart struck from the Canadian prairies. They whipped through to the eastern seaboard and into the deep south.

The first, which caught many cars basking in mild weather Saturday, came with winds up to a mile-a-minute velocity and hit the northern plains and parts of the Great Lakes, Appalachian and eastern coast areas with heavy snows. Farther south, sleet and freezing rain fell.

Highways throughout the storm area were generally left slippery by the snowfall. Least of the those killed as a result of rigorous weather conditions were victims of traffic accidents on icy pavements.

This figure does not include scores of highway traffic deaths which had no direct relationship with the cold or storm.

The second cold front, less stormy than the first, drove temperatures to record lows for this early in the season.

Today's early minimums included these sub-zero reports: Lone Rock, Wis., -9; Bismark, N. D., and Sharps, S. D., -6.

A record low of seven degrees at Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., slowed loading of ore boats, and froze hopes for record lake shipments this year.

Western New York had the heaviest snowfall on record for the first week of November, with some drifts several feet high. The Niagara area had 11 inches of snow Sunday.

In Pittsburgh, today's low of ten degrees was the record low in as many days. Chicago, with an early morning 11, set a fourth successive minimum record.

IN MEMORIAM

RUTTAN — In loving memory of our dear father and mother, who passed away November 4, 1950.

They have gone across the river To be where all ever dream And we long to see their dear faces But the river flows between.

Some day, some time, our eyes shall see them

When the boats are moored at rest Some day we'll clasp their loving hands

And never say farewell.

—Lovingly remembered by son Robert, wife and family. 3t5

ON LIBRARIANS' PAY

A short time ago, the Globe and Mail published an article pointing out that there was a serious shortage of trained librarians in this county and expressing concern about the educational facets of the important place which the librarian plays in education.

Isabel Waugh, convener, professional group, Toronto Public Library Staff Association, writes a letter to the editor of the Globe and Mail expressing her opinions about the reason for the librarian shortage.

After explaining the value of the trained librarian, not only in connection with school work and adult education, Miss Waugh mentions that business and industry now realize the value of well operated libraries in their own organizations. "These libraries," says Miss Waugh, referring to the libraries run by business and industry, "attract many away from the public library by reason of more healthful working hours and opportunity for specialization."

Dealing with salaries, Miss Waugh says that the starting salary for a fully qualified college librarian in the United States is $3,200. The Toronto public libraries' requirements are identical — four years of college plus one year of professional training — yet the initial salary is only $2,300. Miss Waugh also points out that the maximum salary for a teacher in Toronto is $5,400, while that for a librarian is $3,300.

It is well known that the wages which Toronto pays both its teachers and librarians are not representative of the country as a whole. But if the wages which Toronto pays such people as librarians are not sufficient to keep them, what must be the situation in other parts of the country?

This country is already suffering for the manner in which it treated its librarians during the depression years and afterwards. A librarian is a kind of teacher. Are the librarians employed by the public libraries being treated worse than the teachers? Both teachers and librarians are too important in the scheme of things to be neglected even if neither group has a powerful union to fight for it.

"FIRST IN WAR, FIRST IN PEACE . . . "

Canadian politicians of all parties and in all parts of the country, please note: The first act of Winston Churchill, after having become prime minister of Great Britain a few days ago, was to reduce his own salary from £10,000 a year to £7,000, and that of his cabinet ministers from £5,000 a year to £4,000. At the same time, Mr. Churchill reduced the number of cabinet ministers.

GOOD OLD CHEESE

(Editorial from Saturday Night)

With the hope that Canadians can be educated to eat more cheese the National Dairy Council has been promoting an October "Cheese Festival." Canadian cheddar has long been more appreciated abroad than it is at home and we agree with the Council that for day-to-day eating there is no better cheese than cheddar.

An interesting fact about Canadian cheese is that it owes much of its flavor to the British market to the low temperature of Canadian well water. The farmer here can chill his milk immediately with the result pasteurization is not necessary and the Canadian cheese can be aged. New Zealand farmers cannot chill their milk in the same way and pasteurization is usually necessary. The result is that the New Zealand product cannot be aged properly. In British-processed cheese the higher-priced Canadian is added to give a tang to the New Zealand cheddar.

For years every merchant aged his own cheese and the wise Canadian buyer picked his grocer with care. Now in Belleville and Brantford large plants scientifically age and package cheddar so anyone can now get good cheese. Perhaps in the long ago developed reputation for cheddar that made it hard for producers in other provinces. An Alberta cheesemaker once complained to Saturday Night that he found his product labelled "Made in Ontario."

NAME FOR A FARM

(Owen Sound Sun-Times)

Every farm of any consequence should have a name. It was the custom with the early pioneers to give names to their farms. A sign carrying the owner's name is really sufficient for identification purposes but there is nothing warm and homey about such a bald announcement.

In most cases even this information is not available on a sign, and the man seeking to locate a farmer usually has to depend on the uncertain lettering on a weather-beaten mail box.

HABIT-BREAKING

"Give up smoking! Give up drinking! Give up eating what you choose,
Give up everything you're fond of or your life you're apt to lose.
If that's what your doctor orders, it's a dose of strength of will
And that is a prescription that no pharmacist can fill.

When the doctor has decided it's your fault when you are ill,
Then the cure that you are needing can't be rolled into a pill.

When the remedy is will power, morning, night and after noon.
That's no medicine in bottles to be taken from a spoon.

When the doctor finds your habits are the source of all your woes,
To your favorite corner druggist the cure in vain you'll go.

When he orders self-denial, and the chances are he will,
He has given you a prescription which no one but you can fill.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

November 15th., 1931

Eleven building permits were issued here during September for a total of $13,955. Last year for the same period ten permits were issued for a total of $36,-200.

Mrs. William Rose has left for Imperial, Sask., to visit her daughter, Mrs. Ross Allen.

Mr. Raymond Ross was home from Queen's University, Kingston, to spend the week-end.

Miss Sylva Rose is visiting friends in Oshawa.

Mr. W. H. Cuthbert, of Lisday, has taken over the management of the Hanna Coal Store in this city.

30 YEARS AGO

November 15th., 1921

Dr. E. M. McCoy left today for New York City after visiting his home here.

The road work on the provincial highway east of Belleville will be finished tomorrow and on the 7th inst., Mayor Charles Hanna and a party of civic officials accompanied by the resident engineer, will motor over the road on a tour of inspection.

Mr. Hunter Sarvis, Princeton, Sask., formerly of this city, is visiting friends here.

Mr. Marshall Sills of Barrie, formerly of Belleville, is visiting friends here.

Mr. and Mrs. Ewart Jones of Picton, formerly of Belleville, spent yesterday here with friends.

50 YEARS AGO

November 15th., 1901

Mr. S. J. Cooley, of Marmora, was in town today.

In the opinion of many citizens a free bridge across the bay would do Belleville more good than all the advertising pamphlets ever written or which can be written.

Prof. Denmark, the new leader of the Oddfellows' Band, has moved here with his family from Deseronto.

Mr. Mitchell and family have come here from Deseronto to reside.

A farmer sold ten barrels of apples at $3 a barrel this morning and was well satisfied with the price.

Hockey enthusiasts will hold a meeting shortly to arrange for the coming season.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

At The Centre of the Universe

The great citizens of our village—and of course one of the greatest men of all times—is Dr. Albert Einstein. Many amusing stories are told about him. Recently I heard a minister say that Dr. Einstein occasionally attends the Princeton University chapel services, and one day he was present when the preacher was speaking on the evils of selfishness. After listening for a few minutes, Dr. Einstein leaned over and with a grin on his face whispered to a friend, "Oh, I just love selfishness."

So do we all. The great Einstein came out and said frankly what every one of us knows to be true in his or her individual case. Each of us just love selfishness. We may denounce it in others, we may brand it a most hateful vice, but we all practice it and, what is worse, we all like it.

Einstein's life is by its very nature self-centred in many ways. But the trouble with the truly selfish person is not that he makes himself the centre of his life but that he tries to make himself the centre of the universe. Everybody must revolve around him in well-defined orbits.

Think about this for a while. I am talking about myself, and my weaknesses, but I am pretty certain that I am talking about you and your weaknesses also.

Korean Peace Talks May Disclose How Many U.N. Troops Reds Hold

By DAVID O. TYSON

Washington, Nov. 4. (AP)—How many U.N. troops are in Chinese and North Korean prison camps? Who are they?

Korean truce talks may bring the answer.

Only 173 United States servicemen are known held by the communists. But 19,753 Americans are missing in action, and 3,198 believed prisoners.

Next-of-kin must wait for word until the communists agree to a man-for-man release by both sides, release of all prisoners by both sides, or allow the U.N. some access to its captured troops.

The U.S. Army Adjutant General has a rough estimate of the number actually held but isn't giving the figure because it might raise false hopes in relatives.

The reds aren't saying either, but estimates place the number at about 10,000 U.N. troops, 4,500 of them Americans, probably held in North Korea.

The U.N. held 106,821 communist P.O.W.S. at last reports, 148,234 North Koreans and 12,027 Chinese. The latter, by far the smaller number and mailing address of all letters reported to the International Red Cross committee in accordance with the Geneva conventions.

The Chinese nationalist government was a party to the Geneva conventions, but the communist government is not. Neither is the United States. Both Russias are.

The Peiping radio has broadcast the names of more than 1,000 American fliers captured when the army says the names are suspect.

Sometimes, the army says, the names are suspect.

Sometimes, the army says, groups of U.N. troops captured in the front lines are given 10 minutes to write all their kinfolk. The notes are then bundled up in the front lines and left on the ground to be picked up by advancing U.N. forces.

The International Red Cross committee, entirely a Swiss organization with headquarters at Geneva, has representatives in South Korea inspecting U.N. prison camps. Its attempts to get the committee to gain access to U.N. prisoners in North Korea have failed.

Paul Reugger, president of the committee, flew into Peiping last May in a few days pleaded while and left medical supplies which he said were for U.N. prisoners. No assurances were given they would be.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

THE BROOM

There ought to be a monument erected to that one who first invented the common broom! That man left a legacy of blessing behind him. What would any home be without a broom? We are well familiar with the old saw that tells "cleanliness is next to godliness."

The people of the U.S.S.R. are universal and, I would say, unending, for it gets places and cleans where that ought to. Many inventions fail. It is essential equipment for the home, the office, the barn and even the street.

You have heard, or met, one salesman who has graduated to go from door to door selling brushes and brooms. As I was telling only my cat a day or two ago, office recently, one of those smiling gentlemen approached me and said that he had just the thing for keeping my garage in clean, up-to-date condition. I took him at his word and invested the price of a luncheon in one of his offerings. And now I like pride in the cleanliness of my garage, a thing about which I have been taken to task, lo these many years!

It is amazing how the use of a broom brightens and changes. It transforms. It deserves the honorary degree of CL.D.—Doctor of Cleanliness. It is one of the first purchases of the new housewife, the new janitor or janitress. From attic to cellar—and around the world, human hands in earnest endeavor, the broom plays its daily readiness.

There is also an imaginary broom which should be the equipment of every human being—that broom which we ought to sweep daily to sweep out the mind! A broom to sweep out the clutter and worry and fret and fuss that accumulate in the mind. There is also a broom that we ought to use such a broom to good service. What a mess we make of this world! What a mess we make of our own lives! What a mess we make and fears, its distrusts and jealousies! What a change for the better a good broom there could perform.

Our cities, and nations as well, could do a job of cleaning by the use of a big, solidly built broom that is perfection. I took him at his word and invested the price of a luncheon in one of his offerings. And now I like pride in the cleanliness of my garage, a thing about which I have been taken to task, lo these many years!

Reds May Shortly Renew Demands On Turkey

Moscow, Nov. 5—(AP)—Russia may shortly renew her demands on Turkey for a share in defence of the Dardanelles and likely will warn Greece and all middle east nations against linking up with the Atlantic Alliance.

Diplomatic observers here believed today that these were the next obvious moves by Russia following its sharp note to Turkey warning against joining the Atlantic pact. A Moscow paper yesterday published the note to Turkey, the first such communication to that country since 1946.

The note said the U.S.S.R. could not "remain indifferent" to the course the Turks are pursuing, especially since Turkey is Russia's main frontier with Russia. It again declared the Atlantic Alliance was directed against democratic states at the Soviet Union, and said the proof was in the preparations to build up a European army, remilitarize western Germany, intensify the arms race and establish new general American bases all over the world.

Admittedly, the note concluded that Russia "expects explanations from the Turkish government" on the Turkish part in the Atlantic alliance and provide air and naval bases for the western powers.

Diplomatic observers said Turkey, quoted informed sources as saying the note was "very severe" but that it would not affect Turkey's membership in the alliance would not jeopardize the anti-hostility against the Soviet Union.)

It seemed obvious that the note was the first step toward the anticipated warning also to Greece and all middle east nations to stay clear of any military alliance with the west, and will be followed by a specific communication to Greece and other middle east nations approached by the Atlantic powers.

Russia is particularly sensitive toward Turkish intensions because that country controls the Dardanelles, which permit direct naval access to Russia's Black Sea shores.

Personal Health Talks

THE AUTHORITIES SHOULD MAKE UP THEIR MINDS

Fifteen years ago head of the advertising department of the best advertised "white" bread in Canada published an advertisement in various magazines:

"Even the physician with a very large practice among American babies and the middle or upper classes (sic) will see only a few cases a year in which he will suspect that the symptoms are due to too great a narrowing of a diet . . . It must be pointed out to people that, especially when they are suffering with indigestion (sic), they can neatly obtain desired vitamins without eating a lot of indigestible cellulose-containing food. They can now buy vitamins in a concentrated form at the druggists."

At that time the publicity agent was riding his hobby with enthusiasm and encouragement, per the so-called "smooth" diet. At that time, too, most medical practitioners — including those who practiced under the imposing name of a "clinic" as well as the others were still practiced as individuals—were uninformed and, like this writer, had a prejudice against "indigestible cellulose", inclined to resent the newer knowledge of nutrition. Therefore they found considerable satisfaction in handing out statements concerning the vitamin "craze" or "fad".

Twelve years ago the Council on Foods of the American Medical Association authorized publication of a report by George H. Cowgill, Ph.D., Yale, on The Need for Addition of Vitamin B1 to Staple American Foods—particularly to refined white flour. The report said that "the physician people should, if possible, obtain their needed vitamins from foods rather than from pharmaceutic preparations available in the local drugstore . . ."

This latter idea was propagated when the doctors, nutrition authorities, millers, bakers and others in a huddle on the proposed scheme of doctoring refined white flour with dashes of this and that vitamin and/or mineral in order to restore some of the essentials of good nutrition removed by milling and refining processes. They finally compromised on the term "enriched" to describe the process of adding certain vitamins and minerals to white flour. Since the vitamins and minerals so added are only a part of the vitamins and minerals removed by the milling and refining processes, it is as ethical to say the doctored flour is "enriched" as it would be to rob a child's piggybank and then put back some of the pennies and call the child "enriched".

Dogs fed mainly or entirely with white bread or white flour products at any develop what is mistaken for "rabies"—shunning food, losing weight, avoiding light, trembling, cringing when patted, climbing walls, falling backward, howling piteously, falling into their pans if they try to eat, running around madly. In Veterinary Medicine Dr. John W. Patton reported dramatic cure of such "rabies" in dogs by injections of vitamin B1 (of which white flour has been robbed in milling). A single injection may "transform a racing, howling maniac or one in appalling convulsions, frothing at the mouth" (the popular clincher) "and screeching piteously, into a quiet though nervous animal within four hours and in 48 hours into a normal, playful puppy."

Scientific feeding, diet or nutrition experiments on human subjects generally show that persons living on a diet as whole wheat as a staple food can on refined white flour.

You poor geeks who think plain wheat is fit for animal feed only may learn something to your advantage by reading the pamphlet Wheat to Eat, available on written request (no clipping please) if you provide stamped, self-addressed envelope.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Life Saver

Your booklet How to Breathe has certainly proved a life saver for me. I have had more help from practicing the belly breathing exercise than . . . (Mrs. N. W. M.)

Answer—Thank you, Ma'am. Speaking of life saving, in the back of the booklet are instructions for applying artificial respiration by the prone pressure (manual prone pressure) method, without the dangerous error of attempting to resort to the Red Cross method. For copy of the booklet send 25c and stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Anemia

The difference between secondary and pernicious anemia. (Mrs. W.S.W.)

Answer—Anemia from various apparent; or ascertainable causes, such as lead poisoning, is frequent use of blood-destroying drugs, nutritional deficiencies, etc., is called secondary. Anemia from undiscovered cause is called pernicious. Send 25c and stamped, self-addressed envelop for booklet Blood and Health.

Three Chilled, Wet Fishermen Are Rescued

Winnipeg, Nov. 5 (CP)— Three chilled and wet fishermen yesterday were rescued from Lake Winnipeg after their boat was marooned two days by shifting ice floes.

Rescued were Clifford Joseph, 26; Jarvis Gorman, 19; and Samuel Thomas, 17, all of Victoria Beach, Man. They and three others were stranded when below-zero weather swept over the province, turning the lake into a frozen trap.

Meanwhile, another fishing vessel caught in the early season slaught of winter is believed to have been forced further up the lake. It was separated from four others Thursday after it ran for port during a blinding snow storm. Two men were reported aboard the craft.

GROW MORE RICE

Improved cultivation methods boosted the rice crop in Venezuela in 1951 to 80,000,000 pounds, double that of 1950.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

A friend of mine with his wife was driving along an unfrequented highway when there appeared on the shoulder of the road the figure of a man bent over in an attitude of intense agony. He had a bundle on the ground beside him. He was clutching his stomach, bending almost double, and one hand was gesturing with the thumb in the time-honored signal for a lift.

My friend slowed up. The hitchhiker straightened up with a wide grin on his face.

"Anything the matter?" enquired my friend in a little hotly.

"I was just laughing," explained the rascal, who was quite a young man, "at how mad you would be when you stopped and I asked for a lift."

For an instant, my friend was convulsed with anger, and very nearly stepped on the gas right there. But the mischievous face and the twinkling eyes of the car window won the bout, and my friend told him to hop in the back, with his bundle.

"Do you play this trick often?" my friend enquired.

"All the time," admitted the young fellow. "I was on a farm hand or "hired man" as they used to be called, if I stood up and thumbed in the air, maybe a hundred cars would pass me before one would stop and give me a lift. But by putting on the act, the very first car that comes along stops for me. I've been left in the lurch about five or six times in five years by people who got mad at being tricked. Nearly everybody lets me in, the way I look it."

"Don't you think it's kind of mean to take advantage of human sympathy?" my friend enquired.

"Well, now," countered the hired man, "it could keep up the act, back here, if you like, and sit here groaning and pretending, until I got to town . . . "

"Okay," surrendered my friend, and they had a fine merry chat until they let the rascal out at the next town.

Survives Six Icy Days In Bush

Bruno Vannier, of Sturgeon Falls, Ont., has six days' beard, but his wife isn't complaining. He had survived six days in the bush, after his light plane had crashed at Yorkston Lake, near North Bay, and eaten only two chocolate bars and an apple. Numb with cold and hunger, he had started out on a raft to try and reach civilization when he was spotted by an R.C.A.F. plane.—Central Press Canadian.

Rev. F.R. Harback Gives Farewell Sermon and With Mrs. Harback Honored by The Congregation

Tabernacle United Church observed its 141st anniversary on Sunday and Rev. Frank R. Harback, pastor of the church since February 1947, gave his farewell message to the congregation and many friends as well as the congregations of Ridge and Holloway Street United Churches at the evening service.

Mr. Harback took the 8th chapter of Romans for his evening theme "The Christian's Hope" emphasizing the last two verses "For I am persuaded that neither death nor life, nor angels, nor principalities, nor powers, nor things present, nor things to come, nor height, nor depth, nor any other creature, shall be able to separate us from the love of God, which is in Christ Jesus our Lord."

This was the faith of St. Paul by which he achieved everything in his life that was good. Mr. Harback's challenge to his congregation was "so may it be that in your life that faith of St. Paul's will act and react, double and redouble until it grapples the joy and wonder and being you to the place that you can say 'I am persuaded that nothing can separate me from the love of God which is in Christ Jesus my Lord.'"

His morning subject "What is that in thine hand," and urged his people to use what talents they have, though they be great or small, use them for the glory of God throughout the church and community.

The music under the direction of Mr. Harold McHish, was appropriately beautiful. The choir sang three anthems, "Love Divine", "O Worship the King" and "My Faith Looks up to Thee." The latter having a violin obligato played by Dr. A. C. Locke, making a very fine setting for the evening sermon. Mrs. F. E. Houston took the solo parts in all anthems. Mrs. Ethel Smith Lawrenson gave very splendid contributions singing "When Children Pray" at the morning service and her evening solo was "One Sweetly Solemn Thought." The organ prelude to the evening service was accompanied by Richmond Jack Green and Bandsman Clarence Janes of the Salvation Army Band.

Social Hour Spent

An invitation was extended to all friends of Mr. and Mrs. Harback to join in a social hour in the Sunday School auditorium where a cup of tea was served and Mr. McHish sang "Always Watching Over You". Mr. Gardiner Duff, clerk of session, was chairman for this occasion and called upon Mrs. George Ashley, the oldest former president of the Women's Association to present a corsage of flowers to Mrs. Harback exemplifying the love and esteem in which she was held by the women of the church. Mrs. Harback replied very fittingly.

Mr. H. R. Varcoe, secretary of the Board of Stewards, in his presentation address reviewed many of the fine virtues of Mr. Harback and his great contribution of service to church and community and Mr. Rose Irwin church treasurer, presented Mr. Harback with a substantial cheque.

Archdeacon Arthur Smith, President of the Belleville Ministerial Association, paid fine tribute and joined with the congregation in sentiments of deep regret of losing a very great Christian family from the city.

Rev. J. G. and Mrs. Hornsby, Rev. Duncan and Mrs. McTavish, Rev. G. and Mrs. Steers were also in attendance. Rev. S. E. Lerman was unable to be present owing to his recent illness and the hope was expressed for his speedy recovery.

Dr. Bert Howard will Act

All joined in good wishes for a successful future for Rev. F. R. and Mrs. Harback and their family. Until a permanent minister is obtained Rev. Dr. Bert Howard will act as interim minister of Tabernacle United Church.

The many lovely gifts on previous occasions are but mere expressions of the love and affection that the people of Tabernacle United Church and citizens of Belleville held for Mrs. Harback. The W.M.S. and Stinson Band presented her with a beautiful lamp and ornament just prior to the evening service.

ROYAL COUPLE

First came the jingle of sleigh bells and then ripples of laughter and the thud of horses' feet on the packed snow. There was one loud squeal of laughter from the Princess as the Duke apparently reached up and pulled a low-hanging branch, sending a shower of snow over both. Then Elizabeth could be heard to say "Isn't that tree beautiful" as she pointed out a snow-laden pine.

Duke Drives Horses

The Duke dressed in a scarlet Hahitant jacket and with a beige ski hat, was holding the reins while the Princess, in a wedgewood-blue parka, was scarcely visible under her warm covering in fact you could see little but the tip of her nose.

The Duke proved he was good with the reins. When the sleigh met a bright orange snowplow making a path through the byroad leading to the estate trail, he handled the horse easily and turned it around to start back.

It was a disappointing day for Arnold Brown, who brought another pair of Palominos to the grounds in case they were wanted. He had been coachman in the stables of Queen Elizabeth's mother at Glamis Castle, Scotland, and was proud of the opportunity to serve her daughter in these strange surroundings.

Tillip returned the horse to its owner, the proprietor of a hotel here.

Needed Horse's Nose

The Princess walked to the horse's head, nuzzled the nose and said the cloth was too tight and showed where a shaft was robbing off the hair in one spot.

The Princess said the Laurentian trip had improved her complexion, giving her more color. She said she realized the snowfall was a little unseasonable but she personally was glad it had come along. She said it was wonderful to walk for a change although they did enjoy the sleighride.

After they got home to the warm hearthside they finished writing some letters, put a trans-Atlantic call through to Prince Charles and told him about Santa Claus country and ended the day reading magazines and papers.

After church they went back to Sarah Cwat for lunch, had a lazy afternoon, dined informally at night and then boarded the Royal train.

Lent Cheerful Note

Pipers from the brigade's composite pipe band and a small brass band lent a cheerful note to the embarkation though overcast skies made it a bleak waterfront scene.

The defence minister distributed to the departing soldiers copies of the booklet "Off to Europe," giving words of advice to the servicemen about their conduct overseas.

The author of the booklet, Lieut. R. Clarkin, correspondent for Maclean's magazine, also boarded the Canberra for the voyage.

Then Mr. Clayton, in an address to the soldiers told them they are the forerunners of the brigade in the ranks of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization under Gen. Eisenhower.

"You are going over for the defence of Canada, you should be under no illusion about that," he said.

"You wear on your shoulders the name of Canada; you carry in your hands the reputation of Canada, and in your hearts and minds the spirit of Canada."

Mr. Clayton told reporters the men of the 27th Brigade, while not in fact occupation troops for Germany, from a legal point of view will have that status to benefit from all "immunities and amenities."

The Canberra will take the Canadians to Rotterdam where the Canadians will board a train for the trip to their Hannover camp.

The party is commanded by Maj. D. M. Gillam of Ottawa, brigade major of the 27th. Ship's adjutant is Captain F. A. Embree of Halifax; Capt. J. Potter is messing officer, and Maj. R. D. Shaneman, Ottawa, is ship's conducting officer.

Kiwanis Ladies Elect Officers

The Kiwanis Ladies' Auxiliary met at the Centre on Thursday last. Mrs. C. Mott was in charge of the well attended meeting.

Mrs. H. Craig, as convener of the Ways and Means Committee gave a gratifying account of the proceeds of the recent rummage sales. Total to date is $215.

Mrs. D. Stanton, convener of the October bazaar, thanked all the members for their excellent response to the project. The sum of $313.95 was realized.

An auction was held to sell the articles left from the bazaar. Mrs. F. Logan as an enthusiastic auctioneer netted $6.75 for the treasury.

Officers Elected

Mrs. C. Mott announced that the following were elected to act as directors for 1952: Mrs. R. Clapp, Mrs. H. Craig, Mrs. A. Duffy, Mrs. L. Foxard, Mrs. H. Murray, Mrs. D. Stanton, Mrs. M. Trepanier and Mrs. V. White.

A ballot was then taken and Mrs. V. White was the popular choice to serve as president.

Mrs. J. Marsh and Mrs. R. Widdifield, as conveners for entertainment, introduced a favorite entertainer, Miss Helen Salman, who gave two humorous readings. Mrs. W. Cooley and Mrs. L. Reid won lucky prizes.

Mrs. H. Bateman and her committee, served refreshments.

The club anticipate a good attendance for the December meeting as a pot-luck supper is planned with their husbands as guests.

Club Activities

WOMEN'S LIBERAL ASSOC.

On a recent Wednesday, the Women's Liberal Association held their regular monthly meeting in their rooms at 13 Victoria Ave.

Mrs. George Wilson, the president, welcomed many new members in her opening address.

During the meeting committees were appointed to gather statistics which will help the work of the Association.

Mrs. H. McCabe, the Regional president, gave a cheerful message, praising the work of the Belleville club, after which the meeting was closed.

Fifty-Fifth Anniversary Commemorated By Family Dinner

Fifty-five years ago, Miss Retta Hulck, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Cornelius Hulck, of Consecon, and Mr. Cory, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Alfred Cory, also of Consecon, were united in marriage by the minister of Roblin's Mills' Methodist Church, (now known as Ameliasburg), at the home of the bride's parents. Yesterday at their home, Charter Street, in Consecon,ston, with the immediate family present they quietly celebrated the occasion with a family dinner.

They have six children, three girls and three boys: Mrs. James Lorimer (Oneita), of Belleville; Mrs. George Spencer, (Rhea), of Frankford; and Mrs. Kenneth Clarke, (Emma), of Kingston; Harold, of Niagara Falls; Charles, of Toronto; and David, of Belleville.

Mr. and Mrs. Cory are enjoying fine health and still interested in their individual hobbies. Mrs. Cory in crochet work, and Mr. Cory in fishing, being an enthusiastic follower of Izaak Walton, weather and season permitting. He is still actively engaged as a travelling salesman and secretary for the Lake Superior Mining Corporation, which he has been for several years.

Congratulations are extended to Mr. and Mrs. Cory with best wishes for many more happy years together.

Tourist Business Getting Bigger In North Ontario

Toronto, Nov. 5—(CP)—Tourist business in northern Ontario is getting bigger every year, says Edna Sumbler of New Liskeard.

Miss Sumbler, the only woman president of a Chamber of Commerce in Ontario, and possibly in Canada, said that New Liskeard, Haileybury and Cobalt have collaborated in getting out a tourist booklet.

Here for a weekend conference of professional women, the attractive young Chamber of Commerce president probably gets her first free public service from her father, Mayor J. H. Sumbler of New Liskeard.

Her activities also include presidency of the local Ladies Curling Club, speciality of a ladies' wear business and an active member of the Business and Professional Women.

About her job as president of the Chamber of Commerce, she says she "just never thinks about being the only woman in a group of men" when there's a job to be done.

Marietta Vincent Boosts Morale Of Cancer Cases

Toronto. (CP)—Morale boosting is the specialty of Marietta Vincent, recreational director at the Cancer Memorial Hospital, New York City.

Mrs. Vincent came to Toronto for the Canadian Cancer Society conference. She told delegates about the recreational therapy centre which she established in the hospital four years ago.

"Cancer patients feel defeated and that they've been knocked out of the picture," she said. "Giving them handicraft or something useful to do makes them think they can still pull their weight in the world."

Mrs. Vincent has four full-time staff members at her centre, and 40 volunteers.

"Rehabilitation is something new in cancer work," she said. "We help patients adjust themselves back to normal living and to become accustomed to artificial body aids."

Mrs. Vincent likes her work so much that a couple of months ago she literally moved into it. Her husband is one of the volunteer workers on her staff.

"He was a stranger in town and wanted to do some good work," she said. "So he went to the Cancer Volunteer Society and they sent him to me."

North Chickadee Moving South, Snyder Claims

Toronto. (CP)—A cheeky little stranger from the northland's evergreen forests has entered into the Lake Ontario region.

He's called the Hudsonian chickadee. In build he's about the same as the common black-capped chickadee. But his color is brown instead of grey, and the top of his head is dark brown instead of black.

Why did he come? L. L. Snyder, curator of the Royal Ontario Museum's Division of Ornithology, says it's probably a case of overpopulation in the north.

"This year's invasion by the brown-capped chickadees is quite unprecedented," he said.

"There have been a few small migrations in the past—for instance, a small flight in 1937—but nothing like this.

Along Lake Ontario

"The little fellows are all along the north shore of Lake Ontario. They're moving west and south—probably by now into Michigan and Ohio.

"I'm not exactly fooling when I say the migration was probably caused by some psychological disturbances among the chickadees. But at least they can't be sure. Nobody knows what birds think."

Obviously the chickadees have had a good year. Chickadees of all sorts have had large families. The population is at the peak of its cycle.

"I don't mean that there's any shortage of food in the north. But when the population is high, you run into the same sort of emigration that occurs among the people of densely-populated countries.

No One Knows

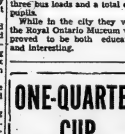
"No one understands exactly. We can't fit population pressure. There have been other similar cases of invasions of new territory. The birds are just squeezed out into marginal lands.

"Next year the population likely will drop. And then we won't see any brown-capped chickadees in Toronto."



Mr. Snyder said the chickadee isn't alone in his southward spread. Other northern species seen in unusual numbers in the south this year include the Canada jay, and the pine grosbeak, which is a large sparrow-like bird.

Bird-watchers in the Toronto area first reported arrival of the brown-capped chickadee Oct. 20. They've been seen in backyard gardens in downtown department-store district where even the black-capped, native chickadee rarely does go.

Miss Grace Furmidge Accompanies Grade 8 Pupils to Toronto

Miss Grace Furmidge, staff nurse at Prince Edward County Hospital, and youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. P. Furmidge, of Corbyville, was chosen by the Business and Professional Girls' Club of Picton, of which she is a member, to accompany grade 8 pupils and their teachers of the county, to the Exhibition. They threw bus loads and a total of 104 pupils.

While in the city they visited the Royal Ontario Museum which proved to be both educational and interesting.

Columnist Hal Boyle Opines Ketchup American National Dish

By HAL BOYLE

New York, (AP)— Americans are a strange nation of people united by a democratic constitution—and a red cement called ketchup.

It is doubtful which has done more to hold them together.

Long debates have been held on what is the great American dish. Apple pie? Pumpkin pie? Fried chicken? Turkey with cranberry sauce? The hamburger? The hot dog?

All these have their passionate defenders. But to any one who regularly travels these United States, there can be but one answer. The great American dish isn't a dish at all. It's a bottle, a bottle containing the flavor in widest favor—ketchup.

Ketchup, also known as catchup and catsup, is no more native to these shores than folks named Smith, Jones, Johnson or O'Houlihan. It is an immigrant. It originated in Malay. It was made usually of mushrooms, nuts, walnuts and ripe tomatoes, and was used to flavor soups, meat and fish.

Only after migrating to America, however, did ketchup come into its own. Here its ingredients are tomato puree, vinegar, spices and sugar.

All Purpose Food

And the scarlet, goopy semi-fluid graduated from a flavoring substance into an all-purpose food. Your true ketchup fan today will eat it through a straw. He will douse it on everything from chicken a la king to ice cream, and only an iron tradition keeps some ketchup lovers from using it to cool their coffee.

In times of prosperity the poor man uses it to model everything on his full plate. In times of hardship ketchup is the poor man's surest fodder. He can go up to a cafeteria counter, ask for a cup of hot water, take the steaming cup to the nearest table, pump some ketchup in it—and behold! a bowl of tomato soup for nothing.

"During the last depression," a Florida cafeteria owner told me, "that ketchup soup trick almost caused me to go broke. I think it started with a Yankee visitor, but he sure did spread the custom fast through the south."

What explains the overwhelming popularity of ketchup. Many restaurant owners have a cynical answer.

"Because it's free," they say. "Anything that's free is bound to be popular."

Seeks Explanation

But I don't think that is the real explanation. I think the reason is partly psychological—part of mankind's old quest for certainty in an uncertain world.

A man goes into the average small restaurant and orders meat loaf and hash-browned potatoes. When the loaded plate is brought, he looks intensely at it. Doubt surges above his hunger. What is in that mysterious mess before him? Where did it come from: What is in it? He takes a tentative taste, and his doubt immediately deepens. Has the cook played a Halloween trick on him?

He sighs, reaches for the ketchup bottle, and covers the plate from edge to edge. No matter what heady taste of china the menu item had before, it is drowned in the all-enveloping flow of ketchup, a flavor as changeless as the U.S. Bill of Rights.

No, Americans don't turn to ketchup merely because it is free. They reach for it because it is the constant friend of people who must eat out in strange places.

Cheese Adds Flavor To Many Dishes

By KAY REX
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

It must have been a Canadian who created that little rhyme:

"A apple pie without the cheese
Is like a kiss without a squeeze."

Cheese and apple pie is one of this country's specialties, despite the fact Canada is not a nation of cheese-eaters. While some types of Canadian cheese may be the best in the world, Canada ranks 10th in per capita consumption.

Home economists of the Federal Department of Agriculture say that if enthusiasts were limited to only one kind of cheese, they'd probably choose cheddar, the type most commonly used in cooking.

There are many other kinds, of course. Camembert is a mellow cheese, liquid cheese comes ready with crackers, fruit and good coffee. Edam and gouda are characterized by round or spherical red coats; mild - flavored, good either in salad or dessert. Canadian Swiss is a mellow cheese, characterized by its "eyes" and good for sandwiches, salads or desserts. Subtle flavor makes Oka a fine dessert cheese, and the flavor of Limburger makes up for the jokes about its odor.

Cheese for Vegetables

A combination of cheese and vegetables makes a dish that's both tasty and economical.

Brussels sprouts or cauliflower which has been boiled is cheese better and deep - fried makes a good supper dish. The sprouts or cheese of cauliflower should be cooked in boiling salted water until tender.

The batter is made by mixing one-half cup of flour, a few grains of salt and pepper, plus one-half teaspoon of baking powder. To this add a slightly beaten egg and one-quarter cup milk. Combine with the flour mixture. Then blend one-half cup grated sodium cheddar cheese into the batter.

The vegetable pieces are dipped into this batter and deep fried in hot fat until golden brown.

That Apple Pie

Here is a personal recipe for hot water pie crust which is easy to make.

Ingredients: one-half pound lard, one-half cup boiling water, flour (this to cream consistency and then add three cups pastry flour, one teaspoon salt and one-half teaspoon baking powder.

To make the crust shiny and brown, brush with milk before popping in the oven.

And if it's an apple pie, don't forget to serve it with cheese.

The department suggests a topping of cream cheese, whipped until light, makes bone - made fruit pies taste even better than usual.

Other cheese tips: a little Canadian blue - vein Roquefort crumbled in your next tossed green salad gives it character. And for your next party, try a filling of cream cheese, chopped candied ginger and chopped almonds.

FOXBORO W.M.S.

The November meeting of the W.M.S. of Foxboro United Church was held in the S.S. room on Thursday under the joint leadership of Mrs. M. Reynolds and Mrs. F. Kilpatrick. The worship service was based on the theme "Thanksgiving." The 23rd Psalm was read by Mrs. C. Wilson. A meditation "Blessing of a Thankful Heart", was given by Mrs. Reynolds and was concluded with a poem entitled "Gratitude" which suggested that one should not forget to say "Thank you" to God for prayers answered, and for blessings received.

Mrs. Kilpatrick gave the Study Book chapter entitled "The Church in Far-flung Frontiers". This chapter depicts the work of student ministers on mission fields where services is only held during the summer months. The value of their work is evidenced in the fact that 727 members were received into church fellowship on profession of faith through their efforts.

The Board of Home Missions also operates mission boats which along both coasts of Canada which visit the outposts of 'civilization' light houses, and other places inaccessible by any other means. On the week-days 1,500 children receive Sunday School literature and teaching through these coastal minister boats and also by this means Christmas hampers are brought to families who would otherwise be neglected.

Mrs. E. Tummon sang a solo "Lord of Life, Lord of Love", which all enjoyed. Mrs. Shetler, president, took charge of the business period and several items of business were discussed.

EVIL SPIRITS

The Jinns or Djinns, a class of spirits in Arabian mythology, are believed to have been superstitions long before Solomon's time.

Hearst Beneficiary Marries

Shortly after their marriage in Las Vegas, Nev., former nun Mary Marion Davies is photographed with her husband, Capt. Horace Brown, Jr., at Palm Springs, Calif. Miss Davies was named one of the chief beneficiaries of William Randolph Hearst who died recently, and she now exercises some control over the extensive newspaper chain built by Hearst. — Central Press Canadian.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Gumption, Not More Advice, Will Solve Her Troubles

"I wrote you about my troubles a while ago, and you advised me to leave my husband and get a job," writes a woman of 30 who has been married about 12 years and has no children.

Following that, she says: "I am still with him and he is still running around with a girl in our town who has a very bad reputation." This girl has a 6-year-old son who, the correspondent evidently believes, is her husband's child.

Now since this woman neither gives me any idea about what she sent me her letter about letter, nor identifies herself except for a couple of initials, it would be practically impossible for me to hunt up her letter and find out what her troubles were all about. Beyond the bare fact that she says her husband is still unfaithful and still replies with taunts to her protests, there is nothing to make me remember why I advised her to leave him. Since this is advice I give only in rare instances, however, I can only assume that her situation was apparently so hopeless that I thought if she did go away and show him that she could get along without him, it might wake him up. I doubt that I advised divorce without first trying informal separation.

Let me first set down this second letter of hers before going on to make any further comment. Unfaithful Husband

Here is what she says:

"Whenever I speak to my husband about his brazen unfaithfulness, he tells me that if I don't like what he is doing, to get out. He never denies that he is being unfaithful to me, and when I ask him to behave himself, he flares up and won't speak to me for a week or two. He never takes me anywhere, and as a result, I never go anywhere. I tell him that if he wants to take anyone out, he should take his own wife, but he just laughs at me and says there's no fun in taking your own wife out. My hogie is comfortable, and I keep it neat and clean, with food always prepared. What more does a man want?

"I will be looking for any advice you can give me."

There are two things I would like to say to this woman, and I'll put the first in the form of a question. Why does she write me again for advice when she knows that the counsel I gave her the first time? And the second thing is that since her situation is exactly the same as it was and I would therefore make the same recommendation as I did before, I doubt if she is any more likely to follow my advice now than she was then.

Lacks Gumption

What I probably told her at that time, and what I would say now, is that when a husband tells a wife that if she doesn't like what he is doing she should get out, it seems sensible to do just that, unless there is some urgent reason for staying under his roof. And I can't see that this woman has any such urgent reason. She has no children, and she is only 30 years old. She ought to be able to make herself independent and self-supporting as well as the other woman, who has had to do the same thing. And she would certainly have a better time doing so than she is having now.

There are only two reasons why, as I see it, any woman would continue to remain with a man who had told her to get out. One is that she lacks gumption and is afraid to leave, the other is that she is so incredibly in love with him that she will stand for anything rather than live without him. Certainly there is nothing in what this wife says to suggest that she has an ounce of feeling left for the man she married. So I suspect her trouble is a lack of gumption.

I think that for her to make an effort to acquire this valuable quality will do her far more good than any further advice either from me or anyone else can accomplish.

Fashion Flashes

AND NOW it's good old corduroy that is getting ready to go places at night. Pretty date dress is of pinwale corduroy embroidered all over in sequins in a tiny key motif. Halter neckline closes at the side and works down to the full circle skirt that is net-stiffened.

INSTANT SUCCESS is the happy lot of a new group of casual blouses, fashioned of jersey woven of the new wool nubbed rayon. It is washable and shrink-free, doesn't require ironing, and is moth-proof.

NOTHING VERY SPECTACULAR in the offing for Fall millinery, judging from what is being shown and what is selling. Women like those little molded, head-hugging hats of colorful velours of melusine, deftly draped and marked by a nice bit of ribbon—either in feather fancies, cut steel beads or colorful stones. Not fussy or exciting, but very wearable!

A BEAUTY of a coat is a knee-length model cut on boxy, casual lines. It is of melton pink velvet lined with clipped silver fox—a real crowd-stopper!

WAITING for baby becomes easier all the time, in so far as good-looking maternity clothes can be of help. Dressy canuls are in good supply this season, mostly in crisp fabrics with velvet or jewel trim. Royal blue ottoman makes a nice dress with big rounded gyers below an upstanding collar. There are elbow sleeves and slanting hip pockets on the full, flaring skirt. Rhinestone buttons is coachman style, and narrow binding around all edges are other accents.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

An endearing personality

"The gift of getting along with people" . . . what a perfect definition of a pleasant and pleasing and endearing personality!

No further responsibilities for godfather

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

Just before I went overseas during the last war I was "proxy" godfather in the place of a friend of mine, the baby's uncle, who was then overseas. The baby's parents are not relatives or friends of mine, and I have seen them two or three times since my return, and then only very casually. My friend now lives here in this city, and he tells me he sees his godson quite often. The other day as he happened to mention giving him a birthday present recently, I suddenly realized that I have no responsibility to give or send the boy gifts on any occasion such as birthdays or at Christmas time. Or are there any other responsibilities that belong to the "proxy" godfather? Will you please set me straight about this?

Bill L.

Your courteous responsibility ended when you signed the christening as proxy godfather for your friend. From then on, the position of godfather is your friend's responsibility. I imagine that he mentions the child so frequently to you because he feels that naturally you would be interested and also that he wants you to know that he has property and enthusiastically assumed his god - fatherly responsibilities which you "sponsored" for him!

Perhaps not guests of honor . . . but guests to be honored

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I know that the woman guest of honor is seated on the right of the host. But when my husband and I give one of our informal dinners for, say, two or three other couples besides ourselves, and there is no special "guest of honor", whom should I seat at my husband's right and whom should I seat at my right?

Alma B.

I advise that a hostess should always take advantage of the pleasant fact that she can show honor to a woman guest by seating her at the right of the host, that she can show honor to a man guest by seating him at her right, that is, the hostess' right. While some people don't notice these social gestures, they are very important and are tending to a discriminating guest, a socially-aware guest. And it's no simple for the hostess to make this gesture and thereby be given the social credit.

The woman given the seat at the right of the host and the man given the seat at the right of the hostess may not be special guests of honor, may not even be called that . . . they may perhaps be older or perhaps more distinguished on account than the others at table, or they may not have been entertained in that house before, or they may be guests of honor, probably won't be mentioned . . . but this fact is graciously shown when the hostess, seating her guests, says, graciously, "Mrs. Hill (or Margaret) will you please sit there at Dave's right? . . . and Mr. Hill (or John') won't you sit here, at my right?"

MARIO . . . in his distinctive feature about FOOD . . . What's Cooking?

In Greece they eat meat lollypops instead of hot dogs.

At busy railroad terminals and lunch stands, travellers fray meat grilled on a wooden skewer—known in this country as shish kebab. Like hot dogs, the skewered meat is quickly made and easily served.

In broiling meat the main idea is to expose as much surface as possible to the broiler flame. Skewered meat accomplishes this because the pieces of meat are small, and the skewer can be turned to brown all sides easily.

Vegetables like tomatoes, mushrooms and eggplant can be broiled on the same skewer. Generally when lamb is grilled on a skewer, it is first marinated in vinegar, or oil and vinegar. This tenderizes the meat and gives it its tangy flavor.

Broiled skewered lamb is apt to be dry if cooked too long, and should therefore be graciously buttered before it is served.

Skewered Lamb and Eggplant
Serves 4.

1 1-2 lb. shoulder of lamb boned

Keep the butter at room temperature until soft but not melting. Mix the chives and lemon juice with the butter. Spoon the butter over the skewered meat just before serving.

WEST HUNTINGDON W.M.S. AND W.A.

The W.M.S. and W.A. of the West Huntingdon United Church was held on Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. A. Wright, and was in charge of the president, Mrs. W. Grant, who opened the meeting with a poem entitled, "Children of One Father".

The Scripture reading, Matthew 5: 1-16 was read by Mrs. D. Cook, followed by a few remarks on "Temperance" by Miss Sara Wilson. Mrs. Elmer Post gave a reading and Mrs. Morley Clarke, an address.

A vote of thanks was tendered the hostess and Mrs. Clarke by Mrs. Post.

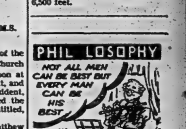
Business was followed by a social half hour.

The W.A. meeting was opened by a brief talk by the president, Mrs. W. Grant. The society has been invited to several afternoon teas and bazaars which will be held this month. Those of West Huntingdon are holding their bazaar on Friday, November 16.

1 cup vinegar
Salad oil
1 sliced onion
1 small bay leaf
1 small eggplant
Salt—pepper
1-4 cup butter
1 tablespoon chopped chives or scallions
1-2 teaspoon lemon juice

Have the butcher cut the lamb into 1 inch cubes. Put the lamb in a crock or bowl with the vinegar, 1-3 cup oil, onion and bay leaf.

Let the meat marinate in the liquid 4 to 6 hours.



Peel the eggplant. Cut crosswise into 1-2 inch thick slices. Then cut into 1 inch squares.

Divide the meat and eggplant into 4 portions. Place alternate pieces of meat and eggplant on 4 skewers. Brush with oil. Sprinkle with salt and pepper.

Broil under a moderate broiler flame until meat is brown and eggplant is tender. Turn the skewers to brown evenly on all sides.

BURRT

Hallowe'en Party Sponsored By Woman's Auxiliary

Burrt.—The Hallowe'en social sponsored by Burrt W.A., on Tuesday evening, at the Allisonville Hall, proved highly entertaining for young and old. Over 70 were in costumes and the judges Mrs. F. Morton, Mrs. J. Reddick, of Quebec, and Mr. C. McFaul found it hard to make choices from the many well disguised contestants.

Mrs. F. Osterhout and Mrs. M. Parks as bride and groom, were selected as best dressed couple; best comic, 'ladies' costume, a witch, was won by Mrs. Clair McFaul, with men's comic going to Mr. R. Hall as a clown.

Girls and boys from 6-12 were as follows: Dorothy Caughey, gypsy; Robert Wood, Indian, Donna Parks, clown; Ronald Hough, hobo; children 6 and under Sharon Caughey, fairy; Brenda Osterhout, college graduate; Wayne McFaul, cowboy; Master Hickle, girl. All children were treated to candy.

Mrs. McFaul and pupils favored with a brief program of music.

In the absence of Mrs. C. Hough, due to illness in the home, Mrs. S. Clark took charge. Proceeds were over $17.

Congratulations to Mr. and Mrs. Arnold Foster (nee Doris Blakely) on the birth of a daughter, Monday evening.

Carpenters are busy at the premises of Messrs. George and Floyd Huffman erecting a combined pig and poultry barn.

Presentation

Prior to school dismissal Friday afternoon members of the Mission Band presented Marlie Kooger with a "Tenuyson" birthday book. Mrs. E. McFaul invited Marlie forward and read an address and Eleanor Clark presented the gift on behalf of band members. Marlie with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. Kooger are moving to Wanpoon this week.

Following the presentation, members sang "We Are Sorry You've Going Away". Marlie replied, expressing her thanks and regret at leaving.

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Preston, Roger and sister, of Wellington, were Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. C. and Mr. and Mrs. B. Hough and with them attended the evening church service.

Rev. and Mrs. A. Poulter "showed a color film of the areas in Japan where United Church Missions have been most active and of the work being carried on there since the war," at the Sunday evening service.

Mr. and Mrs. Don Osterhout, Brenda and Daryl, with Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Richards were week-end guests in New York State.

Mr. and Mrs. M. Adams, Mr. and Mrs. K. Blakely, Mr. and Mrs. F. Osterhout, Mr. and Mrs. F. Burkitt, Mr. and Mrs. E. Harns, and Mr. and Mrs. D. Harns attend the farewell and presentation for Mr. and Mrs. F. Morton, McIvride on Saturday evening, who are soon taking up residence in Wellington.

Mr. and Mrs. Ken Wood were weekend guests of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Werden, Deep River.

Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Harns were recent Sunday guests of Mr. and Mrs. John Cochrane, Peterborough.

Mr. and Mrs. Bill Dempsey and Mrs. Lorne Burr were recent Sunday guests of Mr. Dempsey's sister and husband, north of Peterborough where Mrs. Dempsey was guest the following two weeks the chicken dinner at Ameliasburg, Thursday evening.

Mr. Sam Clark had the misfortune to break his arm at the wrist when cranking a car.

Mr. and Mrs. Basil Ainsworth were guests of Mr. and Mrs. Jack McBride and Mrs. Will Ainsworth, Willowdale, for a week.

Powerman's W.A. catered for the Quinte Milk Products banquet at Allisonville Hall, Thursday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Wildman, Irvin of Gore, have recently moved to Mrs. C. Carter's house, where Mr. Wildman will be in the employ of Mr. E. Carter.

Mrs. Raymond Calnan is a patient in hospital at Kingston.

ALBURY

Albury.—Several attended the monthly meeting of the Redneersville W.I. held at the home of Mrs. Hugh Weese on Thursday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Roy Williamson spent the weekend in Toronto with Mr. and Mrs. Coburn Adams and other relatives.

Mr. and Mrs. Mac Wallbridge accompanied Mr. and Mrs. R. Peck and spent a few days with Mr. and Mrs. Max Peck, in Flint, Mich.

Several attended the turkey supper at Albury Church, on Tuesday evening, with a good sum realized. Everyone enjoyed the good program.

Sorry to report Mrs. Clarence Russel suddenly taken ill and rushed to Belleville hospital. All wish her a speedy recovery.

HALLOWAY

Turner's School Scene Of Hallowe'en Party

Halloway—Chatterton Institute held a successful Hallowe'en party at Turner's schoolhouse.

Everybody had a good time, with a nice number coming in costume. Suitable prizes were given for best dressed lady and gentleman, the most original and the funniest. Those receiving prizes were, most original woman, Mrs. Lorne Reid as the chef; most original man, Francis Reid, as the clown; the funniest, Mrs. Emory Deadle as gentleman and his dog; best dressed woman, Mrs. Don Bleecker; best dressed man, Albert Carson.

Among the children the most original, Douglas Irvine, as the clown and funniest, the tramp and the cowboy, Francis Rose and the most original girl in costume representing a doll. All the children in costume received prizes.

Several Contests

Several contests were also conducted; one that caused the most amusement being a hat making contest by four men: Leo Bryan, Bert Pinkie, Harold Wilkinson and Mr. Gullivan. After completion of the ladies' hats, the contestants put the hats on, and marched around the platform to music.

A program of community singing, children's choruses, solos by Francis Rose and duets by Mr. and Mrs. Don Rose accompanied by guitar.

After the program refreshments were served and the party came to an end.

ROSSMORE

Rossmore.—Michell Reddick, second son of Mr. and Mrs. Douglas Reddick, is a polio patient in the Belleville hospital, and is improving nicely. His many friends wish him a speedy and complete recovery.

Mr. John Belnap, who has been ill for some time is a patient in Belleville hospital.

Mrs. Wood, of Belleville, has been spending a few days in Rossmore, at her brother's home.

Mrs. F. Belnap won a valuable prize at cooking school this week.

Mrs. W. Rose is holidaying in Boston, for a couple of weeks, with her daughter, Mrs. Harper and family.

Hunting season has seen some of the local men departing to their various camps.

Mr. Empey is in Combermere for a short time.

AUDIENCE OF ONE

Torquay, Devon, England, Nov. 3 — (Reuters) — A movie house yesterday gave a special performance for an audience of one. Pte. F. Weeks, on leave from Korea, figured in a newsreel of the troopship Devonshire's arrival at Liverpool, so the manager arranged to show it specially for him.

IVANHOE

Rev. J. A. Koffend Special Speaker At 50th Anniversary

Ivanhoe.—St. Andrew's Presbyterian W.M.S. West Huntingdon, celebrated their 50th anniversary last Tuesday evening. Forty or more members and friends from Madoc, Belleville, Campbellford, Stirling, Tweed and neighboring charges were present. A large basket of flowers and white candles was placed at the altar by St. Andrews W.M.S. in memory of departed members.

Rev. W. H. V. Walker conducted the devotional exercises and presided over the entire program. Rev. M. W. Heslip of St. Peter's, Madoc, read the Scripture lesson and led in prayer.

Mrs. Morley Haggerty welcomed the visitors and Mrs. M. W. Heslip, vice president of Kingston Presbyterial, in reply brought greetings from the Presbyterial and St. Peter's. She also thanked the society for the invitation to share in the joy of this auspicious anniversary.

Miss Margaret Haggerty sang "Bless This House".

Gives History of Society

The history of the society was given by Mrs. John Wallace, who told of its organization in 1901 by Rev. S. S. Burns.

Charter members were Mrs. Harvey Wallace, Mrs. George Post, Mrs. John Fleming, Mrs. Jas. Dornan, Mrs. Allan Wright, Mrs. Robt. Roy, Mrs. Hulsie Rollins and Mrs. Samuel Shaw.

Officers were, president, Mrs. Harvey Wallace; vice president, Mrs. George Post; secretary-treasurer, Mrs. John Fleming; organist, Miss Annie Fargey.

Mrs. Harvey Wallace, of Oshawa, is the only charter member living.

Special Speaker

In introducing the guest speaker, Rev. J. A. Koffend, St. Lambert, Que., Mrs. Chester Sills mentioned the never-to-be forgotten sermon Mr. Koffend had delivered during his ministry here, and the large contribution both he and Mrs. Koffend had made to the society. Prior to coming to St. Andrew's they had served as missionaries in China.

Mr. Koffend in reply expressed thanks for the invitation to be present at this anniversary, another milestone in the life of the society. He also brought greetings from his family and regrets from his father and mother, Rev. and Mrs. J. R. Koffend, of Toronto, who were unable to be present.

Mr. Koffend delivered an outstanding address based on Deut. 8, and part of verse 2 "And thou shalt remember". "If the children of Israel so long ago needed to be exhorted to "remember", how much more should we be warned of the danger of self-complacency, of forgetting that we are dependent upon God for all things. God has entrusted to us the spreading of the glad news of salvation. The church needs to awaken to her great responsibility and also to the perils of the day."

Mr. Koffend added in speaking of the royal visit, "if we would only expend the same amount of money, the same enthusiasm and zeal in the preparation for the coming of the King of Kings, what great good could be accomplished."

Reminiscing

"Anniversaries are an occasion for remembering and for looking backward. We think of the many changes in the last 50 years. The high powered jet planes, television and other marvelous inventions. Only God remains unchanged and unchanging through all the years—the same yesterday, today and forever. As we celebrate the 50th anniversary of this society, may we pause and remember the pioneers who blazed the trail and who have thrown the torch to us to carry on the missionary cause so well begun".

Mrs. Wm. Shaw, on behalf of the society expressed thanks to Mr. Koffend for coming so far to share in the joy of this celebration and for his inspiring message.

Mr. Koffend then sang the Negro spiritual, "Were You There?"

An appropriate reading was given by Mrs. John McInroy, followed by a trio, "Dear Land of Home" rendered by Mrs. Milton Shaw, Miss Margaret Haggerty and Mrs. Arthur Hassall.

The candles on a three-tiered birthday cake were lighted by Mrs. William Benson and Mrs. Alex. Fleming, and blown out by Mrs. Harvey Thompson and Mrs. John Hassall. The knife was placed in the cake by Mrs. Henry Wallace.

The offering was presented by Mrs. Milton Shaw and Mrs. Arthur Hassall and dedicated by Mrs. Morley Haggerty. The meeting closed with the singing of "Blest Be the Tie That Binds" and prayer.

Letters of congratulations and contributions were received from Mrs. Roy Boake, Syracuse, N.Y.; Miss Bernice Haggerty, Toronto; Mrs. William Wallace, Barrie; Mrs. John Craig, Belleville; Mrs. C. R. Hamm, Belleville; Rev. and Mrs. A. N. Reid, Colborne.

Ravages of War Distort Peaceful Korean Countryside

The surrounding landscape is serene in its pastoral panorama of flowers and grass, gently waving in the late afternoon breeze. But depicted in the focal point of this striking photograph is the shattering impact of war as Canadian stretcher bearers move a wounded comrade along the Korean trail to a medical centre. Mrs. Murrey Ray, of Belleville, spent Tuesday with Mrs. Donald Fleming.

Mrs. Ross Lain, Linda and Sandra, spent the weekend in Kingston.

Mrs. S. B. Rollins, of Tweed, was an overnight guest of Mrs. William French and attended the 50th anniversary celebration of St. Andrew's W.M.S., held on Tuesday evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Leroy Rollins and family, and Mrs. Kinney, of Belleville, spent Sunday in Kingston.

Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Lockrey and Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Osborne, of London, spent the weekend with Mr. P. M. Wood, at Moira Lake.

MOIRA

Moira.—Mr. and Mrs. John Holden and Ida Beth, attended the miscellaneous shower at Bloomfield in honor of their daughter, Mrs. Earl Smith and Mr. Smith on Monday night.

Mrs. Earl Springbrook, is spending a while with Mrs. Fred Elliott, who has been sick.

Mrs. G. Thompson, Miss Bessie Holbert and Mrs. Nelson Welsh attended the W.I. convention at Belleville Collegiate, recently.

Mr. and Mrs. George Ellarby are spending a few days in Belleville with Mr. and Mrs. Bill Hazzard.

Mr. and Mrs. Will Maines, and family, spent Sunday evening with Mr. and Mrs. Donald McInroy and Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Emerson, Belleville, were Friday supper guests at the same home.

Mr. and Mrs. Wallace McInroy were dinner guests of Mr. and Mrs. Clifford Clancy, Wellman's Corners, on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. Joe Kellar were Saturday evening guests of Mr. and Mrs. Billie Mayhay, Stirling.

Hastingsden East W.I.

The regular monthly meeting of Hastingsden East W.I., was held at the home of Mrs. Donald Holbert with a good attendance. The meeting opened with the president, Mrs. G. Thompson presiding.

Some plans were made for the Hallowe'en party. It was decided to contribute toward the Greek flour fund which is a special appeal from Mrs. Purcell, Ontario W.I. president. Canvassers were appointed for the Blind Fund.

Refreshments were then served, including the pumpkin pies.

MARMORA

Marmora. — The November meeting of St. Paul's Ladies' Guild was held at the home of Mrs. W. M. Regan on Thursday evening with Mrs. F. Leal presiding over a fair attendance of members.

Canon J. M. Brownlie opened the meeting. The president reminded the members that the bazaar's date had been changed to November 22rd. The secretary Mrs. W. D. Lavender, read a letter of thanks from a member who had been remembered in sickness.

The financial statement, as presented by the treasurer, Mrs. D. McInroy, showed finances to be in good condition.

Appointments Made

Appointments of members on various departments of the bazaar was the next order of business. Arrangements were also made for the bridge and euchre party to be held that evening.

Material received from a member was passed out to members for the making of articles for sale at the bazaar.

It is expected that the December meeting will be held in the rectory, but if not the parish hall will be resorted to.

As the election of officers is annually held at the December meeting the nominating committee was appointed to comprise Mrs. R. G. Whiters and Mrs. J. E. Reynolds.

After the meeting was closed by Canon J. M. Brownlie, refreshments were served.

PROPOSAL VOTED DOWN

Toronto, Nov. 3 — (CP) — Proposed amalgamation of the Canadian Club of Toronto and the Empire Club of Canada has been voted down, the Canadian Club announced yesterday. Ninety per cent of Canadian Club voters said they favored amalgamation but the Empire Club's vote of 64 per cent in favor was short of the required 75-per-cent majority required in each club.

McKee Trophy Goes to Vancouverite

Overcrowding in Ontario Hospitals Charged by C.C.F. Leader in Election Campaign

(By The Canadian Press)

A charge that Ontario mental hospitals are "desperately" overcrowded was voiced last night in a Nov. 22 Ontario general election campaign address by E. B. Jolliffe, Ontario C. C. F. leader.

He addressed a meeting in Espanola, 30 miles southwest of Sudbury, after speaking Saturday in Sault Ste. Marie. Walter Thomson, Ontario Liberal leader, carried his campaign to Sudbury Saturday and today goes to Sault Ste. Marie. Premier Frost, seeking reelection of his Progressive Conservative government, spoke Saturday in the Muskoka district town of Bracebridge.

Mr. Jolliffe said accommodation in mental hospitals are so scarce that 'several thousand" persons must wait for admission. Sometimes, especially in northern Ontario, they spent months of the waiting period in district jails.

If elected, his party would build additional mental hospitals. It would also launch a construction program for general, convalescent and isolation hospitals. Then, when a sufficient number of hospitals had been built, it would bring in a contributory hospital care plan.

In Sault Ste. Marie, he said a C. C. F. victory would bring about price controls by forcing the federal government to reconsider its "whole policy of inflation and high prices.

Names Mines Minister

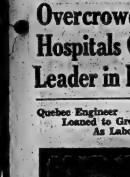
Mr. Thomson said that if the Liberals win, he will appoint Leo Landreville, Sudbury lawyer, mines minister. He promised the north a "better deal" by increasing its share of mine taxes.

He also pledged his party, if elected to enacting legislation to prohibit export of wood products to manufacturing plants outside the province. The last Liberal government in Ontario had been negotiating with a company that sought to manufacture wallboard in northern Ontario but, when the Progressive Conservatives came to power, the negotiations were broken off.

Premier Frost described the opposition parties as going before the electors with "a hogshead full of promises and a thimbleful of performances." He said Mr. Thomson is like a hired man "who sits around and talks on your time who would tell you how to run the world, but who never works."



Mr. Frost said his government has been blamed for squandering money. It was true that in the Muskoka district alone, the government had spent money on rural electrification, hospitals, community centres, roads and education.

"If that's squandering your money, I'm glad to have squandered money to improve your standard of living."

2,000 ATTEND

Claremore, Okla., Nov. 5.—(AP) —More than 2,000 persons gathered at the Will Rogers Memorial yesterday to pay homage to the memory of the late humorist on his 72nd birthday anniversary. Rogers was killed with aviator Wiley Post in a plane crash near Fairbanks, Alaska, on Aug. 15, 1935.

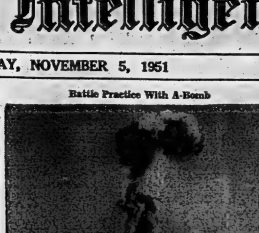
Quebec Engineer Loaned to Greece As Labor Expert

The Quebec provincial government's department of labor has loaned one of its key men, Gabriel Rousseau, to assist in Greece's vocational training program now being re-organized by the International Labor Branch of the U.N. A graduate of the "Ecole Polytechnique de Montreal and the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, Mr. Rousseau, seen above, will spend a year in Greece standardizing curriculum in that country's vocational training schools. — Central Press Canadian.

Civic Auditorium At Kitchener On 'Unfair List'

Kitchener, Ont., Nov. 5. (CP)— Kitchener's civic auditorium has been placed on the "defaulters and unfair lists" of the Kitchener Music Protective Association. This is the latest development in a dispute over the hiring of stand-in bands for the auditorium.

The association will move to have the auditorium put on the nationalist list. This would mean that no member of the American Federation of Musicians could play at the auditorium until the dispute was settled and an agreement signed.



Yesterday the auditorium committee said it would hire local musicians on a man-for-man basis whenever a United States band played at the hall. The union has asked that a minimum of 15 local men be employed.

Red, U.N. Truce Lines Draw Closer

Armistice prospects appeared brighter than ever Monday as communist negotiators at the Panmunjom, Korea, talks continued to give ground on an eventual cease-fire line. In above map, broken line shows buffer zone proposed by U.N. as compromise battlefront. Solid black line indicates truce lines demanded by the reds about a week ago. New red agreement (shaded area) differs only slightly from Allied demands. — Central Press Canadian.

Battle Practice With A-Bomb

U.S. troops of the 11th Airborne Division are shown watching the detonation of the atomic bomb at the Atomic Energy Commission's Nevada test site 75 miles northwest of Las Vegas, at Frenchman's Flat. Troops participated in the first atomic war games in history as the bomb was exploded. The army disclosed no details of troop participation, but it was understood that about 1,500 soldiers were on the proving ground — at a safe distance from the blast area. The bomb was detonated at less than 1,000 feet after being dropped from a B-29 flying at 10,000 feet. — Central Press Canadian.

Russ, Yanks Row Over Status Of Steinstuecken

Berlin, Nov. 5 — (Reuters) — United States and Russian officials met in West Berlin today for talks on the future of Steinstuecken, the outpost village which has twice been "liberated" from East German occupation in the last two weeks.

The Russian delegation, three men and one woman, reached the headquarters of the U.S. high commission here after a half-hour ride from the Soviet commission headquarters in East Berlin.

Steinstuecken, with its 300 inhabitants, belongs to West Berlin, but is separated from it by a mile-long corridor through the Soviet zone.

East German police occupied the hamlet Oct. 18 in a "lightning invasion" and declared it part of the East German territory. They withdrew on Russian orders after a protest from Maj.-Gen. Lemuel Mathewson, U.S. commandant in Berlin.

A few days later East German police and Russian soldiers staged a two-hour "occupation" of the hamlet.

Toronto Milk May Soon Reach 22 Cents Quart

Toronto, Nov. 5 — (CP) — The Globe and Mail says today the retail milk price in the Toronto area may soon be increased to 22 cents a quart. It now sells for 21 cents delivered, 20 cents cash-and-carry.

Bargaining on a price to be paid for producers starts this week between the Toronto Milk Distributors' Association and the Toronto Milk Producers' Association. Producers now receive $4.30 a hundredweight.

The paper's newspage story says "some indication of the likely outcome" may be seen in recent action at Hamilton.

"Distributors and producers in that area now have an agreement before the board calling for a price to the producer of $4.75 per hundredweight, which would bring the price to the consumer up to 22 cents per quart."

Fourteen Ships Complete 100 Days of Work

Tokyo, Nov. 5 — (AP)—Fourteen ships operating in the British Commonwealth fleet off Korea's west coast Oct. 31 completed 100 straight days of bombardment along the Han River banks, the far east naval forces disclosed today.

Despite lack of adequate charts, sleek frigates slip up the winding, shoal-studded Han and pound communist gun positions. It's a daring type of warfare, for there is little room to manoeuvre and no place to hide.

The communist shore batteries belch out in reply. And the little ships take their pounding, too.

A newcomer to the Han flotilla, but one of the most famous river battlers in British sea history is the H.M.S. Amethyst. She joined the operation two weeks ago.

The 229-ft. frigate was beached in April, 1949, on the Yangtze river between Shanghai and Nanking after red artillery pounded her and caused heavy casualties.

The ship sat out the Chinese red blockade for more than three months, then raced down the Yangtze under a brisling fire of communist guns, reached the safety of the open sea and earned a royal commendation.

The frigates in the Han flotilla literally have to feel their way up the river in the early days of their bombardment operations. The job still is going on, under orders of Rear-Admiral A. K. Scott-Moncrieff, R.N.

The Australian frigate Murchison received several hits recently during a two-day duel with enemy batteries. Her 44 days in the river is now for the little fleet. With her during the original navigation were the H.M.S. Cardigan Bay, which has 39 days of river time, and the Republic of Korea frigate Apnok.

Eisenhower Says He Has No Political Plans

Washington, Nov. 5—(CP)—General Eisenhower flew back to the United States Saturday with a fresh disclaimer of political ambitions, and amid indications he may swing swiftly into a Washington clash over the speed of rearmament.

"I have never had any political aspirations—period," the supreme commander of the allied powers in Europe told reporters on his arrival at New York from Paris.

He wouldn't say whether he was a democrat or a Republican. Asked whether if would be incorrect to say that "come what may, you will not be a candidate for the presidency next year," Eisenhower replied:

"Of course you can't say that. I will not indicate political leanings of any kind. I'm doing a job. That's all there is."

While the general thus shut off political questions, and said the progress of European defence is partly encouraging and partly discouraging, the stage was being set for the talks he will have here with President Truman and other leaders today and Tuesday.

Informed officials passed the word that Eisenhower is deeply dissatisfied with the rate of military buildup in Europe, and also with Washington's job in creating a small, battleworthy force there in six months or so.

This schedule would be far ahead of the long-range, full strength defence plans now envisaged. To put it into effect, Eisenhower is expected to press for some changed procedures in U. S. arms production and distribution. Some officials predicted he would bear down hard to get these changes ordered during his Washington talks.

"I have come home on the military side," he said at New York.

"I am on a job in which the United States has invested worlds and worlds of treasure, time and thought, and for me to imply any political or partisan leanings would be a dis-service to the country."

22 BELOW ZERO

Toronto, Nov. 5. (CP)—White River lived up to its reputation last night as the coldest spot in Southern Canada. The temperature dropped to 22 below zero at the Canadian Pacific Railway divisional point half way between Sudbury and Port Arthur.

Runner-up was Kapuskasing, 125 miles northeast of White River. The temperature there was 19 below.

Port Arthur was a piker. Thermometers at the head-of-the-lakes port registered only two below.

WAS DREAMING

Tell City, Ind., Nov. 5—(AP)—A 77-year-old man who reported he awakened to find himself falling out of a second-story window died in hospital yesterday. Regaining consciousness for a short time before he died, Nick Laurent told nurses he had been dreaming he was crawling on his hands and knees.

Deer Fighting Back in North

Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., Nov. 5. (CP)—Deer are fighting back against the hundreds of hunters tramping through the snow-laden bush of Algoma district. Gordon Horner, an automobile parts salesman, has bruises to prove it.

Hunting north of Larder river, Saturday, Horner was standing with his back to a tree, watching down a trail. Hearing a thrashing sound behind him, he turned around, right into the path of a charging buck.

Knocked flat on his back, Horner escaped serious in jury. His rifle discharged in the air, and the buck kept on going.

GIVEN NEW CONTRACT

Hollywood, Nov. 5 — (AP)— Ralph Edwards, 37, originator of the "Truth or Consequences" radio show, has a new five-year contract with the National Broadcasting Co., which pays him $1,300,000 a year.

Bitter Cold Tightens Grip On United States

Chicago, Nov. 5 (AP)— Bitter cold tightened its icy grip upon storm struck sections of the United States today after a weekend freak preview of winter weather.

From the Rockies to the Allegheny, freezing temperatures and wind-swirled snow embraced the land. Highways in some sections were turned into virtual death traps and at least 42 persons were killed in traffic accidents.

Chicago shivered today as the mercury sank to 12 above. The lowest temperature was 8 below zero in Lone Rock, Wis. Other temperatures were Omaha 18, Minneapolis 7, Duluth 10, Bismarck, N.D. 5 below. Temperatures were in the low 20s in New York State.

Snow covered much of the same area during the weekend and a new storm brewed today, moving south and east from Kansas toward southern Illinois and the lower Ohio Valley.

The weekend storm gave western New York State one of the highest snowfalls on record for any first week of November.

CAMPBELLFORD

St. John's Young Adults' Club Holds Hallowe'en Party

Campbellford—The St. John's Young Adults Club held their annual Hallowe'en party on Thursday evening, when the members arrived at the church in many outlandish disguises.

Prizes for the event were won by Walter Elliott, Muriel Heagle, Mrs. McKeown and John Bull. Said Mary was the winner of a contest conducted by Mrs. W. D. Smith.

After a few sing-songs, conducted by Ruth Thompson, a program in charge of Jean Arthur was presented. This included a vocal solo by Gosia Meyerz; a humorous reading by Anne Pallister; a vocal solo by Muriel Heagle and a piano solo by Anne Nicholls.

A short devotional period conducted by the president, Thornton Waters, was held before the social. Hallowe'en refreshments of pumpkin pie and coffee.

Thomas J. Craighead Speaks to Kinsmen

Campbellford — Campbellford Kinsmen met on Monday evening for their regular fortnightly meal at the Trent House.

Mr Thomas J. Craighead, retired Campbellford merchant, was the guest speaker. He was introduced by Kinsman Forrest Dennis. Mr. Craighead spoke on his trip to the British Isles, with special reference to Scotland. He had visited the scene of the Battle of Bannockburn and other historic spots, including the birthplace of the Scottish bard, Robert Burns, Edinburgh Castle, the homes of Walter Scott and Andrew Carnegie, were also important spots visited by the speaker.

Kinsman Danie Pace moved a vote of thanks to the speaker on behalf of the club.

Prospective Members Night

The club is holding a "prospective members night on Monday, November 28th, when a special program, including a film, will be arranged. This event will be held at Ridpath's Dairy Bar.

Last minute plans for the Hallowe'en shell-out party on Wednesday evening were laid.

Canvassers reported that local merchants have been more than generous in their canvass, support in this year's event.

Later in the evening, Rotarian Dr. W. W. Baker arrived to solicit the support of the Kinsmen Club in furnishing a local hockey league involving young players from Campbellford district. He asked Kinsmen to purchase inexpensive jerseys for a team to represent the club in the league and to appoint a representative to the governing board. Kinsmen agreed to do this, and will name their man to the board at the next regular meeting, November 12. Applications for membership were approved for two members, Glen Taylor, banker and John Hill, banker.

Little Benny's Note Book

I was watching ma sewing to herself up in her room, so I said, Hay ma, Shorty Judge's mother and father aint going to be home for dinner tonite, so they left Shorty's dinner for him, and I'm invited over there to eat with him so he wont be all alone. So there's no reason why not, is there, ma? I said.

There is indeed, ma said. It will be much better for you to invite Shorty over here for dinner. That will be better for both of you than eating a left over meal at Shorty's house, she said, and I said, But listen here, ma, Mrs. Judge is going to cook it special, so there wont be anything left over about it unless we dont quite finish it. And anyways, ma, besides, it will give me practice eating in some body elses house, and that will be good for my company manners, I said.

Oh my goodness I've got a mental picture of the company manners you 3 are going to put on, all alone at the table she said, and I said, I bet I would ma. I'd ask Shorty to hand me everything instead of reetching for it, and I'd chew every bite till I was exhausted. And that would make me a good influence on Shorty, for extra good measure. So how's that, ma? I said.

Highly improbable, ma said. And by the way, im't Shorty the boy who is allowed to eat his meels while he watches the televishon? she said, and I said, Mam? Yes mam.

Well you're the boy who's not, ma said. So you can give Shorty his choice between dining with us or encoring indigestion by eating all alone with the televishon, she said.

The result being I gave him his choice and he took the indigestion.

Old Man Winter Lands a Haymaker

Winter descended on Southern Ontario with a blinding snowstorm that slowed traffic to a walking pace and covered everything with a three-to-seven-inch fleecy blanket. None too happy about the sudden snowfall are the rugby spectators who sat on these benches to witness the Ottawa-Toronto game at Toronto's Varsity Stadium, shown being cleared before the contest.—Central Press Canadian

12 Die in Mine Explosion

Outside the mine of the Truax-Traer Coal Company at Kayford, W.V., rescue workers carry on futile efforts to reach 12 miners entombed for nearly 24 hours following an explosion. Seven bodies were found by the first group to enter the shaft. Later, five others were found dead far back in the tunnel. Among them were a father and son. — Central Press Canadian.

CHIPS OFF THE SPORTS BLOCK

By GEO. H. CARVER, Sports Editor

WORKHORSES!

It won't be because of look of work if "Red" Dorsa's junior "B" Hawkins are not in shape when they face the herrier in the junior group opener, whenever that is. Yesterday after a gruelling two-hour grind in Memorial Arena, a lot of the youngsters endured the conditioning drill for the better part of the senior squad. Hector Lalonde, Sonny Theriault, Ted DeGray, George Jaskiya, Duke Duncan, Bob Wilson, and others were speedskating matched strides with Dave Whitbread, Peter Jones, Gerry Desjardins and other fleet-footed lads of the big brother squad.

With the junior team cut down to the proper proportions, Dorsa is concentrating on his line play, and the squad is rapidly rounding into team shape. The kids were lately living up to their schoolwork and nobody spared the bumps. The young Hawks have a galaxy of speed artists that should make the fans sit up and wonder when they see them in action. Jackiya, Theriau, Lalonde, Duke Dorsa, Ray Carey, Hoole and Strahan were fairly flying yesterday with the rest of the squad turning in consistent efforts. It's too early to do any prognosticating but judging from the workouts it has been office it has been whittled down somebody will know they've been in a hockey match before the piccolos toot for playoff time.

The senior Hawks open the season here next Friday against the Peterborough Petes, a potent parade on paper if ever one came out of the Limestone City. Some of the Petes' new uniforms will be Ken Bretton, Jake Wade, Chuck Fryia, Ted Collins, Junior Weal, Ara Dagon, Drake Jopling, Ray Hardier, Fred Garvey and others while some ones are George Skeels, Dave Jorg, Stan Gibbons, Bob Wyatt, Dean Weaver, Tremblay and possibly a few more imports. Yep, Jim Ellis has fixed himself a sturry aggregation, it seems.

The Eagles will ice the old familiar faces with the exception of one or two while the feathered crew will line up with a few new puck personalities. Included are George Brabin, former Oshawa junior, Buck LeGrow, of Port Hope; Jim Milne onetime junior goalie from Oshawa and later of Western Canada. Nicholls will be present, however, and mobile not in a York Road sale. Andy Millne is still on the Eagles pay-roll — pardon nemisal roll but it is not likely the speedy chap will do his puck-chasing up thataway. Coombe and Burns are missing this year as they have signed with Lindsay. Colorful Ned Vitarelli is boss man of the Eagles again.

A GOOD MOVE!

Hockey referees, like players, develop into better exponents of their art, if they start from the bottom rung of the ladder. Believing in this, the Ontario Minor Hockey Association in an expanded effort in developing the best for its players and officials, inaugurated last year a referees' forum system which assists present and potential arbiters along the tough road of officialdom.

The forums are being held in various parts of Ontario with the panel of competent instructors holding forth next week at Wingham, Oakville and Wallaceburg. Belleville is included on the OMHA itinerary and a forum will be held here on November 15th.

There is no referee good, in any classification of hockey that he cannot learn something. And it might be a good suggestion that not only minor hockey officials, present and future, attend the OMHA forum here, but also those of the higher brackets. At least it don't do them any harm.

OMHA referee experience has proved a fine groundwork for many arbiters of junior and senior loops not to mention those of the National Hockey League. Recently appointed as linesmen in the NHL are Bill "Squeak" Morrison, Maurice "Mud" Wild, well-known here, and Frank Udvari. These three won their spurs as minor hockey officials, gradually working up the scale until they achieved spots in the big time.

Inauguration of the referees' forums by the OHMA is another indication of the confidence the association is trying to develop among hockey players along the right lines. It has had its troubles with rough play and players, and it believes that competent officials can do a lot in preventing spectacles that are anything but a credit to Canada's great game and its players.

Red Wings Clip Habs, Rangers; Blueshirts Edge Toronto 2-1; Richard Gets No's 300-301

(By The Canadian Press)

If folks can spare a moment from this warmed-up football season to take a look at the National Hockey League standings today they might get a big surprise. Yes, that's Boston up there right behind the league-leading Detroit Red Wings.

The once-mighty Bruins who haven't been doing so well in recent years, climbed over Montreal Canadiens and Toronto Maple Leafs last night to take the runner-up spot with a 4-2 victory over Chicago Black Hawks. And they've within striking distance of the Wings and make a habit of going ahead and staying there.

The Wings had a comfortable weekend — 3-3 decision over the Canadiens at Montreal Saturday and a 4-2 victory over the struggling New York Rangers at Detroit last night. The other weekend game saw Toronto drop its fourth straight Saturday night game this season—a 2-1 loss to the Rangers.

Rockets Gets Two

Feature of the weekend was the showing of Maurice Richard, brilliant Montreal right-winger who rapped in the 300th and 301st goals of his N. H. L. career. The Rocket had been looking for the charmed 300th all last week and the feat was accomplished before a full-house home-town crowd of 14,334.

It made him the second man in the 34-year history of the N. H. L. to score 300.

The Wings demonstrated that they aren't a one-line club in their weekend victories. At Montreal, Red Kelly scored two and Glen Skov once while in the Sunday night home encounter against the Rangers, their marksmen were Gordie Howe, Marty Pavelich, Fred Glover and Vic Stasiuk.

Rookies Wally Hergesheimer and Ry Buller looked after the Ranger scoring.

Boston came from behind to take their victory with veteran Milt Schmidt scoring one and assisting in another.

The Bruins managed to get the first goal on an [illegible] effort for the first time this season when Gus Bodnar scored at 6:20 of the opening period. But the lead didn't last long.

Adam Brown tied it up at 12:16 with the Hawks short-handed. Less than three minutes later Ed Sandford made it 2-1 and the Bruins didn't look back. Schmidt got the third Bruin goal in the second and Brown completed the Boston scoring late in the final session with goalkeeper Harry Lumley out of the nets.

Jim Conacher netted Chicago's second goal late in the second period.

Two of the three goals scored at Toronto came with the clubs a man short. Toronto's Tod Sloan netted at 8.38 of the first period with Guy Stewart in the penalty box and Nick Mickowski made it 1-1 two minutes later when Jim Conacher of the Leafs was serving a high-sticking penalty.

Jackie McLeod ended the scoring at 8.35 of the third session.

Pittsburgh Drops First Game But Retains Lead

Frank (King) Clancy Pittsburgh Hornets dropped their first game, Saturday, when Providence Reds edged them 2-1, but the Hornets came back strong yesterday to shade Indianapolis Capitals 4-3 and retain their lead in the western division of the American Hockey League with 18 points.

Cleveland Barons in second with 16 points routed the Providence Reds 3-2 Sunday, and downed St. Louis Flyers 4-3 Saturday. This extended their winning streak to seven.

In the other weekend tilts Cincinnati Mohawks defeated St. Louis 3-2 Sunday and shaded Syracuse Warriors 3-2 Saturday. Buffalo Bisons beat Syracuse 4-1 Sunday and Hershey Bears routed Indianapolis 5-3 Saturday.

At Providence Eddie Olson paced the Barons' attack with three goals in the first five minutes.

Lee Hildenbrand, Joe Carveth and Fern Perreault also scored for the Barons. Ray Laplante and Pete Kapusta counted for the Reds.

At Indianapolis, the league - leading Hornets put the game away on goals by Ray Hanahan and Johnny McLellan in the first five minutes of the final session. George Armstrong and Phil Maloney scored the first two Pittsburgh goals. Ken Hayden spoiled Lou Crowds' shutout.

Counterpoint's $50,000 Victory May be Costly

New York, Nov. 5 (AP)—There is some doubt whether Counterpoint will race again this year but that doesn't figure to keep him from being named the top three-year-old horse of 1951.

Although he won the race, the C. V. Whitney Count Fleet colt came out of Saturday's $50,000 Empire City Handicap at Jamaica with a crack in his left hoof.

"It may be a quarter crack," said L.t.Jar Sylver Veitch today, "but we won't know until the veterinarian cuts out part of the foot today."

Veitch had planned to start the colt Saturday in the $50,000 Buller Handicap at Jamaica, then the Pimlico Special on Nov. 14.

But now the injury has changed all of his plans.

There isn't a horse among the three-year olds that holds a better claim to the divisional title. And that goes for — Greentree stable's Hall of Fame, a mid-summer sensation with victories in the Arlington classic and American derby; Brookmeade Stable's Bold, victor in the Preakness; Jack Amaffs Count Turf, first home in the Kentucky derby, and George Widdington's Battlefield.

Karpuk's Daring Bench-Sally Stops Argonauts Touchdown; Riders Draw Bye in Playoffs

By JACK SULLIVAN
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Unless something weirder pops up in a hurry, the spectacle of Pete Karpuk scrambling off the Ottawa Rough Rider bench and onto Varsity Stadium field to stop a 97 on a touchdown run will rate the lops in a somewhat spooky football season. His move may not have been official, but it certainly was original.

The Karpuk caprice was perpetrated before the spectators and fans in the Toronto stadium Saturday afternoon. It was the highlight of the Ottawa-Toronto Argonauts suspense-filled Big Four schedule windup and the chances are conversation piece of a looked weekend of "recorded" games on the Canadian senior front.

But Karpuk's flight was just one bit of fantastic business in the long-on. Coach Annis Stukus of Edmonton Eskimos outfitted his squad in "the best pair of football shoes" and the boots, similar to winter sneakers, were credited as an important factor in the 15-11 first-game victory over Saskatchewan Roughriders in the best-of-three western Canada finals.

Strategy Backfired

Karpuk's strategy backfired as the football gambler bulldozed in two electrifying touchdowns in the final 15 minutes to pull out a victory and a first-place Big Four tie with the Riders and Hamilton Tiger-Cats, who finished over the also-can Montreal Alouettes 21-6.

The three-way deadlock will prolong the playoffs until Nov. 17—one week later than the Big Four final—and the Eastern Canada semi-finals between Ottawa and the Ontario Rugby Football Union champion until sometime during the week of Nov. 25.

The two-game total-points O. H. F. U. playoff got under way Saturday night at Toronto and this one forced the experts. The underdog Toronto Balmy Beach whipped through to a 33-15 victory over the favored Sarnia Imperials.

Now, the all-Canadian imps must battle at Sarnia Saturday to wrap up the championship.

Varsity-Western Tie

The Intercollegiate Union race tightened up. University of Toronto Blues, Queen's and Western Ontario Mustangs and the second-place McGill Redmen made it 13-2 over Queen's at Kingston.

Toronto now carries a one-point lead over McGill into the final scheduled game against the Redmen in Toronto Saturday. A victory for McGill would necessitate a sudden-death playoff under intercollegiate rules as the Blues already have taken Vic Obeck's men this season.

For sentiment, the Saskatchewan-Edmonton and Ottawa-Toronto epics stood out.

The game in the prairie capital, played in 12-above weather on a snow-packed gridiron raked by 16-mile-an-hour winds, produced a Marvel-like finish. Eskimos, trailing 7-4 going into the final quarter, wrapped it up on a 95-yard touchdown run by halfback Jim Chambers on a toss lateral from Normie Kwong on the Eskimo 19-yard line.

Roland Miles warmed the chilled 18,000-crowd in the opening minute when he took the kickoff on the Edmonton 35 and pranced through the Roughrider team for a major.

The teams now move to Regina for the second game next Saturday and the third, if necessary, the following Monday.

Sport in Brief

(By The Canadian Press)

Date and venue for the eastern Canada football final between the Big Four winner and the Ontario Rugby Football Union champions have not yet been set, but it probably will be played Nov. 21.

Wes Brown, secretary-treasurer of the Big Four, said last night at Ottawa the scores would be up to the O.R.F.U. winner this year—either Sarnia Imperials or Toronto Balmy Beach. And it is up to the Canadian Rugby Union to set the date which, because of a double playoff necessitated by a three-way tie in the Big Four, would this year have to be squeezed into the week of Nov. 18. It probably would be played Nov. 21.

The one-game eastern playoff decided on the eastern representative is the Grey Cup struggle against the western champions at Toronto Nov. 24.

Hamilton Junior Tiger-Cats won the right to represent Ontario in the eastern Canada junior football final Saturday when they walloped Windsor Aks 18-3 in a sudden-death game for the provincial title at Hamilton. Tiger-Cats meet Notre Dame De Grace, Quebec champions, next Saturday with the winners to battle with the west for the Dominion final.

The Maritime major hockey league got a scoring punch underway in Sydney decided to abolish 10-minute overtime periods and tossed out the new icing rule for the pucks while required a player to wear the full length of his sweat blueline.

The decision on icing the puck is in agreement with the Quebec senior hockey league, the only other circuit in major league this season, which voted against the new rule more than a week ago.

Kitchener - Waterloo Rams blanked Sarnia Wildcats 9-0 at Kitchener Saturday to force a tie between the two teams for second place in the Ontario Rugby Football Union intermediate western conference. The Rams will play a sudden-death game in London Wednesday night, with the winner to go to Hamilton to the B series final against either Oshawa or Cobourg.

Cobourg's Galloping Ghosts climaxed their Ontario Rugby Football Union senior B Lou Marsh schedule Saturday, defeating Orillia Blue Bombers 3-0 in the same host Ghosts in the race for first place. They can capture the top rung by beating Oshawa Tuesday.

At Aurora, defending champion Trinity College School of Port Hope trounced St. Andrew's College team 22-6 on a snow-swept field Saturday. By the win Trinity College won the Little Big Four junior football championship in three straight and Thursday. Call Over. They defeated Ridley 23-13 and Upper Canada 5-0.

At Camden, N.J., Cal Over, a chestnut colt from the Bedford Stables clouted through the stop at Garden State Park Saturday to win the $50,000 added Trenton Handicap in a tremendous turf upset that saw the favorite, Bill Prince, wind up a dismal fifth. Call Over flashed across the finish line of the 1 1-16-mile test a head in front of Inseparable, from Hasty House Farms. Post Card, a 12-to-1 nod wound up third, a head back.

Peterborough CI Triumphs 39-0 Over Belleville

By DON DOLAN

It seems that everytime the Peterborough Collegiate senior gridders get down they bring their bad weather with them. Last year a combination snow-storm and rain-storm accompanied the visitors from the Liftlock City, while on Saturday all they brought was about five inches of soft, white snow. But come rain or snow, hail or sleet, sunshine or cloudiness the smooth working Peterborough football machine just keeps on rolling along.

In fact, judging from their play at the "King George "stadium on Saturday it appeared as if nothing short of a minor earthquake could stop their strong offensive.

The smooth-running machine of Peterborough CI was high gear for Saturday's encounter in which they snowed under "Hack" Townsend's C.I. team 39-0. Great play by the visiting linemen opened up many big holes to allow such speedy backs as Murray Crawford, Brian Young and Warren Brown to rip off huge chunks of yardage.

Young Scores Twice

In the first half the Petes scored on the great play of Brian Young took a 13-0 lead. Young passed to Craw for the first touchdown, then 25 yards for the second major score, kicked two extra points and one convert to figure in all of the first half scoring.

Early in the second half, successive runs by Young, Craw and Young again, accounted for seventy-seven yards and another T.D. for the winners. Incidentally, Young converted.

The best scoring spurge of the game took place in the final fifteen minutes of play when the Peterborough team amassed a total of twenty points. Warren Brown accounted for ten of these points as he scored two touchdowns. Craw also succeeded a R.C.I. pass and raced sixty yards for another five points while the remaining points came from the talented toe of Dave Laughren who kicked a 13 yard field goal plus a pair of converts.

Young, Brown and Crabtree, were the main cogs in the Petes victory. As was mentioned previously the visitors line was terrific.

R.C.I. tried hard all the way but they were simply outclassed. The local boys failed to get one son on Wednesday afternoon when they will visit to Oshawa.

Lineups:

Dramatic 'Intrusion' by Pete Karpuk Definitely One for The 'Rule' Book

(By The Canadian Press)

Toronto, Nov. 5—The Argos-Riders game on Saturday one of the best in many years, bundled most of the drama into the last quarter, sparked by Karpuk's startling intrusion, and a dropped Ottawa forward behind the Toronto line in the final seconds. The miscue, by Joe Aspinl, meant the difference between Argos climbing into a triple first-place tie or joining Montreal as the Big Four Union also-rans.

It started when Argonauts' Bryan Curtis intercepted an Ottawa forward on the Argo 45 and legged down the sideline with no one between him and the Ottawa line until he passed the Ottawa bench at midfield. Karpuk dashed onto the field and grabbed the speedy Negro, putting him off stride and making him an easy target for the pursuing Rider tacklers.

Short Fireworks

Curtis was downed on the Toronto 25 and the fireworks started with both club officials and players getting into the act. Referee Ed Hague ruled that the officials moved the ball half the distance to the Ottawa 12-yard line and stopped the two-minute penalty on Karpuk — a ruling according to the book when one club has 13 men on the field.

The rule book doesn't specifically cover a situation where a player deliberately runs the bench to make a tackle.

Indian Athlete To Get Trophy

Caughnawaga Indian Reserve Que., Nov. 5—(CP)—A trophy is going to be awarded annually to Canada's best all-round Indian athlete, a government official announced yesterday. Medals will go to outstanding Indian athletes in eight regions across Canada.

The trophy will be awarded by a committee of Lt.-Col. Charles Baker, Jr., Toronto, and W. R. Ballard, all of Toronto, rode faultlessly in single file to capture the lead in a three-day bow score competition and take the challenge trophy donated by President Videla of Chile. The team had only one-half fault for the three days of competition. The U.S. team, winner of the event last year with five faults, was second with a combined total of 21 faults.

FIGHTS LAST NIGHT

(By The Associated Press)

New York — Ernie Durando, 158½, Bayonne, outpointed Sonny Boy Young, 158½, New York, 10.
Hollywood — Jimmy Peralta Dejesus, 143½, Chicago, outpointed Charley Salas, 147½, Phoenix, 10.

Junior Group Will Include Kingston Vics

Kingston Vics will replace the Oshawa Bees in the junior "B" group of this district, Ontario Hockey Association member Frank Buckland, Peterborough said via long distance telephone this morning.

The grouping will be finalized today by OHA secretary Bill Hanley, and a meeting of group representatives called immediately.

Oshawa Bees are definitely out of the group this year, Buckland said. Kingston was admitted at the executive meeting of the OHA held in Toronto over the weekend.

The grouping as suggested now will consist of Belleville Hawks, Kingston Vics, Peterborough IOOF's, Lindsay Kinsmen and the Port Hope Panthers.

Canadian Team Takes Trophy At Horse Show

New York, Nov. 5 (AP)—The United States National Horse Show goes into its next to last day today with Col. Humberto Mariles of Mexico leading in the international jumping competition and a ding-dong battle between an Indiana and Pennsylvania horse for the prized open jumping championship.

Mariles accounted for his fourth international event last night at Madison Square Garden, putting Mexico ahead in the number of events won, after Canada had taken its third trophy during the afternoon. With 10 international events concluded, and three to come, the United States equestrian team, Brazil, and Ireland, have won the other three events.

In the afternoon the Canadian team of Lt.-Col. Charles Baker, Jr., Toronto, and W. R. Ballard, all of Toronto, rode faultlessly in single file to capture the lead in a three-day bow score competition and take the challenge trophy donated by President Videla of Chile. The team had only one-half fault for the days of competition. The U.S. team, winner of the event last year with five faults, was second with a combined total of 21 faults.

Yankee Golfers Win Ryder Cup By Big Margin

Pinehurst, N.C., Nov. 5 (AP)—The crating job Captain Arthur Lacey of Britain's Ryder Cup golf team, hopes to have done on the International trophy has been postponed.

Uncle Sam's crack professionals saw to that yesterday when they ran off with six of the eight singles matches and tied another to clinch two day competition by a 9 1-2-to-2 1-2 score, second highest margin since cup play began in 1927.

When the Britons arrived in the U.S. two weeks ago Lacey said they had brought the best golfing fitness conditioned squad ever to cross the Atlantic.

Second Leads 'Em

But captain Sam Snead touched off the winning spark with a brilliant 67 to shoot down his tournament tested mates quickly fell in line with some strong play by three stalwarts of the competition.

Snead leaped into the 7,007-yard course's par 72 a five stroke lacing with a scorning 67 to shoot four holes under par of Max Faulkner, current British Open titleholder. In the afternoon Sammy was under par 15 holes to close out the match 4 and 3. Ben Hogan shot the British champion with a final volley of three threes.

Following on the victory band wagon for the United States were Open champion Ben Hogan, Jackie Burke, Jimmy Demaret, Lloyd Mangrum and Skee Riegel (Mr. Average).

Clayton Heafner of Charlotte, N.C., had to settle for a deadlock with Fred Daly, 1947 British Open champion and only Ed (Porky) Oliver of Seattle wound up a loser. Oliver, a last minute substitute for E. J. (Dutch) Harrison, who was stopped by a heavy cold, lost to Arthur Lees, 2 and 1.

It was Lees, teaming with Charles Ward, who gave the Indiana pair their first American victory over Oliver and Henry Ransom of St. Andrews, Ill.

COMPARISON SOUGHT

Toronto, Nov. 5—(CP)—Frank McCarney, 24, of Minico was arrested last night and a companion was being sought by city police in connection with the ransacking of the Interprovincial Building Credits Co. Ltd. He was picked up by a police constable near the building.

Yankees Return to Form, Win Series Opener

Bauer Hits Double, Triple, Single, Scores Three Runs

Brooklyn, Nov. 5—(CP)—Bobby Brown's three-run single in the 8th inning and Hank Bauer's double, triple, single and three runs batted in helped the New York Yankees to a 6-3 victory over the Brooklyn Dodgers in the opening game of baseball's World Series here today.

Bauer's performance was the best of the game. He hit a double in the first inning, a triple in the third, a single in the fifth and scored three runs.

Brown's single came after Yogi Berra had walked and Gene Woodling had been safe on an error by Dodger shortstop Pee Wee Reese.

Allie Reynolds, who pitched the Yankees to victory in the last game of the 1951 series, was the winning pitcher today. He went the distance, allowing seven hits and striking out six batters.

Preacher Roe, Dodger southpaw, was the losing pitcher. He was relieved by Clyde King in the 8th inning after Brown's single had driven in the winning run.

Jackie Robinson, Dodger second baseman, was the only Brooklyn player to get more than one hit. He had two singles.

Duke Snider, Dodger centre fielder, who had been expected to lead the Brooklyn attack, was held hitless by Reynolds.

Yankee Manager Casey Stengel started Reynolds on the mound today instead of Eddie Lopat, who had been expected to pitch the opening game.

Stengel said he made the change because Lopat had pitched the last game of the 1951 series.

Geo. Ratterman Returns to Yankees, Fined $2,000 by NFL Commissioner

Philadelphia, Nov. 5 (AP)—Quarterback George Ratterman was reinstated today as a member of New York Yanks in the National Football League but fined $2,000 by N.F.L. commissioner Bert Bell.

Bell said Ratterman was fined for "action detrimental to the welfare of the National Football League and of professional football."

Ratterman was reinstated "under his existing three-year contract."

Ratterman, former Notre Dame star who began his pro career with Buffalo in the now defunct All-American Conference, quit the Yanks last summer to play with Montreal Alouettes of Canada's Big Four football circuit.

The N.F.L. and Ted Collins, Gait blanked Barrie Flyers 8-0, St. Catharines edge Windsor 3-2 and Oshawa Generals tie Kitchener-Waterloo Rams 2-2.

Both senior and junior loops will resume action Tuesday night with Stratford and Brantford and Kitchener at Owen Sound in senior play while the lone junior tussle will have St. Michael's visit Kitchener.

PLAYS NO FAVORITES

Toronto, Nov. 5—(CP)— Ontario's ivy rooter, King Clancy, is a fan of no one last night as a car skidded on Highway No. 11 at Oak Ridges and overturned in the path of another vehicle—a department of highway's sander.

Bauer Helps Dutchies Win Over Sarnia

(By The Canadian Press)

Bobby Bauer broke the ranks of the "retired" Saturday to see what could be done about winning a hockey game. He jumped right into a victory.

Kitchener - Waterloo Flying Dutchmen were in a three-game losing streak, so the 36-year-old former star of National League days lined up at left wing. Bauer scored only one goal, but he gave Dutchmen that "extra some thing" and they went on to trounce Sarnia Sailors 7-3 in their Ontario Hockey Association senior A tussle at Kitchener.

Meanwhile Paul Miocinovich scored four goals to lead Hamilton Tigers to a 10-2 victory over Brantford Redmen and Stratford Indians defeated Owen Sound Mercurys 7-3 in other senior games Saturday.

Marlies On Top

Toronto Marlboros forged into the O.H.A. junior A league lead by trouncing Galt Black Hawks 9-4 while Guelph Biltmores battled to a 3-3 tie with Toronto St. Michael's in a doubleheader at Toronto Sunday.

The Marlboros now hold a one-point edge over the Bills.

Intensive night action in the junior A league Marlboros cut loose with a score Waterloo Hurricanes 8-5,

Movie Column

By BOB THOMAS

Hollywood, Nov. 5—(AP)—Dating in Hollywood is different than in Dubuque, and not only in the Peyton-Toole set.

A view of the more normal social life in the movie town is offered by Vera-Ellen, the dancing doll who has managed to shun marriage in seven years here.

"I've thought about getting married several times," she said. "But instead of thinking about it twice, I've thought about it 10 times and end up not doing it. The reason is that I had one unhappy marriage and I know how miserable it can be."

Vera-Ellen has been linked with such names as Rory Calhoun, Rock Hudson and Richard Anderson, but has never gone steady. "I don't believe in it, she said. "If you're going to go steady, you might as well get married."

No Time

As a matter of fact, she continued, a Hollywood gal doesn't have too much time to devote to hunting a husband.

"When I'm in a picture, I don't have much time to go out," she explained. "I have to be up at 5:15 in the morning, and that doesn't allow much night life."

Many a bachelor girl complains about the dearth of single male talent in Hollywood, and Vera-Ellen hinted that she agreed. Many eligible males are too awed to ask a film celebrity for a date.

A hazard with the the Hollywood male: "Sometimes you can't guess whether a fellow is taking you out for the pleasure of your company or because he wants to get his name in the gossip columns."

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

An expert player does not cringe when he gets a weak hand. He merely hopes his partner can make some strong bid. Then he tries to co-operate with what he has.

Suppose an opponent starts with an opening bid of one spade and your partner bids two spades. That is an overcall in an opponent suit; a defensive bid of great power.

Such a defensive bid promises nine tricks and orders the partnership not to stop bidding until at least a game is reached. It also guarantees that no tricks will be lost in the opponent suit.

Therefore, if no bid intervenes, partner must bid something. Even if it drives him heart failure, he must bid something. There is no such thing as a pass after such a bid.

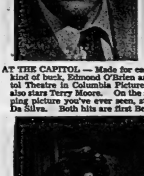
You have this hand:

♠9
♥5 4 2
♦J 8 4 3 2
♣9 7 5 3

If Opponent passes your partner's two spade bid, what is your response? Your longest suit. Your response is 3 here diamonds.

Ordinarily, you could feel a shiver run up your spine when you make a bid of three diamonds with that hand. But, you must remember that your partner has said he has nine tricks in his own hand.

If partner then bids four clubs, your next bid is five clubs. You have no results of your own to show. You have adequate trump support for your partner's club suit. So you should assist.



But after your three diamond bid, suppose partner bids three no-trump. Three no-trump is a game. You are not obliged to bid beyond a game contract. So you should pass.

After you bid three diamonds, suppose your partner bids four diamonds. That is not a game contract. You must not stop at less than game. So you should now bid five diamonds.

If partner has enough for both of you, not much is needed by you.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON JR.

New York Nov. 5 (AP)—If the battle cry "Where Irish Eyes are Smiling" at the Notre Dame-Michigan State game next Saturday, the fans won't know which team is playing. It starts with Maznr, Mutscheller, Petitbon, etc., in the line-up, Notre Dame will be "The Irish". And, believe it or not, Ed Luke, Michigan State's coach, says he will have a pair of bright green eyes on display. Ed is the only player on the Michigan State team who wears contact lenses and for games he has a pair of green-tinted liquid that is supposed to reduce sun glare. The result is that the pupils of his eyes are an exact match for his green helmet and jersey. Which ought quite a kick out of watching the reactions of opposing linemen the first time they come up to the scrimmage line nad get a look at his eyes.

OHA Executive Upholds Ruling Nylons Suspension

Toronto, Nov. 5—(CP)— The executive committee of the Ontario Hockey Association Saturday night ratified action, taken in Kingston Dec. 19 by the OHA sub-committee, suspending for different periods the manager, coach and 12 players of the Kingston Nylon senior B hockey club.

They were charged with participating in Sunday playoff series to Peterborough last spring. The suspensions, which in each case involve life suspensions, Two players were suspended for one year while 10 others were received two-year suspensions.

Will Hear Appeal

The executive said in statement: "the executive committee, having heard the full report of the sub-committee with reference to its investigation of the charges concerning certain players and 12 players of the Kingston Nylon Hockey Club, finds that in its opinion these persons were concerned in an arrangement to permit the Peterborough Hockey Club to win the play-off series in the season 1950-51 so that the Nylon Club could qualify for the Allan Cup competition."

Appeals for life Oct. 10 were manager D. L. McNight and coach George Patterson. Players Rawlind Watts, Glenn Ingall, Ken Murphy, Walter Gerow, Ken Partis, Jack McKeown, Gordon Scarlett, Joe Watts, Glynn Udall, Robert Joyce, Kenny Poots, Douglas Patterson and Jack Gerow.

The executive committee said it is prepared to hear any who wish to appeal against the decision.

John Roxborough, of Simcoe, O.H.A. president, said news was first published the team was guilty of throwing the games.

"They will be data they wouldn't get anywhere in the Allen Cup playoffs."

At the same time, the committee emphasized that the Peterborough club had no knowledge of the Kingston plans.

A-Bomb Used as Tactical Weapon

On the Nevada desert, testing ground for U. S. atom weapons, a "tactical bomb" has been exploded, with troops relatively close when the explosion occurred. Shortly after the explosion the troops moved into the detonation area where it was found that radio-activity was not lethal. But 75 miles away, in Las Vegas, windows were shattered and the earth trembled. Illustration shows the beginning of the familiar "mushroom" that expands upward after atomic blasts. The mushroom, in this test, became a cloud that swung across the sky dispersing its radio-activity. — Central Press Canadian.

Turpin to Meet Gavilan, Janiro

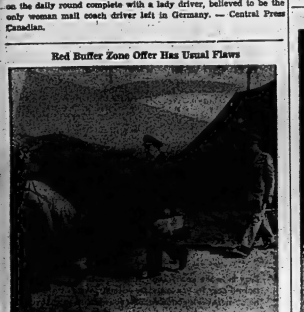
Detroit, Nov. 5 —(AP)— The winner of the Kid Gavilan-Tony Janiro welterweight fight here Wednesday will get a chance at Britain's Randy Turpin, match-maker Al Weill said today.

Weill, representing the International Boxing Club, said he was in Detroit to sign up the winner of Wednesday's go for a bout with Turpin in January. The fight will take place in New York or Detroit, he added.



Turpin won the welterweight crown from Sugar Ray Robinson last summer but lost it in a return match two months later.

GREECE, TURKEY

Greece, for whom war is only two years past, has 10 divisions and more than 100,000 men. Her population is 7,000,000.

Yet they are outnumbered, and may remain so, by at least 51 divisions of Albanians, Bulgarians, Georgians, Armenians and Azer-Baijanians believed grouped across the frontiers.

American officials estimate, however, that Turkey alone could tie up 2,000,000 communist troops during wartime by fully utilizing defensive terrain.

The two countries with the large armies are among Europe's poorest. Both faces grinding problems. American authorities insist they will not indefinitely finanicial help to survive.

FEELING ALL DRAGGED-OUT?

Do you wake up in the morning feeling tired and dragged-out? Do you have a dull head, and face yourself to keep going at a job that seems to be just plain drudgery?

It may be there's just one thing preventing you from feeling fit as a fiddle with a happy outlook on life. Like as not your trouble is due to sluggish kidneys, or just a case of plain constipation. Kruschen Salts is specially made to help correct those very conditions. Kruschen contains laxative and diuretic ingredients similar to those found in well-known mineral springs. Which means that Kruschen helps both bowels and kidneys to get rid of waste matter—gently, yet effectively.

It's worth trying anyway! Half a teaspoonful in all you need in a tumbler of hot water each morning before breakfast when needed. Millions of people use this aid to better health. Try it yourself. Get a package of Kruschen Salts today.

4,000 Troops On Way to East

Portsmouth, England, Nov. 3 (Reuters)—About 4,000 troops of the British 3rd infantry division —the "Ironsides"—will embark tomorrow in the aircraft carriers Triumph and Illustrious for the Middle East.

Probable destination is Cyprus, from where they could be switched within a few hours to the Suez Canal zone.

Most of the troops embarking tomorrow belong to the 29th Brigade. The division's 32nd Brigade is standing by and may leave for the Middle East when the two carriers return.

The 32nd Brigade would bring the army's known strength in the Middle East to two full divisions—about 40,000 men.

Seventeen Die Violent Deaths In East Canada

(By The Canadian Press)

Heart attacks and traffic accidents in southern Ontario's first big snow storm of the year helped to swell the number of violent deaths during the weekend to 17 in eastern Canada.

A Canadian Press survey showed that five persons died of heart attacks during the storm. Traffic accidents accounted for six lives lost and a fire for two. A hunting accident and a railway accident each killed one person. A fall in a bathroom and carbon monoxide poisoning resulted in two deaths.

Ontario had 13 persons killed, New Brunswick one and Nova Scotia, three.

In Ontario, Blake Huycke, a Nepanee service station employee, died of a heart attack while trying to pull a car out of a ditch. Three men in Toronto died while shovelling away the heavy snow. They were George Parks, 48, Hugh Lister, 45, and Alex Grenzie 70. William Henry Hoffman, 73, of Port Colborne also died of a heart attack while clearing snow.

Hugh McIlroy, 33, of Stratford was run over by an ambulance in a traffic accident at Kitchener. Kenneth Jones, 16 was killed when he was knocked from his bicycle by one automobile and dragged beneath another. An other youngster, Glen Sidore, 10, was killed at Odessa 12 miles west of Kingston when a truck crushed him against the rail of a bridge.

Trucks Involved

Trucks were involved in two collisions with autos resulted in two deaths in Ontario. Hugh McDonald, 23, of Westhill was killed at Barrie and Donald F. Brown, 19, of Oshawa at Bowmanville.

Hugo Hill, a railway section forrman, was killed when his motor jigger ran into the rear of a halted train at Auder, 170 miles north of Port Arthur. An 80-year-old patient in a Windsor mental hospital, George Hughes, died from a fall on the floor of a lavatory. Howard Hill, 17, of Orillia was killed 15 miles east of his home when a shotgun accidentally discharged in a hunting accident.

In New Brunswick, Joyce McLeod, 19, of Little Bridge died of carbon monoxide poisoning in the back seat of a parked car near St. Stephen while her sister sat unharmed in the front seat.

Two children in Upper Sydney, N.S., died when fire destroyed a three family home. They were John, five months, and Edward 3, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Louis Carocci. Stanley Cunningham, 56, of Northwest Point, N.S., was killed in a three-car crash on the Barrington Passage Causeway.

REPORT TELLS STORY

Washington, Nov. 5—AP—More children of school age die of heart disease or cancer than from all infectious and parasitic diseases combined, the Federal Security Agency reported today. The agency based its report on mortality figures compiled by the National Office of Vital Statistics.

The Outsiders

By Jane Abbott

"If you will—I don't think I'd know how to go about it."

"I'll take care of it this morning."

He shut the door, turned to go to his job, then swung around again, a little smile on his lips. "We didn't get off to a very good start yesterday, did we? What say we cross it off and begin again?"

Eliza pushed her foot unnecessarily hard on the starter of the car. Why hadn't she told him that she did not care for any acquaintance with him?

A woman in a worn grey coat and a knitted scarf tied over her head was standing at the desk in George Culbert's office when Eliza entered it. Eliza saw her face light up, saw her make a little move to come toward her, then stop, as George Culbert got up from his chair.

"Well, well, you're an early bird, Miss Forrestal."

"Not were—I'd have been earlier but I was delayed. Will you when you're free will you come to the other office?"

"I'll be through here in just another minute." He moved toward the woman in the old coat without looking at her. "Then I'll be at your service," he then stop, as George Culbert got up from his chair.

Eliza looked and across to her grandfather's office. The room still had its empty look. She stood in the doorway of it, considering it with a little frown. The manager must bring back the things he'd taken out; there should be papers on the desk, ink and such, books.

George Culbert came in, bland, smiling. Apparently he read something of her thought. "I wish you'd let me know you were coming down so early this morning; I intended to have this place looking more like an office. But I'll get right at it." He had the manner of indulging a child in some whim.

"There's no hurry. I thought I'd watch the machines this morning."

"As you wish, Miss Forrestal. I'll be delighted to take you around."

Eliza said quickly, "oh no! That isn't necessary. I'd rather— I'll ask questions of the men."

Culbert answered that with an amused shrug of the shoulders. "The men, eh? Think you'll get anything out of them? In the way, that woman you saw in my office wanted a job as a picker. I gave it to her, forgetting you'd taken over. If you've anything against her having it say so."

"A picker?" Eliza's tone admitted her ignorance.

"Cotton has to be sorted, looked over. It's a job a woman can do. Happens, though, that these men here in the valley don't like to have their women work in the mill. It's one of their Yankee notions. It may set 'em up in arms, but I can't see, if a woman wants to earn the money, why she shouldn't have the chance. What do you think about it, Miss Forrestal? After all, you are the boss."

Eliza wanted to appear the boss. She said quickly, "of course a woman should have the job, if —you say she can do the work?"

"Sure. Not the pleasantest work as you'll see, if you go into the picking shed, which I suggest you don't—lots of germs on the loose, dust, too. But that woman knows what it's like—she's lived in the mills all her life. Now if you're still of a mind to watch the machines. When you come back I've last month's figures I'd like to go over with you. They don't show any profit, I'm sorry to say, but considering a good many things, they're better than we have a right to expect."

"I'll be interested in seeing them," said Eliza.

Culbert walked with Eliza to the nearest shed and into it. "Here's Miss Forrestal!" he announced to the men nearest them.

Some of the men nodded, but most only looked over her. Eliza hesitated a moment, unconfidently self-conscious, then drew nearer to the long, cumbersome machine in almost the center of the shed.

A voice said behind her, "don't go too close! Those deckgi straps aren't so trustworthy!" But when she turned, pleased that one of the men had spoken to her, if no more than in warning she found him intent on his particular job, his back to her.

She understood now why the manager had lifted his shoulders when he said she would ask questions of the men. They were like Hepzibah.

Then, on the other side of the machine, she saw an old man regarding her with a somber intentness. But at least he was looking at her! She went around the machine to him. He might tell her if her grandfather ever had brought her here!

"Good morning. Will you tell me your name?"

"Tom Matthews." His voice was a heavy rumble.

Eliza had to raise hers over the racket of the turning cylinders. "You've been here a long time, haven't you?" He looked with his great stature and a heavy white hair like some Old Testament patriarch.

"Fifty-odd years, one way or other."

"Then you'd know, perhaps— didn't my grandfather bring me here sometimes? Yesterday I thought I remembered. . ."

"Sometimes?" runoff in from the old man's chest. That said, he turned and with a long hoe-shaped instrument, scrambled down a rough spot in the sticky sweetish-smelling pulp passing before him on the wire cloth.

"Can't any of you talk?" thought Eliza impatiently.

But Tom Matthews said more, after a few minutes of silence. He turned and looked at Eliza again, his eyes under their jutting brows distinctly troubled. "This don't be the place for a woman!"

More than ever he was like a patriarch, by right of it speaking for the others here, these men who objected to their women working in the mill. But thought Eliza, a little defiantly, they must get over their prejudices! She was here by right of her grandfather's will. She said her voice still pitched high "why not? Women are going into industry everywhere—think of all they did during the war." She remembered the woman in the manager's office. "Just an hour ago we hired a woman to work in the picking shed."

She saw the men who were within hearing look up, their heads to look at her with a dark anger on their faces. She remembered what Chris Cameron had said up on the rock and she felt a giving-way sensation under her ribs. But she must say something; the patriarch was waiting, his eyes deep into hers. She said in a voice she tried to make sound like a boss, "there will probably be quite a few other changes in the mill, when we have time to plan them."

Tom Matthews' answer to that was to swing his broad back on her and move closer to the machine. The other men turned their attention back to their work.

She went back to her grandfather's office. The manager followed her there almost at once. He carried some papers in his hand.

Eliza's face betrayed her defeat. He laughed, patted her shoulder. "Didn't do so well?"

I must have said the wrong thing! I told the oldest man in there—he'd told me it wasn't the place for me—that you—that I had hired a woman in the picking shed! And that there might be other changes when we had time to plan them. They looked at me as though they hated me!"

"Good you did hand it to them," George Culbert threw his head back in a long, loud laugh. His hand went to her shoulder again. "Now let me tell you something. Just you don't bother your head with finding out what makes those machines tick. It's the figures you're interested in. I've brought the last few months' statements with me and, we'll go over them now, if you like."

He drew a chair up to the desk close to hers. His arm touched hers as he spread out the papers, but Eliza was not conscious of it. She was pulling herself together to concentrate on the figures.

"Not so good, you'll see Miss Forrestal. Raw materials've gone sky-high, competition with the bigger and better equipped mills is a tough proposition to meet. . ."

Eliza's eyes were on the top sheet; she did not see the look of satisfaction on the manager's face.

It was the custom of the mill men to stop in at Pete Smead's every day at closing time. Pete sometimes had picked up news of them had heard yet, and they in return, sometimes had news to tell Pete. They'd linger in the store a while, exchanging views on everything in general.

But this afternoon Dave Wilson went past the store. He knew what the talk'd be about—he'd had enough of it at noontime.

About this girl, coming from outside, and first thing letting Culbert break the old rule that no women should work in the mill. Old Elisha'd been as firm about it as he. Sure, women were cheaper to hire, but that fact never had changed old Elisha's mind on it. What'd happen to these homes here, as nice, well-kept homes as you'd see in any fairval upstate, if the women went into the mill? Elisha had known, the men all were—they'd get to look like those grimy, lean-over places you saw 'round the bigger mills in the city. The kids'd run tough, too.

But Dave's own outrage was personal. It was Annie going into the picking shed! "I don't give a hoot if the Forrestal woman noon hour except that he'd exchanges around the machines," he'd said to the other men, "but—Annie, picking rags!" They smelled to high heaven sometimes; always there was dust and lint from them to breathe and sicken on. He knew; he'd started in rags.

Annie, going and asking Culbert for the job without a word to him—and he'd have said plenty! He'd have said it to her at

Nehru Proposes Internationalization Of All Canals

New Delhi, India, Nov. 5 (AP) — Prime Minister Nehru proposed Saturday internationalism of the Suez Canal, the Panama Canal and other "international highways."

He said this would be in the interests of all countries.

"I see no reason why Suez should not be under Egyptian sovereignty, but with its operations and traffic internationally regulated," Nehru added at a press conference.

Egypt is trying to oust British troops from treaty-won positions guarding the Suez Canal, a waterway operated by a private corporation. The United States owns and operates the Panama Canal.

Nehru advised the world to accept developments in the middle east, including Egypt and Iran, as natural shifts in the balance of power.

India naturally sympathizes with nationalist aspirations in the middle eastern nations, he said, but realization of those aspirations should be "peaceful and without bloodshed or any non-violent, peaceful methods."

Friendly Loans at NIAGARA FINANCE

Drop in to see your friendly Niagara Loan advisor. He'll make it easy for you to get the Friendly Loan that suits you best. Here are important facts for you about Niagara Loans.

Who can get a Niagara Friendly loan? Anyone with a reputation for honesty and the ability to repay.

How much can be borrowed from Niagara? $10 to $1,000 on signature terms.

How quickly can I get money? Sometimes in 20 minutes; within 24 hours on most loans.

How long can I take to repay? There are many Niagara Loan repayment plans. On loans of over $500 you may take up to 24 months. Special repayment plans are also arranged for farmers, school teachers, etc.

Does it cost much to "buy" a loan? No. Niagara rates are reasonable, look at the chart and see for yourself how little it costs. Interest on the balance is included at no extra cost.

Does a friend have to "back" my loan? No. Many Niagara friendly loans are on your signature or handmade security.

How many types of borrowing are there? You can use any of these four Niagara Loan plans:
1. On cars, trucks, etc.; only owner signs.
2. On husband-and-wife signatures.
3. On business equipment.
4. On farm stock and equipment.

Can I have a private interview with Niagara Finance? Yes, your interview at Niagara will be private, courteous and above all, friendly.

Why do people borrow money? A few of the reasons are to consolidate a group of small debts, to meet special emergencies, for car and truck repairs, to repair or modernize homes, to enlarge a business, for seed, stock, fertilizer for farms; and to take advantage of low prices, when cash is paid.

Egypt Reported Ready to Seek Pact With Russia

Break With West Indicated By Newspapers in Cairo

Cairo, Nov. 6 (Reuters)—Indications mounted today that Egypt is preparing to break with the west and side with Russia for communist support against Britain in the tussle for control of the Suez Canal.

Press reports here and dispatches from the United Nations seemed to indicate that a big swing to the east as gunfire crackled again in the troubled Canal Zone.

A band of Egyptian guerrillas opened up on two British armories near Ismailia in the zone, but fled when the Britons returned the fire. No casualty was hurt. British spokesmen also reported that an army truck was fired on outside of Ismailia last night—also without casualties.

Strongest pointer to liberal mood of moving in with Russia—perhaps including friendship pact—came from the Paris U.N. session and in local newspapers.

Dr Sacco Mission

The paper Al Nida said today that a "high Egyptian personality" has just left for Moscow on a "secret and important mission." The paper said it would have far-reaching effects on Soviet-Egyptian relations.

In Paris, Egyptian Foreign Minister Salah de Din Pasha has a date today to see Russian delegate Sergei Vinogradov. Vinogradov broke a precedent last night to invite the Egyptian to a reception to bring communist China into the U.N.

Diplomatic here figure there may be something in the wind despite Egypt's recent communist denials that religious traditions would prevent the country from ever going communist.

The paper Al Nida said also that Egypt's legation in Moscow has sent home a report "of paramount importance" which is "close to the hearts of all Egyptians."

Friendship Pact 'Authentic'

A third major paper, Al Ahram claimed that talks at the Russian legation here will result in a new treaty between the two countries.

Meanwhile Moslem leaders here renewed agitation for a world boycott against Britons by all Moslems.

More extremist Moslems stepped up their demand that "the government should issue weapons to the people to wage open war against Britons."

Britons to Stay

London, Nov. 6 — (AP) — The British government served notice on Egypt today that it will keep British troops in the vital Suez canal zone despite the 1936 banning of the 1936 Anglo-Egyptian treaty.

In a note delivered in Cairo, Prime Minister Churchill's government told Egypt the time is not ripe to carry out the policies first laid down by the recent Labor government.

The note declared that Egypt's action in tearing up the 1936 treaty and the agreements on joint administration in the Anglo-Egyptian Sudan are "illegal and without validity."

The note was in reply to Egypt's notification of Oct. 28th that, it had acted to void the agreement.

In the note today, Britain offered to reopen negotiations for revision of the 1936 treaty under which Britain has stationed troops in the canal zone.

NARROW ESCAPE

Toronto, Nov. 6. (CP)—A tire blew out as George West, 53, of Bickerdike, crossed Rouge Hill bridge about ten miles east of here.

His car knocked out a railing and stopped half off the bridge.

"I was just driving along the edge," West said. "If I'd moved forward an inch, I'd have gone to the bottom."

Finally he crawled backward to safety.

HUNTING ACCIDENT FATAL

Lindsay, Nov. 6 — (CP) — W. F. English, 54-year-old district farmer, died in hospital yesterday after he was found lying on a road, his shotgun beside him. Authorities said he was the victim of a hunting accident. No inquest will be held.

U.S. Atom Masters Develop Bombs Staggered Sizes

Las Vegas, Nev., Nov. 6 (AP) —The United States 'atom masters have developed an assortment of bombs of staggered sizes and staggering reactions that may in time make conventional weapons obsolete.

Awed observers were unable to draw any other conclusion as the first phase of the Atomic Energy Commission's fall test series at Yucca Flat came to a smashing finale yesterday with a full-scale A-bomb explosion.

Test manager Carroll L. Tyler said the series would include "a number of experiments." No two blasts in the set of five just finished appeared identical—and the last one topped them all.

It seemed to have all the attributes of previous major A-bombs, including a flash and fireball that persisted 10 seconds.

The blast rocked the Nevada desert for miles and was heard 225 miles away in Richfield, Utah.

The blast concluded the first phase of the A.E.C.'s fall series which, Tyler said, has been devoted primarily to "development tests."

The second phase, dealing mainly with the effects of weapons, will probably begin next week.

The first phase embraced the detonation of bombs ranging from the first tower shot—perhaps the first baby A-bomb—on Oct. 22 through steadily increasing, plane-delivered burst on Oct. 26, Oct. 30 and Nov. 1, to yesterday's blast from a drop from a B-29 flying above 30,000 feet.

Will Hold Secret Session of Parliament

London, Nov. 6 — (CP) Prime Minister Churchill announced today he proposes to hold a secret session of parliament to discuss defence.

Churchill was speaking in the debate on the reply to the Speech from the Throne after the opening of parliament.

The session would be the first held in secret since the war.

Explaining the desire for a secret session on defence, Churchill said: "If in the course of this House state secrets which are not known to the general staffs of Europe and America.

Some of Those Aches and Pains May be Due to Over-Civilization

By ALTON L. BLAKESLEE
New Haven, Conn., Nov. 6 — (AP)—Some of your aches and pains may be due to getting civilized.

The civilizing may have shrunk your adrenal glands, the factories of potent hormones to fight off stress and fatigue, Dr. Curt P. Richter of the Johns Hopkins Hospital, Baltimore, said today.

The shrinkage may explain a medical mystery—why the wonder hormones cortisone and ACTH work so strikingly against many human ills, including rheumatism, arthritis, fevers, inflammations, allergies and troubles, and other ones the adrenal gland. ACTH stimulations. Cortisone comes from the adrenal glands to put out cortisone and other hormones.

The injection of extra hormone may make up for lowered efficiency of the adrenal glands, Dr. Richter told the National Academy of Sciences.

He told of Norway rats which have been domesticated, calmed down to live more peacefully, with more of the benefits of civilization.

"There are differences in anatomy, behavior, and psychology between these rats and Norway rats still living under wild conditions.

"The body adrenal glands have shrunk. They are smaller, less active and efficient in producing hormones, and less able to "help the animal protect itself from the effects of stress and fatigue.

"Man may have undergone parallel changes during his transition from a wild to a controlled, protected environment, he has become more civilized, his adrenal glands may have become less efficient."

This, Dr. Richter said, could account for the prevalence of diseases that get better so dramatically after injection of cortisone or ACTH.

EISENHOWER RETURNING TODAY TO EUROPE

Subject of Conference In Washington Withheld

By ELTON C. FAY

Washington, Nov. 6.—(AP) — Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, who arrives in Washington to report on the status of western Europe's defences, goes back today, presumably with some fresh information for his own guidance.

The moment's reason to believe that out of a series of conferences the supreme commander of allied forces in Europe, among other things, has learned:

1. How fast American production could equip a western Europe defensive force of up to 30 divisions. North Atlantic Treaty forces which are equipped and combat-ready now number only about half that; and

2. The latest over-all plans for strategy and tactics of the Washington military chiefs, possibly including revisions in battlefield techniques indicated by the advent of atomic arms in troop-against-troop warfare.

Goes Staff Chiefs

A final round of meetings included a scheduled session with the standing group of N.A.T.O. in Washington and a meeting with the joint chiefs of staff.

Eisenhower spent a full day in conferences yesterday. At the day's end, the public didn't know much more about what military matters were talked over, and very little more about Eisenhower's attitudes toward the presidential race in 1952.

The general told reporters he did not discuss politics—"not a bit"—with Truman during their private lunch together. He also said he had given nobody any authority to undertake political

Ottawa Business Block Destroyed

Ottawa, Nov. 6. (CP)—Fire raged through the downtown business block at the corner of Queen and Booth Streets early today, leaving 15 persons homeless and causing damage estimated at $100,000.

All occupants of the second-storey apartments escaped unhurt, but managed to get out of the blazing building only in their night-clothes, losing their household possessions.

Firemen and neighbors was credited with saving one from being killed by death.

Mr. and Mrs. Orphila Langlois and their four children were carried to safety by firemen. Others who had to break down doors and fight through building smoke to reach the trapped family.

Churchill Outlines Proposals For Overcoming Britain's Economic, Foreign Troubles

London, Nov. 6 (CP)—Prime Minister Churchill today outlined to the country his proposals for overcoming the economic and foreign troubles facing Britain.

Recalled to lead the country after 6 1-3 years of Socialism, Churchill announced in the Speech from the Throne opening the new parliament that his Conservative government will:

1. Stand pat in Egypt and press for a middle-east defence plan.

2. Try to cut the injuries (British) rights and interests suffered in Iran.

3. De-nationalize the steel industry taken over by the Socialist government.

4. Attack cartels and monopolies.

5. Take drastic action against growing inflation.

6. Strengthen home defences.

King's Speech Read by Peer

The Speech from the Throne is usually read by Britain's monarch.

But because the King is still convalescing from his lung operation, today's address was read for him in the House of Lords by the Lord Chancellor, Lord Simonds.

A forecast in broad outlines of the reigning government's plans for the country, the speech is written for the King by the cabinet.

Commonwealth governments would be invited to confer on action to close the present precarious sterling gap, the Speech said.

Rearmed at the rate of about $1,650,000,000 a year the gap affects Britain's position as banker for the whole sterling area.

Churchill was scheduled to elaborate on the speech later today (about 10:30 a.m. E.S.T.).

The Throne Speech said that a "full contribution" must be made by the nation" of the recent serious deterioration in Britain's economic affairs. It described the situation as "overshadowing all other domestic matters."

Royal Pair Warmly Welcomed At Start of Maritimes Tour

By JACK BRAYLEY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Fredericton, Nov. 6. (CP)—Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh mingled freely with New Brunswick students, lumberjacks, miners and farmers today. Their visit to this New Brunswick capital was one of the most homey and informal on their Canadian tour.

In clear, crisp weather they arrived in Fredericton to receive their first official Maritime greeting. Students at the University of New Brunswick where the couple stopped first, found royalty as friendly as themselves.

Red and black-clad students swarmed around the car and shouted their college cheer. The royal couple smiled and waved happily as they walked through police lines and mingled with the students. Then they entered the library where they asked Dr. A. W. Trueman, president of the university, a number of questions about the various documents and manuscripts on display.

Dr. Trueman showed the principal autographed letters from Queen Victoria, but the Duke was most interested in a letter which Neland had written Winston Churchill. Philip studied the letter for a long time.

The royal couple were also interested in Kipling's famous atlas in which, Dr. Trueman recalled Dr. Trueman on one thing. Then they got into Winston Churchill's complete set of war memoirs—"for signing."

Princess looked furtively around, shrugged his shoulders and smiled. "We've got them all but I don't know where they are."

The princess next turned her attention to the bulletin board to sign around the balustrade of the library and was told that it embodied the famous New Brunswick fiddleheads—an edible fern which New Brunswick considered a delicacy.

Jury Convicts Man Of Dangerous Driving

Peterborough, Nov. 6 — (CP)— A Peterborough county jury early today found Melvin Wood, 21, guilty of dangerous driving. The jury reported it was unable to reach a verdict in a manslaughter charge against him.

The jury deliberated six hours and 36 minutes.

Wood was charged after his car fatally injured 21-year-old Lorne Russel of Oakwood, Aug. 25.

Mr. Justice W. F. Spence said he would sentence Wood today.

The murder trial of Mrs. Lillian Thomson, 33, who is charged with shooting her husband Roy, Aug. 25 — was expected to start today.

FRENCH CANADIAN TROOPS EXPOSED ON KOREAN FRONT

Quebec Member Asked To Prove Statement

Ottawa, Nov. Nov. 6—(CP)—An independent member from Quebec was challenged in the commons yesterday to prove a statement that French-Canadian troops in Korea are picked to serve in the most exposed positions and to carry out the most menial chores.

The statement was made by P. E. Gagnon, a 63-year-old oil merchant, who represents the constituency of Chicoutimi.

The challenge came from Jean Lesage, (L—Montmagny-L'Islet), parliamentary assistant to External Affairs Minister Pearson, who said that all United Nations forces in Korea are given equal treatment.

The exchange came during otherwise quiet debate on the Speech from the Throne. Both spoke in French.

Singled Out

Mr. Gagnon said Canada cannot assure "full defence without the help of French-Canadians. Yet it was humiliating to see the way French-Canadians were treated in the armed forces.

Canada's constitution, he said, should be respected and both French and English should be regarded as official languages in the defence forces. He was anxious to know whether the French-language units in the Canadian 25th Brigade, now on its way to Korea, will be given orders in French.

He said he also wondered whether they will be singled out as were the French-Canadian troops in Korea to serve in the most exposed positions and to do the most tedious chores.

Mr. Gagnon went on to call for adoption of a national flag and a national anthem and to urge appointment of Canadian ambassador representative to the Vatican.

Don Jail Break Discovered Within Hour Say Officials

Toronto, Nov. 6 (CP)—Ontario officials said today their investigation of Sunday's Don Jail break indicates that the break was discovered within an hour and that other prisoners acted as a lure to trap those who escaped.

Investigating Inspector Ralph Ayres of the Department of Reform Institutions has submitted his report to Attorney-General Thomas Gourlay.

Mr. Ayres testified that the jail break occurred between 7 p.m. and 8 p.m., said Inspector Ayres, "and that the three jail breakers had been gone only a few minutes when their escape was discovered."

Police said this leads them to believe that Edwin Boyd, Edwin Boyd and William Jackson had a car and driver parked outside the jail and were driven directly to a hideout.

U.S. Railroaders Calling Strike For Thursday

Washington, Nov. 6—(AP)—The Brotherhood of Locomotive Firemen and Enginemen today called a strike on four major railroads to begin at 6 p.m. Thursday.

President David B. Robertson said a work stoppage is "the only course left open to obtain long overdue increases in wages and two-person working conditions."

All major railroads have been under government seizure for some time. This makes the employees government employees, workers, and the government quite probably will seek a court injunction to stop the strike before it begins.

Failure to obey a court order would put the union and its officers open to contempt penalties.

The strike was termed a "progressive" movement by that while the walkout initially was to affect four railroads and their subsidiaries, other rail systems could be struck later.

The four lines on which the walkout Thursday was ordered are:

Chicago and Northwestern Railway, including the Chicago, St. Paul, Minneapolis and Omaha Railway.

Terminal Railroad Association of St Louis.

Baltimore and Ohio Railroad, including the Buffalo division (formerly Buffalo, Rochester and Pittsburgh Railway) and the Buffalo and Susquehanna district.

Louisville and Nashville Railroad.

Rescue Attempt By Grandparents Proves Futile

Simone Simons Victim Of Accident on Bridge

Trenton (Special) — While her horrified grandparents looked on, a twelve-year-old girl, unable to cling to a life preserver, disappeared in the icy waters of the Murray Canal near here yesterday afternoon. Her drowned body was recovered nearly two hours later.

The girl, Simone Simons, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Les Simons, who recently moved here from Cooksville, Ont., was crossing a railway bridge over the canal when she was catapulted from the bridge into twenty-feet of water some ten feet below when she lost her balance. Accompanying her was a school chum Wiona Terrill.

Bicycle Lodged in Ties

Mrs. A. E. Barker, wife of the bridge tender who resides nearby watched the tragedy from her window. Seeing the girls and daughter plunge into the canal, when the girl tried to jerk her bicycle from between the ties, Mrs. Barker ran from the house to call her husband.

They tossed a life preserver to the girl struggling in the water, but heavy winter clothing and an icy temperature prevented her from maintaining a grip on it and she slipped back into the depths.

Body Recovered

Police were manned by Ross Terrill, Bud Spence and "Scotty" MacFarlane rushed to the spot where the girl disappeared and started dragging operations. The body was recovered some two hours later approximately 150 yards from the place where the girl plunged into the canal.

Dr. F. M. Dure, coroner, of Brighton and Ontario Provincial Police Corporal A. Lyle, Brighton, investigated the fatality.

Heavy Snowstorm Predicted For Toronto Area

Toronto, Nov. 6 (CP)—The season's worst snowstorm was expected today to hit Toronto any hour. Traffic officials predicted it would cause serious tie-ups in the business section.

The weather man said the storm already had swept through Windsor and was travelling northeast to Toronto at a pretty good clip". He predicted there would be from 3 to 6 inches of snow.

The snow might follow freezing rain and sleet storms, it was also expected to fall through the night, with possible lighter flurries tomorrow.

Last night the temperature dropped to 17 above in Toronto, the coldest Nov. 6 since 1853 when it was 18.

London had the lowest temperature in the southern section, and Gravenhurst the coldest in the north. Both registered one degree below zero.

The weekend storm left nearly two feet of snow through Ontario district.

Montreal Protestant Clergy Protest Stores Closing on Catholic Holidays

Montreal, Nov. 6 — (CP) — A protest against legislation closing retail stores in Montreal on six Roman Catholic holidays each year loomed today.

Rev. J. S. Mitchell, Moderator of Montreal Presbytery of the United Church of Canada, in Canada, said in a statement:

"City council had no business to pass such a law. This is another case of linking the church and State but the fact is that there is no state church in Canada."

Montreal city council last Friday decreed that retail stores be closed on Epiphany, Ascension Day, All Saints Day, the Feast of the Immaculate Conception, Christmas and New Years Day.

The vote which carried the legislation was 61-29, one more than necessary for a two-thirds majority.

Rev. Victor Rose, chairman of Montreal Presbytery of the United Church of Canada, expressed the opinion that the Protestant mass meeting to discuss what he described as threats to the rights of religious groups in the province of Quebec.

The weekend storm left nearly two feet of snow through Ontario district.

Ogpu Head Beria Tells Russ West Planning War

London, Nov. 6—(Reuters)—Not Stalin but another top Soviet leader, Lavrentie Beria, head of the secret police, made the traditional revolution anniversary speech in Moscow today, Moscow radio reported.

The ceremony—34th since the 1917 uprising brought the communists to power—opened in the Moscow Bolshoe theatre before a select audience of Russian notables —Politburo members, party and government officials and red army officers.

Many western observers figured the key speech would contain important Russian policy statements, perhaps countering the peace plan which President Truman is expected to broadcast Wednesday night.

But his opening remarks, Beria said the communist system is achieving "new successes every day."

It was Stalin's energy and knowledge which gave the correct line for the great victories, Beria asserted.

Where are two centres of attraction in the world now" he said, "the Soviet Union on one, headed by U.S.A. on the other hand—the centre of imperialism and aggression."

The imperialist camp headed by the United States and Britain is striving to unleash another war to enslave the peoples of the world," he declared.

THE WEATHER

Toronto, Nov. 6 (CP)—Synopsis: Weather still holds away over all of Canada today. Here in Ontario overnight temperatures recorded near seasonal with the mercury registering a few °F 17 degrees below the previous record low this date of 18 above. London came up with the lowest temperature in southern Ontario with an unseasonable one below zero.

To add to this wintry scene more snow is expected to fall over southern Ontario today as a low pressure area situated over Tennessee is now moving northeastward towards the province. Indications are that this storm will produce another major snowfall especially in those regions surrounded by the lower lakes.

Last Rites Held For F. R. Wotten

The funeral of Frank Russell Wotten held at the Bellville Burial Company Funeral Home Monday afternoon was well attended by friends, business associates and municipal life representatives of the city.

The service at the chapel was conducted by Rev. Duncan McTavish, who took his text "Just a step between Me and Death."

Mr. McTavish stated the death of Mr. Wotten was a great shock to all who knew him. "I am sure we are all aware of the change in to his family. But we all have happy memories of a life well spent. Mr. Wotten was always a successful businessman, yet he had time for the cultural things in life. He loved his church and was a most sociable man.

Mr. McTavish said the large attendance at the funeral was an indication of the high esteem in which Mr. Wotten had been held.

Sunday evening a Masonic service was held at the chapel in charge of Wor. Master A. J. Meens, assisted by Very Wor. Bro. E. P. Smith. Also assisting in the service were Wor. Bro. P. W. Dunberry; Wor. Bro. E. C. Wood; Wor. Bro. R. L. Orr; Bro. L. A. Twiddy and Bro. W. D. Humphreys.

The honorary bearers were Samuel Hibbard, Charles L. Hyde, H. W. Ackerman, Clayton W. Burr, Wm. H. Finkle; C. B. Morgan, Morley P. Duff, Percy Silver, William Blatherwick and Philip M. Till.

Bearers were Frank S. Follwell, Grant Proctor, Frank Hinchey, Dr. G. S. Cronk, Dr. R. T. Potter and D. B. Smith.

Church Board Will Not Sign Quitclaim Deed to Property Proposed as Firehall Site

Members of the trustee board of Bridge Street Church have definitely decided against signing a quit claim deed giving the city to build its proposed new firehall on the former church home property on Dundas Street, East.

This was made known to city council at their afternoon session in communication from city solicitor R. A. Pringle who said he had attended a meeting of the board defining the proposed location of the firehall on the property. However, the board had voted against signing the quit claim deed.

Through a will of the former owner of the property, Bridge Street Church has a controlling interest in what use the city can make of the part property. According to the will the property must be used for park purposes.

Mr. Pringle said the purchase of the former county old people's home in the east end of the city were opened by the property committee which recommended that no action be taken on the tenders for purchase of the property. Accordingly, said he was carried by council.

Welfare chairman Alderman Angus was authorized to inquire as to indigent burial rates paid in other centres and to make a recommendation as to the rate to be paid in the city next year.

At a previous council meeting Belleville undertakers asked that the indigent burial rate in the city be increased.

Five thousand tourist booklets will be purchased this year. A recommendation calling for this number of booklets was tabled by the board of estimates and saw ratification in council.

Not Attend Sportsman Show

Alderman Tice noted the committee had decided not to attend the Cleveland Sports show this year but left the way open to attend some other show if it was deemed advisable. From last year's printing 2,500 booklets had been left over, he said.

Business firms may not erect signs on private property without first obtaining permission from the city engineer, it was ruled by the city solicitor who said there was a by-law to this effect.

The question was raised by Ald. Thomas who said some business concerns were erecting signs without permission from council and were "getting away with it." Others, complying with regulations, asked permission of council and some were turned down.

Discussion Follows Salary Raise

A salary increase of $300 per year to Stan Price, assistant city engineer saw a flurry of discussion with Alderman Countryman claiming the raise to be a "second round increase" for Mr. Price this year.

He said he was not in favor of the increase and felt it should not be dealt with until January. "We should not be in a hurry at once," he said.

Alderman Argue also wanted to know "how long this was going on." He pointed out that salary schedules had been decided on last spring and the by-law passed accordingly.

Alderman Thomas pointed out however that the city had been forced to hire a third engineer to take care of the mounting work and the lowest figure at which one could be secured was more than that being received by the second engineer.

"I'm not sure we could not have an entirely new man receiving more than our present second engineer who has proven himself a top flight man," he said.

He said it just meant if the city did not increase the engineer's salary, the city would have no engineer.

Ald. Argue came back with the statement that industrial firms in the city were hiring engineers out of college at a lower rate than was being paid by the city.

"I don't see what the rate for industrial engineers has to do with what the city pays its engineers," said Alderman Latimer. "If we paid on the same rate we would have no engineers."

Here one of the aldermen pointed out that the increase for the engineer had been passed before the discussion commenced.

Then said Ald. Argue "any discussion about" asked Alderman Rollins who was acting as chairman of the committee of the whole.

Appoint Commission

Council appointed Aldermen Rollins and Countryman as members of the community swimming pool commission to act with five members from the Kinsmen Club. Setting up of the commission was necessary, it was pointed out, to make the swimming pool eligible for a capital grant from the province.

The T. Eaton Company branch at Belleville will not submit a bill to city council for decoration of the platform used at the north stadium during the visit of Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip on October 12.

Mayor Bowen said the decoration had been done by the local firm free of charge to the city but would write a letter of appreciation to the firm.

Due to the clearness of the municipal elections there will be no appointment to fill the vacancy on the public utilities commission caused by the death of F. Russell Symington. It was also pointed out there would be but one meeting of the commission before the election and was thought it was advisable not to make an appointment for the one meeting.

Boy Scout Assoc. Will Hold Annual Meeting

The annual meeting of the Belleville Boy Scout Local Association will be held on Friday evening in the Kiwanis Centre.

This association is unique in that members have to be due to pay and the only qualification for membership is that the man or woman is interested in boys' work in general and Boy Scout work in particular.

Highlight of the meeting is the address to be given by the executive commissioner, R. H. Mort-

Recreation Committee Asks Grant Of One Mill Annually From Taxes

An outline of the objectives of the Recreation Committee was discussed at a meeting of that body in the City Hall last night under the chairmanship of Bill VanTassel.

The objectives of the Recreation Committee according to its members, is to create and maintain recreation facilities and provide leadership and supervision in their full use for all age groups. It is the desire of the committee, its members say, to work harmoniously with all organizations who use these facilities. The members say that aim is to promote and provide playgrounds, rinks, athletic fields, drama and music, crafts and hobbies, artistic facilities, and swimming facilities.

These, and other points, were discussed and dealt with exhaustively. It was stated that in order for them to promote and develop an all round recreational program, it would be necessary to have a known income, and the only way this is possible is for a majority of the taxpayers to vote in favor of the by-law granting one mill for recreation.

Sam Abramsky Of Kingston Dies Of Heart Attack

Kingston—A sudden heart attack took the life of Samuel Abramsky, 51, president of the Kingston Shmates Ltd. and Jewish Independent Order of Odd Fellows. He was also a captain, retired, of the Canadian Reserve Army, with the FWOR. Active in sports, principally lacrosse and basketball, in his younger years, he later sponsored a lacrosse team here and was a director of the Kingston Amateur Softball Association and the Kingston Basketball Association. He was an enthusiastic fisherman, boatsman and hunter. Surviving are his wife, the former Eleanor Meltzer; one daughter, Marilyn, 15, a student at KCVI; his mother; two brothers, Harry, vice-president and secretary-treasurer of the family firm, and Moses, also of Kingston and three sisters, Mrs. Irving Stone (Ann), Boston, Mass., Mrs. Hillel Wineberg (Edith), Toronto, and Mrs. Kate Gould, Boston, Mass.

The funeral was held Tuesday afternoon from the funeral home of Wilfred J. Finkle to Calvary Jewish Cemetery. Rabbi Charles Bender, Montreal conducted the service, assisted by Rabbi M. Kellerman of Kingston.

IN MEMORIAM

HARVEY — In loving memory of Joseph Harvey, who passed away two years ago, November 6th, 1949.
Loving and kind to all his ways,
Upright and just to the end of his days.
Sincere and kind in heart and mind,
What a beautiful memory he left behind.
Never remembered by son Herbert and family.

STANLEY — In loving memory of our dear son and brother, Douglas Stanley, who left us very suddenly November 6th, 1945.
We do not forget him, we loved him too dearly
For his memory to fade from our lives
Like a dream.
Our thoughts will turn when sad
Our hearts are sincerely
For precious moments where it
Will be with us forever.
—Sadly missed by his mother, dad, sisters Verna and Linda.

Sandercock Says Glen Miller Road Will be Improved Immediately

Trenton—(Special)—It was announced last night that Elmer Sandercock, M.P.P., had promised that work would be started immediately on the stretch of highway taken over by the Murray council at a meeting with the Trenton council last week. The piece of road is the part of highway No. 33 running from the subway at the north end of the town to the town limits north of No. 2 powerhouse on the way to Glen Miller.

In civic circles this piece of highway has been considered a burden to the taxpayers. Last year for example, the municipality netted $1,400 in taxation from the land adjacent to the route while the department of streets and sidewalks spent $7,000 in keeping the road in shape. It is now understood that it is the intention of the province in put this section so that it is under the jurisdiction of Murray township.

Ontario hydro has control of any suitable land on either side of the road this end of the town did not afford room for town-site expansion. The road itself has not only been an eyesore to tourists but has caused inflicting wrecks between Trenton and Marmora.

Youth Injures Thumb

Johnny Strome, 10-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Strome of Frankford, suffered a severe thumb of his right hand while playing around a road-grading machine at the rear of the Salvation Church hall on Saturday. The lad was taken to the hospital in a set of gears as they were turning.

Painfully injured the youth was rushed to Trenton Memorial Hospital where Dr. W. A. L. McDonald was able to save the thumb. Young Strome was allowed to return to his parents yesterday.

Small Fire Damage

Fire this morning threatened to destroy Mr. and Mrs. Bill Lucas' frame home at 25 John Street. The fire department however arrived in good time and had the blaze under control before any fire damage resulted.

Damage was traced to overheated stovepipes. The flames caught in the ceiling in the kitchen and had spread to the dining room when aid arrived.

Loss was estimated at $100.

Aircraft Visit Station

Eight Avenger and six Sea Fury aircraft from the naval training base at Dartmouth, N.S., en route to take part in a big army, navy and air force scheme near Rivers, Manitoba, passed at the Trenton Air Station about 3.30 p.m. Today at 3.30 p.m. The pilots and crews were entertained during the evening and today headed west on the next leg of their long air journey.

Council Decides to Continue Sidewalk Snowploying

Although another three to five jeeps and sidewalk plows would be needed to adequately cover the city's system of sidewalks within 24 hours after a heavy snowfall, city public works department will continue this winter with its present equipment.

This was decided at city council Monday afternoon when the question of whether snowploying of walks should be continued was discussed by council members.

Alderman Don Thomas, chairman of public works, said that his department was desirous of some direction by council in the matter, as with increased sidewalk mileage considerably more equipment would be needed if a good job was to be done.

"There have been many arguments and much divided opinion on the matter of sidewalk snowploying," he said. "We have very few jeeps and five plows now but another five would be needed to cover the city within 24 hours after a snowfall."

Drivers Scarce

Another question to be considered should additional equipment be purchased was that of trained drivers for the plows. An inefficient driver could do much damage both to property and plowing equipment.

Almost without exception city councillors spoke in favor of continuing sidewalk snowploying.

Alderman Hyde said it cost plenty for sidewalk plowing last year, but it had been well worth the money. He was willing that it be carry on.

Alderman Lattimer noted that plowing of sidewalks was one of the few services being provided by the city.

"It is humanly impossible to get to all sidewalks after a heavy fall," he said. "I realize with our present equipment we cannot do a complete job, but I think we should continue."

Butler Approves

Alderman Butler also approved sidewalk plowing and said he thought if it were now stopped there would be a great clamor following a heavy snow.

The same was true of Alderman Clarke, who said that during service by the city was more appreciated than that of sidewalk plowing. It was strongly in favor of plowing sidewalks," he said.

Although he did not definitely express any objection, Alderman Porter pointed out that the expense of sidewalk plowing was something to consider. "No matter what the cost may be, it costs the city more to provide the service than it would the householders," he said.

Council voted to carry on with sidewalk plowing equipment as is.

Ontario Plans To Build Houses In Trenton Area

Trenton (Special)— Following a visit by Hon. Dana Porter, Ind valuator for the Department of Development and Planning, it was announced that 150 acres of land at the west end of the town known as the Little's farm and the Hendrick's farm had been optioned. The options stand for 90 days.

Mr. Little was paid $100 on his option, while Mr. Hendricks received $200. The agreement with Mr. Hendricks calls for the town to pay $450 per acre for 100 acres on the south side of highway No. 2. At the same time the town agreed to pay Mr. Little $400 an acre for 50 acres of land north of the main route.

Providing the options are exercised the Ontario-Trenton land government housing scheme will be started immediately in the newly annexed area, it was stated.

Two Toronto Residents Injured In Car Crash

Trenton (Special)—Oleg Rodzmar and Khyreva Antonio were injured in the Trenton Memorial Hospital on Saturday for slight injuries received when the car they were riding in two miles east of Brighton crashed into the back of a truck standing on the highway. Miss Antonio, most seriously injured, suffered a cut hand and bruises. Both patients were three other passengers in the car, Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Amhurst. The car was badly damaged. The pavement was slippery at the time the accident occurred.

Talk on Radio Advancement Given Kinsmen

Scott Hanna, program director of radio station CJBQ, was the speaker at the weekly meeting of the Kinsmen Club, held in the Quinte Hotel last night, and dealt with the advancement of radio in the past 21 years.

The speaker described the differences between Canadian and United States radio systems. In Canada, he said, the radio stations are independent stations, network affiliates, and stations governed by the Federal Communications Commission, whereas in Canada there are only the independent stations and CBC stations.

He spoke extensively of the set-up of a station, mentioning each department and its duties. These departments include the news department, publicity, Reeve Ocean Mason of Campbellford, and the chief engineer. Arrangement had been worked out in the village of Rathbun. When the fire siren sounds in that village, the fire truck leaves immediately with equipment necessary for fighting a fire. Immediately upon hearing the siren, the other town truck, a pick-up, leaves for the fire hall, loads the remaining hose and equipment on, and starts for the village in the event a fire breaks out in the village.

Reeve Mason said that when the Seymour council was approached some time ago, relative to supplying equipment, they made inquiries and only one that was received was a jeep truck equipped with fire fighting equipment. He said this was found to be unsatisfactory.

Sing-Song Staged

A sing-song was led by Bob Farquharson with Phil Huddleston playing the accompaniments.

President Ben Yanover welcomed guests from Hamilton and the city.

Tickets on a special club fund were sold, with the prize being given by Kin Harry Hollins. The draw was made by Mr. Hanna.

Another big general business discussed was the coming social evening, the second annual minstrel show and the Kinsmen midget hockey team which the club will sponsor during the winter.

It was announced that the city council had approved a debenture of $20,000 in aid of the Kinsmen Club's swimming pool which will be open to the public next year.

Ontario Gives More To Relief Recipients

Toronto, Nov. 6 — (CP) — Ontario has approved a 15-per-cent increase in food schedules for relief recipients, effective immediately, Welfare Minister Goodfellow announced yesterday. Present schedules call for a maximum for a single adult to $3 cents a week for an infant. In addition, free milk is provided for relief recipients — from 3½ quarts a week to six quarts.

CNR AUTOMATIC SYSTEM

Toronto, Nov. 6 — (CP) — The first fully automatic system to control train movements entirely by signals instead of by schedules and train orders went into operation yesterday on forty miles of the Canadian National Railways transcontinental line. A train dispatcher at Hornepayne, 180 miles northeast of Sault Ste. Marie, sits in front of a diagram on which is indicated the position of every train on that section. He controls their movements by signals.

Council Discusses Fire Protection Of Township

Campbellford—The question of fire protection for the township of Seymour was discussed at the Friday evening meeting of the Campbellford town council. After much discussion on what would be done, Councillor's MacMillan made a motion that a committee from the Seymour council, the fire, water and light committee of the town council, the chief of the fire department, Reeve Mason of Campbellford, and the chief engineer and fire marshal, meet together to discuss the problem and arrive at some logical conclusion.

Deputy Reeve Ward Archer of Seymour stated that he thought the 100-gallon tank on the Campbellford fire truck was too small to be fully effective against a rural fire. He said that a 500 gallon tank would be more suitable. Deputy Reeve Oscar Mason of Campbellford, said the present fire hall arrangement had been worked out in the village of Rathbun. When the fire siren sounds in that village, the fire truck leaves immediately with equipment necessary for fighting a fire. Immediately upon hearing the siren, the other town truck, a pick-up, leaves for the fire hall, loads the remaining hose and equipment on, and starts for the village in the event a fire breaks out in the village.

Reeve Mason said that when the Seymour council was approached some time ago, relative to supplying equipment, they made inquiries and only one that was received was a jeep truck equipped with fire fighting equipment. He said this was found to be unsatisfactory.

No Action On Lot Sale

A discussion on the possible sale of a lot owned by the town resulted in no immediate action being taken. A local carpenter and contractor asked council for permission to purchase the lot and construct a woodworking shop on it. Council decided that it thought the lot would be a good location for the construction of the new fire hall in the near future and that other bulky equipment. The present town storehouse has got into such a bad state of repair that during the past five years, that many people are of the opinion, that it would be easier to construct a new one than to try to clean up the old one. The town cannot afford a new storehouse at the present time, and on a motion by Councillor MacMillan, Messrs. Canada and bridge workmen are going to have the task of cleaning up the old one.

Council authorized the purchase of a wreath, to be placed on the cenotaph on Remembrance Day. The wreath will be secured from the local branch of the Canadian Legion.

Fire Hospital Proposal

A letter from the municipality of Hungerford asking council to endorse a proposed amendment to the Highway Improvement Act that would lift some of the burden off the cost of the upkeep of county roads from the municipalities was received and filed for consideration of the incoming council. The amendment would provide provincial government to pay a greater cost of the road upkeep on highways running through a number of Ontario towns. These highways, the letter stated, took more business away from the smaller municipalities than they brought in.

Councillor MacMillan reported that all the fill and top soil had now been drawn to fill in the cenotaph. A clean-up and beautification campaign on the cenotaph was started some time ago, and is now just about completed, making it one of the finest such memorials of its kind in any town of similar size in the province.

In view of the fact the election in the town will be held earlier this year, it was decided to hold a special meeting to pass the election by-law, and this will be held on November 23. The nomination meeting will be held on November 26 and election one week later on December 3. Municipal elections have been held annually from New Year's day, which usually resulted in a comparatively light vote.

Chiropractors Meet

A meeting of chiropractors from Belleville, Campbellford, Peterborough and many other points met in Peterborough on Sunday for lectures and clinics conducted by Dr. Homewood of the Canadian Memorial Chiropractic College in Toronto was guest speaker, along with Dr. MacMillan of St. Catharines.

Dr. Homewood spoke on technique, while Dr. MacMillan told of history, technique and interpretation as applied to the practice of chiropractic. This technique differs considerably from the technique as applied to medical uses.

The meeting was held in the Empress Hotel in Peterborough with sixteen chiropractors attending. They enjoyed a delicious chicken dinner.

FATAL PLANE CRASH

Tucumcari, N. M., Nov. 6 (AP) — Twenty persons, 19 of them Navy men, were killed yesterday when a chartered airliner crashed and burned in new Mexico today killing one of its load of 25 Korean war veterans. Nine others, members of the crew, were injured and all were shaken and bruised.

ROYAL PAIR

Elizabeth and Philip got separated and seemed to be enjoying themselves. They were on the visit when Dr. Truesan suggested an inspection of the Bible.

After tea, they drove to the cathedral where they signed a typically New Zealand visitors' Bible presented to the church by King Edward VII when he was Prince of Wales. They affixed their signatures right under his.

On the spacious lawns of the Cathedral there were more than 20,000 people. Hot milk was served to sing songs and cheer. It was here the official greeting was given.

The princess replied that each step she took in New Zealand brought new vistas and a greater understanding of the needs to herself and her husband. She was looking forward to seeing the Maritimes and she was grateful for the welcome that has been given.

Before leaving Fredericton she was to greet a group of pensioners of the staff of the royal train for an informal souvenir picture at the station.

Campbellton Visited

Her last engagement here was a luncheon.

The royal couple's first taste of New Brunswick hospitality came last night at the 81 pensioners lumbering town of Campbellton, where 4,000 waited for the chilly midnight arrival.

The ceremonial arrival here was punctuated by the cheers of thousands who swelled the 15,000 population of the old town border jail, stately clinic. They came in cars, special trains and buses from the surrounding areas.

The royal couple were met at the train by Lieut.-Governor Hon. Joseph Leger, premier John B. McNair and Mayor H. S. Wright. There was a guard of honor, a band playing a lively serenade and a 21-gun salute.

The premier gave the royal couple a tartan plaid of wool rugs whose design includes the Royal Canadian Air Force tartan.

The pair drove through crowd-lined streets and paid a brief call at the Bonar Law-Bennett Library on the University of New Brunswick campus. The library contains a valuable collection of papers of the two New Brunswickers who became national political leaders— Bonar Law, prime Minister of Britain and Viscount Bennett, last Conservative prime minister of Canada, who was later a member of the House of Lords.

See Old Cathedral

The next stop was tall-spired Christ Church Anglican Cathedral the first new cathedral founded on British soil since the Norman conquest of 1066 when its cornerstone was laid in 1845. Lined up for inspection outside the cathedral was a group of United States war veteran paraplegic basketball players.

They then went across the street and into the legislature building which, among other things, has one of the two complete sets of the famous Audubon bird paintings in existence. It was purchased from Louise Philippe of France.

At the legislature the premier assured the royal couple: "Your devotion to duty and your conscientious, yet happy, approach to your difficult tasks have endeared you to all members of our great family of nations."

Then he presented them with a matched pair of motor rugs whose design included the RCAF tartan and the New Brunswick Coat of Arms. They were woven at nearby Gagetown.

Mayor Wright, medical man, recalled Loyalist traditions of the city and declared "our loyalty to the throne which you represent still burns as deeply as when the open expression of it cost us almost the loss of home and fireside."

Liberal George Fulford Doubtful If Price Cuts Good for Country

Ottawa, Nov. 6 (CP) —George Fulford (L-Leeds) said in Commons yesterday no man could avoid the results of inflation, but he could not see that price cuts answer. This was evident in Britain where they had controls.

Mr. Fulford said the throne assumed Throne - Speech debate that the government would like to see a reduction in prices, he doubted if that would be a good thing for the country as a whole.

In periods of inflation, employment and income were high. In periods of depression there was unemployment, "men are chasing power of the people dropped."

Mr. Fulford said he sympathized with the white-collar workers who were on fixed salaries and had remained stationary while the cost of living climbed.

He noted that some newspapers were criticizing the government for compiling a surplus of $500,000,000. The same newspapers would complain if the government had a deficit.

The national debt could be paid off in about 30 years through the use of large surplus-

ex. Interest charges of $300,000,000 a year—enough to pay annual family allowances —could be saved by eliminating the debt.

He expressed his support of the St. Lawrence navigation and power projects and said that Canada was prepared to go ahead with them.

As living costs continued to decline during the debate, H. O. White (PC-Middlesex East) proposed that the pensions of veterans and others be raised at the same rate cost of living index so that they would rise as living costs went up. This would ensure that their value was retained.

He said the government is not facing the problem of inflation. The government watched prices rise and while they contributed to did the size of the government's revenue. They got a result from larger yields from the 10-per-cent sales tax.

Mr. White said immigrants were posing as farmers in order to get to Canada. Once they arrived they lost little time in migrating to the city. They were coming to Canada under false pretences at the expense of the farmer and the Canadian taxpayer.

19-Year-Old Girl Is British Pilot

London. (CP)—One of the newest recruits, the youngest pilot in the Royal Air Force Volunteer Reserve is 19-year-old Barbara Pickett, of London, who saved hard to earn the money for flying lessons.

Barbara decided she wanted to be a pilot a few years ago but she was not earning much money as a typist and needed £120 to pay for flying lessons. She cycled to work to save train fare, went without new clothes, and took holiday jobs to earn more money.

Eventually the day came when she had enough to pay for the flying course. That was 15 months ago, and from civil aircraft to the Royal Air Force was a logical step. When the Air Ministry ruled that persons with flying licences might join the volunteer reserve, Barbara was among the first to apply.

She has just flown an R.A.F. Tiger Moth for the first time, after 40 hours flying.

A VALUABLE CITIZEN GONE

Belleville lost a valuable citizen by the sudden death last Friday of Frank Russell Wotten. During the 40 years of his residence in the city, Mr. Wotten had been prominent in many worthwhile enterprises. He was active in Bridge Street United Church Sunday School for 25 years. He was a past president and a charter member of the Belleville Kiwanis Club and was a life member of Eureka Lodge, A.F. and A.M., No. 383.

At one time or another, he had served on practically every civic governing body, having been, at the time of his death, chairman of the Public Utilities Commission. He was formerly a member of the City Council, of the high school board and of the re-organized Board of Education. He was also active in the affairs of the Chamber of Commerce.

Like Mr. Wotten, who give freely of their time toward civic and philanthropic betterment while conducting businesses of their own, are none too common, and the passing of any such leaves a void in the life of the community which he has served.

43,000 QUEBECOIS MISSING

It was pointed out in these columns a few days ago that there were great discrepancies between the population of some of the Canadian constituencies which send members to the House of Commons. This meant, it was pointed out, that a voter in one part of the country often had five or six times the voting power of a voter living in another part of the country.

Hon. Maurice Duplessis, head of the Union Nationale government of Quebec, thinks that there is something wrong about the way in which the federal census takers do their counting, also that Quebec City should have greater representation in the House of Commons.

At his weekly press conference in Quebec City last Friday, Mr. Duplessis declared that the federal census takers recently announced that the population of Quebec City was 163,000, although the municipal census takers, who had just completed their count, gave it as 205,000.

Mr. Duplessis was mild in his criticism of the federal census takers. He merely said he believed that their methods were "not satisfactory."

ROSSERY DEPARTMENT

The Laborite or Socialist government of Great Britain has been defeated, but the Conservative government headed by Rt. Hon. Winston Churchill has not been in office long enough to make even a start on undoing the mischief done to Great Britain's economy in the last six years.

A Reuters dispatch from London says that there are more than a million pairs of full-fashioned nylon hose lying around in British warehouses. British women, who are as fond of fancy hosiery as women everywhere else, are not permitted to buy these adornments, although they are said to be "bursting" for them.

Socialist regimentation of the British factories which produced the hosiery has forced the price of them so high that they cannot be sold in the export market.

Thus, until Mr. Churchill administration gets around to doing something, the full-fashioned nylon hosiery must remain where it is, unused and unsold, a small but significant monument to the Attlee government.

WHO IS RESPONSIBLE?

Anyone who has occasion to walk past Belleville's city hall may have noticed that in the lettering on one of the front windows announcing the location of the city treasurer's office, the final "s" in the word treasurer's is a tiny, baby "s," only about half the size of the adult letters used in the remainder of the inscription.

This kind of error is what printers call a "wrong font." Even if the uninformed laymen knows nothing about such technical expressions as "wrong font," he can see that it is highly incongruous, not to say downright improper, to expect a baby letter to do as much work as is required of an adult letter.

How long has this been going on? What does Mayor Potter purpose doing about it? Has none of the aldermen raised his voice in protest? Which of the aldermen is chairman of the property committee and hence responsible for the maintenance of the city hall?

Whoever is responsible for this impropriety had better watch out. There is a municipal election before long and an avenging citizenry can then wreak vengeance on any public servant who has been derelict in the performance of his duties.

"IT'S A RIGHT"

There are joys which the mother and father deny
Because they're expensive, with taxes so high.
And others considered for children only
But can still be allowed if the parents have eyes.
So, I claim that grandfather's in charge to go
Even though father and mother say "no."

For children what's best is the parents concern.
Of course, it's their duty at times to be stern.
But a grandfather has a few rights which should be Respected by all since much older is he,
And a son or a daughter-in-law should permit
The old boy to pamper the children a bit.

The youngsters have rights in this land of the free
Which uphold and respected by parents should be.
They all have a right to a grandpa or two
And whatever for them they are willing to do.
All fathers and mothers should gladly submit
To the right of their grandpas to spoil them a bit.

LOOKING BACKWARDS

CLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

30 YEARS AGO
Nov. 08th., 1921

There are three hundred and sixty nine more names on the voters' list for the municipal election in the city of Belleville than there are 260 who are married or, being single, have the same preferential voting rights and status of married men in that they are the only child of a widowed mother. It is expected that relief construction work will be undertaken which will absorb the greater majority of the men, while other work is to be undertaken will provide for the rest.

Mayor George Reid has declared Remembrance Day, Nov. 11th, to be a public holiday.

The city council decided to leave in abeyance the esplanade project along the bank of the Moira River, by the means of relief to the many unemployed, in connection with the construction of the auxiliary water main from the filtration plant to the downtown section of the city. The vote was five for the esplanade and seven against it. One alderman was absent.

OUR TOWN

BY JACK SCOTT

SELF-MADE RUBE

Since I emigrated to the country I've learned to love the city in a new and rather exciting way.

The expression "I'm going" "going in town" is my adventure containing equal parts of alarm and anticipation. Like the rube in the fellow who announced "I'm gonna get drunk and I dread it." This, of course, is the reaction of city people feel strange in the city and often are firmly determined to have a funny time.

Real or affected, it's an attitude I'm not able to share. Oh, I make the noises of disgust expected of me, but they are not from the heart. I really don't mind going to the city at all, because I know I'm coming back.

It is sort of like going to the circus. I know I've seen it all before, that the same old sights and smells and sounds will be there as they've always been, but I still love them and the call of the city, like the call of the calliope, is a siren song.

There is, too, a certain formality about these regular excursions that makes them seem an event. My city clothes, the oxfords and the white shirt and the tie, seem strange and confining after my blue jeans and the loose windbreaker.

I have a theory that clothes have a definite influence on the character of the people who wear them and I find that when I make that change from country to city I make a change, too, in attitude.

The country man who dons his "going-to-town" suit is a man buckling on his armor for a ride through the concrete canyons, a man who has the reason he rarely enjoys the scenery. A man in armor is looking for attack.

With Challenge

I guess I know the city as well as the next man. For some years I was, in fact, a city editor. Perhaps it was this very knowledge of the place that kept me from savoring the mood and tempo of the big city. I was always too busy looking at the trees. Is that the hackneyed phrase I'm groping for?

Whatever it is, I find now that I feel the pulse of the metropolis as I never knew it before. This is largely a matter of contrast. It is just about 25 minutes, by air, from the city hall in the country to the crash of the city. To vault from one to the other is to inhabit two vastly different worlds in the same hour.

The moment I am swallowed in the big burg, is a moment with a thrill to it. I feel the immense vitality that comes with the many life. The people in too small an area, the incredible design in the movement or the mass, the jazz beat after the slow waltz.

Only last week I found myself in an office high above the city's busiest intersection, and stood there for a very long time peering down at the mesh of traffic with utter fascination. There is something almost comical in the way that man and machine, converging from four directions, will meet in a square and sort themselves out in single streams, all attracted by conflicting magnets.

Comical and yet impressive, too. All of this activity, this human ant hill, is alive with a sense of purpose. You might select one individual from the mob and find that he was going no place in particular, but en masse the mob is clearly on a mission.

I am always surprised, myself, to find my feet stepped up to double its country beat, although the urgency is not in me, but in those about me.

As a regular diet this can be wearing and I know that the city man runs down sooner than his country man. But it has its rewards, too, for there's a challenge in the jungle of the city that I do not find in the good green acres. It is like alone, I suspect, that causes so many farm youngsters to leave the country behind.

Happy, Too

I see the city in another way that I've come to see it grown happier place when viewed from this plateau.

In the past I have written much about the gloom to be seen in the faces of the people on the crowded streets, of a theme well-worked by every scribbler and with some cause. There is, in fact, an atmosphere of anxiety and tension that is a fixed and systematized delusion, or else I'm Claudius Galen, M.D.

You may attempt to defend your delusion by pointing to the familiar precautions of athletes to prevent chilling and to avoid the cooling off following a period of vigorous play or exercise, but there is no logical association or connection between sore or stiff muscles and illness. That is as reasonable or rational as it would be to ascribe tuberculosis to the bad climate here at home or recovery to the good climate somewhere far away from home—anywhere for a "change."

Another thing that tickles my fancy is the sight of a pair of unquestionably intelligent individual cowering from snow, sleet, wind or rain (generally this scene goes with an ad for an "antiseptic" gargle or some other worthless nostrum) holding his coat collar or muffler across his throat as though to guard against being trotted by lurking microbes. How can you be so gullible? Do you really believe the rain, the snow, the wind, the dampness or the cold causes your throat, grip, the flu, pneumonia or what have you, unless you gargle promptly or frequently with the faebly antiseptic nostrum that looks and smells powerful? It is pretty evident that the nostrum makers and the great life insurance companies regard the American public as child-minded about "colds."

Unfortunately for all you crazy people, many serious illnesses begin with chilliness or an actual shaking chill, acute septicemia (blood poisoning), for instance, or malaria or pneumonia. In every instance the chilly sensation or chill is an early symptom of the illness, not the cause of the illness. The old timers who knew nothing about the Streptococcus, the malaria Plasmodium or the Pneumococcus, imagined the chilling or chilly sensation really caused the illness and the knuckleheads think he is.

Cold. When you tell me about the "cold" you have or had at the outset of your illness, even though I'd be happy, I could suggest anything to help you, it is all I can to restrain myself from bursting out laughing at you. Particularly so if you happen to be what is commonly called an educated person. How is Sam Hill—excuse me, I wonder if it might be possible that I am crazy and all the rest of the world is sane—no, no, that isn't madness. I tell you, doctors and folks, the fear or belief that exposure to cold or chilling causes any illness or disease more than feasible or feasible is a fixed and systematized delusion, or else I'm Claudius Galen, M.D.

DID YOU EVER HAVE A CHILL?

Between friends need we make any boast about this? What you readers think or know or I don't know, but I think you are a credulous lot. The most successful doctors, from the standpoint of the extent or size of practice —and that's the way you gauge a doctor's ability or choose your trick "specialist"—are the ones who hint or imply without committing themselves inextricably that the trouble is indigestion, rheumatism, nervous exhaustion, run down condition, poor circulation, weak heart, autointoxication, spastic colon, acid system, just an obstinate cold or other vague, undefinable ailment, and leave it to you, the sucker, to figure out how you got into such a state. And the less explaining the doctor does the wiser you are knuckleheads think he is.

Take for instance a mother trying to raise children. Suppose, if you can stand it, that she has, as I suppose she just didn't give a hoot how many youngsters she chose to wear or how wet they happen to get when they go out in the rain or how cold they can or change their wet clothes when they come in—from short suppose the young mother has a fair education or a common sense view of hygiene—wouldn't that spare her a whale of a lot of worry? Wouldn't her children have wonderful memories of mother's rare wisdom to guide them in raising their own children in freedom from fear?

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

In John o' London's weekly, which is the English publication devoted largely to the review of books, the statement was recently made that there are 6,000 novels published every year. It did not say whether that was for Britain, America and all other English speaking countries; but let us hope so. Let us suppose it is meant 4,000 novels all over the world, in all languages.

It would be interesting to have the figures of the number of books published all over the world in one year. Possibly it is better that we don't have them. A book runs into an edition of several thousands, we can picture in our mind's eye the pyramid that is being erected over us. We scuff at the vanity of it. The hundreds who erected their massive stone pyramids in the desert. Maybe in the years to come, the world will look back on us, burrowing under our mountainous trash heaps of books, and scoff too.

Where do they all go. How are they distributed? If a person belongs to one of those book-of-the-month clubs, of which there are several, he receives his choice around twenty-four books. Being rude enough to belong to such a club, doubtless he buys another dozen books during the year, outside his club. Thirty books will fill one shelf of a standard sectional book case. In ten years, he has filled one book case. In twenty years, there won't be room in his house for a book case or a table.

Meanwhile, with book publishing of paperbacks rapidly developing at a tremendous rate, houses all over the world are growing smaller and smaller, dukes and lords are selling their landed estates to pay their taxes, servants are moving into bungalows, and the middle class guys who join book-of-the-month clubs are settling for three roomed apartments.

Where are the books going?

NOT WITHOUT RELIGIOUS FAITH

You have of course noticed when looking at a wheel, that the spokes are nearer to the edge as they come closer to the hub.

There is a spiritual teaching here which we may well ponder. God the Father is the hub, He is the center of human life, and the nearer we come to Him in faith, the nearer we come to all children of God, come to one another. The nearer the spokes get to the hub, the closer they get to each other.

One of the most disconcerting things about modern life is its secular spirit. In past ages men have generally been accustomed to attribute power to religious faith, but this age seems to be seriously determined to have its goodness weakness.

apart from God. There is a widespread belief that we can have world peace without any reference to religion, or that we can have a social order and proper human relationships between races without and reference whatsoever to God.

This is a devastating mistake, for God is at the center of all life, and we as human beings only get together in a satisfactory and permanent way as we approach the hub or center of the universe, which is God.

Similarly distrust social schemes which are purely secular in character. Only permanent confidence in their ability to redeem society is but a sign of their fundamental Moscow, No. 5.—(AP)—Crimson bunting and cardinal flags were up all over Moscow today in preparation for celebration of the 34th anniversary of the red revolution, beginning Wednesday. A highlight of the celebration will be the annual military-civilian parade in Red Square on Wednesday morning.

ACTOR MASON ROBBED

New York, Nov. 5 — (AP) — Eleven pieces of jewelry worth an estimated $20,000 were reported stolen last night from the hotel suite of film actor James Mason. Police said Mrs. Mason discovered the burglary more than two hours after she and the actor returned to their 14th floor suite in the St. Regis Hotel.

Wintry Blasts Fail to Temper Warmth of Maritime Welcome To Princess Elizabeth, Duke

By JACK BEATLEY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Fredericton, Nov. 6 — (CP) — The royal couple got the first cool breath of winter arrived in New Brunswick together today.

The train carrying Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh into the Maritimes on the last leg of their tour pulled into Canoebellton, on the north shore, shortly before midnight.

Despite freezing temperatures and a stiff breeze the royal pair came out on the train's rear observation platform twice to greet the chilled crowd of 4,000 persons. Many in the crowd had waited shiver'ng for three hours in hopes of catching a glimpse of the princess and her husband.

They were not disappointed.

First Maritime Welcome

Both bare-headed—the princess wearing her fur jacket and the duke in a blue lounge suit—they came out to receive their first Maritime welcome from Mayor L. E. Renault.

They extended their thanks, then stood waving and smiling for about three minutes before ducking back inside to the warmth of their car.

Cries of "We want the Duke" came from the crowd, which apparently considered it too chilly to ask another appearance from the princess.

Again the crowd got what it wanted, and more.

Both the princess and duke came out on the platform again as the train pulled away from the flag-bedecked station.

A huge searchlight focused on them as the train chugged away toward Fredericton and the first major stop in the Maritimes. Arrival was scheduled for 10 a. m. AST.

After a busy day in Fredericton —including a 45-minute drive through the elm-lined streets— they will depart at 3 p. m. for St. John.

The royal pair will remain in Saint John until 10.30 when they leave for Moncton, arriving there at 10 a. m. Wednesday.

Warm-Hearted Farewell

Quebec—the province that first greeted the royal visitors Oct. 9 —gave them a warm-hearted farewell yesterday before they left for the Maritimes.

The good-bye was shouted by thousands who turned out at the small cities and towns of French Canada along the royal train's 400-mile route down the St. Lawrence River south to Quebec.

Most of their stops were brief but in some cases the contagious enthusiasm of welcoming throngs stretched the visits above the scheduled 10-minute maximum.

In Rimouski they were presented with a specially-wrought pottery vase in gratitude for assistance from the United Kingdom following the May, 1950, fire.

At Levis, a scheduled 10-minute stop became a 25-minute ovation from the crowd of 7,000.

The happy couple gave out greetings in French to whoever approached and Prince Philip shooks hands at random.

Floods Threaten British Towns

London, Nov. 6 (Reuters) — Serious floods today threatened many parts of Britain following recent torrential rains.

Rivers spilled over their banks and roads and farmlands were swamped.

Three of the main rivers, the Thames, the Severn and Avon, were rising rapidly to the danger line. Some land at the upper reaches of the Thames was already under water.

Floods six feet deep were reported in Wales and in Somerset in western England.

There were scenes of desolation and destruction at Kintore, Aberdeenshire, in Northern Scotland, today when the River Don swept over the surrounding country in the worst flood for 34 years.

The waters poured through Kintore's main street and miles of low-lying farmland in the area were completely submerged.

Heavy flooding was also reported from Northern Ireland after more than 24 hours of rain.

Red Feather Campaign Reaches 68 Per Cent of Minimum Quota

At a late hour this morning the report from the Community Chest headquarters at the Y. M. C. A. showed that the Red Feather Campaign has reached 68 per cent of the minimum objective of $20,000. The executive feels confident that in spite of the colder weather which has made house-to-house canvassing difficult, the citizens will respond to put the campaign over the top.

One of the questions frequently asked by contributors is "what should I give?" While the workers who volunteer their time and effort to the campaign would not instruct anyone on the amount he should give, it may be of importance to know that formulas have been set up and recommended across the country. For the wage earner a day's pay has been a suggested goal. For salaried persons up to five thousand dollars, one per cent has been recommended and for others one and a half per cent. These suggestions, the executive points out, must be adjusted according to individual circumstances but could be used as a guide by any contributor.

The special names report $7,393 received.

NETTED IN HOSPITAL

Victoria, B.C., Nov. 5—(CP) — R.C.M.P. said yesterday that Albert Fairweather, 27-year-old logger wanted for murder, has been arrested in the Edmonton General Hospital. They said Fairweather, who underwent an operation three days ago, apparently for an old abdominal wound, has been charged with murder in the fatal stabbing of Raymond Boyce near Duncan, B.C., Sept. 19.

IT TAKES MORE THAN "HOT AIR" TO MAKE A GOOD HOSPITAL PLAN.

FACT.... The CCF Government in Saskatchewan is operating the only successful hospital plan in Canada.

FACT.... The people kicked out the Liberals in Saskatchewan and elected a CCF Government. That's how they got their hospital plan. The Conservatives hardly exist in Saskatchewan.

FACT.... The Liberals proposed the CCF hospital plan in Saskatchewan.

FACT.... The Liberal Party convention has never endorsed the hospital plan in Ontario.

FACT.... The Liberals at Ottawa have been stalling off a health and hospital program for thirty years.

FACT.... The Liberal-Conservative plan in B.C. has been a financial failure, yet the rates are far too high for the average family.

FACT.... The B.C. Liberal-Conservative government is studying the CCF plan in Saskatchewan right now to learn how to do the job.

FACT.... The only party in Canada which has endorsed a health and hospital program both nationally and provincially is the CCF.

FACT.... The CCF plan in Saskatchewan costs only $10 a person per year; no more than $30 a family; no charge for old age pensioners and other needy people.

Winners were: Mrs. Way; consolation, Mrs. Cooney; men: Mr. Kingston; consolation, Mr. Nelson. The cushion donated by Mrs. Dewey was won by Mrs. Robinson, Hermon Street, Hillcrest.

Refreshments were served and a social half hour enjoyed.

WEDDINGS

READ—WOOD

A pretty wedding was held in Wellington United Church when Doris June Wood, of Peterborough, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Wood, of Wellington, was united in marriage to John Lorne Read, of Peterborough, son of Mr. and Mrs. George H. Read. The Rev. A. Poulter officiated before a background of multi-colored flowers.

Miss Joyce Smith rendered the wedding music, and the soloist, Miss Wilma Brown, sang before the ceremony, "Because", and during the signing of the register, "I'll Walk Beside You".

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was lovely in her bridal gown of blush satin, fashioned with molded bodice and bouffant skirt. The bodice featured a sweetheart neckline, with lace inserts, and long, sheath-like sleeves ending in V-points over the wrists. Her full length veil of tulle illusion was held by a coronet of seed pearls and she carried a bouquet of American Beauty roses.

Miss Jean Wood, of Wellington, sister of the bride, was her only attendant, who chose a navy crepe with navy accessories; she was assisted by the bridegroom's brother who wore a grey lounge ensemble with navy accessories.

The bridal table was beautifully appointed with lace cloth, wedding cake, pink and white stemmed and roses.

For travelling to points west, the bride chose a navy ensemble with matching accessories. They are residing in Peterborough.

Out-of-town guests were present from Toronto, Peterborough, Napanee, Trenton, Bobcaygeon and Belleville.

Women's Activities

FOXBORO W.I.

The regular meeting of Foxboro Women's Institute was held recently at the home of Mrs. Murray Reynolds with 20 members and five visitors present.

Following the business session, and the treasurer's report, Mrs. Tupper gave a reading entitled "Boys."

Mrs. McCloskie of the St. John Ambulance Corps, who was introduced by Mrs. Bubbis, showed how to use bandages and the method of artificial respiration, and it was decided to have a class here.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mrs. Harold Stewart.

Refreshments were served by the hostess.

BOWERMAN'S W.A.

Allisonville — Mrs. Sherman Weir, 3rd concession, opened her home Wednesday afternoon for the W.A. meeting. The president, Mrs. Robert Wood who presided, opened the meeting.

Mrs. Willet Bubbs had charge of the devotional and Mrs. Arthur Morden gave the treasurer's report. Roll call showed 13 members and several guests present.

It was decided more silverware and cups be bought and that all bills be paid.

Plans for a bazaar on December 5th were made to be held at Orange Hall, Allisonville.

Donations

Donations are asked for such tables for the bazaar. Mrs. T. Alexander donated $2, and Mrs. Willis Alexander donated 10 lbs of sugar to the W.A. for their banquet. A runner sold at $4 to Mrs. Herb Johnston.

Plans were made to clean the church Nov. 16, Friday 2 p.m.

The anniversary service will be held Nov. 18 at Bowerman's church.

Birthday dues and collection amounted to $7.05 with some plants being sold.

A reading by Mrs. Arthur Morden was enjoyed. Refreshments were served by the hostess and her assistants.

BOMB KILLS

Bon Wier, Tex., Nov. 6—(AP)—A fisherman was killed and his wife and two children injured yesterday when the 39-year-old father attempted to open a hand grenade with a butcher knife. Killed was James Dick. Bonnie Sue, 6, was critically wounded. Mrs. Dick, 33, and a son, J. W., 4, were less seriously hurt.

New Officers Elected By Cannifton W.M.S.

The November meeting of Cannifton W.M.S. met in the Sunday School room with president, Mrs. J. Williams presiding.

Correspondence was read and the Mission Band report reminded of their annual concert to be held Friday, November 9, in the Sunday School rooms. The Missionary Monthly secretary, Mrs. D. Brenton also reminded that it was time to renew subscriptions.

The worship service was taken from the helps in connection with the study books, "From Lakes to Northern Lights" and "Home Missions Digest". Scripture readings were given and a few remarks concerning the Scripture. "We should pray and strive for the kingdom of God." This part closed by prayer.

More Churches Needed

The study book was taken by Mrs. J. Williams telling something of the urban churches across Canada. There are 150 churches needed across Canada. The United Church of Canada maintains 19 mission centres, three that were mentioned are:

The Brunswick Mission in Halifax. This is not far from the docks. One of the things for which it is noted is the welcoming of the newcomers from other countries in many different ways.

Victor Mission, at Toronto. Great work is carried on here. Many a heart has been cheered and lifted of its burden by going for help at this mission.

First United Church Mission in Vancouver. This is a great evangelistic and redemptive mission.

Officers Elected

Rev. W. Merrick then conducted the election of officers as follows: president, Mrs. J. Williams; 1st vice-pres. Mrs. H. Farnham; 2nd vice-pres, Mrs. B. Pound; recording secretary, Mrs. G. Brenton; treasurer, Mrs. H. Empson; Christian stewardship, Mrs. A. Holgate; temperance and Christian citizenship, Mrs. Farnham, Mrs. F. Pointman, Missionary Monthly, Mrs. D. Brenton; press, Mrs. G. Brenton; literature, Mrs. C. Bird; community friendship, Mrs. F. Furmidge; supply, Mrs. W. Brenton; pianist, Mrs. A. Boyd; Mission Band, Mrs. Boyd and Mrs. Ewing; finance committee, Mrs. Holgate, Mrs. Empson, Mrs. Williams, Mr. H. Twiddy... associate helpers, Mrs.

Lobb.

Rev. W. Merrick closed the meeting.

Baby Born During Mother's Natural Sleep

London, Nov. 6. (Reuters)—Mrs. Yvonne Pearce, 23, was wakened today by the healthy cries of a baby—her first child, born painlessly while she was in a natural sleep.

None of the staff of Bearsted Memorial Hospital, Hampton Court, near London, was with her at the time. The birth was not expected for several hours.

Mrs. Pearce, wife of a London electrician, told a reporter:

"Right from the start of my pregnancy I was confident I should have no trouble.

"I had no drugs. And right up to last week I was up at six every morning to get my husband off to work.

"This morning I felt baby would not be long, and went to the hospital after lunch. There was no pain.

"I went to bed and fell into a deep, restful sleep. When I woke up five hours later little Jaquline Michelle had arrived."

GETS $250,000

Newark, N.J., Nov. 6—(AP)—A Stewart, Minn., plumber who was blinded and disfigured by a caustic solvent that blew up in his face was awarded $250,000 damages last night. Bernard Keifer, 36, had charged the Blue Seal Chemical Co. of Roselle Park, N.J., with negligence in failing to supply proper instruction for the solvent it manufactures.

Chapter 55 O.E.S. Installs Officers

The snowstorm Friday evening did not prevent over 600 members and visitors from being present at the Masonic Temple, Foster Avenue, for the installing ceremony of Belleville Chapter 55, O.E.S. All chapters from surrounding districts were represented at the annual installation. The auditorium was attractive in special flowers and decorations.

Mrs. H. Pitt, W.M., and Mr. Morley Buck, W.P., thanked all officers and members for their co-operation which had made a happy and successful year, and hoped the same co-operation would be given to the incoming officers.

Installation ceremony was nicely conducted by installing officers, Mrs. Al. McGlashon, installing Worthy Matron; Mr. Fred Westover, Worthy Patron; Mrs. H. Reed, Mrs. F. Marden, Mrs. H. Pitt, Mrs. W. Harrison, Mrs. W. Ironside, Mr. C. McMullen, Mr. M. Larue and Mrs. J. Brewen.

Officers installed for the coming year were: Mrs. F. Smith, W.M., Mr. Percy Kerr, W.P., Mrs. C. McMullen, A.M.; Mr. Harold Deuhe, A.P.; Miss M. Carmichael, Secretary; Mrs. E. Wilson, Treasurer; Mrs. W. Elliott, Conductress; Mrs. M. Davidson, Associate Conductress; Mrs. A. Clarke, Marshal; Mrs. F. Kerr, Chaplain; Mrs. H. Elliott, Organist; Mrs. W. Quincey, Mrs. S. Lough, Mrs. C. Adams, Mrs. V. Slavin and Mrs. D. Stewart, star points; Mrs. H. Murphey, Warder, Mr. Dan Stewart, Sentinel.

Mrs. E. Smith, W.M., was presented with a bouquet of beautiful roses by Mrs. B. Adams, given by her daughters.

Refreshments were served and a social hour enjoyed ending a happy evening.

Shrub Planting Shown by Pictures At Energetic Club

On Friday evening November 2nd, the Energetic Club of Holloway St. Church entertained the Harmony Club of Marsh Hill and Kum-Doubble Club of Halloway.

During the devotional period, the scripture was read by Kathleen Poste, the meditation by Pearl White, closing with prayer by Ted Poste.

A short business period preceded the program which consisted of two guitar solos played by Leo Fox, accompanied by Miss Lenore West; two vocal solos sung by Mrs. Mifflin, which were enjoyed by all present.

Mr. Bunting, a representative from Dawnham Nurseries, Bowmanville, showed a series of pictures demonstrating the proper way to plant shrubs and plants which proved educational.

Several members won a rose bush in a contest which ran along with Mr. Bunting's commentary.

Games were played and refreshments enjoyed preceding the usual closing exercises.

Cannifton-Corbyville Women's Institute Holds Party

The October meeting of the Cannifton and Corbyville Women's Institute was held recently in the Town Hall with 29 members and two visitors present.

The meeting was opened in the usual manner with the president Mrs. C. Mathews, presiding.

Clowns, witches and goblins then took over as a Hallowe'en party went into full swing.

Prizes Awarded

Prizes for the best costumes were awarded to Mrs. H. Shorey, as witch; Mrs. Moore, as pirate; Mrs. Stewart as skeleton. The judges were, Mrs. G. Miller and Mrs. H. Empson whose task was not an easy one.

A guessing contest was held in which names of costumed persons must be named, Mrs. Elsie Philp was the winner. A second contest consisted of teams spearing raisins with a toothpick, Mrs. Milton's team carried away this prize. Three more contests were played, Mrs. Kay Ewing winning each time.

A sing-song followed, which brought the meeting to a close.

Refreshments were served by the hostess, Mrs. M. Shorey and her helpers and a social half hour was spent.

BCI Home and School Association Hears Address on 'Education'

It was an occasion for saying good-bye to the retiring president, Mrs. F. R. Harbeck, and for welcoming the new president Mrs. H. E. Varcoe at the Home and School meeting on Monday evening in the collegiate gymnasium.

Two students contributed solos, Joan Wood with a vocal number and David Branscombe with a cornet solo. Mr. Linton Read was the pianist.

Jerry Coultes announced that a three-act play "Clarence" would be presented by the students later this month at the Collegiate, and asked the support of the parents.

Dr. George Faulkner appeared in the interests of the Recreation Commission, and presented the case as a matter of vital importance to all parents. In clearing up some of the misapprehensions of the subject, Dr. Faulkner explained that a by-law was to be presented which proposed that one mill should be granted yearly to the commission to carry on its work.

Recreation Is Stabiliser

"Recreation is one of the greatest stabilizers from the medical and sociological view for building good, citizens," said the speaker. "The object is to create and maintain recreational facilities for all ages, to provide supervision, and this requires a progressive program from year to year. The logical way is to budget expenses from a set income."

The teachers on the staff were introduced by the principal, Mr. G. E. Currie, who stated that the staff and student relations in the collegiate presented a happy and enviable situation which was produced during results that were a credit to the community.

Rev. F. R. Harbeck, who was the speaker for the evening had the unique experience of being introduced by his wife. Mr. Harbeck spoke on "Education" with some humorous reminiscences of his own school days. He developed his theme by drawing a distinction between the general course taught at the school and the vocational course.

"I have a feeling sometimes," said the speaker, "that parents are responsible for the attitude of the child about the value of the general course. The discipline of having to learn something is good. General education has a direct relation to citizenship.

"Labor represents one of the greatest organized powers in the world today. It can make or break us. The idea comes out that a general education would enable a man to make better judgments. An intelligent man is an asset in any community. The great value of a general education is that a youngster's mind is opened to a number of new worlds, the world of the past, of other nations, of nature, of literature, music and arts. There are so many worlds in which we live. It is of vital importance to the nation that every youngster shall have his eyes opened to as many worlds as possible. Then he will learn that the man on the other side of the fence is a man of good judgment, with high ideals of service and citizenship, and that he could share his fellowship if he could learn that there are other worlds.

"He needs to learn to deepen his study of human life, so that when he stands in the courts of his union he will be a citizen of high standards, understanding and intelligence."

Mr. J. Musgrove expressed the appreciation of the association to the speaker.

Presented with Pin

Mr. Currie presented Mrs. Harbeck with a past-president's pin and paid a tribute to her social responsibilities as president saying that she had helped to direct and sustain the Home and School Association and to interpret it to the community. She had performed a splendid work of education-al service, and the association had been richly rewarded in having her presence for the past five years.

Mrs. Harbeck responded with the wish that the association would labor together in love and service to the shaping of human destinies.

Mr. and Mrs. J. Lawrence of the reception committee took charge of the social arrangements, and the meeting closed with coffee served by Mrs. D. Kane and her committee.

MANY MOONS

While the earth sees only one moon, Jupiter has four large and seven small such satellites.

Chickens have the nasty habit of pecking each other's eyes when they get into a tiff. And once the flock sees blood they all pile in and make it a free-for-all. One farmer made them cut out the stuff by installing "spectacles" of aluminum foil. No more trouble!

We never know who will think up what new use for aluminum. But we do know that the demand for this light, strong, non-rusting metal keeps on going up and up and up. That's why Alcan is busy on new dams and power plants and smelters to further step up supply. Aluminum Company of Canada, Ltd. (Alcan).

Mrs. Bieber Has Job of Keeping Mate Breathing

Winnipeg. (CP)—In the average family the wife's job is to keep her husband well fed. But pretty Mary Bieber goes a step further—she sees to it that her husband Carl keeps breathing.

Most of the time Carl works as a switch foreman with the railway. Then for three months of each year he goes back to what he claims is his first love—diving. While he works far below the surface of the water, his wife maintains a constant vigil to see that his supply of air never stops.

Never Leaves Boat

Dressed in blue denim longs and jacket and rubber boots, Mary never leaves the boat while her husband is working. She guards telephone connections with Carl and keeps a weather eye on the three helpers who man the air pump.

Before Carl enters the water Mary and the helpers aid him in putting on the heavy warm clothing he must wear. This is followed by the rubber suit, 70-pound boots and a final good-luck kiss before the big metal helmet is clamped over his head.

"Unusual? Sure my job's unusual," says Mrs. Bieber, "but I like it and my husband feels he can trust me more than anyone else. He isn't wrong about that either."

Loves Business

Carl says he loves the business and wishes he could do it the year round. He first started diving nine years ago while in the Canadian Navy.

Both he and Mary admit to few narrow squeaks. One of the most frightening was last winter when he was working below the ice in the Assiniboine River. The swift current swept him off balance and he had considerable difficulty finding his way back to the place where he had entered the water through a hole in the ice.

Another time his was barely conscious when pulled to the surface. He ripped his suit in 80 feet of water while repairing submarine nets on the east coast.

Club Activities

HOMEMAKERS' CLUB

The second meeting of the Plainfield Homemakers' Club was held at the "Elect" home.

Mrs. Harry Harrison led in a discussion of different weaves. She showed on a hand-made loom the warp and the woof of material.

Mrs. Elliott gave a demonstration making a bound button-hole.

Shirley Kerr told how to read the direction-sheet of a pattern and how to alter the pattern.

The next meeting is to be held at the home of Mary and Helen Bertrand.

The home-assignment is record-book up-to-date; have pattern and material; make a bound button-hole.

Apples and candy were served by the Kerr girls.

BAYSIDE

Wesley United Church Celebrates 85th Anniversary

Bayside.—The Wesley United Church celebrated the 85th anniversary in special services, both morning and evening, with good attendance at both services. The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion.

The Rev. H. G. Steers, B.A., B.D., of Belleville, was the special speaker for the day and delivered two helpful and challenging messages.

The choir, with Mrs. R. Atkinson at the piano, ably assisted in the congregational singing as well as contributing special numbers. At the morning service they sang "Ye Gates Lift up Your Heads", and at the evening service, such vesper hymns as "Day is Dying in the West" and "God Hath Made the Earth and Heaven". All these numbers were greatly appreciated by large and representative congregations.

The Rev. A. C. McCallum also assisted in the services. Many attended the services from outside points including Kingston, Belleville, Tyrnton and other parts of Sidney township.

FORMS COMMUNITY CHEST

Deep River, Ont., Nov. 5. (CP) —Formation of a new community chest in this community 134 miles northwest of Ottawa was announced today by the community chests and councils division of the Canadian Welfare Council.

The new chest is conducting its first campaign. Bulk of the money raised will be given to national health and welfare agencies such as the Salvation Army, Canadian National Institute for the Blind, Canadian Cancer Society and the Victorian Order of Nurses.

E.B. Jolliffe Challenges Frost To Meet Him in Debate 'On Any Public Platform'

(By The Canadian Press)

A challenge to Premier Frost to debate publicly his Ontario government record and the C.C.F. platform for the Nov. 22 provincial election has been issued by C.C.F. Leader E. B. Jolliffe.

Mr. Jolliffe told a campaign meeting in Peterborough riding last night he was ready to meet the premier "on any platform in any constituency, at any time between now and Nov. 22" in a no-holds-barred debate.

Mr. Frost, for his part, said at Windsor that neither the C.C.F. nor Liberal parties has a chance of forming a strong government. He declared that "one party has not enough candidates to form a government and the other has so many token candidates they can't possibly win."

Meanwhile, Liberal Leader Walter Thomson kept the political pot boiling briskly with comment at a Sault Ste. Marie meeting that a statement on gasoline tax reported made by Premier Frost in a campaign speech was a "shame."

What Thomson Says

Mr. Thomson said the premier was reported to have declared publicly at Bracebridge Saturday that Ontario "should take the American tourists for every cent they have."

"It is a shame that this should happen" said Mr. Thomson. "Why should the leader of this old and honored party make this statement" The Ontario government, "with one department seeking to attract tourists across our borders, is scaring away tourists with the high gasoline tax."

Mr. Jolliffe said he would give Mr. Frost "the further privilege of opening and closing the debate because he'll need two words for every word I'll have to say to him."

The C. C. F. leader drove 350 miles, most of the way through a blinding snowstorm, from Espanola, 30 miles west of Sudbury, to speak at Peterborough. He spoke at Espanola the previous night.

Mr. Jolliffe called the premier an "irresponsible fool" for calling an election late in November because thousands of rural and northern areas would be prevented by snowstorms from reaching the polls.

This would deprive "tens of thousands" of their franchise. No government of which Mr. Jolliffe was a member would bring on an election at this time of year.

He also criticized the government's record in housing and hospital construction.

Slams Liberals

Mr. Frost criticized former Liberal governments as "the gang that caused 300 war veterans out of jobs in the parliament buildings in Toronto and gave them to ward heelers and others."

He said Mr. Jolliffe had promised to pay 10 per cent of municipal budgets as a local tax-relief measure but "Mr. Jolliffe apparently doesn't know we're paying much more than 10 per cent in municipal grants."

In another speech at Petrolia, the premier said opposition members on the legislature's crime committee were unable to find anything wrong with law enforcement in their six months' investigation.

He said Mr. Jolliffe had no reason to complain when dissolution of the legislature ended the committee. The opposition hadn't made one practical suggestion during its life.

Mr. Thomson said that if a Liberal government is returned to power three cents will be dropped from the gasoline tax. "We can give you back $20,000,000 a year from gasoline tax surpluses and still have $2,100,000 surplus to do the job with." Northern Ontario would be given a "new deal." He promised the north a university of its own with faculties spread all over Northern Ontario.

Thomson Criticized

At Uxbridge, Health Minister Phillips called upon Ontario industries to set aside 10 per cent of their jobs "or rehabilitation of handicapped persons. He criticized Mr. Thomson's proposed hospital plan and outlined his department's rehabilitation program for tuberculosis patients.

J. B. Salsberg, Labor-Progressive party candidate in Toronto-St. Andrew, declared in a radio address that anti-labor legislation has been prepared and will be introduced immediately if the Progressive Conservative party is returned to power. He said that was one reason why Mr. Frost "brought on this snap election."

Another Toronto meeting was told by Louis Herman, Progressive Conservative candidate in St. Andrew, that Communists have "threatened and smeared" him in the campaign.

He said he was warned that his name would be besmirched, received anonymous telephone calls, lost clients and was charged with having disgraced the memory of his brother who died fighting in Korea.

Referring to the Communist "underhand" methods, he said "we must give them such a licking that they will never dare raise their heads again in Ontario."

Give both radiant "quick-warm-up" heat and circulating warm air at the same time for all-over, more flavor comfort. They're automatic . . . you do no work, just set the regulator for the heat you want. No dusty fuel, no ashes to dirty up your house. "Difficult Day?.. Take a Disprin"

Why DISPRIN? Because DISPRIN is soluble and substantially neutral. When taken in water as recommended, it enters the stomach as a true solution and not as undissolved particles. It is therefore less liable to cause stomach discomfort.

DISPRIN is readily absorbed. Because it definitely dissolves (not merely disintegrates) DISPRIN permits speedy absorption and gives quicker relief.

DISPRIN is palatable. Even children will take it readily.

Science Progresses

For 50 years we have used little white tablets—acetylsalic acid—for relief of pain. Today this familiar pain-killer is available in a new form without the disadvantages of solubility and bitter taste. It is called "DISPRIN" and is sold at druggists everywhere.

"DISPRIN" is available in Bottles of 25 Tablets or Handy Pocket Folders of 2.

Boat is Rammed By Troopship Of United States

Bremerhaven, Germany, Nov. 6 —(AP)— The 24,000,000 motorship Salpa—pride of Argentina's merchant fleet—was rammed by a U.S. troopship and sank in the foggy North Sea yesterday. The transport rescued German crash survivors and 1,200 persons aboard the Argentine vessel.

The troopship, the Gen. M. L. Hersey—her bow stove in by the collision — tramped into Bremerhaven last night with many Salpa survivors aboard. A special train was chartered to take them to Hamburg, the Salpa's port of call.

The fact that the usually rough North Sea was calm under its fog blanket was said to have played a large part in the rescue.

The 12,000-ton Salpa and the 19,000-ton transport, groping through early morning fog, collided 15 miles off shore, near the German island of Wangeroog.

Witnesses said the Argentine vessel began to list immediately, but stayed afloat for three hours—another big factor in the successful rescue. Passengers aboard the stricken vessel included 32 women and eight children.

Minister Under Police Guard In Hospital

Redford, Fla., Nov. 6—(AP) — A Michigan minister is under police guard in a hospital today after he was found hitch - hiking six miles from where his wife lay injured near their burned automobile.

The minister, the Rev. Philemon Sebastiades, 38, of Lincoln Park, a Detroit suburb, was treated for burns of the face and hands and for shock. His wife, a patient in the same hospital, has puncture wounds of the abdomen.

State police said the couple have told conflicting stories and it is not yet known why the car was destroyed by fire shortly before the two were picked up Saturday.

Officer Harry Rook said Sebastiades, pastor of the St. George Greek Orthodox Church at Lincoln Park, is charged with assault with intent to kill.

FRENCH CANADIAN

Mr. Gagnon went on to call the sub-3 permission to ask a question. He said Mr. Gagnon's statement was "very serious" and he wanted if the source for the statement could be given.

Mr. Gagnon replied that his statement was true; that it was based on reports given him by soldiers returning from Korea.

Noisy Exchanges

Mr. Lesage angrily shouted that he challenged Mr. Gagnon to prove his statement before the commons or withdraw it.

Mr. Gagnon shouted that he had nothing to withdraw.

In the noisy exchange, Leopold Langlois (L—Gaspe), 38-year-old navy veteran of the Second World War, interjected in French and asked where Mr. Gagnon had served during the war. There was no reply.

Mr. Lesage said that all troops serving with the United Nations in Korea are given equal treatment. One had only to glance at the casualty lists to see that the losses were proportionate to the number of troops serving from different countries. This applied to Greece, Turkey, France and others.

The incident ended when he said that the statement that French-Canadians were singled out for service in the most exposed positions could have "excessively-dangerous" international consequences.

Others speaking in the debate dealt mainly with the cost of living.

At the house opening, Transport Minister Chevrier indicated the government is not going to ask the Board of Transport Commissioners to postpone action on an application for a railway freight-rate increase.

Prime Minister St. Laurent said the government is considering ways to help the western farmers who have grain piled up on their farms because of elevator congestion.

Finance Minister Abbott said the federal old-age pension of $40 a month, starting January next, will be subject to income tax in the same way as other income, but few pensioners are likely to enter income tax brackets. The pension will total $480 a year for a single pensioner and the income-tax exemption for a single person is $1,000.

DIDN'T LIKE ROMMEL

London, Nov. 5—(Reuter)— A woman was jailed for 14 days for shouting protests in a movie theatre against the Hollywood version of Nazi Gen. Rommel's battle with the British in North Africa, Mrs. Esther Seeros, 41, was arrested after refusing to promise to keep the peace. She was bundled struggling from the theatre after shouting such things as "he killed our lads and now they want to make him a hero."

BURIED AT MADOC

Markham, Ont., Nov. 5— (CP) — Rev. Henry Sandford Graham, 85, a former moderator of presbyteries in Toronto, Kingston and Halifax, died yesterday. He served in the ministry of the Presbyterian Church for 40 years. His first charge was at Sudbury in 1900 and he also served at Madoc, Markham, Bella River and Grimsby.

CHURCHILL

The speech condemned Egypt's abandonment of the 1936 Anglo-Egypt Treaty and the 1899 Sudan Condominium Agreement as "illegal and without validity."

It said Britain, the United States, France and Turkey will "press forward with their proposals for joint defence arrangements in the mideast."

Meanwhile, it said, Britain "will maintain its position in the Canal Zone under the terms of the 1936 treaty, and will safeguard the international highways."

It said also that "nothing can be allowed to interfere with the rights of the Sudanese to decide for themselves the future status of their country."

Support United Nations

The Speech said the government "will faithfully support the United Nations as a world instrument for peace and security."

"They (the government) will continue to play their part in Korea, with the aim of restoring peace and well-being," it said.

The government's first duty, the speech said, will be to work with the commonwealth, the United States and Europe in a supreme effort to build "a more tranquil and prosperous world."

Other points from the Speech:

1. Parliament will be asked to keep in force some of the emergency economic controls and defence regulations which otherwise would expire next month. All such controls will be reviewed, however, with the "aim of reducing (their) number."

2. The government will consult industrial and trade-union leaders in an attempt to ensure the best use of the existing labor force."

3. The government will "seek to promote flexibility" in industries such as coal mining and railroading, which will remain under state ownership.

4. Other Commonwealth governments will be invited to discuss joint action to remedy Britain's adverse balance in international trade.

5. The new ministers will "do their utmost" to stimulate the building of badly-needed houses.

The Speech said the King was "deeply moved by the warmth of the reception" received by Princess Elizabeth and her husband, the Duke of Edinburgh, on their trip to Canada and Washington.

It was the first time in 16 years that the British King has been unable to deliver his address from the throne in person.

When you add it all up...

WHEN you consider the men, women and money needed to operate 3,700 branches—you see what is involved in looking after the greatly increased demands made by busy Canadians upon their chartered banks.

In ten years . . . with bigger staffs and higher wages, payrolls have jumped from $40 million a year to $102 million

. . . taxes, federal, provincial and municipal, have risen from $9.5 million to $20.7 million a year

. . . interest paid to depositors has increased from $22 million to $57.8 million a year.

And these are only three of many expense items. Yes, today more than ever, it costs money to run a bank.

KARPUK THE RULEMAKER!

Karpuk, the Rulemaker won't go down in Canadian football archives as a Jim Thorpe or a Red Grange, but he has set himself up as a winter cracker - barrel theoretician of the first water in gridiron circles. The dramatic episode in the winter of the Great Snow will provide present quarterback clubs with "copy" until something more bizarre turns up in Canadian football. And at the moment we cannot think of anything more bizarre. If it can be termed that, or dramatic than the Rulemaker's sudden rally from the bench of the Ottawa Rough Riders in a successful effort to scuttle an Argonaut touchdown. The mere fact that Riders scored a T. D. eventually is strictly anti-climactic.

Karpuk's out-of-the-blue dash from the bench to veer Argo's Curtis directly into the path of onrushing Rider tacklers, (and incidentally be got a piece of Curtis' pants in the ensuing tackle, too) had the official brains in a tizzy. Venerable grey matter racked itself into a whirling mass as it endeavored to locate something in the rule book to punish such awful goings-on, but it came up with nothing but a severe penalty of three - minutes in durance vile for Riders having too many players in the field. M'sieu Karpuk, either is a terrific opportunist with a remarkable brain and instantaneous reflexes, or an obedient servant to a daring coach.

Coach Crowe of the Rough Riders, it is reported went into near-confusion at Karpuk's book-defying antics. "He's my boy" he crowed after Curtis laid the oez. "It shows he's in the game all the time." Life must be wonderful in the Riders' home town.

But that is football. Apparently there is nothing in the gridiron book of words to authorize any punishment for the daring escapade, and it is presumed Karpuk, Crowe et al chortled long and heartily, if not audibly long after the piccolos had sounded "taps".

*** * ***

As a matter of fact, the Canadian Rugby Union should not only reward Karpuk as Chief Pointer-Outer of deficiencies in its rule-book, but also as a member of the Grand Order of the Wearers of the Noble Fleece of the Goat. (Grey Cup Division).

For 'twas the Rulemaker who stood idly by and figured out his income tax, or his cut of the modest three years ago, in that memorable Grey Cup final between Calgary Stamps and the Riders, and watched a Stampede back snatch a beauty football from the ground and kickoff down the sidelines to what ended in a touchdown, and victory.

REFEREES' FORUM

Sam Curry, Tweed, Ontario Minor Hockey Association executive member for "Lower Canada" informs us the OMHA Referees' Forum scheduled for Belleville on November 15th will be held for the benefit of O.H.A. referees only. All non-O.H.A. Senior, National Hockey League referee will be in charge of the Forum, but his identity is not known as yet. Invitations will be sent out to well-known minor hockey men of the district, but the forum is not, by any means restricted to these people. The forum is being held for the benefit of managers, coaches and referees and no doubt a lot of useful information will be aired. There will be a quiz session and any problems can be discussed. All referees past, present and future are cordially welcome. The forum is free and everybody attending who is interested in hockey should benefit.

WHAT, NO FATTED CALF?

George Ratterman, prodigal son of the National Football League is back home again with the Yankees after a brief if not successful trip to the "promised land" north of the border. The quarterback, late of the Alouettes, has been restored to full favor with the NFL, after a $2,000 chastisement for running away and being a naughty boy. He will appear on the Yankees line-up in San Francisco next Saturday.

But the gridiron flash who figured that "those who play can run away and live to play another day" may run into a snag ere he again tosses 'em from behind the zine of scrimmage. To Coach Jimmy Phelan of the Yankees, he is just another football player. Bob Celeri who took Ratterman's place as quarter on the Yankees lineup has developed into a star, and Ratterman's return does not, by any means mean that he will be ousted.

"Bob Celeri is my quarterback" said Phelan, "It's up to Ratterman to win the job."

* * *

DOTS 'N' FLASHES . . .

According to reports from the OHA meeting, intermediates clubs in cities "in the back fifties" as one sarcastic Toronto sportswriter puts it, walked long and loud about their suburbs being packed with hockey fans, said help hard city players . . . Frank Buckland, Peterborough argued for four hours against giving these "cities" player help but the OHA gave business manager Billy Hanley permission to allow these clubs some help, but under the condition they "went senior B" and not in the desired intermediate "A" . . . The reports are misty and vague . . . No mention of what "cities" are involved or what suburbs are "packed" with city players . . . Must be in the wealthy western part of the province . . . Kingston Vics, new entry in the junior "B" group is under the sponsorship of the Boston Bruins, and boasts imports sent them by the Bruins "poppas" . . . Peterborough HOOPS . . .

Big Four executive committee has drawn up a resolution for the next CRU meeting by which a player coming off the bench to make a tackle will be fined $100, suspended from the game, and have the ball moved to his team's own yard line with a first down for the opposition . . . What's that about locking the stable door . . . ? Karpuk says "No matter what anybody thinks, it was a good play" . . . How about locking football suits in cages along the sidelines. The coach could press a button and release whomever he needed . . . Or release them like clay pigeons, and make opposition fans check their shotguns at the door . . . Or the prize bull arsiem might work . . . Have the subs with ring in nose and rope in the hand of an attendant lined up near the bench. FOUR DIE IN PLUNGE

Bucktown, Tenn., Nov. 6 (AP) — Four zinc ore miners died in a plunge down a 1,300 - foot shaft at the Tennessee Copper Company's Calloway mines two miles from here.

The men had reached the top south of here Sunday night. of the shaft where they were to enter a huge bucket to be lowered into the mine. Whether they entered the bucket or just what happened after they got to the top of the shaft was not known.

Richard, Lach Tied for Top But Habs Low in Standing; Rocket Big Sinner of Loop

Montreal, Nov. 6 — (CP) — Montreal Canadiens have won just four of their 12 National Hockey League games to date but two of the Habs pace the league in the individual scoring department.

Maurice (Rocket) Richard and Elmer Lach are tied for the league leadership with 12 points apiece.

Seeking to better this season the lifetime record of 324 goals set by Nels Stewart, a centreman with the old Montreal Maroons, Richard passed the 300 mark last week.

Richard scored Montreal's two goals—No 300 and 301—on home ice Nov. 3 when the Habs lost 3-3 to Detroit Red Wings.

For the season the Rocket has amassed nine goals, highest number so far, and three assists. Lach, a veteran Canadien, has two goals and 10 assists, another current mark.

Two Tie for Third

Tied for third place with nine points apiece are Boston's Adam Brown, Toronto's Sid Smith and another Habitant, Bert Olmstead. Their respective totals are 6-3, 4-5 and 7-2.

Next with eight points, are Johnny Pierson of Boston and Ted Kennedy of Toronto, while nine players follow with seven points each.

Richard holds another record—the dubious honor of being most penalized player this season. The Rocket has spent thirty minutes in the penalty box, 22 of them during last week when he took part in brawls, knocking out one player Close behind are Gus Kyle of Boston with 28 minutes and Fern Flaman of Toronto with 25.

Most penalized team with 150 minutes is Canadiens; Toronto follows with 122. Boston has the lowest total—83 minutes.

Two netminders entered the shutout competition last week with Boston's Jim Henry and Toronto's Al Rollins picking up one each.

Terry Sawchuk of Detroit continues to lead the way with two goose eggs to his credit and the lowest average of goals scored against him club.

In 10 games, Sawchuk let only 15 pucks past him for a 1.50 average. Henry has a 1.76 average, while Al Rollins, last year's Vezina Trophy winner for the lowest goals-against average, has a 1.90 mark.

Detroit Red Wings remain securely in first place of league standings with seven victories, and a tie in nine starts, Boston Bruins hold second place with 11 points.

Next are Toronto Maple Leafs with 10 points for four victories, four losses and two ties, while following at one-point intervals are Montreal Canadiens, Chicago Black Hawks and, New York Rangers.

Canadiens have played the most games this season—12—winning only four and tying one.

Dressen Rehired As Dodger Boss

(By The Canadian Press)

Chuck Dressen was rehired yesterday to manage the Brooklyn Dodgers who batted a 13 1-2 game out and the National League pennant in the 1951 season.

The new term will be for one year, like the first, with the official papers to be signed when Dressen returns from his Los Angeles home. Salary is reported around $30,000.

Walter O'Malley, Dodger president, told a press conference at Brooklyn Dressen will be back.

Fan indignation at seeing a World Series snatched from their grasp by Bobby Thomson's home run in the final playoff game with New York brought a stream of letters to Dodger offices. Now that the situation has cooled off somewhat, the announcement was made.

Remember When

(By The Canadian Press)

Jack Chesbro, one of baseball's most famous spitball pitchers, died at Conway, Mass., 30 years ago today. With Pittsburgh, he led national league pitchers in 1901 and 1902, and with the New York Yankees in 1904 he won 41 games.

Lewicki Agrees To Join Hornets, But Held Over

Toronto, Nov. 6—(CP)—Danny Lewicki, Toronto Maple Leafs left winger sent down to Pittsburgh Hornets, got an unexpected but temporary reprieve yesterday.

Leaf Ted Sloan injured an ankle. Lewicki was told to stay in Toronto in case Sloan can't play against Chicago Black Hawks Wednesday night.

Lewicki balked when Leaf manager Conn Smythe first announced he was being sent to Pittsburgh to make room for two rookies.

Smythe threatened to suspend him if he didn't do as he was told. Lewicki called for a conference with Smythe for yesterday. When it was over, Smythe announced Lewicki had agreed to go. Then came the reprieve.

Counterpoint Drawn From Race

(By The Canadian Press)

Counterpoint, a cinch to clinch horse of the year honors, sufferered a slight separation of his left front hoof Saturday and will be shipped to the farm for treatment and rest. Trainer Syl Veitch said yesterday at New York the five three-year-old owned by C. V. Whitney, has been withdrawn from Saturday's $50,000 Butler handicap at Jamaica and from the Pimlico Special Nov. 18.

Counterpoint suffered the injury and scored up his first-year-old and horse of the year honors at the same time Saturday when he won the $30,000 Empire City Handicap at Jamaica.

Doug Bentley Ordered to Rest

(By The Canadian Press)

Doug Bentley, 35-year-old scoring star for Chicago Black Hawks, has been ordered to take a complete rest by team physician Myron J. Tremaine. Bentley, suffered the recurrence of a groin injury, may be out at least two weeks, Hawk coach Ebbie Goodfellow said at Chicago.

International Pro Golf Big-Wigs Suggest World Series Tournament

By WILL GRIMSLEY

Pinehurst, N.C., Nov. 6—(AP)—Most men associated with professional golf seem to fear the multi-million-dollar sport is becoming anaemic through lack of new ideas. Everybody is looking for a stimulant.

Joe Novak, president of the Professional Golfers' Association, would like to see a links world series bringing together the winners of the 40-odd weekly tournaments on the P.G.A. circuit.

Ken Murray, president of the Canadian P.G.A., was here during the weekend tying to talk the United States P.G.A. into a series of matches between the two countries patterned after the Ryder Cup.

Sagrest Empire Team

There also is the suggestion—advanced by Gene Sarazen and supported by others except Britain make its Ryder Cup team of Empire scrap, bringing in such stars as Bobby Locke of South Africa, Norman Von Nida and Peter Thompson of Australia and Stan Leonard of Vancouver.

Just what can be done about these ideas remains to be seen, but this much is sure—things are cooking in professional golf.

Murray conferred with P.G.A. officials about a Canadian-U.S. golf series on off-Ryder Cup years. He didn't get too much encouragement on the P.G.A. circuit.

Some headway is reported, however, with the Canadian open.

As for Britain's Ryder Cup team, Sarazen says the boys from across the Atlantic will never win the trophy from the U.S. until it reaches out and encompasses the rest of the Empire on the team. "They call these men to help fight wars for them," he said. "They should open their sports programs to them as well."

Britain draws her cup player from the island's 50,000,000 population, compared with the U.S. 150,000,000.

Mexican Mount Sets Record At Horse Show

New York, Nov. 6 — (AP) — "Arete", said Col. Humberto Mariles of Mexico, "is priceless".

Mariles was talking about his 13-year-old mount last night after he won his fifth international event in the first time in history of the National Horse Show a jumping team competition was a test.

"Arete is blind in one eye now," said Col. Mariles, "but the horse still is good for perhaps four more years of international competition."

That's bad news for the other nations which will send teams to the Olympics next year. Col. Mariles rode Arete to the individual championship in 1948 and judging by his performance here, there's no reason to believe that the result will be any different next year.

"I hear the Spanish have the best all-around team in the Olympics. They are favored by France, England and Italy. After them, we all are grouped in a bunch."

As for the United States, Col. John W. (Gyp) Wofford, retired cavalry officer and former rider, who heads the team, is worried about a lack of practice.

Maj. Eli Massey De Oliveira Menezes, head of the Brazilian team also said he didn't know how his team would do.

Ireland and Canada, the other two countries with teams here will not go to the Olympics. Ireland's non-riding captain, Lt.-Col. Frederick A. Aherne, said sending the team to the Olympics would interfere with Ireland's "plans" for the opening year. The Canadian team is completely incomplete without seven men who are taking time off from work.

Sports Roundup

BY HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, Nov. 6 (AP) — Georgia Jimmy Dumpert, the man rejoins New York's football Yanks today, after a season with the Montreal Alouettes, and Coach Jimmy Phelan doesn't know what he's going to do with the guy... though Ratterman did share a 46-per-cent average of completions last year and pitched 22 touchdown passes, Phelan points out he also had 24 interceptions. And Jimmy already has the fair passing finger himself. What's more, Jimmy points out, pro football has changed a lot in the last few seasons. "When Ratterman first attracted attention it was because of his faking. They said he was better than Frankie Albert and all that," Phelan says. "You can't get away with that any more. Those converging defenses close in on you and by the time you make two or three fakes, they're sitting on you. So you've got to go into a spread and then they have to cut those 225-pound linebackers out and put in some faster men."

The Yanks and most other teams, continue to use the "T" formation, Jimmy adds — but gosh, how the thing has changed. He lauded it.

The ultimate refinement in the platoon system of football is reported from Elkhorn County High School, near Frankfort, Ky.

URANIUM FOUND

Stockholm, Sweden, Nov. 5 (Reuters) — Uranium deposits have been found in an old mine in west central Sweden, Harry Brynielsson, of Sweden's Atomic Energy Commission, disclosed today. Further investigations must be made before we can say whether the deposit is rich enough to be worth mining," he added.

Hairston Wins Over Dauthuille

(By The Canadian Press)

Montreal—Gene (Silent) Hairston of New York last night scored a unanimous decision over Laurent Dauthuille of France in the 10-round middleweight boxing bout in Montreal. Dauthuille was saved by the bell in the 10th round after a punishing attack by the New Yorker who lost a split decision to Dauthuille last summer.

His mouthpiece gone, bleeding from the mouth and cut over the right eye, Dauthuille was rubber legged and glassy eyed at the finish. Hairston weighed 157 3-4 and Dauthuille 160 1-2.

FRANKFORD Teams Tie for Top In Bowling League

Frankford — The Frankford Bowling League saw action last week in Trenton with four teams remaining in very close competition for first place. The Hotshots climbed into a first-place tie with the Inkspots, by taking four points from the Skeeters. The Firehalls took one game and the total from the Crackpots, but dropped from first to third-place tie. Pinpoppers rolled a 3351 triple, for the current league record, taking seven points from the Rockets and gaining a third place tie with the Firehalls. Standing to Date.

Snead Favored To Repeat In Golf Tourney

Pinehurst, N.C., Nov. 6 (AP) —While defending champion Sam Snead and 100 or more other pros marked time today, some 130 golfers battled it out for 30 remaining places in tomorrow's $7,000 north and south open tournament.

The low 30 in today's qualifying round will join those already in the field for the beginning of Saturday's tomorrow. Eighteen-hole rounds will also be played Thursday, Friday and Sunday, with Saturday left open.

Snead, a usual, is the man to beat. Sammy has run off with the last two staglegs of the event. His play in the recent Ryder Cup matches have indicated that the White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., slugger is in top form.

Snead's best total last year was 275, in 1949 it was 274.

Max Faulkner and his British Ryder Cup teammates will be out to full strength in the tourney following out of this trip after recent disaster. Aside from Snead, who captained the American Cup team, Ed Oliver, Skip Alexander, Henry Ransom and possibly Clayton Heafner are expected to stay on. Hogan, Jackie Burke, Dutch Harrison, Lloyd Mangrum and Jimmy Demaret have already left for other parts.

Such handy fellows as Cary Middlecoff, Johnny Palmer, Julius Boros, Skee Riegel, Walt Burkemo, Ed and Marty Furgol, Dave Douglas, Doug Ford, Denny Shute and Horton Smith are on hand.

Only one amateur has won the event in its 49-year history, Middlecoff turning that trick six years ago. But an impressive array of non-professional talent will be giving it a try.

Dick Chapman, Frank Stranahan, Billy Campbell, Robert Mansley, Harvie Ward, Jimmy Mc-Hale, Bo Winninger, Dow Finsterwald and Bobby Knowles are among the well-known entrants in this classification.

Stan Horne of Montreal is the only Canadian on the invited list. Archie Skinner of Aberdeen, N.B., and Dick Borthwick of Hamilton, will compete in the qualifying round.

WOMEN CAUSE TROUBLE

Hamilton, Nov. 6 — (CP) — A disturbance broke out recently in the women's cells at the Barton Street jail, said Governor Frank Lalonde said two women, held on drug charges, smashed windows in the cell block and cut their wrists but 14 other prisoners caused no trouble. Both the two were removed from the jail to hospital.

TROOP CARRIER CRASHES

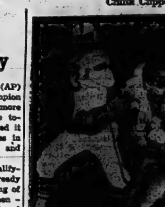
Amarillo, Tex., Nov. 5. (AP)— A C-47 troop carrier plane with 36 persons aboard crashed while making an emergency landing at the Tucumcari, N.M., airport today, the Amarillo Globe was told.

The plane carried 27 returnees from Korea and a three-man crew and it was en route from California to Pennsylvania, the Globe was told.



Ambulances took injured to Tucumcari Hospital.

China Clipper Goes Down

Edmonton's powerful halfback Normie (China Clipper) Kwong is pulled down from behind by Mickey Maguire of Saskatchewan Roughriders early in the first quarter of Saturday's Western Football Conference playoff game. Edmonton won the first of the best-of-three series 15-11. Roy Wright (3) is close by to help Maguire. Kwong is wearing the rubber-bottomed felt "weather boots" credited by Edmonton coach Annis Stukus as a big factor in the victory. # Mercury's Centre Leads Senior Scoring Race

Toronto, Nov. 6 (CP)—Tommy Burlington, early veteran centre of Owen Sound Mercurys, leads all Ontario Hockey Association Senior A League scorers.

In four games played to date, Burlington, one of the sparkplugs that helped the Mercurys win the Allan Cup last season, has scored four goals and assisted on five others, according to officials statistics released yesterday.

Stratford's Jack White holds down second place with three goals and five assists for a total of eight points, one less than Burlington. Four players are tied for third place.

Bob Gilson of Owen Sound and Stratford's Bruce Dale top the regular netminders each boasting a 3.25 average in four games played. Gilson posted the league's lone shutout.

Ken Laufman, in his second season in the OHA junior A series, is setting a torrid pace. The smooth Guelph Biltmore pivot has counted 31 points, including 23 assists which top the circuit in that department in 11 games.

Three other Guelph speedsters are included in the top five. Winger Ron Murphy leads in goals, 15, and 16 assists give him second place while teammate Chuck Henderson is tied with Marlboros Eric Nesterenko for third place, each with 23 points.

Marlboros' Don Head has the best goaltenders' average, 2.55 while Chuck Hagen of the Bills is second with 2.60. Les Binkley of Galt Black Hawks hold the most shutouts, two.

Cantor, Savoie Clash Tonight

(By The Canadian Press)

Solly Cantor, Toronto's threat to the Canadian lightweight title held by Montreal's Armand Savoie, is out for a crack at the British Empire title.

That's his announced aim when he goes into the ring for 12 rounds and the Canadian title with the Montrealer tonight in Toronto's Maple Leaf Gardens.

Cantor is confident he can earn the right to a shot at the title now held by L'il Arthur King by taking the Canadian crown from Savoie.

Baron's Wochy American League Top Marksman

New York, Nov. 6 (AP)—Steve Wochy, slender right wing of the Cleveland Barons, has taken over the lead in the American Hockey League's individual scoring race.

Wochy has nine goals and seven assists for 16 points. Pat Lundy of St. Louis is second with 15 points and four men are tied for third at 14 points apiece.

The Baron star's nine tallies lead the goal-getting department.

Centre Bendy O'Connor of Cincinnati and defenceman Frank Mathers of Pittsburgh are tied for play-making honors with 11 assists each.

Gil Mayer of Pittsburgh is the league's top goaltender. Mayer has allowed 19 goals in 10 games for a 1.90 average. Emil (The Cat) Francis of Cincinnati has posted the most shutouts—two. Pete Durham of Indianapolis is the loop's most-penalized player with 56 minutes in the box.

Mixed Commercial Bowling League

Symons of the Mixed Commercial Bowling League broke three of the league's existing record marks for the year at the Bowl-O-Drome last night.

Their team total of 3080 took over in that section while they had a high team single of 1548 also.

Marg Fairbairn won ladies high triple with a 789 while Barb Young of Short Circuits set a high single score of 351.

Symons, taking seven points from the High Liner team, regained possession of 1st place by one point over Short Circuits who dropped four to Live Wires. KVA's are one point behind Short Circuits, with a five point win from Smashcrow. Whiz Bangs and Bombers notched out seven point victories from Marksteers and Egg Heads, Ry Rollers overpowered Power Plus for five, while Jets took the odd point from Sun Rays.

High Scorers were, Art Whalen 787 (338) triple; George Bell 774 (323), Russ Vandervoort 733, Lefty Reid 730 (323), Barb Young 686, Shirley Badgley 656, June Mathews 633 and Grace Clapp 604.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

Many people who play bridge are not good bridge players. They are just statistics. When a statistic makes a defensive bid, it is always a bid on a suit.

There are really four kinds of defensive bids. In their order of strength, they are: Overcalls in opponent suit, jump overcalls, doubles for takeout, and simple overcalls.

The responses to each of those defensive bids differ. Because the meaning of each kind of defensive bid shows a different type of strength and values.

You can say this much for a statistic, however. He has two kinds of defensive bids. One is a bid in his own suit without a jump (simple overcall). The other is a bid in his suit with a jump (jump overcall).

Such a player instinctively uses the same values for a jump overcall that a rule requires. Which is a long and strong suit in a hand that contains eight tricks or more.

Thus, if a partner is a statistic or a bridge player and uses a jump overcall, your rule responses will fit him. The responses to such a bid are: With less than two tricks, pass; with two tricks or more, bid.

If the responder has two tricks or more and bids, what bid should he make? Just follow the rule of all rules in bridge and you will not go wrong. That rule is T-A-N.

In other words, if you respond with a bid in answer to a jump overcall, look first for a takeout. With no takeout, look for an asset. With no asset or takeout, bid no-trump.

You have this hand:

♠J 7 4
♥9 5 2
♦K 10 7 3
♣8 6 3

Opponent opens with a bid of one heart. Your partner steps in with a jump overcall of two spades. You lack two tricks. Pass.

Even a statistic is sometimes realistic.

Deer Duel for Does

San Francisco, Nov. 6—(AP)—Two red deer dueled with antlers and hooves yesterday for the right to rule over Golden Gate Park's seven does. Three times they clashed with the seven ladies watching the aloof spectators. The winner walked in dignity to accept an affectionate congratulatory muzzle or two. The loser just glared.

Foiled Again!

Looking as if he has just lost a pheasant, president of the French Republic, Vincent Auriol, was in fine fettle during a hunting party held at Rambouillet, France, recently. Auriol was host at a hunting party for members of his government and diplomatic corps. — Central Press Canadian.

'Urge-to Kill' Results in Youth Being Deported

London, Ont., Nov. 6 — (CP)— A United States youth who says he has a terrible urge to kill was ordered deported yesterday. He is to be taken from a week ago to "start a new life."

The youth was not identified but told police he came from Casey, Ill. He is about 19 or 20.

The youth, with "abnormally large" hands, told police he wanted to strangle someone—"preferably a woman." He roamed a park here Saturday night but could not work up enough nerve to attack anyone.

Dr. E. S. Goddard, a psychiatrist who talked to the youth for 40 minutes yesterday, said he was not insane but was troubled by a past that included a broken romance, a police record, short periods in mental hospitals and a boys' training school and a poor home life.

He was picked up Saturday near the edge of the park bleeding from a cut on the head. The youth said he fell. Police thought he had been robbed and questioned him. The youth then told of his desire to strangle a woman.

Temperance Folk Ask Commission On Alcohol

Toronto, Nov. 6 (CP) — The Ontario Temperance Federation today called for a non-partisan government alcoholic beverage commission to administer all phases of the industry and for local municipal autonomy in the regulation of liquor and beer outlets.

In a nine-point pre-election manifesto, the board of directors asked temperance supporters to "scrutinize the character and attitudes of all candidates" in the Nov. 22 Ontario election.

The manifesto spoke of an "alarming increase in the size and complexity of problems resulting from alcoholic beverage consumption."

It said "education in its broadest sense is the principal answer to the alcoholic beverage problem."

Among the nine points were these recommendations: no major change in alcoholic beverage policy should be made without the approval of the electorate through a plebiscite; political parties should be required by law to make public the source of campaign funds; the Ontario government should organize a program of public alcohol education directed to the home, school sport and industry.

ARMY SPECIALISTS

Natives of the Balearic Isles off the Spanish coast, who joined the Roman Legions in old times, were famed shot-slingers.

British Troops Exchange Shots With Egyptians

Cairo, Nov. 6—(AP)—Egyptian civilians and British soldiers today fired on each other without hurting anyone outside Ismailia in the Suez Canal area, a British antiaircraft emplacement.

The spokesman said two English-speaking Egyptians approached two British soldiers and demanded they "come forward and surrender."

This was followed by a burst of automatic fire from the Egyptians said the spokesman, and the Britons then returned the fire.

The spokesman said there had been a sharpe increase in incidents between Egyptians and British troops, whose reinforced numbers are clinging tightly to the vital Suez Canal. Egypt has repudiated the treaty which permits Britain to maintain defence of the east-west waterway.

The seven-country Arab League yesterday was said by a spokesman to hold that British evacuation of the Suez was a "vital condition" for Arab co-operation with the western powers in the defence of the Middle East.

Electric Workers Vote no Strike

Schenectady, N.Y. Nov. 6 (AP) —Members of the United Electrical Workers (Ind.) voted not to strike at the General Electrical Company's main plant, it was announced today.

The executive board of Local 301, said the vote was 5,721 to 5,695. The vote was taken Friday and Saturday.

The union members voted on whether to authorize a strike call if a wage increase demand is not ended by negotiation. The national union had directed all its locals at G-E plants to complete strike votes by yesterday.

The union is seeking a 15-cent-an-hour increase and other benefits. The union has rejected a company offer of a 3 1-2 per cent increase and a cost-of-living escalator boost.

The company's offer was accepted recently by the International Union of Electrical Workers (CIO). The I.U.E. is bargaining agent for 70,000 workers in G-E plants. U.E. claims to represent 50,000 G.E. employees.

AT THE CAPITOL — "M" is for murder in Columbia's new drama at the Capitol Theatre today and Wednesday. David Wayne, above, stars with Howard Da Silva and Luther Adler in the Seymour Nebenzal production and on the screen adaptation of "M" by Norman Reilly Raine, starring Edmond O'Brien, Lizabeth Scott, Terry Moore and Alexander Knox. Both hits are first Belleville showings.

JUST IN

Paris, Nov. 6—(Reuters)— A Brazilian airliner with 25 passengers aboard landed at Casablanca yesterday with the fuel indicator reading zero. The pilot, who flew south after bad weather had made a landing at Lisbon impossible, said: "I could have kept up in the air just one more minute."

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section, in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Wednesday, Nov. 7

March 21 to April 20—(Aries)—Could really call today unusual in inclinations with the unique and daring in high place. Wise investments, business deals sponsored. Personal conduct important. Be astute and gain.

April 21 to May 20—(Taurus)—Stretch your imagination and initiative, but wisely. Unusual matters can prove advantageous, perhaps more profitable today. New inventions, equipment for armed forces under fine aspects.

May 21 to June 21—(Gemini)—Courage, useful daring in purposeful ventures have the "go" sign. Sound propositions and finances handling difficult situations and projects encouraged. Personal wishes may have to wait.

June 22 to July 22—(Cancer)—Your Moon's position warns against those tempters, doubt, fear and hampering moods. Aim to benefit from the good that prevails. Occupational duties, hard work can gain more.

July 23 to August 22—(Leo)—A peak day in your sector. Sun, Jupiter and Uranus benefic. Sound business, science, teaching, real estate, government bonds, all essentials for our armed forces and home use.

August 22 to September 22—(Virgo)—Some extra caution necessary in written matters, contracts and the like, otherwise today soundly favors constructive endeavors, needs of our daily life, and good fun.

September 24 to October 22—(Libra)—Heed advice to Taurus and Virgo—gains to be obtained. In all legal and vital matters, check carefully to avoid mistakes. Excellent indications for finances, labor problems, all essentials.

October 24 to November 22—(Scorpio)—The unusual and intriguing are sponsored, if of course, they are also timely and constructive. A day for business and financial matters, intelligent effort throughout.

November 23 to December 22—(Sagittarius)—Advantageous for new undertakings, advancement in your occupation, sound investments, contracts, real estate, government, science, military interests. Benefic day, use it well.

December 23 to January 21—(Capricorn)—Saturn's position now stresses need for patient stability, especially in matters of import, where experience and knowledge are factors. You have the ability, so much is up to you.

January 22 to February 20—(Aquarius)—Excellent prospects for scientific matters, inventive, creative talent, for new, improved methods and equipment to further man's security and living generally. Pray for guidance.

February 21 to March 20—(Pisces)—While your Neptune's aspect today stresses extra caution, essential matters and activities connected with the sea, other aspects favor more advancement elsewhere. Try.

YOU BORN TODAY: Keen judgment, shrewd business ability and foresight, magnetic personality and sensible caution are among your valuable inherent assets. If living as God wishes, and daily applying your fine gifts, you can attain real success in profession, religious calling, business, or public activities. May become a skilled mechanic or technician. Always remember to heed sound advice, valuable suggestions and be patient with those less brilliant, perhaps slower (but often also wise). Look hopefully ahead.

Steel Lack Ends Hope of Getting Texas Gas Here

Washington, Nov. 6 (AP)—The Tennessee Gas Transmission Co., of Houston, Tex., yesterday withdrew an application to the Federal Power Commission for authority to increase its capacity to serve markets in the provinces of Ontario.

The company said it is not prepared to submit the detailed information required under commission rules. It said it will withdraw application without prejudice to a possible later application for authority to export natural gas to Canada.

The company had proposed a $67,403,800 project to increase its pipeline capacity by 113,000,000 cubic feet of natural gas a day to be delivered to Niagara Gas Transmission, Ltd., a newly-formed Ontario corporation controlled by Consumers' Gas Company of Toronto. The gas would have been resold for distribution in Toronto and other markets in Ontario.

The project would have involved construction of a pipeline from Buffalo, N.Y., to the U.S.-Canadian border near Niagara Falls.

The notice of withdrawal will become effective after 30 days unless otherwise ordered by the commission.

Reason Given

Toronto, Nov. 6 (CP)— A plan to pipe cheap natural gas to Toronto from Texas has been shelved because of a steel shortage in the United States.

Edward Tucker, vice-president of Consumers' Gas Company, said he had hoped to obtain 115,000,-000 cubic feet of gas a day from the Tennessee Gas Transmission Company of Houston, Tex. The pipe needed for the transportation line was not available.

The U.S. company by arrangement with the United States firm withdrew its application for the line from the Federal Power Commission at Washington "until a more propitious time."

EISENHOWER

activity in his behalf.

Yet his refusal to give a "yes" or "no" answer to questions as to whether he might become a presidential candidate left him a possible top contender for nomination, Republican Senate leaders said.

The White House announcement on what happened at the later, bigger meeting of the president, the general, military leaders and defence production officials was notably scant on information.

Press Secretary Roger Tubby issued Short told reporters only that:

"The meeting in which you are interested discussed problems of allocation and production for N.A.T.O. and SHAPE" (Supreme Headquarters, Allied Powers, Europe.)

Short's mention of allocation suggested that Eisenhower had been given, at the round-table talk, an idea of how much his combined European forces could expect from U.S. production and how much must be retained for building up American fighting strength and carrying on the war in Korea.

The reference to discussion of SHAPE could cover a broad field of matters. Some thought that here to the closed-door session of American officials, Eisenhower could have discussed frankly his views on the progress of contributions by other N.A.T.O. members to the mutual-defence organization.

Parliamentarian Tells Commons He's Smuggler

Ottawa, Nov. 6 — (CP)—In a brief, spirited exchange, a Newfoundland member of parliament scolded a New Brunswick member in the Commons last night for boasting that he is a smuggler and intends to remain one.

W. J. Browne (PC—St. John's West) told A. Wesley Stuart (L—Charlotte) that he does not think it right for a parliamentarian to boast about smuggling goods from the United States, as Mr. Stuart did last week in the throne-speech debate.

Mr. Stuart, who had made his declaration in complaining about the differential between Canadian and American prices, jumped to his feet and asked Mr. Browne if he never had brought anything into Canada across the border.

Certainly, replied Mr. Browne. He had been to the United States recently and had taken advantage of the "generous" customs exemptions on returning home.

Mr. Stuart rose again: "Did you ever bring in anything that you didn't declare?"

Mr. Browne protested that he did not think one member should "cross-examine" another about "his whole lifetime."

"Even if I did," he went on, "it's not necessary for a member of parliament to get up and say that sort or thing when he knows the people in his own constituency might be liable to arrest."

Safety Deposit Boxes Loot Said $200,000

St. Jerome, Que., Nov. 6—(CP)—Provincial bank officials today worked on the difficult task of assessing the loot, estimated in the vicinity of $200,000, taken from some 50 safety deposit boxes rifled in their branch here during the weekend.

St. Jerome is about 35 miles north of Montreal.

First reports that the loss may exceed $200,000 were said to be exaggerated by Gaston Levesque, general superintendent of the bank in Montreal.

However, a spokesman for the provincial police said: "We may hit this figure when everything is tallied, if that is possible."

The break-in was discovered by manager Leopold Talve when the bank opened for business yesterday.

The vault had been forced open, probably with an electric drill. All deposit boxes had been smashed open by a sledge hammer.

In a case where safety deposit boxes are locked by the customer, not the bank absorbs the loss, unless he is covered by insurance.

Lieut. Mayer said the burglars—at least two are believed to have taken part in the theft—gained entry through a basement window.

Bulk of the loot was said to be in bonds but there was likely a considerable amount of cash and personal belongings, such as jewelry.

Love Affairs Of Yank Airmen Must be Sincere

Burtonwood, England, Nov. 6 (Reuters)— Regulations guaranteed to discourage all but the most sincere of love affairs have been put into effect for American airmen of the 50th air depot wing here.

Look what a prospective bride-groom must go through before he can tie the knot:

He must know his girl for at least three months.

His marriage application must be accompanied by a security check of the bride-to-be. The check can't be completed in less than 60 days.

The application also involves an interview with the chaplain, application forms, acquiescence forms and talk with the commanding officer.

Then there must be a report or physical examinations of both the bride and groom, plus X-rays and blood tests.

For all airmen below the rank of sergeant with less than seven years service, bank accounts must show $900 balances.

And, if the prospective bride is a widow, the airman will have to show he has $450 in his bank account for each child she has.

Blame Television For Work Delay On Erie Farms

Blenheim, Ont., Nov. 6 (CP)— Television is being blamed in delaying fall work on farms along the north shore of Lake Erie between St. Thomas and Windsor.

All along highways three and 96, a forest of TV antennae juts above the chimneys and roof-top lightning rods.

So as baseball's World Series rolled around, then the royal couple visited nearby Windsor, not much fall plowing was done. Tractors were left in the fields and families watched their TV sets.

Even schools installed sets. Some put in just for the royal visit. Others, like Tilbury High, have permanent sets.

Farm folk along Lake Erie enjoy the best reception in Canada. They get three channel from Detroit, three from Cleveland, one from Erie and another from Buffalo.

The Outsiders

By Jane Abbott

His step to this point, belligerent in its stride, slowed and something went out of his anger as she did about back to him. That he didn't know all of Annie.

They'd been married more than twenty years and it'd come to him, every now and then. He'd get it whenever Annie's face took on that far-off look, or she'd start to say something and then stop, as if it was for someone else to hear, not him. It was, as near as Dave could put it, as if the feeling part of Annie sometimes was somewhere else.

He knew of course, all about the time young Forrestal was running after her, but that was over and done with years back, and in Dave's logic a thing done with was done with. Annie'd never given a sign that she thought back on it. She was sensible, a good wife to him, she was always happy-acting.

He'd let her have her way, most times. But this time. . . He was at the gate; he jerked up his heavy shoulders t. rally his first anger. By God, she was going to listen to him this time! He hoped Tod wasn't home; he could say more with the kid not there. Though he'd say it, anyway!

From a window Annie Wilson had seen Eliza drive past toward the mill and then back again. Nice looking, she'd thought, warmly. Robert's girl! And she had felt the familiar little catch at her heart.

Now she was out in her front yard turning the ground in her borders along the walk where every spring she planted petunias.

She watched for Tod as she worked. It was past time for him to be home from school. He was in the second year of High at Cranford, going in the morning on the milk truck and hitch-hiking back in the afternoon. Annie was proud of his going to the High in Cranford. Dave hadn't seen it much use, Tod's going, but she'd stuck to it. Tod wasn't one to study—it had been a chance to get into the school orchestra that had persuaded him to go—but she'd kept him at his homework and his reports were good, or pretty good. Only, the last week or so, he'd been late getting home, as he was tonight. She didn't like to think he might be hanging around places in Cranford he shouldn't be.

She wanted him to get home before Dave did and it was time for Dave, now. Though, like? Dave'd stop by at the store with some of the others to talk about the girl going to the mill, the very first day.

She had time, with all her watching and hoeing and thinking, to enjoy the smell of the fresh-turned earth, of the pulpwood over in the mill yard of—yes, baking. "Zanie Matthews is late today getting her bread out! Then she saw Chris Cameron coming along and waved to him.

He stopped at the little gate in the low white-painted picket fence which Dave had built for Annie. "Petunias again?"

"Yes. I think they sort of invite you in, don't you?"

Chris agreed, smiling, thinking that it wasn't only the petunias Annie simply. "I'd like to be friends with her."

Chris said quickly, "that'd be nice. She's going to need friends I'm afraid. How's the kid?" he asked then.

Annie's smooth face took on a slightly worried look. "He's late tonight. It's the third afternoon tonight. It's the third afternoon this week he's been late. He could have had his algebra done before supper." She turned and looked down the road and gave a little relieved cry. "There he is now!"

A boy, too tall for his age, too thin, came shambling up the road, stopping now and then to kick a stone out of his path.

Chris lifted his hand to Annie and went on his way. "Hi Tod" he said to the boy as he passed him outside the gate. "Hi," mumbled Tod from some deep place in his throat.

"You're late," said Annie to Tod, but not in a scolding way. She wanted to kiss him there where his freckles ran into his tousled sandy hair but she knew better.

"Orchestra practice," muttered the boy, going through the gate and past her.

Annie sighed a little as she followed him, her spade over one shoulder. That was going to come up again, the boy's taking some lessons. He could play second violin in the orchestra, first sometime, and maybe a solo in the school entertainments, if he had some more lessons. He'd told them that one night at supper, a few weeks back, and Dave had [illegible] all worked up over it.

"Where'd it get you" if you did learn to play a fiddle?" he asked indignantly. Dave had tied it all with the nonsense of Tod's going to high when he could start in the mill.

But Annie wanted him to learn to play his fiddle well.

She would remember always the utter nicetest of those evenings, two winters ago, three there were, when old Elisha had come to their house and Tod had played for him. Old Elisha had seemed to like it. He'd sat in the platform rocker, all relaxed, a sort of far-off look on his face, and when the boy stopped one thing, he'd said, "play some more." Tod had played everything he knew. Not well, Annie had to admit, for he'd picked it all out for himself by ear, but it had sounded nice. Listening, she'd let her memory go back to Robert, even as far back as that afternoon they'd met and Robert had gone home with her.

There had been nothing extraordinary in old Elisha's coming to their house, for he stopped in often, and at other homes too. It was Tod's playing that had made those evenings different and the way old Elisha listened, as if his memory, like hers, slipped back, with the music, into the past.

Then one afternoon he'd stopped at the door—he hadn't come in. "Tell that boy of yours to go to Cranford and take some lessons on his fiddle. I'll pay for 'em."

Annie had wondered if maybe old Elisha wasn't sometimes thinking that Tod might have been his grandson, but for his sending Robert suicide! Crazy to wonder it, but she had. And she was firm when Dave stormily opposed the lessons. She'd gone with Tod to find a teacher. Miss Cavendish was the teacher's name. Miss Cavendish had said Tod had talent. She'd told Miss Cavendish he got it likely from her family—she had an uncle who'd played the fiddle for the dancing all through this part of the state.

Tod had had three months of lessons when old Elisha died. There was no money, then, to pay for them.

There was no money now. It took all Dave earned to keep them.

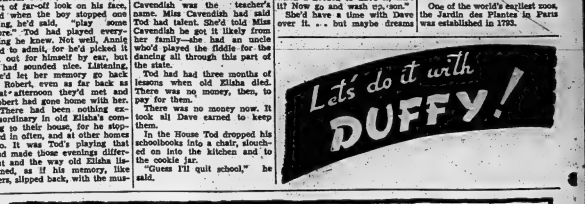
In the House Tod dropped his schoolbooks into a chair, slouched on into the kitchen and to the cookie jar.

"Guess I'll quit school," he said.

"Oh, no Tod! Not now, when you've made a good start!" She went to him, patted his shoulder, longing to put her arms around him but daring only to pat. "We'll find some way for you to have your music lessons, Tod. Let's not talk about it in front of your father until I think more." Suddenly her face brightened to radiation. "Why I've thought of a way right now!"

Now she did hug Tod, laughing a little. "Funny, how just the right thing popped into my head when I needed to have it, isn't it? Now go and wash up, son."

She'd have a time with Dave over it. . . but maybe dreams meant more when it was hard to hold to them.



Dave came home and went out to the shed to wash up. Tod came back from the shed, washed. Annie put the warmed-over stew on the table, beamed over its invitingness as she sat down between Dave and Tod.

"Miss Forrestal went to the mill this afternoon, didn't she? What do the men say about her?"

WORST SLEET STORM IN YEARS HITS CITY

Traffic in South Ontario Snarled By Snow and Ice

Weather Bureau Predicts Another 5-Inch Snowfall

Toronto, Nov. 7 — (CP) — Snow, sleet and rain, borne by stiff winds, moved eastward across Ontario today in the storm's wake were left slush-blocked highways, snarled communications and stalled motor traffic.

No let-up was in sight immediately. The Dominion Weather Bureau, reporting "all kinds of weather on Ontario's weather map," forecast general snow in the southern and eastern areas of the province lasting until late tomorrow at least. Another five inches of snow was predicted.

The storm moved in from In-diana last night. It was the second in four days and was worse than the first.

Children Rest Home

Some 4,500 children were sent home from Niagara Falls' schools when breaks in power lines, causing power failures at intervals of from one to three hours in extent, prevented school officials from operating. Two hundred hydro workers at Queenston, where the high power station is being built, were laid off for the day. Foremen said it was too dangerous to work on the Niagara River cliffs.

Surprisingly few serious traffic accidents were reported. Most motorists drove cautiously over roads deep in slush.

Trains and buses arriving in Toronto were more than an hour late in some cases. City traffic was snarled with police stations flooded with reports of minor accidents.

Some Trans-Canada Air Lines flights east and south were cancelled.

Visibility dropped to 10 yards on No. 6 Highway near Guelph, where drifting was heavy.

Toronto itself was lucky to miss an expected five inches of snow. The main storm area just passed the city, which received a mixture of wet snow, hail and rain.

The storm brought Toronto some relief from a six-day cold snap. Weather experts said yesterday's minimum of 17 degrees made it the coldest Nov. 6 since 1853.

Highway conditions in the southern part of the province varied from slushy to ice-covered and slippery. In most northern areas, snow was packed on road surfaces.

Owen Sound Snowbound

From 24 to 34 inches of snow fell in the Lake Huron-Georgian Bay district overnight, said the highways department. Roads in Owen Sound district and was still snowbound.

Heaviest snowfall was at Price-ville, 30 miles south of Owen Sound, and Dorcas Bay, Parry Sound, in the Blue Mountains 35 miles east of the city.

The heavy snow snarled traffic. Highways No. 6 north from Hepworth to Owen Sound was impassable but others were open but heavy. No serious accidents were reported in Owen Sound district.

Snow, rain and sleet plus a howling wind left five inches of slush in Galt. Driving conditions were bad. Cars and buses were in the ditch along all highways. Bus traffic was nearly normal, however.

In the Kitchener-Waterloo area, several roadside trees were reported blocked. There was three inches of snow in Kitchener area last night, with intermittent periods of rain.

Roads in Woodstock district were "highly treacherous", but only two minor accidents had been reported by 10 a.m. Telephone line breaks were reported by rural hydro, but no serious interruptions of electricity service occurred.

Weather Is Airman

The Algoma district's weather turned warmer today, with light scattered snow. The Sault Ste. Marie area has had a spell of freezing temperatures and high winds.

Two inches of snow fell at Stratford, accompanied by some driving rain. The total snowfall since last Friday was 10 1-2 inches to this morning.

All Stratford provincial highways were open but covered with heavy slush. No accidents were reported.

Power Failure Causes Delay In Press Editions

Owing to early-morning power interruptions caused by the storm, publication of the morning and afternoon editions of this newspaper was delayed until long after regular hours.

Wire services were interrupted from 6:30 until 11 a.m. Linotype machines were delayed further due to "freezing" of metal.

In Kingston, power lines were falling, apparently as they became overloaded with ice. Electricity supply was cut off in some areas to prevent accidents.

At Peterborough, 2 1-4 inches of heavy slush slowed traffic and resulted in more than 200 calls for tow-truck service. No serious accident was reported but hundreds of persons were late for work. Trains into Peterborough were delayed.

Merchant Ship Pulls 25 Survivors From Pacific

Seattle, Nov. 7.—AP—A Japanese merchant ship rescued today pulled 13 survivors of the ill-fated American freighter George Walton from the storm-swept north Pacific, then moved on to rescue 25 others riding bobbing lifeboats un-wind from the burning, sinking ship.

An explosion and fire aboard the freighter late yesterday killed three members of its crew and drove the others into lifeboats to await rescue by commercial and coast guard vessels.

The Japanese freighter Koney Maru, the first to reach the stricken George Walton through water and a strong wind through most of the night to rescue 13 seamen in a lifeboat, reported the Walton, Seven were taken aboard shortly before midnight and the others rescued about four hours later.

Hundreds of Dead Chinese Found In Front of UN Outpost Positions

West-Central Sector, Korea, Nov. 7—(CP)—Thirty-four dead Chinese were strung yesterday along the wire of United Nations front positions in this sector and uncounted others — possibly hundreds—lie in enemy territory ahead.

The communists Monday night launched their determined attacks on United Nations ridge-top positions in this sector, braving artillery, mortar and machine-gun concentrations to close in on the defenders for close - quarters fighting.

They were levelled by rifle fire, grenades and steel cannon. U. N. lines.

The enemy orders to hold their fire until the enemy was within 40 yards, and also to stay in their foxholes to fight it out regardless, U. N. infantry exacted a known toll of 20 to one, and possibly twice or three times that.

Two companies were assaulted but in support they had not only the entire divisional artillery, but also several times fired concentrations of all guns onto the attackers, but U. S. Air Force heavy bombers — B-29's — flying for the first time in close support of ground troops at night.

The battle lasted more than seven hours.

The division commander whose troops had played a ceremonial role in the Armistice negotiations the afternoon before, addressed this message to his superiors at the battle's height.

"We sound retreat only at B Section (rear headquarters)," it said. "Another morale booster — the enemy dare not depend on air support tonight."

The enemy attacked determinedly throughout the night, time found the defenders as solid as rocks. A few communists managed to reach the inner perimeter of the defences, but were eliminated.

The attack was estimated to be at least in battalion strength, supported by tanks, self-propelled artillery and heavy mortar and machine-gun fire.

HOPE OF BIGGER MARKETS IN U.K. BEGINS TO FADE

Drastic New Austerity Measures Promised

Ottawa, Nov. 7 (CP)—Canada's hope of building up bigger markets in Britain next year to offset a deficit in world trade faded today with the announcement of drastic new austerity measures in that dollar-short country.

Both trade and agricultural officials were gloomy following decision by Britain's new Conservative government to cut spending in the dollar areas by almost $1,000,000,000 next year.

The officials said the cut may result in sharp reductions in Canada's exports to Britain, which this year began perking up after a downward slump in 1950.

Exports to Britain this year are expected to reach about $600,000,000, compared with $407,000,000 in 1950 and $700,000,000 in 1948.

Increased rearmed mainly from boosted purchases of Canadian metals and other strategic materials, dropped about $50,000,000 this year, $14,000,000,000 rearmament program in Britain, which, on the other hand, dropped about $50,000,000 this year.

British increased purchases of Canadian wheat and cheese and purchased no bacon or eggs.

A trade department official said the outlook was "very bad". His immediate concern, however, was how the plan to slash purchases would affect Australian, Canadian apple deal, concluded on a private enterprise basis.

The agreement was understood to cover between $2,000,000 and $3,000,000 worth of Nova Scotia and British Columbia apples, part of which was to be delivered for the Christmas trade in Britain and part early next year.

It was possible that Britain's new austerity measures might affect that agreement.

Ten Detroiters Die Of Heart Attacks

Detroit, Nov. 7 (AP) — Ten Detroiters died of heart attacks yesterday while shovelling during a heavy snowstorm that struck the city. Coroners said the victims ranged in age from 33 to 70 years.

The snowfall ranged from six to 11 inches, with schools and a few factories closed in suburban cities, including Bay City, Ionia, Flint and Port Huron.

Some 24 lake freighters took haven near Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., to escape winds that raged up to 35 miles an hour.

A light note in the storm story came in the Calaman opera house audience of only 50 persons saw a command performance performance of "The Gioconda Smile."

At the final curtain call, the cast discovered that the audience for coming out on such a stormy night.

Frost States Return of Govt. Will Mean Housing Loans For Farmers and Communities

(By The Canadian Press)

Premier Frost said last night that return of his government will mean housing loans for Ontario farmers and for persons who live in small communities.

In a Nov. 22 Ontario General election campaign address in London, he announced a plan to make loans available to areas where National Housing Act loans are not ordinarily granted. Under the same plan, farmers' loans would be enabled to establish new farms.

Walter Thomson, Ontario Liberal leader, said de Bigwin Inn that, if he is elected, He will bring a provincial hospital care plan within a year or design as premier at the end of that time. In Hamilton, he pledged his party to abolish to Ontario Lands tax. C. C. F. leader, M. J. Coldwell said in Ottawa that the Frost administration is so "bankrupt of talent" that the government likely has to administer all but one or two departments.

Mr. Frost said his housing plan is aimed primarily at helping farmers who want to build homes in villages or who desire to improve their present homes but could not afford to raise their farms for their children.

He will use $10,000,000 out of betering farm and village housing. It will fill a real need and will be another example of how much progress we have been making in rural betterment."

Denies Charges

In a speech earlier in the day at Strathroy, Mr. Frost denied a C.C.F. claim that his government has built up large, hidden surpluses. He said nearly all capital works during the last eight years under Progressive Conservative administration have been paid for out of revenues and taxpayers have been saved the cost of paying interest on large loans.

Mr. Frost also said he was "surprised and amazed" to find himself credited with saying in connection with the gasoline tax that Ontario should take American tourists for every cent they have. Mr. Thomson has said Toronto newspapers attributed the statement to Mr. Frost.

"What I said in Bracebridge (last Saturday) and have repeated elsewhere is that, if we lower the gasoline tax, we lower the contributions (some $,000,000 or $,000,000 (visiting) many per the use of our roads and the advantages we give them by reason of the increased revenue, the premier said yesterday. "If our visitors pay less, we have to pay more to keep up the same program."

Premises Subsidy

Mr. Thomson said his hospital plan would be "a tremendous help" to the province. He promised to end a multi-million subsidy and milk price difficulties "so that it will make them dizzy." He pledged improvements in the system which he called a "nuisance tax" that should be removed if settlers are to be encouraged to establish in the north.

Mr. Frost said the fact that Hon. Dana Porter held the portfolios attorney-general and education ministers during the latter period of the Frost administration "indicates the hardness" of the cabinet. His fellow cabinet ministers were being heard from only seldom in the campaign because they don't know what the campaign is all about and "are struggling to get re-elected on their own constituencies."

Mr. Frost was scheduled to speak in Walkerton and Goderich today. Mr. Thomson in Midland and Mr. Jolliffe in Belleville.

Government Will Not Restore 12 University Seats

London, Nov. 7 (AP)—British's new Conservative government has decided against trying to restore the 12 university seats abolished by a bill which will become effective after the 1951 election, it was disclosed here.

The term of the present House is five years, but it may be ended by the national election on Oct. 25. However, there is no provision for its dissolution at any time if decided on by a major issue, or if he decides he does not have a bill to carry on.

The university seats were spread through the United Kingdom with 2 each in Scotland and Cambridge entitled to two each. Only graduates of the universities voted vote on seats which fill the seats. Such graduates also could vote in their own House of Commons district thus swing the ballots.

The university seats usually were held by men with Conservative leanings.

The Labor Government abolished the seats in 1943. Churchill announced during the general election campaign that he intended to restore them. But yesterday he told the House:

"My colleagu..e felt that for a government to have a big majority in a parliament already elected would create a question-able precedent.

RINK ROOF COLLAPSES

Wasaga Beach, Nov. 7—(CP)—The roof of the Strand roller skating rink, piled with four feet of snow blown in from Georgian Bay, collapsed early. Damage was estimating at $7,000.

The building was built in 1940 at a cost of $30,000.

KING MEETS COUNCIL

London, Nov. 7 (Reuters)—The King, recovering from a recent lung operation, held a Privy Council in Buckingham Palace today to swear in four new Privy Councillors—among them Prime Minister Churchill's Government. It was the fifth such meeting the monarch had held since the Oct. 25 election.

Moscow Hints Stalin Gives Up Part of Duties

Between-the-lines hints from Moscow today suggest that Joseph Stalin has relinquished at least some of the active control of his Soviet dictatorship.

The censored dispatches reporting the celebration of the revolution's 34th anniversary give the impression that the authority has fallen to two men — Georgi Maxmillanovich Malenkov and Lavrenty Pavlovich Beria, the two top ranks of Soviet politics.

The dispatches give no indication that either Stalin or his old lieutenant, Vyacheslav M. Molotov, was present at last night's revolution anniversary eve celebration at the Bolshoi Theatre, the traditional opening of the year for Soviet officialdom.

The dispatches did not say that dinner. They said a "message of greeting" to Stalin was adopted. Malenkov delivered the main address when he presented Molotov's name was missing.

The Soviet press generally lists politburo leaders in the order of their importance, and commentaries in Moscow follow this protocol. The significance lies in the way the dispatches listed the politburo last night:

Malenkov, Beria, L. M. Kaganovich, K. E. Voroshilov, N. A. Bulganin, I. M. Kagonovich, A. N. Kosygin, A. I. Mikoyan, N. M. Shvernik, A. A. Andreyev.

Malenkov, Beria and Day celebration published in the Soviet press last May. Malenkov was shown at the right hand of Stalin, and Beria next. Molotov occupied the fifth place in the order of importance at that time.

Molotov's stock has been slipping for the past year. Much of Moscow's has been going up. Molotov was credited with many diplomatic observers with being the architect of the Soviet policy of constant belligerent pressure upon the west. Malenkov is an apostle of orthodox, like Stalin before him.

If these two men finally assume the full power, it probably will mean a tighter police state than ever.

RETAILERS FEAR NEW LEGISLATION SAYS GARSON

Reason Why Committee Has Been Established

Ottawa, Nov. 7. (CP)—Justice Minister Garson told the Commons yesterday that many independent retail merchants across Canada fear they might be put out of business by legislation prohibiting manufacturers to fix the retail prices of their products.

That, he said, was one of the reasons why the government had decided to establish a Senate-Commons committee to study a proposal that retail price-fixing by manufacturers be abolished.

Mr. Garson spoke before adoption of a resolution providing for the appointment of 15 members from the Commons and 13 from the Senate to the joint committee. Some C.C.F. members, indicating their opposition, called "on division" when the resolution passed, but did not ask for a formal vote.

The similar resolution now must be adopted in the Senate.

Replying to opposition charges that the government has backed down from its original position, Mr. Garson said the government had decided to form a committee long before the Canadian Chamber of Commerce announced opposition to price-fixing legislation.

Reviewing events that led to the government's decision, he said that a year ago a commission was established to investigate complaints to the Combines Investigation Act. That commission, headed by Mr. Justice Rand, a former judge of the Supreme Court of Nova Scotia, had recommended abolition of resale price maintenance by manufacturers.

Accept Recommendation

The government had accepted that recommendation and in the Speech from the Throne at the opening of the last session, it had announced that it would introduce anti-price-fixing legislation.

TO REMAIN HERE

Darwin, Nov. 7.—(Reuters) — The first two Japanese businessmen to visit Australia since the end of the Second World War arrived here last night to study prospects for the wool-buying prospects for Mitsubishi Bujiwara and K. Yamai, who both represent large business companies in Australia before the war, have been granted for three months but will apply for extensions.

Borrowed Heart Technique Being Developed by Research Workers

San Francisco, Nov. 7. (AP)— Two or three years from now it may be possible for a person to use someone else's heart for a few minutes while the doctors work on his own defective valve.

Some day a person may live with an extra heart grafted into his abdomen. Beating along independently of the diseased heart in his chest, it would help to keep his body supplied with blood.

These prospects were put before the American College of Surgeons today by two groups of researchers.

The borrowed heart technique was worked out on dogs by seven University of California doctors. Theoretically the method should work also on humans, but numerous little "bugs" have to be disposed of before it can be tried in the operating room.

One of the main worries of the donor dog is piped to an arterial main in the recipient dog. A surgeon is done while that dog's vein of the recipient is piped to the veins of the donor. The heart of the recipient is in effect short-circuited and drained of blood. It continues to beat but pumps nothing.

The recipient dog's heart is "dry" and can be worked on by the surgeon, while the heart of the donor dog pumps blood for both dogs.

When the hookup is discontinued, the recipient dog's heart takes over the pumping again.

In the early experiments, said the first group, Dr. Orville Grimes, all the dogs died of shock in the blood-vessel hookup finally was done. Now, with improvements in the point where in 14 experiments involving 32 dogs, only five died. This figure probably will be bettered soon, Dr. Grimes said.

Applied to humans, the technique might help greatly in extreme cases of coronary occlusions, Dr. Grimes said. Much surgery now is done while that organ keeps on with its work.

Power Failure Interrupts Industrial, Business Activity For Hours During Morning

Fallen Trees and Branches Litter Streets, Delay Traffic

Eastern Ontario's worst sleet storm in years struck this city and district last night leaving destruction and disrupted utilities in its wake.

Ice-weighted trees and branches crashed to the ground in all parts of the city, smashing hydro and telephone wires resulting in a general disruption of power.

The power went off at intermittent periods during the early morning as disruptions continued at staggered times. Some districts were without power for hours while in the southern part of the city, power flicked off at 8.30, resumed at 6.45 and went off again at 7.59 until 11 o'clock.

Industry and business were temporarily paralyzed as hydro officials reported between 100 and 600 wires were breaks in the city.

One of the main breaks occurred at St. James and Foundry streets. This disruption caused complete cancellation of power in the downtown area. Other breaks were scattered at the time they hoped to have the break repaired within a few hours.

A SLUSHY MESS

Rising temperatures during the night converted what threatened to be a heavy blizzard into a slushy mess, turning later in rain. The mercury then plummeted to freezing point creating four and five inch depths of slush with a thin ice sheath. Rain and slush from the trees creating a dangerous hazard to pedestrian and service men.

Trees and branches snapped off like matchwood under the weight of the ice-coated limbs. A large tree crashed to the ground on Albert Street missing a parked car by inches. Bushes lining driveways were bowed over with disrupting power, preventing many motorists from reaching the street or highway.

Lawns Littered

Public parks, gardens and lots were littered with falling debris from trees. In some cases motorists were forced to get out of their cars to remove large limbs from the near-blocked streets.

City workers paddled, plunged and slushed their way through four to five inches of ice-crusted slush early this morning. Into the incredibly converting remaining snow to slushy morasses. Water was freely along gutters as frozen outlets failed to drain away the volume of watery slush.

The power interruptions were disrupted at an early hour. Long distance line to Picton Toronto and County were out for at least three hours while some main trunk lines to Kingston and west were out of commission.

Merry Forces

City Engineer Charles Mott said, today, work department workmen were abroad at six a. m. tackling the terrific job of clearing streets. Later the city public works merged forces with those of the public utilities and Bell Telephone Company, working hand in hand on systematic debris-clearing sorties.

Inter - communication services were disrupted in some offices. Communication between the main business office of this newspaper and the composing room was "out" until near the noon hour.

A tree near St. Thomas Church was split in many pieces by the force of the storm. A twelve-inch branch of a tree on the west bank of the Moira River near the Corbin Lock Company mapped off with a branch-snap in the water over the abutment.

Trees Buckle Under Weight

A large tree buckled on Cedar Street near West Moira smashing down wires. The tree caught fire and blazed until the flames burned themselves out.

At the corner of Evans and Geddes streets, a power crew was forced to chop his automobile clear of its shroud of branches. A large limb fell on a fallen nearby missing the car but burying it in branch debris.

Nearby on Evans street the verandah of a house canted upward at an awkward angle. A large tree uprooted by its icecovered load toppled to the ground. Its roots stretching under the verandah taking that part of the house with it.

Power Failure Causes Delay In Press Editions

Owing to early-morning power interruptions caused by the storm, publication of the morning and afternoon editions of this newspaper was delayed until long after regular hours.

Wire services were interrupted from 6:30 until 11 a.m. Linotype machines were delayed further due to "freezing" of metal.

In Kingston, power lines were falling, apparently as they became overloaded with ice. Electricity supply was cut off in some areas to prevent accidents.

At Peterborough, 2 1-4 inches of heavy slush slowed traffic and resulted in more than 200 calls for tow-truck service. No serious accident was reported but hundreds of persons were late for work. Trains into Peterborough were delayed.

Book on Hunting By Austin Peters Delightful Reading

W. Austin Peters' book "Twenty Preferred (Skeffington and Stewart Ltd., Toronto, $4.50), just off the press, is a book written for hunters, and lovers of hunting, by a hunter, and lover of wildlife.

Mr. Peters not only tells in homey fashion of his own experiences as a hunter of birds and animals, but has advanced many ideas on how this great sport may be enjoyed by the ever-increasing number of hunting enthusiasts.

Limitation of game he contends, can be halted if the sportsmen co-operate with wildlife conservation, the government, and the general public.

"Feathers Preferred" is delightfully interspersed with humorous real-life anecdotes of the author's experiences. Some of these he brought down his first bird with a single shot, he tells in a down-to-earth style that holds the reader interest from start to finish.

Tulsa Hunting Trips

He takes you on hunting trips along the St. Lawrence and Lake Ontario, Frontenac Adding-ton, Haliburton, the Ottawa and the Gatineau valley. He spares not the hardships. He hunts for them each, of duck blinds at dawn and chill mornings in the Kawartha district while camping here.

Mr. Peters takes you on goose hunting in James Bay and on other bird-shooting forays. He mentions the dog that should be selected than a trained dog, but disagrees that artificial feeding of game birds is sound practice insofar as conservation is concerned.

An ardent advocate of preservation of Canadian wild life, the author appeals for public reaction against out-of-season shooting and poaching. His condemnation of the "men who intentionally break the regulations by taking birds out of season at this time" is not to be criminal as if he had broken into your house, there are other wildlife conservation problems to be achieved with the wholehearted co-operation of the public."

Pure Tribute

While he charges that big industrial concerns which profit from the sale of guns, and what they could for wildlife conservation, he pays tribute to the beloved game birds of a "real sport-loving." Tribute is also paid to the United States and Canadian governments in their co-operative efforts with game birds, particularly in dealing with wildfowl.

"Feathers Preferred," is a noteworthy contribution to the general effort in the preservation and conservation of wildlife. Mr. Peters writes with a convincing style, yet his humorous effects are sprinkled in readable everyday phraseology as though the author were talking to somebody.

It is well-written with no heavy overweight of technical detail, it is interesting and should be appreciated by every hunter's library.

Five From City Attend Meeting

Five members of the Belleville Sales and Ad Club were among 60 members of nine other clubs who attended a meeting in Peterborough last night.

Guest speaker at the meeting was Alex Cleaver whose humor and pertinent points of philosophy kept the audience in a humorous attention during his address.

Cleaver pointed out that man who cannot find at least one item of interest in the columns of his daily newspaper, does not lead a well-balanced life. What is more he pointed out, he is thoroughly against. All humor is based on error "and if you make mistakes in your life, someone will laugh at you."

Companion Sought After Hunter Discovered on Shore of Lake

Provincial police in the Hallowell area today are in the midst of the search for W. A. Pollack, of the Toronto area who is reported to be with the Elephant Lake area 30 miles west of Bancroft.

Pollack and Provincial Police Bruce Swain, 114 Uplands Ave., Scarboro Bluffs, became lost while on a hunting expedition and Monday night Swain was found half frozen to death on the shore of Elephant Lake.

Swain was brought to safety by the ice.

Police who at first feared Pollack had drowned conducted a day-long search of lake shore but last night thought it possible he had reached another hunting camp. Pollack is a brother-in-law of Chief of Police Walter Probert of this city who is in Bancroft assisting in the search. A report from Bancroft today indicated the district was snow-bound.

In Bancroft hospital, Swain was able to tell something of what had happened, although frost and exposure had left him numb. He and Pollack were moving along the lake when they hit a submerged object and a board was torn from the bottom of the craft. It sank immediately.

Swain's wife said her husband told her that, after the boat sank, he managed to reach an island with Pollack and then left to hunt for help. The other man, he said, was wet and shivering when he left him, but otherwise unhurt.

This morning, when police went to look for Pollack after a party of hunters found Swain, they could not locate him. He was not to be found on the island, but they believed he had been taken to a hunting lodge by hunters who found him this morning.

Struggled to Shore

In the early dusk Mon., night Swain struggled to shore after putting Pollack on the island, cutting his hands on the ice as he way through the ice. He was too exhausted to complete the trip, but tried to find aid. He spent the night near the shore of the lake where he was found Tuesday morning. His hands were frostbitten as well as cut, and he was suffering from exposure.

It was late Tues., afternoon before Swain was found by Bruce Swain after receiving first aid in the bush. He was treated at hospital here by Dr. S. Lumb, while Provincial Constable Gordon Langton of Bancroft headed the search for Pollack.

Swain was first spotted in a marsh at the lake edge Mon night by guide Jack Woods but it was early Tues., morning before help could reach the man and bring him out. Woods went for his own hunting party, and a fire was built, then he went to Jack Rose' Cottage on the other side of the island.

Resting at the Belleville Burial Company Funeral Home, Campbell street, the funeral announcement is made elsewhere in this edition.

LATE MRS. BOYNE HEATH

The funeral of Mrs. Boyne Heath formerly Marjorie Levina Roberts of Tweed was held in St. Paul's United Church Stirling on Monday afternoon. Rev. A. E. Ansley officiated the service and brought a message of comfort to her bereaved family.

The bearers were all former neighbours when the family resided on the Bird's Road. Messrs. Oliver Staple, Vernie Heath, Bruce Demorest, Volney Rinard, Jack Simmons Mathews and Frank Wood.

The Interment was made in Mount Nebo cemetery Springbrook.

On Sunday evening at the Duffin Funeral parlour the members of Laurel Rebekah Lodge No. 211 Stirling held their special service under the direction of Mrs. Ada Wells.

LATE MRS. H. FURDY

Trenton—(Special) — Funeral services were held from the Weaver Funeral Home at 2.00 p.m. on Monday for Mrs. Harry Furdy, who died in the Trenton Memorial Hospital in her 69th year last Friday. Mrs. Furdy had been ill for several years.

The services at the home and graveside were conducted by Rev. G. J. Minielly of King Street United Church. Interment was in Mount Hope Cemetery.

A resident of 44 Henry Street, Mrs. Furdy was the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Peter Fraser in Portland. She lived in Trenton 52 years and before that resided at Windsor and Sarnia.

Very active in church circles, Mrs. Furdy was a member of the King Street United Church, W. C. T. U. and the Women's Association.

She is survived by her husband, Harry Furdy, Trenton, a niece, Mrs. Ed. Nix, and a sister-in-law, Mrs. E. Nix, both of Toronto.

Pallbearers were J. C. Gilles, Grant Rathbun, Robert Gamble, John MacNab and O. Newton.

L. A. Kells Speaks To Avondale H-S. On 'Child Behavior'

The regular monthly meeting of the Avondale Home and School Association was held in the school on Monday evening. The president, Ralph Knowlton, held a short business session and then turned the meeting over to the program chairman, Arthur Clare.

An unusual feature was the participation by the senior pupils of the school who rendered several musical numbers, which were enjoyable, under the direction of their music teacher, Mrs. Riley.

The guest speaker, Lawrence Clare said that Mr. Kells was not only an old friend of many pupils of the school but also has convened the committee for participation by the Ontario Federation of Home and School Associations.

Mr. Kells' topic was: "Child behavior in relation to curriculum and environment." He stated that his committee is centering its efforts this year on three main topics: a study of the in-service training of teachers; a study of the effects of the Hope Commission on Education; and effort to secure greater Home and School participation in curriculum development and revision. He outlined briefly what should be considered to the development of school curriculum and approach to its application.

Equality Of Opportunity

The watchword of education today is 'equality of opportunity' and every effort to provide such opportunity unless we see education as a process for the use and benefit of all of our children, planned to recognize the personalities, qualities, gifts and limitations of every child."

The speaker went on to say that the trend in education was away from formality toward greater freedom in teaching. This trend started, perhaps, when it was determined to eradicate illiteracy through the enforced school attendance to sixteen and now, to offer secondary education to all pupils who can show that from Belleville's elementary school population of 1910 only about 120 students would proceed to high school, whereas in 1945, nearly 80 per cent would enter for secondary school.

Mr. Kells discussed the value of applying child psychology by the teachers and with the co-operation of the parents. He said, "the recognition of differences in the make-up of children could be found in the movement to establish varied classes such as industrial, manual training, home economics and commercial classes. Opportunity classes will be said to provide more opportunities for every child to find tasks that offer success. Children need the spur of success, the pride of self respect and the enjoyment of association to build them into good citizens and this training very definitely begins at school."

The speaker was thanked by Mrs. Vevers, Robson, on behalf of the association after which the members enjoyed a social half hour.

Major Goforth Entertains With Pictures of European Scenes

Major Fred Goforth, padre of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment, during the last year, entertained the Kiwanis Club with a very handsome set of Kiwanis Centre on Tuesday with slide scenes of a recent tour of England and Europe.

Major Goforth stated that he had always felt a warm spot in his heart for Belleville because of the associations and friendships made during the war.

Born in China, where he lived until he was 13 years of age, the speaker was the son of Presbyterian missionaries. He was educated at the University of Toronto, enlisted in the army in 1940, and joined the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment in the later part of 1943.

He was the Military Cross near Oriona, around Christmas, 1943, for his work in bringing back wounded soldiers.

In 1945, he returned to Canada and was stationed in the army. Presently he is chaplain at the Eastern Ontario Command in Kingston.

English Countryside Depicted

The slide pictures showed scenes of the English countryside around Shere, Guilleford, and other old-world towns named. The changing of the guard at Buckingham Palace was pictured as well as the trooping of the colors of the Coldstream Guards.

Paris pictures were also taken from the Eiffel Tower, and shown, following which Rome's glories of Notre Dame Cathedral and the garden of Versailles.

The journey continued on through Grenoble, the Savoy Alps and into Italy through Genoa, the port of Pisa, Florence, the Arno River, Assisi, Orvieto, Rome, the Tiber River, Casino, Lire Valley, Positano, Isle of Capri, More Valley, Orlona, Corsinne Ridge, Lake Garda River, Venice, Austria, Switzerland, Germany and Iceland.

Several scenes were shown of cathedrals with their colorful rosette and stained glass beautiful facades. The cathedral at Orvieto is at least seven centuries old and has been remarkably cared for.

Christendom's Largest

St. Peter's in Rome is a beautiful pillared church and is the largest church in Christendom. Slides of the Roman forum and colliseum gave a very clear picture of their antiquity, although they seem remarkably preserved.

Other scenes were scenes of cemeteries, including those at Casino, Oriona and Cassino. Major Goforth expressed a tribute to the Graves Commission for the magnificent efforts it has made to keep those cemeteries neat, "Graves have been made many fine bushes and such superb layout as in those cemeteries," he said.

He dealt briefly with scenes of Freiburg, Germany, Strassbourg, Switzerland and the general area of Rheims, as well as the fields of Flanders. The pictorial trip ended with the white cliffs of Dover.

Major Goforth was introduced by Lt. Col. Ross Widdifield and thanked by Hugh Murray.

Tribute Paid R. Wotten

Tribute was paid to the late Russell Wotten by President Everett Fairman. A two minutes silence was observed in his memory and also for the fallen of both wars in connection with Armistice Day.

Kiwanis past-lieut. governor C. Bangar and John Thornbury gave the plans for the Rubinoff concert and asked for the co-operation of all members in this venture.

A sing-song was led by Vic Hinds accompanied by Phil Huddleston at the piano.

Harold Bateman acquainted all members with the news about the voters' list and urged everyone to be sure that his name was on it.

Guests present were from Hamilton, Belleville and Oshawa. They were introduced by Roy Grant.

The attendance prize, donated by Staff McKenna, was won by a guest, Lambert Young, of Belleville.

President Everett Fairman announced that a directors' meeting would be held in the Kiwanis Centre on Thursday night at 8 o'clock.

One School Closed Due to Storm

With one exception, all of the public schools in the city have been encountering heat and lighting difficulty throughout the day.

Queen Victoria School on Pine Street has had full use of its heat and light, while Prince Edward was the only one without any heat, light or water. Details of the latter facility is caused by the bursting of a water main adjacent to the school property.

All other schools have been endeavoring to hold classes, particularly in the senior grades. In some cases the junior classes have been dismissed when their rooms cooled.

During recent time today, many sections of the city were without use of electric power while others for the magnificent efforts it has and a limited usage.

Business Life in Trenton Halted By Heavy Fall of Rain, Sleet, Snow

Trenton. (Special)—Light falling snow which first turned to sleet and then into an unseasonable rain last night coated Trenton and district with a three-inch thickness of slush and water.

Ice-covered trees and hydro and telephone lines added to the beauty of the winter wonderland while motor traffic slowed to a cautious pace. No serious accidents were reported.

At the tail end of the snowstorm the pulsing drone of a low-flying aircraft was heard circling and recircling the town. An Avenger pilot from Dartmouth, N.S., not familiar with the landing stripe at R.C.A.F. Station, Trenton, was in difficulty. The lost aviator finally brought his machine safely to earth an hour later after three rockets had been fired from the airfield.

Large branches weighted down with ice snapped off, littering roadways and sidewalks throughout the town. Some of the larger trees all across hydro lines and were blamed for the power cut-off at 4.30 a.m. this morning.

Housewives using electric ranges were prevented from preparing breakfast while hockey workers found no work when they arrived on the job. There were no serious repercussions at the Trenton Memorial Hospital due to the shut-off, but ten operations scheduled for the day were delayed. There was no emergency power system installed in the hospital when it was built. By 10.15 a.m., the lights were on and the town returned to normal except for a large clean-up job on branch-littered streets.

Storm Disrupts Telephone Service To P.E. County

Trenton. (Special)—The storm disrupted telephone communications between Trenton and most of Prince Edward County this morning.

Transformers were put out of commission by falling trees and heavy branches falling across power lines.

It was impossible to reach dwellers on the Sprague line at the centres of Carrying Place, Rednersville, Gardenville, and Hoffs Island. However, it was possible to reach the main office at Mountain View.

Corbin Lock Company sent employees home at an early hour as the power shortage paralyzed industrial production.

Candles and gasoline lamps, reminiscent of the wartime restriction days, flickered in many downtown business places, but counter trade was reduced to a bare minimum.

Devoted Cat 'Tootsie' Dies in Canal Seeking Mistress, Drowned Earlier

Trenton (Special)—A devoted pet cat named Tootsie died yesterday while hunting for her little mistress, who drowned in Murray Canal only a few hours earlier. The red and white spotted cat went into a convulsion, fell into the canal and disappeared barely 30 feet from the spot where 12-year-old Simone Jacqueline Simonni met her death. The surface while her horrified grandparents looked on.

The pet was in the habit of sauntering out to the railroad bridge and meeting the young Simonni girl daily on her return from school.

Tootsie' made the same trip without realizing that Simone had drowned. She waited all night in freezing temperatures and by daybreak crawled down on a tree-trunk footrest to get closer to the water. Before noon 'Tootsie' took a fit and fell into

Cheese Exchange

Ten days' cheese including the balance of the October make was boarded on the Belleville Cheese Exchange Tuesday night. There were 3,815 white, 1,495 colored and 150 specials boarded.

Lack of boxes prevented quite a number of factories from boarding their cheese, Exchange officials notice that considerable difficulty was being experienced in securing containers for their cheese.

The price for cheese was 36 cents, the Marketing Board taking 2,256 white and 509 colored cheese.

The board will meet again next week when it is possible there may be a change in the price. The Marketing Board is expected to make an announcement at that time.

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Nov. 7.—(CP)—Prices turned sharply lower today as stock market support weakened abruptly after a firm opening. Early afternoon losses ranged from fractions to more than a point.

Banks formed the only industrial section to draw solid support. Constructions and refining oils held firm on early gains but utilities, agriculturals, steels, foods and manufacturing companies turned mixed. Papers, liquors and retail stores weakened while miscellaneous industrials dipped sharply.

Many Families Deprived of Hot Meals by Storm

It was cold beans for a big percentage of the families in the city today as last night's storm disrupted power service in the city from early morning until well in the afternoon.

Many workers, businessmen and housewives went without their hot porridge and cup of coffee for breakfast and for some residential areas it was still cold beans for the noon lunch as housewives found their electric stoves and hot plates useless.

But at least there were some families who were not to be denied. One family head said his wife made an attempt to cook the noon meal on the furnace, while a householder in the West Hill district fell back onto his camping know-how and kindled a fire in his back yard and heated the tea kettle over the blaze.

Street Blocked

Strachan street, between Grier and Cedar streets, was completely blocked with limbs and branches.

At the corner of Moira and Coleman streets a large limb torn from a tree trunk rested lazily against the top of a house.

Telephone lines were down on several streets, broken ends crying out into the right-of-way like broken strings. Motorists drove over them carefully.

At noon today the mad and crackle of breaking limbs and branches were clearly audible in city streets. The heavy ice coating was taking a consistent toll and it is likely city public works laborers will have to retrace their steps over many streets already cleared of debris.

A CURIOUS ANOMALY

Stanley Buckowski, the Toronto outlaw who murdered four persons and has probably been guilty of other crimes, is fond of dogs. In fact, his fondness for dogs had something to do with betraying him to the police.

In investigating the murder of a Mr. and Mrs. MacKay, of Toronto, the police learned that whoever killed them had, after killing the husband and leaving the fatally wounded wife to die, taken time off to release a small spaniel which had been tied in the MacKay car. This behavior struck the police as curious, to say the least.

Later, when they were hunting for the killer, the police, in investigating various known bad men, learned that Stanley Buckowski, who had been in Toronto at the time of the killings but disappeared afterward, was the owner of a spaniel of which he was very fond. Buckowski, the police learned, would occasionally kick his spaniel when drunk, but would deal roughly with anyone else who maltreated the animal.

The killer of the MacKays was kind to animals, the police reasoned, so then, the desperado Buckowski was kind to animals. This, along with other clues, enabled them eventually to identify Buckowski. He was already under arrest in California for another killing.

J. V. McAree, Globe and Mail columnist who is something of an authority on both police reporting and on detective fiction, points out that this is by no means the first time that a connection has been observed between ruthlessness toward human beings and kindness toward animals.

"It would be ridiculous to suggest," Mr. McAree writes, "that dog lovers are killers, actual or potential." It would be equally ridiculous to suggest that everyone fond of animals has little consideration for humanity.

But there is sufficient evidence to indicate that a large proportion of those who are indifferent toward human suffering often display an incongruous solicitude for the safety and well-being of animals. Perhaps some learned psychologist or psychiatrist will tell us the reason for this curious anomaly.

COSTLY LABOR, DEAR BEEF

From Alberta comes a little story which partly explains why beef is expensive, and liable to become more so. A politician out trying to make friends and influence people into voting for him was talking to a rancher. The politician asked the rancher why he had only 1,000 cattle on his range, when the range could easily support 3,000.

The rancher explained that 3,000 cattle required a lot more attention than 1,000, and that he was short of help. He could not afford to pay the extra men, the rancher said, and could not find them even if he could afford them.

If the government placed price control on beef, the rancher said, while city wages continued to increase, he would pare down the remainder of his cowboys.

Price control on beef, like some other measures advocated by some people, may sound fine, but it won't produce cheap beef. If it is tried, it is likely to result in still dearer beef.

FRANCE OVERTAXED TOO

A Reuters News Agency from Paris, France, informs us that the French government has imposed an increase of 30 per cent in tobacco taxes which will bring the retail price of cigarettes to the equivalent in Canadian money of 20 cents for a package of 20.

Spokesmen for the government of France are probably telling those Frenchmen who smoke cigarettes that the extra money thus raised is going to be used to make France safe from Bolshevism, to spread culture amongst the Hottentots, or to promote the study of Moliere's works among the Patagonians.

But if the Frenchman in France is anything like the French - Canadian, he is a realist and will not believe everything he is told. He will recall that one of the tenets of Karl Marx, the father of Communism, was that high taxation was one of the most effective weapons in destroying "bourgeois" society.

FINAL COST UNKNOWN

According to a Canadian Press dispatch from Ottawa, the new home for the prime minister which the government bought as a refurnishing and redecorating has cost, to date, $590,136.56.

The structure, which is located at 24 Sussex Street, Ottawa, was purchased for $140,000. Since then, $284,220 has gone for remodelling, $108,907 for furniture and furnishings and $56,978 for improving the grounds.

Neither the public works department, under which the work is being done, nor anyone else has made an estimate of what the total cost of this venture is to be.

FISH-EATERS

Salt herring has been a vital part of the diet in Finland since ancient times.

And, the most don a shirt wherever they go.

His name in script is told.

I stay with golf's discouragements.
I'm true to golf's despair.
Let bowlers wail whene'er they fail
To make an easy spare.
I'm one who knows a golfer's woes
Are all that I can bear.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

A woman with a cute, infectious laugh is a menace to society. All the other women around her start imitating her laugh. And the first thing you know, you have got a laugh circus in your midst.

A small, tasty lunch room where I take a sandwich and a cup of coffee in the day is patronized by bevies of girl clerks from a nearby super market. They are a jolly, merry bunch, ranging in age from eighteen to the deep forties. One of these girls has a laugh that makes every head in the place turn. It is a trill, followed by a curious, gay intake of breath like a happy sigh. You have heard women laugh like that. They laugh out. Then they laugh in. It is the laugh of a child, and a whether she comes in with three of her co-workers or ten of them, they all start chattering and laughing. And every one of them tries to laugh like that one girl. I think they do it unconsciously. There is a strong imitative instinct in all women. And when you hear anywhere from five to ten girls all trying to trill and then give that airy, gay intake of breath, you have got a musical bedlam.

Probably they take it home and practise on their families, who wonder what the dickens has happened to Lucy. Doubtless most of them have got along very well for years with a common, everyday ha-ha-ha or a ho-ho-ho, and suddenly all at once they begin to trill and sigh soprano. And it doesn't become them.

Not one of us in a million can laugh as we did in childhood. Our laughter takes on the color of our ripening and maturing years. A woman who can laugh as a child is to be classed as a musical instrument, like the violin and the harp. But she is a menace to society, just the same.

Strength for the Day

DR. EARL L. DOUGLASS

FAITHFUL TO THE LAST

In the shadow of death, Johann Sebastian Bach dictated the chorale-prelude, "I Come Before Thy Throne."

The whole world confesses today that Bach is one of the greatest, if not the greatest, musician that the race has produced. But too few realize that he was a man of deep religious faith. To him music was a vehicle for bringing to men's hearts the glory and beauty of the divine. Although he composed scores of instrumental numbers, his greatest works were in the realm of sacred song. Week after week he trained his choir, and out of his faithfulness to his task have come some of the most inspiring sacred numbers that human ears have ever heard.

To the end of time, multitudes continue to be lifted closer to God by the songs of a great musician who in his religious faith was as humble as a child, and in his devotion as faithful as a martyr. He lifted men's souls heavenward and set to music the deepest longings of the human heart. While preachers bring the Word of God to man's ear, Bach brings the songs of God to men's sad and needy hearts.

As he lay on his deathbed he dictated the words and music of "I Come Before Thy Throne." Glorious Bach, whose faith never wavered and in whose heart there was an unending back from the things of God!

OUR TOWN

THE TORY WIN

On the eve of the British election the CBC's "Press Conference" was originated in London, England, with Mr. R. A. Butler, of the Conservative party, now Chancellor of the Exchequer, as its guest.

In the course of a cross-examination by several correspondents, Mr. Butler was asked to comment on what parliament would be like, should his party win, in behalf of the special interests the Conservatives represent.

"Why, we represent no special interests," Mr. Butler stoutly replied. "The Conservative party."

But Mr. Butler could not go on. The correspondents, men of all political beat, had burst into spontaneous laughter and Mr. Butler, an amiable man, joined them in their merriment.

The sound of that wise and cynical laughter remains to me the most telling commentary on the tragedy of the British elections and the part of Churchill and his company to power.

It's my personal view that the defeat of Clement Attlee is the worst thing to happen to Great Britain since the outbreak of the war. It means not merely the end of a splendid experiment, a peaceful revolution designed to give a decent life to everyone in the British Isles. It may also mean the final communism of the United Kingdom as a socialist state.

So long as Britain pioneered in a new conception of government, a new way of life founded on equality, the world could not count her out. She had a tired and struggling Britain under the Tories, traditional wealth and class monopolized and the privileged, seems certain to be sapped of its last strength.

The day of the Tories in Britain could look after those "special interests" which Mr. Butler was so frankly proud and still be caretaker to the broader interests of the nation.

False Face

I called the election about as wrongly as it was possible to call it. I was convinced that Labor would return with strength. It's neither an illusion nor a consolation to know that they polled some two hundred thousand more votes than the Tories. The Tories were elected.

The British papers I've read since then have volunteered a variety of reasons for Socialism's defeat. The one that interests me most is the widely-held belief that it was the women's vote that returned Churchill.

Surely this change in government was, in fact, a change of feeling, a viewpoint expressed in the sentiment: "Let's see how it'll be with the other fellow." Britain changed governments like it changes her living room drapes.

There seemed no other logical reason. I read a great many of the speeches made by Tory candidates in the short campaign. They were pathetic. The Conservatives hid their top hats and presented themselves, sheepishly, in the cloth cap of the working man. The masquerade was a glaringly false one.

Britain did not vote against Socialism. It voted to continue it, for that is what the Conservatives promised. Britain did not repudiate the Attlee government's immense strides in education, health, welfare or (with the exception of steel) public ownership. The Tories promised them all . . . only better and more of 'em. Every Tory speech I read was an unwitting testimonial for Socialism. In effect, they went to the electorate on the record of the Labor party.

Because of this, most of Labor's steps toward a system of "fair shares for all" may remain intact. It would be political suicide for the Tories to scuttle them.

The only question is what the actual intent of the Conservatives may be and to suggest that their party serves no particular class is still worth only the kind of horse laugh I heard the other night from London.

And Mr. C

The result of this election has caused me to see Winston Churchill in a new light. I find myself thinking of him now as I think of General Douglas MacArthur.

Both are men of genius: we owe a great deal for their service during wartime. Both are men with a dramatic, and unrealistic, sense of their place in history and thus, dangerous men in times of peace. One with the corn cob pipe, the other with a cigar, both with a flair-for-words and a sense of history better suited to the bold strokes than the careful, cautious, day-to-day compromises of peaceful living.

Beverley Baxter, who wags his little tail whenever Winnie enters the room, wrote recently of Churchill's love for the smell of battle" and said that when he saw this "belligerent bull" he felt like shouting "Olé" and "Encore!"

No one would ever shout that at the quiet Clement Attlee, which is precisely why we owe the greater leader of the two. Clement Attlee loves the smell of peace and has been in no sense for belligerence in a man whose one great mission has been to better the lives of his fellow men.

It's my profound belief that Britain will regret the day it wondered how things might be with the other fellow.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

TOOLS TO SUCCESS

Watching a program over my TV set recently an advertiser displayed a man with a pair of scissors with a set of a number of useful tools that served a variety of uses. I was intrigued by the display and resolved to "get that offering for one never knows when such a set will come in mighty handy.

That dynamo and its tools also gave me a thought. Each one of us has a mental dynamo, with possibilities hidden within about which we know little or nothing. Each new fact, or knowledge, can be made into a tool to success, and the building our fortunes, happiness and happiness. We can't discover, or evolve, too many of these tools. Every emergency in life can well call for the use of any one of these tools that may fit the opportunity at hand.

There is the tool of curiosity, which leads us into knowing more about the thing at hand, or into investigation of something about which we are doubtful. Then there are the tools of the eye and the ear, which train us to observe and watchful. And there is the tool of language which enables us to inquire and to express ourselves. Each word becoming a minor tool.

These tools of life, let us call them, are needed us into formulating a philosophy of life, putting us in readiness for any and all tasks. God gave us the dynamo, but we have to hunt and shop, or create, to gather a practical and ever useful set of tools. Each of us may equip ourself with the investment in knowledge that will suit this dynamo of which we are. And we can keep adding to the allotment and tools daily.

I would say that one of the most important tools for success would be a faith, in oneself and one's fellow man, as well as faith in God who created us and spread out to reach out for more and more tools that may add to our usefulness and efficiency as human beings. I like that line from Browning, "A man's reach should exceed his grasp, or what's a heaven for?"

SO YOU DON'T NEED A TONIC?

If you are far past your prime, prematurely aged or decrepit, weak and ailing, don't read this item—it will only irritate you. If you are still young enough to jazz anything, read on and perhaps what I tell you may do you good.

For the nth time I quote what one periodic drinker said about his habit in a sober interval:

"At times I drink to excess because I feel the need of a stimulant, or rather, I just want to feel better. . . . Other substitutes tonic for stimulant in this candid statement and you have a pretty good idea of what tonic means.

Webster kicks the word around and avoids any clearcut definition, but Stedman (medical dictionary) without hesitating around explains that a tonic is a remedy which restores enfeebled functions and promotes vigor and a sense of well being. Old Fuss-budget should substitute common man's acquaintance before he publishes the next edition of the unabridged.

That's what the periodic drinker meant—but he was wrong in his assumption that alcohol is either tonic or stimulant. One can say one can feel better. The truth is that alcohol in any form or quantity is a depressant from first to last and, far from making one feel better it invariably makes one less capable of feeling at all. That's what I mean when I ask why should I take a drink or two to be sarcolic, alcohol impairs the higher judgment and I don't want a drinker nor do I want to be one.

Whenever Winnie enters the room, wrote recently of something I love the smell of battle" and said that when he saw this "belligerent bull" he felt like shouting "Olé" and "encore!"

No one would ever shout that at the quiet Clement Attlee, which is precisely why we owe the greater leader of the two. Clement Attlee loves the smell of peace and has been in no sense for belligerence in a man whose one great mission has been to better the lives of his fellow men.

It's my profound belief that Britain will regret the day it wondered how things might be with the other fellow.

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

Shots of Calcium

Doctors give me evasive answers about the nature of the headaches I have right often—kind of a pressure at base of skull which seems to move up to top of head and forehead. . . one doctor says I lack calcium and gives me calcium shots three times a week. (Mrs. G. W. A.)

Answer—In certain acute, serious emergencies, such as black widow spider bite or severe colic, one or more injections of calcium solution into veins may be excellent treatment. In chronic or long standing ailments it is downright quackery to give calcium in "shots." Send stamped, self-addressed envelope for pamphlet Why Have Headache? ## Troops Reaction Indicates A-Bomb Futile in Korea

At a press conference in Las Vegas, Nev., U.S. soldiers, who figured in the first atomic manoeuvres by ground forces, tell of their reaction to the blast. Several admitted being "scared" and others said they had "never seen anything like it." All were less than ten miles away from the Atomic Energy Commission's Nevada test site. Military experts expressed doubt that the A-bomb would be effective in Korea's mountainous terrain and against reds' fighting methods of holing in, deep in foxholes, still the most effective protection against any weapon—atomic or hot. — Central Press Canadian.

Iranians Find Ousting British Brings Economic Difficulties

Tehran, Nov. 7. (Reuters)—Iran, faced with graver financial and economic difficulties than ever before, is trying to cut down government expenditure.

Recent efforts to solve the crisis, however, have met with strong criticism in political and financial circles in Tehran on the ground that they offer no real remedy.

The government has been attacked by newspapers of varying shades of opinion for its mishandling of financial and economic policy.

One of the latest government decrees, seeking to save about $17,000,000, restricts salaries of high-level officials, limits employment of additional civil servants, cuts down on government transportation expenses, curtails building of government offices.

It controls expense accounts of Iranian diplomats, holding them to a maximum of $14 a day regardless of circumstances. It also decrees a 15-per-cent economy cut in government expenditure for the last six months of the current fiscal year.

Lukewarm Reception

But the decree has had only lukewarm reception, even in circles which have hitherto supported the government.

A further outcry came when the government tried to help balance the budget by raising the tax on tobacco and cigarets, increasing the retail price by 25 per cent.

Atiah, a right-wing newspaper which has generally been a "fer-sure" supporter of the government, said: "Our people must make heavy sacrifices in this national campaign, but there are various ways of doing things and the government must consider the plight of those classes which will suffer as a result of its ill-considered decisions."

It is felt that, despite the flotation of an internal loan and government assurances regarding the stability of the rial, which is backed by gold and by the crown jewels, firm and far-reaching financial and economic measures cannot be long delayed.

Oil Industry Stagnates

Because of the stagnation of the oil industry, Iran is faced with unemployment in Abadan and the oil fields. In addition, Iran must now find some $47,500,000 a year to pay its employees, plus the salaries of any foreign experts she may engage.

She must also find about $140,000,000 a year for essential capital expenditure in the industry, stores and materials, and health and training facilities.

The current tide of nationalism still leaves great numbers of Iranians with the feeling that the mere fact that the oil industry is now theirs will solve their country's ills.

New Woman Doctor Has Many Friends In Northern Town

Winnipeg. (CP)—A telegram of good wishes from some 3,000 persons in the north was a great inspiration to Dr. Hanna Kratz, taking an examination here to qualify for a permanent practice in Canada.

The message was sent on behalf of 1,200 Indians, 1,000 half-breeds and 800 whites in the community of Fort Vermilion, Alta., 600 miles north of Edmonton. Dr. Kratz and her husband, Dr. Julius Kratz, arrived at Fort Vermilion in 1949 to take over the medical care of the community.

Fort Vermilion, subject to severe winters, had had no doctor before the Kratz couple arrived after years of wandering as political refugees.

Julius and Hanna graduated in 1932 from a school of medicine at Frankfurt, Germany. Hanna, an anti-Nazi, fled to England when Hitler came to power and Julius fled to escape concentration camp. They were married in London and then went to Palestine.

Worked in Quebec

For 14 years they practised together in Jerusalem, where their two children were born. Then the war between the Jews and Arabs forced them out. They reached Canada in 1940 and worked for a year in Quebec as interns. With a licence as interim practitioners they went to Fort Vermilion.

Dr. Hanna Kratz took the final stages of her Medical Council of Canada examination here this month. Dr. Julius passed the examination last year. He is coroner and medical health officer at Fort Vermilion.

"We shall never be rich", Dr. Hanna confessed, "but we love the people and the life at Fort Vermilion. We find it cold after the heat in Palestine. Last winter the temperature went down to 45 below and stayed there for six weeks.

"Our patients come to us by horse sleigh and dog sleigh when the roads are too bad for travelling by car. But we have a hospital and my parents are with us. And thanks to the oil companies, we have some good roads. We do not want to leave."

ANCIENT CUSTOM

Although the custom of headhunting has been dying out in late years, it still survives among some tribes in Borneo.

SPRIGHTLY WRITER

Mrs. Alicia Cockburn, writer of Scottish songs who died in 1794, was a famous Edinburgh hostess.

Club Activities

C.G.I.T. MEETS

The regular meeting of the C.G.I.T. was held Monday at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church with twelve members present.

Carol Garrison and Marion Parks conducted the worship period.

A discussion centred around the "White Elephants" booth at the coming bazaar in December, under the auspices of the Ladies' Guild.

Following the discussion, the meeting adjourned with "Taps".

WEDDINGS

JOHNSTON—CONKLIN

Beneath an arch of pink and white streamers and white bells, flanked by asparagus fern and chrysanthemums, a pretty wedding was solemnized by Rev. H. H. Hillis, at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Durwood Conklin, of Huff's Island, on Saturday, October 27, when their daughter, Marjorie Lois Conklin, became the bride of William Henry Johnston, of Bowerman, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Johnston.

Mrs. Bryan Crook, pianist, provided the wedding music, which included Malotte's arrangement of "The Lord's Prayer", and the soloist, Miss Marilyn Barber, sang, "I Love You Truly".

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attractively attired in a street-length dress of ice blue nylon over taffeta featuring a portrait neckline. She wore a matching Juliet cap of net with floral trim and carried a shower bouquet of pink Briarcliffe roses.

Miss Marion Conklin, sister of the bride, was her only attendant, becomingly gowned in a street-length gown of dusty rose with inserts and collar of lace embroidered with rhinestones. She wore a Juliet cap of matching feathers with scattered rhinestones and carried a nosegay of white mums and cream roses.

Mr. Allan Johnston, of Toronto, brother of the bridegroom, was groomsman, and Mr. Allan Conklin, brother of the bride, was usher.

For the reception, which was held at the bride's home, the bride's mother, gowned in butcher blue tissue faille with matching lace, and corsage of rose carnations, received the guests. She was assisted by the bridegroom's mother, who wore grey crepe with lace inserts, and corsage of pink carnations.

For the wedding trip to Ottawa, and Syracuse, N.Y., the bride chose a brown and gold taffeta dress, matching accessories, and mink topcoat. Mr. and Mrs. Johnston will reside at Bowerman's.

Guests were present from Sharbot Lake, Trenton, Port Hope, Toronto and London, Ont.

Prior to her marriage, Mrs. Johnston was honored by Miss Diane Brummel with a cup and saucer and bowl shower; by Mrs. Wilfred Motley and Miss Mildred Hall, at John Anderson's, entertaining members of the local girls' club, for a kitchen shower, and with a presentation from the staff of the Belleville city hall, of a trilight lamp.

WIELHOUWER—ZEEMAN

Trenton.—A Dutch wedding was solemnized in the Masonic Temple last Friday night, when Nellie Zeeman, of Trenton, was united in marriage to Dirk Wielhouwer, of Port Credit. The Rev. C. Witt, pastor of the Trenton Christian Reformed Church, performed the ceremony in Dutch language.

On the same occasion, the groom's uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. Jan Wielhouwer, of Batawa, celebrated their 25th wedding anniversary.

More than 50 Dutch immigrants attended the wedding ceremony and took part in the festivities afterwards.

Mr. and Mrs. Wielhouwer will take up residence in Port Credit, after their honeymoon.

Mrs. C. Wilson Talks To Alpha Lambda On 'Beta Sigma Phi'

The regular meeting of the Alpha Lambda Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority was held at the home of Miss Marian Brennan on Monday. Fifteen members answered roll call.

The president welcomed Mrs. Fred Cass, to the meeting and extended the Rushees, Mrs. Douglas Sinclair, Miss Doris Smith, Miss Marie Wray and Miss Betty Montieth, a warm welcome on behalf of the members.

Mrs. John Lennox, convener of the Hospital Library, reported that this service would commence on Tuesday of next week.

A letter received from Mr. D. I. MacKinnon was read to the meeting in acceptance of the invitation extended to him to speak at the dinner to be held this month, for which final arrangements were made.

Plans Available

Social convener, Mrs. Charles Phillips, reported that the Club Cedars and the Warham orchestra were available for the dance, and that the members would be contacted in connection with the lunch.

President, Mrs. John Volkman, closed the business meeting and Miss Marion Brennan, program convener, introduced Mrs. Charles Wilson, whose topic was "Presenting the Beta Sigma Phi". Mrs. Jack Joblin outlined the activities of the Alpha Lambda Chapter during the past year after which Mrs. Charles Phillips read to the meeting an article entitled "Vision" which was informative and interesting.

Refreshments were served by the hostesses, Miss Gwyneth Bennett, Mrs. John Volkman and Miss Marian Brennan.

Mrs. Harry C. Smith Tells of Mission Work in India

The regular monthly meeting of the Women's Missionary Society of Bridge Street United Church was held in the S.S. rooms on Friday afternoon with Mrs. F. E. Houston, the president, in the chair.

During the short business meeting reports were given by the secretary, treasurer, also the Christian Stewardship secretary, Mrs. Farnsworth.

Mrs. Keicley reported on cards sent out during the last two months. Miss Clarke, supply for clothing sent to Japan, and suggested that further gifts of clothing be collected in the next two weeks, and sent to Korea where the need is great, making a motion to that effect.

Mrs. MacDonald reported that she was taking new subscriptions for the coming year for the Missionary Monthly.

Mrs. Campbell's and Mrs. Fox's group then took charge of the meeting with Mrs. Campbell in the chair. The devotional was conducted by Mrs. Richards and Mrs. Whitfield.

Mrs. Campbell introduced the guest speaker of the afternoon, who had been a friend of some years' standing, Mrs. Harry Courts Smith. Mrs. Smith, after her hospital training, had gone to India as a missionary, working in Vellore, Central India.

After spending three years in India, Mrs. Smith returned to Toronto, where she is now secretary for India on the W.M.S. Board.

She gave a most interesting account of the work being done by the Board in India, especially Central India, where the Christian Medical College, at first a women's college, but co-educational since 1943, does such an outstanding work in training medical students. Both college and hospital at Vellore, have outstanding surgeons on the staff, and are of a very high standard.

Mrs. Smith showed the moving pictures with sound track, further depicting the work being done in this part of India.

Mrs. H. Fox extended a hearty vote of thanks to Mrs. Smith for her enlightening talk.

Mrs. Houston invited all to stay for a cup of tea and a social half hour.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEECKMAN

Good news about 1951's Christmas cards . . .

There is an overwhelming trend this year away from the formal "Mr. and Mrs." on Christmas cards! Stores of all types are reporting even this early that the great majority of customers who are ordering their names imprinted on Christmas cards have forsaken the choice of formal name . . . the frigid and perfunctory and unusually inappropriate "Mr. and Mrs. John Smith" . . . and instead are ordering for their cards the personal and friendly, and therefore more appropriate, first names . . . Mary and John Smith. Even in the displays of sample Christmas cards in the most conservative metropolitan stationers and in the stationery departments of the most conservative jewelry stores, we note that, happily and sensibly, the use of informal names on Christmas cards is now practically taken for granted. And why not, indeed why not?

For isn't it a fact that quite naturally most Christmas cards are informal . . . informal, personal greetings from friend to friend? So, if you want your Christmas cards to be informal . . . as the chances are you do . . . your name on them must, naturally, be your informal name. That makes sense . . . doesn't it?

Gifts she made really will express spirit-of-Christmas

Dear Mrs. Beeckman:

I have been quite ill since last February, confined to the house most of the time. This means that my medical bills are so large that I can't plan to give my usual Christmas presents this year. However, during my illness I have designed monograms and embroidered them on quite a few handkerchiefs for my relatives and friends. I have also made quite a few bookmarks with simple Christmas designs on them (one or two Christmas trees, a holly wreath, and so forth). Would it be proper to send these small gifts in the envelopes with my Christmas cards, or should the gifts be sent separately?

L. F.

A deep bow to you, dear lady, for your fine and valiant spirit in planning to give your relatives and friends these gifts so symbolic of the real spirit-of-Christmas! These gifts which you have designed and made with such a personal touch will indeed have a very special appeal, a very touching message of Friendship and Good Will. Today's Christmas needs more of this wonderful and simple expression.

Yes, it's a charming idea to enclose these gifts in the envelope with the Christmas cards. (But do be extra-sure about the mailing . . . before you mail the envelopes, perhaps, ask a friend to take one "sample" envelope containing a card-and-handkerchief and one envelope containing a card-and- bookmark to the Post Office to find out the exact postage required.)

TOURISTS AND BRITAIN

London, Nov. 6 (Reuters) — American tourists were worth about $100,000,000 to Britain this year, Sir Alexander Maxwell, chairman of the British Travel and Holiday Association, said today.

BEAUTY

Little daughter would be pretty, too

The most little girl will develop into a fastidious woman

Every mother should give her girl-child a beauty start, direct her along the way of loveliness. This will not lead to vanity, if rightly accomplished, but will develop self-respect. Even very young children are mindful of appearance. They are aware of it as soon as they are able to observe themselves critically in the looking glass.

Health, of course, is of first importance. When the child is in school there will be a checking up of eyes, ears, nose, throat, skin, chest and posture. It is a mother's duty to keep in close touch with the health ratings her child receives. They should not be ignored.

Little daughter must be trained early to brush her teeth morning and night, using an up-and-down movement of the brush. Twice a year she should be taken to the dentist's office; it is a mistake to fancy that the first teeth do not require professional attention. Cavities, breeding places for disease germs, should be filled. The first molars often decay soon after they appear; they should be examined frequently until the child is nine years old.

If the child has no desire to romp and play, there may be some trouble with the feet that outgrow shoes quickly, are sometimes confined in shoes that are too small. Corrective shoes will put the small feet in form again, as a rule.

There should be regular hours for sleeping and eating. Some children acquire bad eating habits, refusing certain foods largely because of their desire to receive attention—though it may be because the food is not properly prepared or does not appeal to the eye or the appetite.

Once a week there should be a shampoo. Some kids make a fuss about head scrubbing. The mother can overcome that trouble by playing beauty shop, making a game of it, and by using a shampoo halo to keep the suds from streaming down on the War One's face. Early care of the hair has a lot to do with the way it will look in the future. Harsh shampoo agents can have a deplorable effect upon delicate shafts and their coloring.

Training the little girl to be neat, to take pride in cleanliness of her person and her garments is a measure that will develop into a fastidious young woman. The compliment that has been taken care of in youth is likely to be clear and lovely in future years. When the skin is charged, rough or unburned it should be creamed.

Daily exercise in the open air is part of the formula. In these days of automobiles some children are actually leading a sedentary life.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Better keep the family out of this

Dear Miss Fairfax:

My sister has been married and is separated from her husband. She has a child about a year old.

She is now without a married man, and my parents do not know about it. That is, they know she is seeing him but do not know he is married.

Do you think I should tell them or not? Our family has a good reputation and I don't want it spoiled.

S. J.

Dear S.J.:

While I can very well understand your feelings in this matter, and your desire to keep the family name untouched by gossip or criticism, I still think for one sister to carry tales about another to her parents is a very unfortunate thing. It can so easily lead to a bitter family upheaval that results in permanent antagonisms and estrangements.

And from the very practical standpoint, do you think it would really accomplish anything? What I think would probably happen is that there would be a family quarrel, after which your sister would go her own way, full of resentment toward you all, and keep right on going out with this man either in open defiance of the family or on the sly.

The best advice I can give you is for you talk with your sister alone, trying to make her see that she is doing two very foolish things, either one of which could get her into serious trouble. The first is to go out with any man, whoever he may be, while she is still married. The second is to go out with another woman's husband.

If she refuses to listen to you, but merely takes your natural concern for her for the family as unwarranted interference on your part in her own business, you had better simply let her alone to work out her own destiny. Having warned her, you will have done all it is wise for you to do.

A problem shared by lots of teenagers

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 15 years old and fairly good-looking, but I don't have any fun. None of the boys ask me for dates. Recently one of the older boys did seem to show interest in me and started talking to me, but the next day he just said "Hi", and went on.

I would like to know how to get more popular and have dates so I will have fun like other girls.

B.K.

Dear B.K.:

It's hard to be 15 and feel that you're not popular like other girls. But it's important to remember that you're not the only girl who feels that way. Lots of other teen-agers, not only girls but boys, too, feel lonely and left out, so you have more company than you realize.

That's the sad side of the problem. The happy side is that there are lots of things you can do that will help make you more attractive and interesting.

Fashion Flashes

COMING UP in the world is denim, with one house using this sturdy stuff for a very smart suit. The fitted jacket and full skirt are of navy denim embroidered all over in a scroll design in soutache braid.

HOLDING ITS OWN as a good blouse fabric is tissue faille. The fabric is smartly used for a dressy shirtblouse with a wide band of tucks coming from the shoulder line and converging in a broad V in front. Blouse fastens with rhinestone hooks and eyes.

STAY HOME once in a while, if only to enjoy one of the beautiful leisure fashions that are so much in evidence this season. A handsome and useful coat is of mid-calf length, and is fashioned of red wool jersey. It has broad jewelled bands across the front pockets. Neckline has notched banding that extends to a slanting, double-breasted closing.

COMING BACK is the fur hat, with nearly every big house in Paris showing many interesting versions. Lanvin showed fur toques, made of double rolls of fox worked in turban style, and there were high-crowned fezzes of mink, beaver or broadtail worked with velvet.

THE BIG IDEA, in even casual and college clothes, is the full skirt worn over a crinoline or stiffened petticoat. Yellow and black checked tweed is used for a nice casual that sports a very full skirt with unpressed pleats at the sides. A sleeveless yellow sweater fills in the collarless neckline that plunges to the slim waist that is cinched by a black calfskin belt.

FIGHTING blustery weather in much easier with a wool scarf, which is why so many of the casual coats designed for cold weather feature the scarf rather than the stole. Charcoal gray wool makes a coat with side-front opening and deep, slash pockets. The matching scarf has a lining of light gray woollen, as have the curved, double cuffs.

MADOC

Mrs. C. D. McLellan Brings Fine Address To Annual Rally

Madoc — The 19th annual rally of the Madoc section of Belleville Presbyterial was held recently in Beulah United Church Ivanhoe. Mrs. R. N. Broad, Hazzard's Corners, president of the Madoc section, presided. About 100 ladies of the district were in attendance.

Greetings Given

Greetings to visiting auxiliaries were given by Mrs. R. J. Becket of Ivanhoe, and were followed by the worship service conducted by Miss Holmes of Madoc and members of her auxiliary.

Mrs. Percy Naylor of Madoc introduced the secretaries of the various departments and the guest speaker, Mrs. C. D. McLellan of Napanee, President of the Belleville Presbyterial.

Mrs. Carman of Madoc, Community Friendship secretary, was called on and stressed the importance of welcoming newcomers to the communities.

Mrs. Gordon Jarvis of Marmora reported for associate members and asked that each auxiliary appoint a secretary for this important work.

Mrs. George Wood of Ivanhoe called the roll, which was answered by a brief and interesting report from a member of each of the following auxiliaries represented: Cooper and Remington; Eldorado and Union; Hazzard's Corners; Marmora; Madoc; Tweed Afternoon; Tweed Evening, affiliated W.A. and W.M.S. societies from Queensboro, Salem Zion and White Lake were represented also.

A new mission circle and five new groups of baby and mission bands had been formed during the year.

Mrs. Lincoln Elliott, Tweed, with members of the Tweed Afternoon Auxiliary, presented the new mission books "From Lakes to Northern Lights," and the "Home Missions Digest," in an interesting manner, with Mrs. Provost as soloist and Mrs. Empey accompanist.

Mrs. Bell, literature secretary, told of new books available and asked that members use this service to further interest in the work of the W.M.S.

Memorial Service

Eldorado Auxiliary, under the leadership of Mrs. C. Chambers, conducted an impressive memorial service for the following deceased members: Mrs. R. W. Sahlee, Marmora; Mrs. F. Series, Selene; Mrs. Wes. Reid, Mrs. Baldwin Reid and Mrs. Richard Reid, Ivanhoe; Mrs. Fred McCoy, Hazzard's; Mrs. James Rollins, Cooper and Remington; Miss Alice Wood, Mrs. Percy Cavesley, Mrs. Percy Holland, Madoc; Mrs. James Bailey, Mrs. Henry Shaw, Eldorado and Union.

Snowy Quebec Hideaway Delighted Royal Couple

... picturesque Laurentian town of Ste. Agathe. Quick to enter into the spirit of the "winter wonderland," Elizabeth and Philip toured snowballs and built a fat cigar-smoking snowman, which French townsfolk promptly dubbed "Mr. Churchill." After a merry sleigh ride on a bright red cutter, young couple, seen above, were only too glad to relax in front of warm fire in the luxurious lodge. Weekend respite over, the princess and her husband are headed east for the Maritimes. — Central Press Canadian.

Mrs. J. F. Lane, Madoc, favored with a solo.

Dinner was served by the Ivanhoe Auxiliary in the Orange Hall.

The afternoon session began with the singing of hymn 396, followed by Mrs. J. Sproul, Marmora, reporting on missionary periodicals. She stressed the need for early subscription.

Fine Address

The highlight of the afternoon session was the address by Mrs. C. D. McLellan, gifted speaker from Napanee, who gave an interesting portrayal of the work of Miss Kilpatrick, a missionary in India, who had been guest speaker at various regional rallies this fall.

Mrs. McLellan's address on stewardship was an inspiration. "We should realize that all things have come from God and that we are receivers of undeserved blessings," stated the speaker. "We must have faith to set aside God's portion first. To make it a definite percentage of income, protect ourselves from selfishness—nine tenths with God goes further than ten tenths without Him."

Mrs. McLellan reminded her audience that the raising of the allocation was a compliment to our faith and that God loves a cheerful giver.

Mrs. Broad thanked the speaker on behalf of the rally.

Members of Marmora Auxiliary took part in a panel discussion on "Christian Citizenship." The treasurer, Mrs. Mills, gave a favorable report. Offerings were accepted and dedicated at both morning and afternoon sessions by members of Tweed Evening Auxiliary and members of Cooper Auxiliary respectively.

Mrs. Broad graciously thanked the members of Ivanhoe Auxiliary and all who had worked for the interests of the rally.

An invitation was extended to hold the next rally at Cooper.

Mrs. McLellan closed the session.

a Little buys a Lot of telephone service

It's one of today's best buys—growing in value all the time.

For one thing—its cost hasn't gone up as much as most other things you buy. Your telephone is one item that takes less of your budget than it used to.

Again—it's bigger value than ever because now you can talk to twice as many people as you could ten years ago—and more families are getting telephones every day.

In addition—we've been able to keep on steadily improving the quality of this traditionally friendly and helpful service.

If you haven't yet got service—we want you to know we're working at it. You can be sure your place on the list is being protected and your telephone will be installed just as quickly as possible.

MARMORA

Rev. N. Hatton Guest Minister at Trinity Church Anniversary

Marmora — The Rev. Noble Hatton, B.A., of Trinity United Church, Napanee, chairman of the Belleville Presbytery, was guest preacher at the 77th anniversary services of St. Andrew's United Church on Sunday, when good sized congregations were in attendance.

Assorted colored chrysanthemums formed the decorations for the occasion. At the morning service the choir rendered as the anthem, "Give Thanks Unto the Lord," by H. W. Porter. The duet part was taken by A. W. Drew and Mrs. R. Long. Miss Margaret Hillis of Bridge Street United Church, Belleville, guest soloist rendered, "The Lord is Exalted," by Clara Reynolds.

Dynamic Protestantism

The subject of the sermon was "Dynamic Protestantism." At the evening service the special anthem was "Sheep and Lamb," by J. S. Bach. Miss Hillis sang Gounod's "The King of Love My Shepherd is."

Mr. Hatton delivered a striking discourse on "ridiculous and impossible," choosing as his text, "We know that all things work together for good, to them that love God, who are the called, according to His purpose." Man, he said, "is the product of his yesterdays. He is apt to work on the wrong interpretations of his experiences. Those who have the right interpretation, have a responsibility towards those who have the wrong interpretation. For the wrong interpretation gives rise to fatalism, which is to be avoided.

The preacher pointed out that all benefactors not accepting Jesus Christ have undergone illtreatment, yet in the end all things worked together for their good and the blessings of others, citing the life of Carsten and others. Benefactors have been revered so long after their day. God calls men to serve according to their several capacities under the impulse of love whereby all things will work together for their good.

Rev. G. D. Young, B.A., B.D., pastor of the church, was present at both services, and offered prayer and gave the announcements.

RAWDON

Teacher, Pupils, Hold Hallowe'en Party

Rawdon — The pupils of the Allan School, S. S. No. 3, Mount Pleasant, under the direction of their teacher, Mrs. Gordon Richardson, staged a Hallowe'en party at the school and invited every family in the section to attend. No charge was made for those who came in costume.

The program opened with a masquerade with Messrs. Raymond McConnell, Gordon Linn and Robert Hoard, as judges.

In the original class the winners were: Ricki Bulten, as a bandit and Eleanor Smith as an Indian squaw.

Comical class — Jimmy and Pauline Johnson, dressed as devil and Chinaman; most comical, Malcolm Reid, impersonating a tramp.

The junior grades rendered a Hallowe'en song and the senior grades a dialogue entitled "The Hallowe'en Parade."

Witch games were staged for the children under school age and for the senior grades.

Miss Lola McConnell conducted a guessing game, after which there was a chorus, "The Witches Ride," and Ricki Bulten contributed a reading. Malcolm Reid took charge of telling fortunes and Gail Scott gave a recitation, Witch Writing.

A demonstration of witch writing was given by Ricki Bulten, and Lola McConnell and Eleanor Smith did some mind reading, followed with a reading by Ian Scott.

An introduction to the prince and princess was ably carried out by Marilyn McConnell, Judy Cooney, Roger Smith, David Pratt and Wayne Hoffman.

A drill and song made a pretty addition to the program and Ina Scott conducted "The Happy Club."

A game, "Uncle Joshua Died," and another chorus rounded out a program of interest, after which all enjoyed various games before refreshments were served.

About 60 adults and children were in attendance and a vote of thanks was tendered teacher and pupils for the jolly evening.

FRANKFORD

Frankford—The Young People's Union of the Frankford and Batawa United Churches held a combined Hallowe'en party in the Rose-Lowery Hall last week, with a good turnout of members and guests in masquerade. All report a good time.

The Frankford Lions Club put on their annual Hallowe'en party for the kiddies of the village in the Community Hall Wednesday night and as in other years, had a wonderful turnout of children in costume. Bags of candy were distributed to the young folk.

The Frankford Branch of the Canadian Legion held a social evening in the Legion Hall, Friday night. Reports are that the affair was a great success. Dancing and community singing were enjoyed, with bountiful refreshments being served. The proceeds will go toward the new kitchen which has recently been added to the hall.

The Frankford United Church Choir attended anniversary services in the Fuller United Church, Sunday, and led in the worship of song. In their absence in Frankford, the junior choir led in the singing.

The Canadian Girls in Training of the Frankford United Church, held a Hallowe'en party in the Rose-Lowery Hall Tuesday evening, with a fine turnout of members, and invited guests. There was a splendid array of costumes, as all present were in masquerade. Recreation was enjoyed, with the hall being suitably decorated for the occasion. Highlight of the evening came, as the girls listened in darkness to a ghost story, and suddenly saw a humorous skeleton appear at the back of the room. The evening concluded with bountiful refreshments being served.

BELLEVILLE, ONTARIO, WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 7, 1951

New Brunswickers Play Host To Princess Elizabeth, Philip At Warm, Dignified Reception

By JACK BRAYLEY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Saint John, N.B., Nov. 7 (CP) —The royal visitors opened their tour of the Maritimes and the Princess had her biggest laugh. The story concerned a seagull—by the name of Sebastian.

Yesterday's royal progress was under sunny skies and it touched the provincial capital at Fredericton and continued at this oldest incorporated city in Canada. Saint John was established by the New England Loyalists in 1783.

And the loyalist descendants provided a warm and dignified reception that saw the royal couple walk into the crowd and do some other things that weren't on the schedule.

One of the biggest demonstrations of the tour occurred when the princess and Duke of Edinburgh returned to the railway station at the end of their visit.

About 30,000 people jammed the area, halting traffic, and the royal visitors appeared three times from their train before calling it a night.

Make Brief Stops

Today they made brief stops at Moncton and Sackville, N.B., and then continue on to Amherst, Truro and Halifax. The tour ends at Portugal Cove, Nfld., Nov. 12.

But to get back to Saint John. Reporters covering the tour noted that Lieutenant-Governor Laurence MacLaren of New Brunswick made Elizabeth laugh harder than she has on the whole trip.

They asked him what he had said. He replied that he had merely pointed out that down in this loyalist country even the seagulls were patriotic and he told the story of Sebastian.

It seems that Sebastian used to visit daily at the top of the flagpole at Hon. Marguerite Shaughnessy's at nearby St. Anne. He always sat just above the rippling Union Jack where he waited until the household put food on the lawn for him.

But two summers ago Governor General Alexander used the place for a summer holiday and during that period the vice-regal standard substituted for the Union Jack. Sebastian flew over, circled the flag-pole and then flew off to the nearby hotel staff which flew a Union Jack.

He told her he just stayed away until the governor-general moved and the Union Jack was restored," he said.

In Fredericton the couple stopped at the Bonar Law-Bennett Library where they walked through police lines and temporarily got lost in the crowd, questioning students and having a great time. Then they had an unscheduled tea while their chauffeur took the "bugs" out of their transparent-topped car.

Runs Presented

At the legislature they were presented with a pair of matched auto rugs designed in the RCAF tartan and bearing the New Brunswick Coat of Arms. The rugs were hand woven at nearby Gagetown. Later at Saint John a veterans hospital handicraft crew gave them a miniature sleigh for Prince Charlie and a toy animal for Princess Anne. The city of Saint John gave them a 31-piece demi-tasse set of stoneware in blue, the work of the famous New Brunswick potters—Kjeld and Erica Deichmann.

There was a New Brunswick flavor to the day. At the University library in Fredericton the Princess admired the fiddlehead pattern of the wrought iron work in the library. She was told that fiddleheads were fern tops eaten by New Brunswickers as a tasty substitute for asparagus.

Later, in Saint John, fiddleheads were included on the menu. At the city's formal dinner the dessert also embodied candy and ice cream purple violet which is New Brunswick's emblematic flower. Each city had a lobster cocktail to give the royal couple a taste of the maritime delicacy.

The Princess changed from a robin-red wool outfit in the day to a white satin creation and a tiara at night. The Duke changed from naval uniform to mufti and finally to tails.

Princess Margaret Has Had Busy Time During Sister's Tour

By MURIEL NARRAWAY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

London, Nov. 7.—(CP)—The absence abroad of Princess Elizabeth and the Duke of Edinburgh has meant extra work for 21-year-old Princess Margaret.

No doubt her sister's return will be a happy day to the slim, vivacious younger princess. It will lighten considerably the heavy burden of official engagements now resting on her shoulders.

As one of the five councillors of state, appointed by the King to act for him during his illness, she ranks second only to the Queen while Princess Elizabeth is away.

This entails the reading and countersigning of state documents passed by the Queen, the receiving of official visitors and other daily tasks.

The Princess, it is said, taking her part of "stand-in" pretty seriously. She insists on reading each of the long documents she receives, despite their formidable phraseology. If she is in doubt of their meaning she does not hesitate to ask the department concerned.

The Princess sets aside two hours for her "papers". And that isn't the full extent of her office work. With the help of only one lady-in-waiting, Jenifer Bevan, she must also attend to extensive official and private correspondence.

"I told Elizabeth not to worry, that we'd look after everything until she returned," the Princess is said to have told a friend. "But I also told her I'd be counting the days until she gets home again."

The extra duties have not dimmed the spontaneous charm and love of fun of Britain's No. 1 bachelor girl. She still finds time and energy to indulge her favorite pastime, dancing.

After the recent royal variety show Oct. 29, Margaret headed for the Cafe De Paris to witness Noel Coward's cabaret debut, and stayed long after midnight. The party included Prince Paul of Yugoslavia and a favorite escort-of-the-moment, Billy Wallace.

The Princess wore an ivory satin gown with narrow shoulder straps, embroidered in mother-of-pearl paillettes, and a white fox cape. Next night, in a striking black cocktail dress trimmed with blue sequins and topped by a pale mink coat, she attended "Penny Plain," an intimate review starring Joyce Grenfell and Elizabeth Welch.

Three Children Burned to Death In Quebec

Lazarre, Que., Nov. 7—(CP)—Three children were burned to death early yesterday in a shack fire in this village 50 miles north of Rouyn.

The dead are: Paul-Emile, 7, Raoul, 5 and Yvon 3, sons of Mr. and Mrs. Gerard Lemire.

Police at the mining town of Rouyn said the three children were sleeping on the ground floor of the two-storey wooden shack and were trapped when the ceiling of their room collapsed. The parents and four other children escaped.

There is no fire brigade in this small community and no one was aware of the tragedy until the family walked to nearby Ste. Rose de Pontrie and told residents of their plight.

Seventy Lawyers Given $2,800,000 In Legal Fees

Washington, Nov. 7—(AP)—Seventy lawyers were awarded a $2,800,000 fee yesterday for winning a big lawsuit for the Ute Indians of Colorado and Utah. The case resulted in a $31,938,473 judgment for the Indians for land they said was wrongfully taken from them.

About half the fee awarded by the court of claims will go to Ernest L. Wilkinson, a Washington lawyer and president of Brigham Young University, Provo, Utah. Sixty-nine lawyers will share the rest.

Wilkinson estimated he will have to return about half of his $1,400,000 fee in income taxes.

The fee, believed to be one of the largest ever awarded in American history, covered some 20 years of legal work. In July, 1950, the court of claims awarded the Utes $31,938,473 for 4,500,000 acres of land in Colorado and Utah which the Indians contended was taken away from them in violations of treaties.

Montreal Woman Given Reformatory Term

Peterborough, Nov. 7—(CP)—A sentence of six months in reformatory was imposed yesterday on Gladys Long, 43, of Montreal by Justice W. F. Spence at the Peterborough County assizes.

Miss Long was convicted of dangerous driving and failing to remain at the scene of the accident after her car struck and killed 10-year-old David Sanderson 1½ miles west of Peterborough last June 8.

A third charge of drunken driving was dismissed in police court today when the Crown offered no evidence.

Miss Long was sentenced to four months on the dangerous-driving count and two months for failing to remain at the scene.

AGREE ON CONTRACT

Toronto, Nov. 7 (CP) — The United Textile Workers (AFL) and Firestone Textiles Limited at Woodstock, have agreed on a new contract including a general wage increase of 12 cents an hour for the union announced yesterday. It is the second such increase in eight months for the 280 men and women employees. The agreement includes a 40-hour work week and three weeks' vacation with pay for employees with more than 15 years' service.

Republicans Win Four Seats In House of Representatives But Lose Grip on Philadelphia

Washington, Nov. 7.—(AP)—Republicans picked up one seat in the United States House of Representatives by capturing all four special elections held yesterday, but they lost their 68-year-old grip on the country's third-largest city, Philadelphia.

The off-year balloting, generally regarded as having no great national political significance, also brought victory in New York City to Rudolph Halley of senate crime and television fame, and the defeat of James Michael Curley in an attempt to come back as mayor of Boston.

Surprising few observers, Democrats appeared to have retained the Kentucky governorship, returning to the state house Gov. Lawrence Wetherby and his slate of eight state candidates.

The city hall at Little Rock, Ark., fell to the Republicans for the first time in 55 years, and they also took the mayoralty in Indianapolis, home of the new Democratic national committee chairman, Frank E. McKinney.

"Clean government" campaigns were waged by the New York and Philadelphia winners. Halley won New York's city council presidency, second-highest position in the metropolis, over Democrat Joseph T. Sharkey and two others. Hallcy, running on the independent fusion and liberal party tickets, rolled up a plurality of 163,000 votes.

In Philadelphia, City Controller Joseph S. Clark, Jr., won the mayoralty for the Democrats to end a Republican regime which had stood since 1883.

Some Republicans claimed a trend toward their side in the out-come of the four special house elections, but three of the vacancies were in traditionally-Republican districts.

The Republican gain was registered in Ohio, where Paul F. Schenck won a house seat from the district around Dayton, defeating Jesse Yoder.

New Jersey's ninth district stayed Republican, as well as two seats in Pennsylvania.

Latest house standing was: Democrats 233; Republicans 200; Independent 1, with one Nebraska seat to be filled Dec. 4.

PROVIDED WITH WATER

Markham, Nov. 7 (CP) — Natural springs are providing the village, once short of water with 600,000 gallons daily. Residents only use 165,000 gallons of water. A few summers ago, Markham posted notices restricting water usage. Now they can't interest neighboring villages in taking some.

SEEKING WAYS

North Bay, Nov. 7 (CP) —District residents plan to seek ways of keeping recent storm damage to cottages and boathouses on Lake Nipissing from happening again. They will ask federal authorities to improve operation of flood control installations on the French River.

RAWDON

Mrs. George Burkitt Addresses River Valley Women's Institute

Rawdon — The November meeting of River Valley Women's Institute was held at the home of Mrs. Alex Bush on Thursday last with 30 members and visitors and several children in attendance. One new member, Mrs. Bob Philp, joined at this meeting.

Mrs. Don Donohoe presided and a brief silence was observed in memory of our fallen heroes, who will be honored on Remembrance Sunday.

Mrs. J. L. Donohoe gave a detailed account of the month's proceedings. A vote of thanks was tendered to committee who purchased the drapes and rods for River Valley School.

A letter of interest was read from Mrs. R. G. Purcell, F.W.I.O. president, and it was decided to forward $10 to the Ontario fund to help provide a community tractor and plow for the town of Mesovouno in a war-torn Greek village.

Coming Lecture

All members were urged to take advantage of the lecture in Stirling Community Hall on Friday afternoon, November 9th, "We Call It Human Nature," by Miss Eileen McBride. The four Institutes, Stirling, Pine Grove, River Valley and Chatterton, are sponsoring this for members and friends.

Plans were made for a dance this month with Potter's Orchestra of Warkworth in attendance. A booth of homemade articles and candy will add to the finances. There will be a lucky door prize and free refreshments.

Mrs. Ross Bush presided over the program and introduced the new district president, Mrs. Geo. Burkitt, Uxbridge.

Mrs. Burkitt stressed that each member radiate inspiration and enthusiasm, and urged that "Roll Call" be answered and not to use the word "present."

She appraised the aim of the Women's Institute which is to develop a more abundant life for the people of Ontario in four ways — developing better homemakers, happier and more useful citizens, stimulating and training leaders, and lastly, encouraging appreciation of the things near at hand.

How to Use Grant

Mrs. Burkitt explained how the department could better use the grant (if left with them in one lump sum), for educational purposes and felt it was much wiser if individual branches did not apply for it yearly. This past year the department printed brochures which are invaluable aids in furthering institute work.

The speaker outlined the motto "For Home and Country" and explained how the 5c cent piece is used. She strongly urged the institute members to take advantage of the short courses and lectures which are available each year from the department. They are prepared for you—are free for the asking and each branch should take advantage of them and arrange time to attend for these courses are wonderful opportunities to members and friends in the community to be better homemakers."

She said "The Institute Ode" and "Mary Stewart Collect" both furnish food for thought and should be studied more carefully.

"Today we cannot disregard the hungry people in other lands. International relations begin with ourselves and Institute members must be ready and willing to share their abundance when called upon to do so."

Work in Unison

Members were urged to help the president and all work in unison to put over the special projects.

The institute should be a mother to the community and aware of its needs at all times.

Homemaking clubs are important as these girls are your future members. A good institute member is a good citizen doing each day's job a little better and putting common good ahead of all else. One writer has said, "Institute members are the salt of the earth," and another, "Institute spread knowledge in the art of keeping house."

"Ladies," but that is incorrect. In 1926 the first area convention was held in Bellleville and Mrs. Will Hanna and Miss Flossie Rosebush were the delegates from River Valley. These two ladies gave written reports at the next institute meeting and then of Miss Rosebush. This was a fortunate coincidence, for Mrs. Roy Bush, in searching for past history, found theft and they were read by Miss Anna F. Lewis at the 25th area convention and now they are in Toronto where Miss Lewis plans to copy them as they are the only written links of that gathering.

At this meeting in 1926 there were 310 members and the delegates were tendered a free banquet through the kindness of the various cheese companies in the district.

Mrs. Bush gave a list of roll calls, interesting topics, and a wealth of material suitable for next year's programs and she still has more items of interest on "Health" and other subjects. The area speakers urged all to remember the motto: "Be Yourself."

Mrs. Burkitt expressed thanks to Mrs. Bush for her splendid gleanings of interesting items which as she said "didn't come out of a newspaper."

The Christmas meeting will be held December 8th at the home of Mrs. Gerald Brooks. The Christmas gift exchange will be 25c for adults and 25c for children.

Mrs. Percy MacMullen expressed thanks to Mrs. Alex Bush for hospitality, to Mrs. Burkitt for her address, to Mrs. Roy Bush for her splendid report and to the program and lunch conveners.

Refreshments were served at the conclusion of the meeting.

GIRLS' SLACKS FAVORED

Bronte, Nov. 6 — (CP) Bronte mothers angrily protested yesterday against a circular from the public school which said slacks are not considered proper attire for schoolgirls. School Principal R. A. Hopkins said the slacks edict and other hints to parents in the circular were intended to keep the "general tone and appearance of the school and students" at a high standard.

RAWDON

River Valley Residents Organize Farm Forum

Rawdon.—On Monday evening last, a group of interested folk from the River Valley community gathered at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Roy Bush and Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Bush, for the purpose of organizing a Farm Forum.

The officers chosen to carry on for this season were, leaders, Mr. and Mrs. Bob Philp; secretary, Mr. Clarence Chard; leader of discussions, Mr. Jack Sager; recreation leader, Mr. Richard Chard.

The organizer was Mr. Everett Priddle, of Foxboro, who was also the special speaker.

The group listened to the radio broadcast after which they took part in the discussion.

"The Country Guide", gives a splendid line up on farm forums each season. The National Farm Forum was organized ten years ago, and it is sponsored by the Canadian Federation of Agriculture, the Canadian Association for Adult Education and the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation.

Many Discussion Groups

There were 1,500 discussion groups in Canada last winter and approximately 30,000 people met weekly and thus gained recognition internationally as a method of educational and democratic development, which could have useful application in other countries.

Canada's Farm Radio Forums are a means of mass communication. All are interested in United Nations Educational Scientific and Cultural organization and the Farm Forums set aside $16,000 to be used as a special study to meet the needs of humanity.

Refreshments and a social half hour closed a profitable evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Bob Philp are opening their home for November 5th with Mr. Bernard Hollinger, Foxboro, as guest speaker.

Christ Church Guild will meet on Wednesday in the basement of the church when plans for the bazaar to be held on November 14th will be completed.

Man Marooned By Lake Icefields

Winnipeg, Nov. 6 — (CP)—One man still is marooned today by Lake Winnipeg icefields.

He is lighthouse keeper Willard Odson, 57, trapped on his lonely George Island station by an early freeze-up.

The Federal Department of Public Works, which operates the lighthouse station, has not decided how to get Olson ashore.

Gerald Goddard, of the D. P. W. office at Selkirk, Man., and Ottawa may ask an RCAF helicopter to remove Olson or, wait and send a snowmobile when the ice is sufficiently frozen.

Saturday an RCAF plane dropped a month's supply of rations and equipment to Olson.

HONORS TO ORGANIZE

With hockey players of all minor classifications getting the annual "itch and urge" prompted by the appearance of the junior and senior squads in practice action, the Belleville Hockey Association today issued the annual pre-season call for players for registration and organization purposes.

Thursday night juvenile players (under eighteen) and midget players (under sixteen) are requested to meet at Memorial Arena at 7.30 for registration and organization purposes. Remember, folks, this is NOT a practice and no skating will be permitted. The Belleville Hockey Association (Minor Division) is anxious to have everything in readiness before practice time arrives, then the Thursday night get-together.

On Saturday morning at 9 o'clock the bantam players will hold forth at the arena. This, too, is purely for registration and organization purposes and again, no skates will be permitted. Better be on hand, scouts, if you want to register for a chance to catch a berth on one of the teams.

The BHA hopes to have its six midget, six bantam and four juvenile teams in full organized action this winter, not to mention the peewees. There is a terrific amount of work connected with such organization and the players can help a lot by being on hand when the meetings for their respective classifications are called.

* * *

ONE METHOD

With hockey skates and boots priced at $30 per pair and upwards, many hockey clubs art finding it difficult to finance teams whose players demand out and out "gifts" of this important piece of hockey equipment.

Gananoque has come up with an idea that is said to be workable. Players on the team are permitted to buy boots and skates through the hockey association of the town with the stipulation that any player doing so, be required to sign an agreement pledging his undertaking to repay 75 per cent of the cost. But by terms of the agreement, as set forth, the player is requested to pay a minimum of $5 down and a minimum of $5 per week until his share is liquidated. Failure to meet a weekly installment results in the player losing the $5 per cent discount.

* * *

WILL LET 'EM IN!

Contrary to reports that the Belleville Glen Rays would not be admitted as an entry to the 1951-52 edition of the Trent Valley Hockey League, in the story that appeared in this column last week, no objection will be placed before the city team's application when the loop executive meets for the annual confab.

* * *

...OR ELSE!

Things are tough for sponsor - coach Pete Palangio up around North Bay way. Palangio's North Bay Black Hawks of the senior Northern Hockey Association have not been drawing the proverbial "peanuts" at their home team arena, and Palangio has threatened to...

He says he will disband his team unless fans show more interest and back them as an open letter. He said he was "disgusted" with the turnout for the opener last Saturday when some 1,000 fans watched the Hawks defeat Sudbury Cubans Miners 5-4. The Hawks will play two home games in the time allotted North Bay fans by Palangio to get interested.

* * *

AND HE ADMITTED IT!

They're almost forgotten the royal visit down Ottawa day since "Sitting Bull" Karpuk proved Curtis Last Stand. The Karpuk Caper apparently overshadowed the Rider defeat, for Ottawa sports writers have emitted paeans of praise for the Rideau mauler.

...Il Westwick writes in the Ottawa Journal:—

"In the bus that carried Riders back to their hotel one of the Riders asked: "Cec' old sport, right, Perc. It was up to them to handle the rules — if they don't have any, it's not your fault".

Another Rider yelled: "If you hadn't gone for him, I was set to get him".

It probably wasn't a play that would be welcomed in cricket. But as somebody shouted in the best of the moment: "Hail we're not playing cricket".

There were some afterwards who thought Karpuk had gone out after Curtis under orders. However, Karpuk cleared that up in short order. Clem Crowe didn't blame him at all, even if the Riders' boss had nothing to do with it.

Said Crowe:

"Well, the boy was at least thinking football. He did what he thought was right for his own team. He didn't write the rules. I don't blame him at all."

There are hundreds of football players, but you could bet that only Karpuk could get into a jam like this. Even Pete admitted it.

"I can get in some dandies", he said. "But that was what I was told to do for the last couple of years. I made them put the Saskatchewan rule into the game after the Grey Cup game against Calgary. Now they can get this rule straightened out."

"For three years with the Rough Riders", said Karpuk, "I had it drilled into me that if something like this happened one of us was to go out from the bench and take a cut at any ballcarrier who was going to knock us off with a touchdown in a playoff. This one looked like the one, so I went after him."

Amazing Bruins Hold Wings To Scoreless Tie to Retain Grip on NHL Second Slot

Boston Bruins' second-place position behind Detroit Red Wings is understandable on the basis of their performances against the National Hockey League champions this season. The best the free-wheeling Wings can do against Lynn Patrick's stalwarts is a split in points.

The two got together at Boston last night and after 60 minutes of cautious hockey, they skated off with a scoreless tie, the first of the season. In their previous 1951-52 encounters, Detroit won 1-0 and dropped a close 3-2 decision to the rejuvenated Bruins.

Last night's game left the Wings with a full two-game cushion over the surprising Bruins who, with 11 points, lead the Toronto Maple Leafs by one.

Was Casy Affair

Tuesday night's game, played before a crowd of 7,631 at Boston Garden, was a rough affair with both teams probably thinking ahead of their weekly schedule. There were only four penalties—all to Detroit.

The Wings have a tough three games in the next four days against Rangers tonight, Toronto Maple Leafs Thursday and Montreal Canadiens Sunday. Bruins meet Canadiens Thursday and Toronto Sunday.

Wings and Bruins took turns in flashing fast-moving bursts last night and the battle evolved into a goaltending duel between the more Terry Sawchuk of the Wings collecting his third shutout of the campaign and Edgar Jim Henry his second. Sawchuk now has only 15 goals scored against him in 11 games and Sugar Jim has opened the gate for 16 in 10 games.

Toronto can tie for second place tonight if they defeat Chicago Black Hawks at Maple Leaf Gardens. Chicago defeated the Leafs 3-1 and held them to a 1-1 draw in their previous games this season.

Coach Assists Redmen to Win Over Stratford

(By The Canadian Press)

Coaches in the Ontario Hockey Association Senior A League seem to be getting into a habit of leaving the bench, donning skates and showing the players how to win a game.

Bill Simpell handed the coaching duties over to Jerry Sherring last night and then picked up an assist to help Brantford Redmen to their first league goal in Kitchener-Waterloo team snapped a three-game losing streak, sparked the Kitchener to their second straight win last night by scoring two goals.

His second goal of the night, with less than seven minutes left in the third period, gave Dutchmen a 5-4 win over Owen Sound Mercurys.

In the only OHA junior A action last night, Ed Plata's goal-getting slip enabled Toronto St. Michael's to edge Kitchener Greenshirts 3-2. The triumph brought St. Michael's to within one point of third place, shared by Kitchener and Galt.

Joe Ingoldsby tallied the first Shirt goal and Don McCombe tied it up momentarily in the third at 2-2 before Plata scored the winner from a face off.

EDMONTON GETS GAME

Edmonton, Nov. 7 (CP) — The Western Canada Junior football final will be played in Edmonton's Clarke Stadium Saturday night, Saskatoon Hilltops and Edmonton Maple Leafs meet in the sudden death fixture for the right to play host Nov. 17 to the Eastern Canada champion in the Canadian final.

Oshawa Ousts Galloping Ghosts By 13-11 Score

Oshawa, Nov. 7 (CP) —Oshawa Red Raiders edged Galloping Ghosts 13-11 yesterday to capture the Eastern Conference Ontario Rugby Football Union Intermediate group championship.

Oshawa now meet Hamilton Panthers for the Ontario Intermediate A title.

The home-and-home total points series will probably be played Nov. 10 and 17, with the fields yet to be decided. The senior winner plays Montreal Nov. 24 in the Eastern Canada Intermediate final against the Quebec Rugby Football Union champions.

Cobourg now goes into the ORFU Intermediate B final against the second place club in the western group. This opponent will be the winner in a series between Galt and Montreal Canadiens Sunday. Bruins meet Canadiens Thursday and Toronto Sunday.

Wings and Bruins took turns in flashing fast-moving bursts last night and the battle evolved into a goaltending duel between the more Terry Sawchuk of the Wings collecting his third shutout of the campaign and Edgar Jim Henry his second. Sawchuk now has only 15 goals scored against him in 11 games and Sugar Jim has opened the gate for 16 in 10 games.

Toronto can tie for second place tonight if they defeat Chicago Black Hawks at Maple Leaf Gardens. Chicago defeated the Leafs 3-1 and held them to a 1-1 draw in their previous games this season.

Grid Star Quits, Can't Stand 'Boos'

Pittsburgh, Nov. 7 — (AP) — Star end Val Jansanis of the hapless National Football League's Pittsburgh Steelers says he's quitting professional football because Pittsburgh fans booed him.

Coach Johnny Michelosen, trying to get his club back on the main street hobby horse, was calling one and tying one, declared he was "very surprised" by Jansanis's announcement.

Michelosen, too, has come in for booing from the fans. So has Frank Sinkovitz, a centre. At last Sunday's game a group of fans displayed a banner reading:

"Out with Michelosen, Jansante and Sinkovitz."

The coach said he believed Jansanis had been playing "better ball this season than he has for the past couple of seasons."

Jansanis declared:

"If I only knew what the trouble was I might have been able to make some adjustments but there's no use playing for fans who boo you at every turn."

Remember When

(By The Canadian Press)

Jumping Johnny Gaudes of St. Boniface, Man., won the Canadian lightweight boxing title 15 years ago tonight at Toronto by defeating champion Sidney Yack in 10 rounds. The Manitoba fighter used a devastating right hook to score his third victory in a row over the Toronto fighter, the first two having been non-title affairs.

ORFU Demands Cash Guarantee From Big Four

Toronto, Nov. 7—(CP)—The Ontario Rugby Football Union has asked its $7,500 guarantee for its championship club in the Eastern Canada football final against the Big Four winners, it was learned yesterday.

Harold Bailey, O. R. F. U. secretary declined comment. However, it was learned that officials of the union fear their team may suffer financially in the eastern final. It has to be played in mid-week due to the four-game playoff the Big Four adopted to bring a champion out of the three teams that tied for first place in its schedule. So they asked for a guarantee.

Usually the eastern final is played on a Saturday, a week before the Grey Cup final. This season it will be on a Wednesday three days before the Nov. 24 classic.

Louis May Get Split Decision With Uncle Sam

Chicago, Nov. 7—(AP)—A final tax settlement offer based on Joe Louis retirement from the ring is being prepared by the former heavyweight champion's accountant, Theodore Jones.

Jones said yesterday the offer includes "moneys from all of Joe's comeback fights including his last when he was knocked out by Rocky Marciano."

A week ago, Harold Jarecki, head of the Chicago Internal Revenue Bureau, said Louis' chances were "good" of making a settlement with the government on back income taxes if he quit the ring.

Louis purportedly owes about $100,000 in back taxes.

Jones will be going through with an exhibition tour of Japan, plans for which include his definite future plans when he returns next month, said Truman Gibson, Louis' attorney.

"Louis had a fight scheduled in Honolulu on Dec. 12," said Gibson. "But he personally wired the promoter there to change it to an exhibition."

Hershey Bears Tie With Barons

Hershey, Pa., Nov. 7—(CP)—Hershey Bears rallied after a bad start and earned a 3-3 tie with the fast-stepping Cleveland Barons in an American Hockey League game last night. No overtime was played to allow Hershey to catch a train.

The Barons took a 3-0 lead in the opening period on goals by Fred Shero, Ray Carsten and Jack Gordon.

Then the second period goals by Norm Corcoran and Dave Creighton made it 3-2 and in the third period Jim Thomson drove into a tie to play, Corcoran got another to tie the score.

Sarnia's Mattingly Named Winner ORFU 'Most Valuable Player' Trophy

Toronto, Nov. 7—(CP)— Bruce Mattingly, six-foot 210-pound snap for Sarnia Imperials, was announced today as the 1951 winner of the Imperial Oil Trophy as the most valuable player in the Ontario Rugby Football Union.

Harold Bailey, O.R.F.U. secretary, announced that Mattingly was the choice of the players of the four senior teams in the union —the Imperials, Windsor Royals, Toronto Balmy Beach and McMaster University.

Bailey emphasized that it is a players' poll. Each player in the union votes for two members of his own team and one member of another team. The votes are tabulated by the union president and the leading choice is the winner.

The dark, handsome 34-year-old native of Sarnia succeeds Carl Galbreath, as holder of the trophy, first donated in 1934. Galbreath, Negro halfback who came to the Balmy Beach club last season from the University of Northern Carolina, now is with United States forces in Korea.

Played Six Seasons

Mattingly has played the snap position with the Imperials for six seasons and is captain of his club. He was first team named to the Canadian Press O.R.F.U. All-star team as inside wing. Although he played snap all season.

He learned his football here in this hotbed of the game, starring in public school and later with Sarnia Collegiate Blue Bombers, jumping from the high school team to senior company. Like a lot of linemen, he'd rather be a halfback.

But he's been too valuable a performer at the centre of the wingline to shift in the backfield.

Bruce comes of a football family. An older brother, Ray, played on the line with the great Imperial team of the 1930s. A younger brother, Don, played with the Imperials before going west this season to join Winnipeg Blue Bombers into two squads and ordered an exhibition contest. An hour later, the 31 fans went home, happy about the unexpected program.

The postponement will be played here Feb. 3.

Flyers-Bisons Game Postponed

St. Louis, Nov. 7—(AP)—Snow —12 inches of it—caused postponement of last night's American Hockey League game between St. Louis Flyers and Buffalo Bisons.

The Flyer management, however, ordered the St. Louis team to the arena rink, just in case some fans showed up unaware of the postponement.

Sure enough, some fans put in an appearance—31 of them.

The fans were invited in and the Flyers offered a clinical practice session with Coach Mud Bruneteau explaining various plays to the "crowd."

Bruneteau later split the Flyers

Savoie Now Undisputed Champion, Hands Cantor Decisive Defeat

Toronto, Nov. 7 (CP)—Hardly anybody will dispute Armand Savoie's right to the Canadian lightweight title after what happened here last night.

The dark-haired two-fisted battler from Montreal threw everything but the dugouts and the referee at Toronto's Solly Cantor to take a unanimous 15-round decision. He won from here to there with a devastating demonstration of infighting that had Cantor back pedalling most of the route.

Convincing Victory

It was eight rounds to two for Savoie with two even on the Canadian Press score card. And it was the most convincing victory he has scored in four bouts with the Toronto fighter.

There were no knockdowns.

Bothered by Cantor's straight lefts in their previous meetings, Savoie didn't give him a chance to uncork this weapon, the most part scored repeatedly with short lefts and rights to Cantor's body and face and, at times, appeared arm weary from the trigger-type punching.

Savoie, who learned some tricks of infighting in New York recently, had Cantor's head bobbing with his six-inch chops to the chin and face. He broke occasionally to send over looping lefts and straight rights that rocked the Torontonian.

Cantor took the first and sixth rounds with the 10th and 12th even. The rest belonged to Savoie, most by wide margins.

Cantor's nose spouted blood from a cut on the bridge in the 10th round and six stitches were required to close the wound. Savoie was practically unmarked.

Mike Murphy Named Manager Leafs Ball Club

Toronto, Nov. 7 (CP)—A press release from the office of Toronto's baseball Maple Leafs announced today the signing of Mike Murphy as general manager of the International League club.

Murphy, president and general manager of the New York Giants farm club at Sioux City, Iowa, since 1946 apparently slipped into Toronto several days ago, signed a contract of unannounced duration and went back to Sioux City.

The 32-year-old former mentor of the Class "A" Western League club will take over from Joe Ziegler, who left the Leafs at the end of last season.

Snead Favored To Repeat In Golf Tourney

Pinehurst, N.C., Nov. 7 (AP) —Sam Snead, a hard man to handle on any golf course, and particularly on No. 3 of the phenomenally layout of the Pinehurst Country Club, was in his familiar role as the man to beat today as the 4th North and South Open Golf Tournament's first round got under way.

Sneed, who registers from White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., has won this five-day tournament the last two years and three times in all. On four occasions he's been second. Three of those years saw him take runner-up money behind Ben Hogan, but with Hogan not around, Sneed overshadows the field of 111 more than ever.

This 72-hole, $7,500 tee party carries a $1,500 first prize. Single rounds will be played daily over the 7,007-yard, par 72 course with the exception of Saturday, left open for a football game fliet.

Sneed was paired with one of the few players given a chance to upset the calculations in the opening round, drawing Max Faulkner, British open champion who published a Ryder Cup match here three days ago. Completing one of the classiest threesomes ever to walk these ancient fairways was Pinehurst's Dick Chapman, leading British amateur champion. In fact, the entire British Ryder Cup team was on hand.

PICTON

Hunter Found In Dense Bush, Cold and Hungry

Picton—Suffering only from hunger and cold, Joseph Beaumont, son of Manson, was located in the dense bush near Cooper by the use of a plane. Few details have been received here. Mr. Beaumont accompanied his brother, Charles Beaumont and Marcus Parks to North Hastings at the weekend to prepare for the opening of the deer hunting season. They were walking in the woods when Joe Beaumont's dog came to him with porcupine quills in his mouth. Mr. Beaumont stopped to remove them and in so doing, became separated from the others. He was unable to find his way to camp.

When he did not return, the others gave the alarm and district police joined in the search.

Mr. Beaumont had a supply of matches with him and built fires to keep warm. Snow however, dampened his clothing and he had no food. His many years "lack of courage" in establishing a committee. It had made up its mind to bring in legislation against retail price-fixing and suddenly changed its mind. It was in "full retreat" before the pressure of the Canadian Chamber of Commerces and the Canadian Manufacturers Association.

At the House opening, Defence Minister Claxton said there is "not a word of truth" in charges

RETAILERS FEAR

Once that announcement was made, the government received protests from various organizations and independent retail merchants across the country. The government felt that the legislation would be more effective if the views of all interested parties could be heard.

The government hoped the committees would work fast to permit passage at this session of such legislation recommended following a study of the issue.

The government was not backing down from its original position. It was offering an opportunity to have the price-fixing issue aired in public.

Wants Complete Review

George Drew, Progressive Conservative leader, said his party had wanted a complete review of the Combines Investigation Act. Since it could not obtain that, it would support the partial inquiry as contained in the resolution.

M. J. Coldwell, CCF leader, said the government indicated a "lack of courage" in establishing a committee. It had made up its mind to bring in legislation against retail price-fixing and suddenly changed its mind. It was in "full retreat" before the pressure of the Canadian Chamber of Commerces and the Canadian Manufacturers Association.

At the House opening, Defence Minister Claxton said there is "not a word of truth" in charges that French-Canadian troops in Korea are singled out for exposed duty. The charges were made Monday by P. E. Gagnon (Ind.-Chicoutimi).

Prime Minister St. Laurent announced that the government has decided to set up a House committee to study defence expenditures.

In the main debate, Mr. Drew said the government's proposal to form a new committee indicates it is little interested in meeting demands of the people for immediate action to fight inflation and stem rising prices.

It had indicated in the Speech from the Throne that the price-fixing bill would be its main weapon against high living costs this year, and now even this was being delayed. Committees and commissions had studied the prices question since 1948 and still no action had been taken.

"When," asked Mr. Drew, "is this nonsense going to end?"

The plan to have another committee was "simply for the purpose of delaying a decision at this special session."

Ross Thatcher (CCF-Moose Jaw), owner of retail hardware stores in Saskatchewan, said he favors abolition of resale price maintenance. He could not agree with charges that such action would force many retailers out of business.

RENT TEXTBOOKS

Toronto, Nov. 7 (CP) — Secondary school students may be able to rent textbooks, if a Toronto proposal is approved by the Ontario Department of Education. The plan, which it is said would save parents here $330,000 a year, will be suggested for province-wide use.

All Wool or What??

You may not know it — you may not even be told about it when you go shopping but many suits and overcoats are now being made from a "blend" of Wool and Rayon.

These "blended" fabrics are pleasing to the eye but they lack the handle, the shape retaining qualities and the ability to resist creasing to the same degree that is characteristic of the all wool.

Until we are definitely convinced that a combination of natural and man-made fibres will prove to be completely satisfactory we shall adhere to our policy of selling suits and overcoats that are tailored from all wool materials because we know that fine wool possesses all the qualities inherent to lasting satisfaction.

HORSE SENSE BRIDGE

By SAM GORDON
The Kibitzer

The value of your hand in bridge usually depends on what your partner has in that deal. If partner has a strong hand, a seemingly weak hand of yours may be strong help for him.

One of the strong defensive bids in bridge is a jump overcall. For instance, an opponent bids one heart and your partner bids two spades. Such a jump defensive bid is a new suit is a jump overcall.

A jump overcall promises a hand with a strong suit that is at least rebiddable. The hand contains a rystal of eight tricks in high cards and short cards.

It is not as strong a bid as an overcall in an opponent's suit. But it is stronger than a double for a takeout. And, of course, it is stronger than a simple overcall.

Responses to a jump overcall are as follows: With less than two tricks, partner should pass; with two tricks or more, partner should bid. When partner bids, he follows T-A-N; takeout, assist, no-trump.

If the responding partner takes out to his suit, he not only admits having two tricks or more. He also admits having a biddable suit. Because any takeout promises a biddable suit.

If the responding partner assists, he not only admits having two tricks. He also admits having trump support. But his trump support need only be for a rebiddable suit.

You have this hand:

♠X ♥4 ♦3
♣Y ♥6 ♦3
♣Y ♥4 ♦3
♣A ♥5

Suppose an opponent opens with a bid of one club and your own partner bids two hearts, a jump overcall. You have three tricks; two high cards and a short in clubs. So, you should bid.

You have no biddable suit for a takeout. But you have support for rebiddable hearts. Your response is an assist to three hearts.

For a partner who could not then go to four hearts, it should be hearts and flowers.

Woman Pleads She be Sent To Penitentiary

Hamilton, Ont., Nov. 7.—(CP)—Taking the full blame for Friday's riot at Barton Street jail upon her broad, drug addict said.

She begged to be sent to Portsmouth penitiuary at Kingston for treatment.

Appearing in court with her were two other women involved in the melee at the jail. Mary Radford, 27, received two months concurrent on charges of mischief and assault. Mrs. Joan Sakin Grady, 34, was acquitted of the mischief charge.

When the riot broke out, Miss LaSalle was waiting in jail to be transferred to reformatory. She had been sentenced the day before to a year in jail for drug addiction. Ms. Grady and Miss Radford were awaiting trial on sarcotics charges.

The riot broke out while matron, Mrs. Agnes Bolton, was tending a sick person. The three girls grabbed for the door to try to get the key. They wrestled with the matron, injured her, and broke the key in the lock. In the melee, 60 window panes were broken, benches overturned and books and clothing strewn about the room.

Consumers Taken For Fast Ride Says Diefenbaker

Ottawa, Nov. 7 (CP) — John Diefenbaker (PC, Lake Centre) said last night that the consumers of Canada are "being taken for a fast and tragic ride" while the government looks on and does nothing about inflation.

In the last two years, he said, the government has asked for power to impose price controls when necessary.

"Parliament acceded and at every threat of price control, prices have taken a further jump apparently as the result of certain controlling interests getting set so that if price control should come in, the price level would be as high as the traffic would bear."

Mr. Diefenbaker, now in Charlottetown, recorded the speech here this week for broadcast in the CBC's series, "The Nation's Business."

"To the Prime Minister expresses hope that everything is going to turn out all right. The minister of finance prescribes more taxes. The minister of justice believes that Canadians should save more. Another — there is too much money to spend.

"What the people demand is action to meet inflation rather than cabinet propaganda to explain the cabinet's reasons for its lack of action."

He called for greater use of the Combines Act to punish those exploiting the Canadian people.

"The gougers and freebooters should be prosecuted against," he said. "The only reason they have declared on the Canadian consumer must end."

HOLDING DIAMONDS

Rouses Point, N.Y., Nov. 7.—(AP)— United States customs agents are holding a large quantity of diamonds they believe were smuggled into the U.S. from Canada.

George B. Warner, deputy collector of customs at the port of Rouses Point, said the diamonds were found yesterday by a U.S. Border Patrol officer during a search over to his office. He would not elaborate.

He said no arrests had been made and an investigation was under way.

2 Armed Bandits Are Arrested In Stolen Car

Windsor, Ont., Nov. 7—(CP)—Two armed bandits were captured by police last night after two drug stores were robbed of $500 and a quantity of narcotics. Another man escaped.

Twelve shots were fired at the bandits as they fled in their stolen car. The two picked up by police were identified as John Tvinna, 23, and James Peters, 22. They were arrested after their car skidded out of control and smashed into a tree. Both were charged with armed robbery.

AT THE CAPITOL — Lee Gorsey, Hunts Hall and The Bowery Boys will be back in town again tomorrow in "Come Out Fighting," a knockout of thrills and laughs. On the same program, "The Lion Hunters," with Johnny Sheffield as Bomba the Jungle Boy.

AT THE McCARTHY — Handsome Jeff Chandler and attractive Evelyn Keyes are Hollywood's newest action starring team and now head the large cast of Universal-International's new Technicolor release, "Smuggler's Island," an exciting story of gold smuggling off the coast of China. Philip Friend, British star, centre, plays an important supporting role in "Smuggler's Island," opening today at the Odeon McCarthy Theatre.

AT THE BELLE

Warner Bros. Romantic Adventure Drama "Along The Great Divide"

How five men and a girl make their way across the sun-baked, wind-swept Mojave desert, braving the elements and battling the vengeance of an outlaw mob, forms the background basis for "Along the Great Divide," Warner Bros. outdoor romantic drama now begins its local engagement at the Belle Theatre today.

Kirk Douglas, in his first outdoor role, essays the part of a U.S. marshal forced to escort his prisoners through the blazing sands rather than turn them over to a lynch-hungry band of cattlemen. Because the script calls for plenty of action-filled action, Douglas is called upon to engage in some of the hardest battle-royals since he made "Champion."

On the distaff side, lovely Virginia Mayo is seen as the girl who must choose between love for her father and the man sworn to bring him to justice. It is this conflict which brings about the suspenseful climax of the new drama.

Brennan Agar, the lieutenant in "Breakthrough," plays the marshal's loyal deputy while Walter Brennan supplies much of the film's wit and humor, a talent for which the veteran actor has won three Academy Awards.

Filmed on location against some of the country's most scenic backgrounds, "Along the Great Divide" follows the path of the fiery Mojave desert winds along the scient mountain range known as the Alabama Hills, reputely "the oldest hills in the world," and highlights the towering Mt. Whitney, highest peak in the United States.

Four Short Hits

The enjoyment of the feature attraction is enhanced by the exhibition of the latest World News, a colorful cartoon "Leg-Born Swagged," a fast paced Warner Bros. sportsfilm, "Blaze Busters," and an entertaining novelette "Gangway For The Navy."

OBTAIN PERMIT

Fort Erie, Ont., Nov. 7 (CP)—The Canadian National Railways yesterday obtained a provisional building permit for a diesel locomotive repair shop here. The shop is being erected by the Robertson Constructions Co. of Niagara Falls at cost of $67,817.

DEEP WATER

Depths of over 22,000 feet have been recorded in the "Sundra Trench," a depression in the Indian Ocean.

Your Individual Horoscope

By FRANCES DRAKE

Look in the section in which your birthday comes and find what your outlook is, according to the stars.

For Thursday, November 8

March 21 to April 20—(Aries)—Some extra effort needed to counteract undesirable conditions or obstacles, mostly in your work day. Be adroit, gentle, too. Being amenable gets results; don't force opinions.

April 21 to May 20—(Taurus)—Refresh where best; watch assets liabilities. If on the job, and alert at supposed slack times you can make up for lost time. Improve effort and get better-than-good returns.

May 21 to June 21—(Gemini)—Keep in close touch with trends, activities, what evolves in your city. Finish incompleted matters, create good will by friendly attitude, co-operation, honest frankness.

June 22 to July 22—(Cancer)—Planetary aspects fine. Study financial and business matters with keen thought; get jump on hazards. But don't take on more than you can handle well.

July 23 to August 22—(Leo)—Many possibilities of value. Use upright and clean-cut decisions; refer sometimes to past experiences in doubtful issues. Be adaptable to necessary changes.

August 23 to September 22—(Virgo)—No barriers that cannot be gotten over if you put your mind and talents to work really. Don't allow delays or inconsistency. Start determinedly, keep going steadily, but don't strain.

September 24 to October 23—(Libra)—Some aggressive action might be needed now, especially in home, personal duties. Take along good system, honest purpose in all you do. Avoid bruiseners or too blunt thank-yous.

October 24 to November 22—(Scorpio)—A steady-going, well-planned day will return more than will bright starts, high ambitions, then lulls. You folks can gain much by steady application and patience. Have sane moderation.

November 23 to December 22—(Sagittarius)—Faith, tolerance, intelligent effort will carry you far. Refuse to get all upset or take offence at every rebuke, for such can do us good if we would heed.

December 23 to January 21—(Capricorn)—Some influences nil, some mixed. It means better intensified effort to bring your day up to standard. Under proper conditions you can garner favorable gains, friendly help.

January 22 to February 20—(Aquarius)—Extra patience needed. Also deeper study of matters and stepped up application of your concerted talents. Have sound purpose and thought behind what you do.

February 21 to March 20—(Pisces)— Express self in action, not only words. Give your true energy to what you undertake. Confer immediately when events transpire; you or your community warrants it. Be informed, interested.

YOUR BORN TODAY: Scorpio is a go-getter Sign of never-tiring, sturdy workers. Plenty of ambition and dignity, too, yet may lack inner confidence at times. Often will over-work to put over a task. You are not always sentimental, but generally sympathetic, though you do not like to make a show of it. Fond of travel, fun and the outdoors. Can be highly successful as writer, diplomat, musician, ar-

Murphy Says Ottawa Liberals Subsidize Thomson, Give Him Free Office, Plus $232,135

Ottawa, Nov. 6—(CP)—J. W. Murphy (PC—Lambton West) said yesterday in the Commons the federal government is "subsidizing" Walter Thomson, Liberal leader in Ontario.

Mr. Thomson had received $250,000 from the federal government in legal fees during a period of 15 months, Mr. Murphy indicated that Mr. Thomson, former Liberal member of the Commons for Oshawa constituency, had retained his office in the parliament buildings, although he resigned his seat a few weeks ago.

Mr. Murphy said a sign on an office door next to his own still bears the name "W. C. Thomson". As long as that sign was there he felt he could comment in the Commons on Mr. Thomson and on the Ontario election, to be held Nov. 22.

(At Sault Ste. Marie, where Mr. Thomson was on a campaign tour, he said last night he had no comment immediately on Mr. Murphy's statements.)

Mr. Murphy added:

Fine Slate of Affairs

"It is about time the people of this country realized that this government cannot get away with everything.

"We have come to a fine state of affairs when the federal government at Ottawa, this Liberal government, will subsidize a provincial leader by providing him with office space in the House of Commons when, God only knows, lots of us would like to get better accommodation.

"Not only that, but he gets secretarial service and a typewriter. I pounds from next door, night and day, on my ear. He is doing a grand job in that office, at the taxpayer's expense."

Gets $232,135

Mr. Murphy said returns tabled in the Commons had shown that Mr. Thomson had received $232,135 in legal fees from the federal government for work in connection with the Veterans Land Act.

"It seems clear," said Mr. Murphy, "that even a backbencher in the Liberal party is able to get a quarter of a million dollars in 15 months.

"No wonder he can go down to the dairy country in Oxford and tell the farmers that he, too, is a grand farmer. Who in the world in this country could not be a grand farmer if he could get from this or any other government a quarter of a million dollars in 15 months?"

"Got Using Office"

An official of the Commons said later that as far as he knows Mr. Thomson has not been using the office. When a member resigns his privileges as a member are not automatically cut off. He is given a few days to clear up his correspondence and his files.

The official said he understood that Mr. Thomson's stenographer, assigned to two other members following his departure, continued to use the Ontario Liberal leader's office. This was because of the shortage in the stenographic pool.

It was true that Mr. Thomson's name was still over the office door. Customarily such signs remained until the space was allocated to another member. At the moment the office is still vacant—officially.

Little Benny's Note Book

Ma was sewing to herself in her room, and I ran in, saying, Oh boy, ma, talk about luck, I was feeling in the pockits of all my old clothes, and what did I find in my cowboy pants but a dime I didn't know I had. Nobody can say I'm not lucky, I said.

Yes, somebo'y can say so, and I'm the one, ma said. You'll remember I'm the one that ca'y's your sox come to, and tha. will be the beginning and the end of it, and you're the biggest spendthrift than ever. If you really want to make a lucky dime of it, you'll keep adding another dime to it every week and make it grow by compound interist until at last you'll suddinly surprise yourself by being the proud possessor of a doller, she said, and I said, Aw heck, now I remember where that dime came from.

The principal is the same, what's the difference where it came from? ma said, and I said, Plenty of difference. It was change from the market, and just for curiosity I waited to see if you would ask for it, and then I forgot all about it, I said.

Well of all things, I hope the shock will do you some good by teatching you the value of other people's money whether they ask for it or not, ma said. So you cap consider it a lucky lesson after all, she said, and I said, Aw G. I'll save it and add to it just like you said, and if I dont show you 30 cents in 2 weeks you can take it back. So how's that, ma? I said.

That's fine, with one slite alteration, ma said. I'll keep the dime for safe keeping, and when you hand me the next 2, I'll keep the whole 3 for you on the way to the doller. Now hand it over, she said.

Which I did slow on account of a sad sensation that I mite never see it again.

Woman, 94, Recalls Adventurous Career

Vancouver. (CP)— Celebrating her 94th birthday here this month Mrs. Cordelia Fraser Gore can recall enough adventures to fill a book.

She has driven a covered wagon in Washington, Oregon and California; defended herself and her four children from Indians while her husband was in the fields, and was almost scalped by an Indian chief in route to Blaine in 1886, losing all her possessions and one child who suffered pneumonia.

She came to Vancouver in 1897, and her husband James died the following year. Five of her seven children are living, including two sons and three daughters, but one of the daughters is married in England and another in New York State.

Mrs. Gore lives here with her third daughter, Mrs. Jessie Fluchter, and still takes a keen interest in current affairs.

The Outsiders

By Jane Abbott

"What do they know to say?" growled Dave, And Annie knew she could draw no more out of him. But the little lad's sad tale her quiet the men hadn't accepted Billy on sight, that they were waiting to see. She was filled with concern for the girl, with everyone waiting for her to do something they wouldn't like, instead of helping her.

She smiled across the table at Dave.

"You'll see soon she's all right, Dave."

Annie was in the kitchen. She gave Dave a warm smile from the other side of the stove.

"You're home early!"

She sounded glad he'd come early; she did not appear in the least apprehensive of any storm about to break over her head.

"Yeah."

"Ted stayed for orchestra practice. When he comes we'll have supper. I'd like to get time to sight to set out my potatoes."

She stirred something in a deep saucepan on the stove and a savory smell filled the room.

The shining in Annie's eyes warned Dave he'd better begin.

"What did you go gettin' yourself a job for in the mill—in the rags, too!" He forced his voice to a shout.

Annie moved the sauce pan to the back of the stove and came up to him, composed, smiling.

"Let's talk about it, quietly Dave! I knew you wouldn't like it, but I had to do it. I need the money."

"I give you enough!"

"For the food and the house. It's for something apart from all that."

"You've got clothes enough — if it's some new folderol you're wanting, sis, no."

The shining in Annie's eyes deepened. "It is for myself Dave. Something I want very much and I'll be happier about it, if I earn the money for it. Oh, it's worth doing any kind of work to earn it—even picking over rags!"

"Then say what "tis," roared Dave. But he looked away from her, for her face was getting that look that shut him out.

Annie hesitated but not from fear, he knew, for when she spoke it was on a little drawn-in breath of excitement. "Ted's music! He can't go on with the orchestra unless he takes more lessons. Remember, they've told him he has talent, that even after he's had more lessons, he can play solos in concerts. . ."

"That's what it's about! For a lot of fool lessons, you'd go work your fingers raw with rags!"

"Hush, Dave!" Annie looked down at her hands. "I could think of it as sort of making the music myself. Whenever I listen to Ted play I can think I helped."

"Of all the. . . "But the curse died on Dave's lips. Annie was too far off, to wherever it was she went. As well your halo empty space.

Annie came back to the moment, smiling. "I've thought it all out Dave. I can get up an hour earlier—I won't mind that a bit —and do what's to be done 'round the house, lay out some food for the noon. I never start supper 'till after closing time, anyway. There'll be evening to work outside. Everything'll go just the same, you'll see."

Ted was whistling.

"There!" Annie put her hand on Dave's arm. "Don't be too angry about it!"

"I'd give the money, if I could," Dave growled, uncomfortable in his defeat.

"I know you would! But, you see, it's sort of my dream for Ted. I've something for him more'n you and I've known. Mothers have a right to dreams like that. Oh, hello, Ted!"

Ted threw his book to a chair. "Supper ready, Annie?"

But Dave knew the secret anxious look the boy gave his mother had nothing to do with his supper.

Annie went back to the stove. "Wash up, the two of you and I'll put it on. You're both going to like it, too, Stewed chicken."

"Ummy," said Ted, catching cheer from his mother. He went to the shed to wash. Dave followed him, his step slower, heavier than Ted's.

Marilyn paid Pete Snead for her lost of bread and turned from the counter to see Eliza Forrestal coming in through the door.

"Have I any mail?" asked Eliza of Pete Snead.

Pete came around from behind the counter. "Good morning, Miss Forrestal. Nice day. Letter come this morning. Air mail. I was waitin' to send it up to you by Lozie. I always sent the old man's mail to him."

Pete went behind the desk in a corner, took from a cubbyhole a square, thin, pale blue envelope and gave it a little reluctantly, to Eliza. "Come from 'way across the ocean, didn't it?"

"Yes," said Eliza and went toward the door.

Marilyn was lingering at the door. This was a heaven-sent chance. In the three weeks Eliza Forrestal had been in New Interval she had had only glimpses of her going in and out of the mill yard. "Maybe you'll think I've got a lot of nerve, Miss Forrestal, but I'm going to introduce myself. I'm Marilyn Street. My husband's the doctor here in the valley."

Surprised, Eliza hesitated for an instant, then she said, "I don't think it was nerve! I'm very glad to meet you."

Marilyn fell into step with her. "I'd made up my mind I was going to speak to you, first chance I had. I've been excited ever since I heard you were coming— you see, there hasn't been anyone, except the natives, in so much as say 'hello' to— we've been here over a year, and, honest, sometimes I could scream, I've been so lonesome that's why I hope we'll be friends!"

Marilyn dared further. "I wish you'd run in for a few minutes and meet John. We live here next door. It's an awful dump but it was the only place we could get!"

"I can't now but I will some other time. Thanks."

"Miss Forrestal, if I give a little supper party—or, awfully informal—would you come?"

"I'd like to come, thanks."

"I'll ask George Colbert and Jeremy Penny— she teaches in the school here. And Chris Cameron. That'll be six. Will next week, say Tuesday, be all right?"

"Yes, Tuesday'll be all right— I hope you won't go to a great deal of trouble over it."

"I promise I won't. You can't do much in a place like this, anyway. Try. And you will stop in some time soon, won't you?"

Eliza said "yes" and went out to her car. Marilyn walked on air the distance to her house.

John came into the kitchen from the office when he heard her step.

She dropped her loaf of bread down on the table. "Guess what, John!"

Prince Philip's Return Visit To Halifax in Sharp Contrast With One Made 10 Years Ago

By JACK BRALEY
(Canadian Press Staff Writer)

Halifax, Nov. 8 (CP) —Prince Philip, wearing the uniform of a Royal Navy lieutenant-commander, was in his element today when the royal couple visited H.M.C. Dockyard, headquarters of Canada's Atlantic command.

The visit was under far different circumstances than the last time he was in Halifax. As middshipman on the troopship Empress of Russia in 1941, his main chore was shovelling coal in the engine room.

Princess Elizabeth and Philip spent nearly two hours at the station where seen-of-war loaded grapeshot and powder during the American war of independence. Today the base was filled with some 25,000 naval personnel and civilians.

Declines Umbrella

As she left a plastic-topped convertible, Rear Admiral E. R. Mainguy, flag officer of the Atlantic coast, offered to hold her plaid umbrella to shield her from the Scotch mist. Elizabeth smilingly declined. Then she and Philip reviewed the parade of the King's Colors and an honor guard.

At the Maritime Museum, which has a vast collection of marine and naval equipment, Elizabeth was hesitant in signing the guest book.

Admiral Mainguy reassured her "there's really nothing to it."

The Princess showed interest in the ham radio set-up, kept off boarding parties in Nelson's time. While looking at a souvenir brought back from Korea by the destroyer Nootka, a photographer's flash bulb exploded. Elizabeth, startled momentarily, turned and smiled broadly at the embarrassed photographer.

The snorkel of a captured German submarine got her attention, and Admiral Mainguy explained its use.

On the east wall were five plaques commemorating the names of the Nova Scotians who became admirals in the British Navy. Here the Princess paused for several minutes to read each plaque.

The royal visitors then left for Stadacona naval base, one of Canada's largest naval establishments. Lining the cobblestone streets were 75,000 cheering residents.

THE WEATHER

—Toronto, Nov. 8 (CP) Synopsis: Winter will arrive in all of Ontario today but the end of the present cold spell is in sight. Snow continues to fall over most of the western and eastern parts of the province but this area of precipitation will gradually move eastward during the day bringing slow clearing from the west.

With the great October storm expected to reach the North Atlantic tomorrow morning Friday should be a day to be shunned in all regions with the mercury climbing up to near the 40-mark.

Milk Advances at Soo

Sault Ste. Marie, Nov. 8—(CP) A two-cent increase in the price of milk, from 23 to 25 cents a quart, has been approved by the Milk Control Board of Ontario, an official of the Sault Dis-tributors Association said today.

The increase will be effective Nov. 15.

The announcement by W. R. Johnson, president of the S.S.M. D.A. followed an appeal by distributors and the Algoma Milk Producers Association last week for authority to raise the price. Poor crops and rising cost of livestock feed were given as reasons for the increase.

three services and R.C.M.P. were presented to the royal couple in the main room of Admiralty House, built in 1814.

Chatted With U.S. Officer

Elizabeth and Philip chatted with Lt.-Cmdr. W. H. Esworthy of the United States Navy, commander of the visiting submarine Dace.

Elizabeth asked the commander: "How do you like working with our navy?" He said: "I like it fine."

Philip, shaking hands with the American, then said "You like those submarines eh?"

On their arrival at Admiralty House in a rainstorm the first man at the royal car was Colin P. Evans, veteran of the Royal Navy of which he was at one time heavyweight boxing champion.

Despite the heavy rain which brought many Haligonians to the verge of heartbreak, from shabby the crowds turned out in thousands and tendered an enthusiastic but restrained welcome.

The royal couple started their tour today with a visit to Dalhousie University where they received a thunderous ovation from the student body of students. They later visited the Halifax Ladies College, orphanages and the School for the Deaf. They also leave the car at these stops, and were presented with bouquets by small girls who passed the flow-

Tailor-Made Devices for Applying A-Energy Against Cancer Predicted

Dallas, Tex., Nov. 8—(AP)—Tailor-made devices for applying atomic energy against cancer were predicted today.

Dr. Herbert D. Kerman, an atomic scientist, said the possibilities exist with radio-active cobalt, a "relatively cheap substitute for radium."

He said the substance has special properties lending themselves to the application of applicators which might, in effect, be fortified around a cancer on the body's surface.

The idea would be to bring powerful atomic radiation against malignant tissue located on surfaces difficult to attack efficiently by other methods of radiation.

Dr. Kerman told the annual meeting of the Southern Medical Association:

"Wah imagination, one can foresee applicators devised from cobal! foil or made by plating or sputtering material on specially constructed molds."

Already, he said, one scientist has suggested the possibility of incorporating radio-active cobalt in powdered form into a plastic material which, he said, could be "be cut to desired shapes for direct application to a tumor."

Cobalt already is being used in these forms:

1. As a radioactive "wire," encased in a fine platinum tube, and "threaded" around the contours of defective cancerous tissue.

2. As a constituent of "beads" which are placed in an inflatable tube inserted into body cavities such as the bladder as a means of directing radiation against cancers in such places.

He said research is underway designed to use solutions of radioactive cobalt, encased in thin, flexible rubber containers, against cancer of the vegina, womb and bladder.

RUSSIA URGED TO ACCEPT PLAN FOR DISARMANENT

3 Point-Plan Adopted By U.S., Britain, France

Washington, Nov. 8 (AP) — The Kremlin was confronted with an urgent appeal from President Truman last night to accept a "foolproof" western plan for worldwide disarmament. But official Washington strongly discounted the chance of favorable Russian action.

Endorsing a three-point plan which the United States, Britain and France are placing before the United Nations in Paris, the President said:

"I urge the Kremlin to accept this proposal."

State Secretary Dean Acheson outlines the plan in a prepared statement today before the general assembly. Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky of Russia is scheduled to speak later but probably will stay in detail to the new western proposal.

President Truman described it in a message to Congress as providing for:

1. An inventory of armies and armaments all over the world, including eventual disclosure of information on A-bombs and weapons. This inventory would develop into a permanent international inspection system.

2. The negotiation of specific arrangements for reducing armed strength and determining the relative composition of forces which each nation should have. Unbalanced or atomic weapons would be prohibited.

3. Actually putting the reductions in effect "as soon as that can be done with full knowledge and fairness to all."

Turned Down Before

Other proposals basically the same in most respects have been put forth—and turned down by Russia—before. This is the main reason for the belief expressed here and in Paris that the Soviets will say "no" in some form again.

Perhaps the sharpest departure from previous disarmament plans which the U.S. has supported, state department informants said, is the decision to extend the weapons and troop census to include Soviet Russia.

An atomic control plan, worked out in the U.N. three years ago would limit the A-bomb to the United States, provided for disclosure of Russia's bombs, as controls became effective.

Truman said the U.N. plan fits into the new one now proposed and except that under this plan "the weapons would not necessarily be revealed at the appropriate stage in the process of disarmament."

He indicated this would be late in the process, mentioning good faith had been shown by co-operation on less vital information.

The arms census, Truman said, would be followed by arms limiting, closing the least vital information first, and then proceeding to more sensitive areas." It would be "checked and verified" by "adequate inspection."

This means that foreigners would have to move about freely over Russia, as well as over the U.S. and other countries. This is the provision which Russia has rejected.

Paris, I. B. Pearson, Canada External Affairs Minister, indicated that Canada supports the proposal.

Liberal Chief Thomson Wants Halt to School Construction; Favors 'Old Red Schoolhouse'

(By The Canadian Press)

Walter Thomson, Ontario Liberal leader, says the provinces should call a temporary halt to school construction and, for the sake of economy, make the old red schoolhouse do a little longer.

"I'm not averse to good schools, but we must build and train our staffs and get them enough that they do not skip into some other walk of life," He told a Simcoe East gathering at Midland last night in a Nov. 22 Ontario general election campaign address in support of candidate John MacIsaacs. "We must spend according to our ability to earn and to tax."

E. B. Jolliffe, C.C.F. leader, spoke at Bellville, while Premier Frost, touring Brockville and Huron ridings, addressed meetings at Walkerton and Goderich.

Would Cut Costs

Mr. Thomson said a breather from building "these magnificent schools" would reduce expenditures on education and thereby cut down the cost of living. He said his party, if elected, will increase teacher-training and raise teachers' salaries, but will take no action on changing compulsory school age. Hope royal commission report on education.

Earlier, he issued a statement in Toronto in which he said the fees he received as chairman of Ontario Hydro and the director of the Veterans' Land Act were one-thirg of the minimum fee set by the Ontario Barristers' Law Association for that sort of work. He said he received from the federal government $345,447.50 for fees and disbursements during five years.

Mr. Jolliffe, speaking in support of Arthur Whitehead and Ernest Gibbs, C.C.F. candidates for Hastings East and Hastings West, said five pieces of social legislation passed by the government are "cheap and shoddy" imitations of measures advocated by the C.C.F. He mentioned the Planning Act, the Hours of Work and Vacations with Pay Act, the Workmen's Compensation Act, the Fair Employment Act and others.

All were passed in response to C.C.F. representations, he said. But in time government enacted them, they were all "so full of loopholes" as to be almost inoperative.

Frost At Goderich

Premier Frost, campaigning for return of his government on its record, said at Goderich that his administration has co-operated with the federal government and with the governments of other provinces. Such co-operation was needed for the success of the St. Lawrence project.

At this Wallaceton audience the developments have been brought into production since the Conservative government came into office in 1943. He said that during nine years in office prior to 1943, Liberal governments built no new generating plants, although cost forecasts had been made available.

The premier also took part in a round-table broadcast with five of his cabinet colleagues.

Today is official nomination day when the field for the election takes definite shape.

Production Chief Max Mackenzie Says Americans Planning to Buy Much Canadian Defensive Equipment

Toronto, Nov. 8—(CP)—Max Mackenzie announced today that the United States is planning a big expansion in Canadian arms purchases and disclosed removal of major barriers to increased arms sales to the U. S. now have been partially overcome.

These were high U. S. tariffs on Canadian-manufactured armaments and the restrictive and confusing Buy American Act of 1934 which limited the attraction of armament the U. S. fighting forces could buy from Canada and other countries.

The defence production deputy minister, forecasting a big ensuing gaine for Canada's arms producers, disclosed specifically:

1. An order placed by the U. S. for 350 F-86A Sabre aircraft will be produced by Canadair Ltd., of Montreal, is to be considerably increased when the program is under way.

2. The initial order of 109 Beaver aircraft, under production at the Deltavilland in Toronto is to be doubled and more may be followed up with "further orders for even larger numbers."

3. Similar expansion in U. S. contracts will be developed for such equipment as Otter aircraft, naval guns under production at Valcartier, Quebec, Sorel, Que., and Harvard trainer, made by the Canadian Car and Foundry plant at Fort William.

Canada, said Mr. Mackenzie in a detailed 10,000-word speech prepared for delivery before the Canadian Industrial Preparedness Association, must take a greater part in the U. S. defence program if it is to make the fullest use of its productive capacity "and if we are to reduce the gap in our international balance of payments"

Figures Disclosed

Making public figures which the department had hitherto kept secret, Mr. Mackenzie said chief estimated that over a 15-month period the Canadian government placed $500,000,000 worth of contracts in the U. S. The U. S. government's orders in Canada amounted only to $93,000,000.

But there were other factors to be considered. The sale of Canada's orders in the U. S. would "offset the sale of substantial supplies of American equipment and developed her own production. Instead of tapping U.S. orders in Canada would be increased substantially.

The reciprocal procurement figures he declared, did not tell the "whole story. Extensive subcontracting goes going on in Canada on behalf of U. S. aircraft manufacturers. This was not included in the figures, nor were U. S. purchases of Canadian strategic materials for stock-piling.

Syrian Premier Resigns Office

Cairo, Nov. 8—(AP)—Syria's pro-western premier, Hassan Bey El Hakim, was reported to have resigned in a cabinet crisis over western defence proposals for the Middle East.

Reliable Syrian sources here said they had no knowledge of Hakim's resignation but they believed the report to be true.

The British Middle East news agency said in a dispatch from Damascus that the premier tendered his resignation to Syria's president Hachem Bey El Atatsi, who will continue in office until a new government is formed.

The pro-government Cairo daily Akhbar el Yom said today in a bold headline: "Syrian People Force Premier to Resign."

Al Misri has strongly criticized the El Hakeem government for its proposed defence arrangements.

Egypt did in mid-October.

No New Car Models After February 1st

Washington, Nov. 8 — (AP) — The U. S. government today imposed a virtual "freeze" on civilian car output, with production of new models by the automobile industry and manufacturers of other major consumer durable goods.

The action came in the form of orders restricting materials used almost completely for military and essential civilian defence production.

This would bar retooling by civilian manufacturers of cars, washing machines, refrigerators and similar products.

The intent, N.P.A.'s announcement said, is to "maintain the entire output of the machine tool industry — a bottleneck in the defence effort — under which mobilizing programs — is channelled into defence."

PRODUCTION GOES UP

Salem, Ore., Nov. 8 — (AP) — Egg production at the Oregon prison's unwalled farm annex has risen 10 dozen a day since Warden Virgil J. O'Malley increased the number of guards there. "You can't tell me the hens started laying more eggs just because more guards were around," O'Malley said. "What happened was that the convicts had to quit selling eggs to the neighbors."

NON-CONFIDENCE MOTION BY C.C.F. DEFEATED 160-19

Two More Motions Yet To Be Voted On

Ottawa, Nov. 8 — (CP) — All three opposition parties now have moved motions of non-confidence in the government, each hinging on the cost of living.

The three motions have been filed, two yesterday, in the commons during the traditional debate on the address in reply to the Speech from the Throne. The progression of the motions ran:

—moved some weeks ago and the Social Credit motion are still to be voted on, probably some time next week.

The commons yesterday voted 160 to 19 against the C. C. F. motion which called for use of price controls and subsidies to reduce living costs and to "equalize the sacrifices which the people are asked to make at this time."

Only the Social Credit party supported the C. C. F. The motion was opposed by the Liberals, Progressive Conservatives, J. L. Gibson (ind.—Comox-Alberni), P. E. Gagnon (ind.—Chicoutimi) and Dr. E. D. Blackmore (ind.—Lethbridge).

Victor Quelch (SC—Acadia), majority author of the motion, moved the outer non-confidence motion, charging the government with "failing" to increase wage rates allowances to keep them in line with the increase in the cost of living.

Supports Request

Mr. Quelch supported a Canadian Legion request that the basic rate of war veterans allowances be increased to $50 from $40 per month. The veterans want to $100 from $70 for married veterans. He was supported by Percy Wright (CCF—Burnaby).

The Social Credit party also touched on by other speakers in the debate.

C. E. Johnston (SC—New Rive-er) said a lowering of tariffs might effect a reduction in the cost of living.

Dr. Pierre Gauthier (L—Portneuf) said price controls at this time would only increase the tax burden. Charles Cannon (L—Magdalen Islands) also thought price controls offered no solution although he said something has to be done to halt inflation.

W. J. Browne (PC—St. John's West) said he could not agree with a statement of Prime Minister St. Laurent that the ills of Canada are lower than in the United States.

Mr. Johnston charged the government with extravagance and said taxation and living costs are leading to an increase in living costs. The government was not setting an example, he said, people could follow. Credit restrictions were also hurting people who had money but those who did not have money.

SMOKE DAMAGES SCHOOL

Kincardine, Nov. 8 — (CP) — Oil — burning furnace yesterday caused a fire in Kincardine's new public school, only a week before completion. Smoke and oil damage resulted.

Fire destroyed the former public school May 11, 1950.

GULLS ATTACK CHICKEN

Meaford, Nov. 8 — (CP) Seagulls driven inland by strong winds have attacked chickens belonging to Tom Cook who has 17 pullets. William Cranstoun found the heads off the full - grown birds which weight around five pounds each.

Vishinsky Terms U.S. Arms Count Plan 'Ludicrous'

Wants Foreign Troops Out of Korea in 30 Days

Paris, Nov. 8 (AP) — The United States presented its "foolproof" arms count plan to the United Nations today. Russia dismissed it as "ludicrous" and called for a world conference by next June 1 to consider the whole disarmament question.

State Secretary Dean Acheson of the United States formally presented the western disarmament plan along with a challenge to Russia to work sincerely for peace in Korea.

The plan, which President Truman elaborated in a message sent in a major speech, calls for step-by-step disarmament and a count and limitation of atomic and other weapons under strict U. N. controls.

Offers Counter Proposal

Following Acheson to the floor at this 6th session of the U.N. Assembly, Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky heaped ridicule on the plan, said he could "not keep from laughing."

Then he countered with a Soviet proposal whose main points were:

Cessation of hostilities in Korea within 30 days and withdrawal of troops to the 38th parallel.

Withdrawal of all foreign troops from Korea within 90 days.

Conclusion of a pact of peace by the big five powers, meaning inclusion of communist China, plus the disarmament conference by next summer.

There is little likelihood the west would even consider such a plan, the "pact of peace" has been the keynote of Soviet propaganda for months.

Vishinsky concluded his speech with the Soviet counter-proposals.

White - haired, bespectacled Vishinsky frequently waved his paper at the delegates as he spoke, but his attitude was calm.

Acheson leaned forward in his chair, listening intently to the Soviet foreign minister called the American Secretary's speech ludicrous.

Britain's Foreign Secretary, Anthony Eden, slouched back easily in his chair, cocking his ear low at the stage, while the Soviet delegate denounced the program which Britain and France, along with the United States, brought forward as a hope for world peace.

Some Applause

Once in a while there was a burst of applause from spectators in the gallery. It came once when Vishinsky said the foreign policy of the Soviet Union is a policy of peace."

Speaking directly to the Russians, Acheson said achievement of an acceptable plan "would open the door to broader consultations of other aspects of the East-west problem."

He then listed these other things the Soviet and the Russians could demonstrate the will for peace:

1. Agreement for an impartial U.N. commission to investigate charges of violations in all zones of Germany are suitable for holding elections.

2. Agreement for a peace treaty with Austria which would end occupation of Austria, by Britain and France.

3. Withdrawal of Russian objections to the entrance of Italy into the U.N.

4. Guaranteeing basic human rights in areas of the world which the Soviet Union controls.

"The Soviet Union has talked a

Strange Illness Breaks Out Among U.N Korean Forces, No Cure Found

Tokyo, Nov. 8. (AP)—A strange, one-fifth of the victims became illness for which no sure cure has been found has broken out among United Nations forces in Korea, Gen. Matthew B. Ridgeway's headquarters said today.

Brig.-Gen. William A. Hamilton, surgeon-general of the Far East Command, said the mysterious malady "is not dangerous" but is characterized by fever and a headache. Other symptoms are common in the early stages of several known infectious diseases. But sulfa and antibiotics have failed to stem the disease, Shambora said.

(Reuters News Agency reported that the disease turns its victims' eyeballs bright red. The report quoted Shambora as saying the disease affects the kidneys.

Shambora said some patients recover quickly while others develop further symptoms. These include hemorrhages under the skin, around the eyes and the internal organs. In some instances

The King Declines To Leave Home For Convalescence

London, Nov. 8 — (AP) — The King, recuperating after his serious lung operation Sept. 23, was said today to be determined to endure with his subjects the fog, chill and gloom of an English winter.

Many of his friends have suggested that he seek sunshine in southern France, Malta, or North Africa for the duration of what is expected to be a long convalescence. But they recall that the King's father, who also suffered from a respiratory affliction, insisted on wintering in England and died at Sandringham on a gloomy day in January, 1936.

The present King has his father's attachment to English soil.

"There is a debate about it going on now at Buckingham Palace, and it isn't settled," said an informant who moves in court circles. "Some of us get an impression that the King would prefer to go to the Royal Lodge at Windsor, probably his favorite residence. But that's down on the river, damp, in a depression, where we get some fine samples of fog-in for cold. Some of the doctors are holding out against it.

"But the King, once he has made up his mind, can be a very determined person, and perhaps the best that can be done is to persuade him to go to Sandringham, which is higher and drier."

great deal about peace," Acheson said. "But when it comes to achieving peace through deeds or to uniting for peace, they obstruct. They call for a new five-power peace pact but refuse to carry out our 60-power peace pact — the (U.N.) charter."

Blames Reds for Unrest

Acheson blamed the Russians for the "unprecedented rate of armaments weighing on the world and repeated President Truman's pledges that a free world make every effort to restore peace.

Emphasizing the west's determination to build its defences by overwhelming military strength, if necessary, Acheson said:

"The free nations have obligated the nations to begin building up armaments to levels necessary for defence. But we do not want an arms race.

"We are determined to do all in our power to ensure our security. We are no less determined to continue to explore, as we have been doing for many years, every possibility of bringing about a safe reduction in armaments."

Poppy Day Saturday

Memorial Service Will be Held Sunday Afternoon at Cenotaph

Next Saturday has been designated as National Poppy Day throughout the Dominion. This, because the conventional "November 11th" falls on Sunday this year.

Remembrance Day, however, will be fittingly observed on Sunday when Canadian Legion Branch No. 99 will hold the annual memorial service at the Station Street Cenotaph.

It is noted that in deference to morning church services, the memorial service at the cenotaph will be held at three o'clock Sunday afternoon instead of the usual hour of eleven in the morning. All churches in the city have been requested to observe two minutes silence at 11 a.m. The afternoon memorial service, it is felt, will give citizens the opportunity to attend the service without remaining away from their own church services.

All Veterans Invited

All veterans of the city and district, regardless of organization affiliation, are requested to attend the service with their berets and medals. The parade will move off from the Bridge Street Armories at 2.15 under parade marshal Lieut. Angus B. Duff of the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment.

The Belleville Municipal Band, Kilmanock Band, Trenton Salvation Army Band and the 9th Anti-Tank Regiment Kilties Band will be in attendance.

Major, the Rev. Arthur Smith, ance.

Body of Hunter Recovered From Elephant Lake

The body of W. A. Pollack of Toronto was recovered yesterday afternoon from Elephant Lake, approximately 30 miles west of Bancroft by search parties who had been pressing the search since Monday when Pollack was brought out of the bush at 4 p. m. today.

Pollack is a brother-in-law of Chief of Police Walter Probert of this city who has been in Bancroft assisting in the search.

The drowned man and companion Bruce Swain, both from Sutton, became lost while on a hunting expedition and Monday night Swain was found half frozen with his hands cut from struggling following the latter's boat that sank.

Police conducted a day-long search of the lake shore on Monday but slackened the search when they learned that he had reached another hunting camp.

Attempt to Steal Battery Thwarted At Parking Lot

An attempt to steal a battery from a car on a public service parking lot was thwarted Wednesday night when the owner heard the noise and shone a flashlight and scared them away.

Mrs. Sexsmith 329 1-2 Front Street, reported to police shortly after midnight that she had seen two youths tampering around the car apparently trying to steal the battery. They ran off when the flashlight was shone in their direction. There was no one in the vicinity when police investigated.

Noted Architect Will Address Exchange

A special meeting of the Belleville and District Builders' Exchange is being held, Tuesday evening Nov. 13th at the Kiwanis Centre, when John B. Parkin, partner of John B. Parkin and Associates, architects and engineers, of Toronto will be the guest speaker.

His firm enjoys distinction for excellence in design in the fields of schools, hospitals, industrial, commercial and religious architecture. He is currently serving as a government committee on hospitals.

An added feature at the meeting will be the showing of a film: "Steel fabrication on the new United Nations building."

Rawdon Twp. Will Appeal Assessment

Rawdon township will apply to the Central Hastings High School Area for an appeal on the equalized assessment for school purposes in the township. At their November meeting members of council voted that the application for an appeal be made to the secretary of the high school area.

Municipal assessments on three township properties were increased by the court of revision, which sat on Dec. same day as council. No action was taken on three other appeals.

The assessment of Ralph Thompson on a pasture lot was lowered by $200 and George Lyon's man had his buildings assessment lowered $100. Burton Spry had his buildings assessment lowered $150. No action was taken on appeals of Egbert Plunkett; John Morrison and Russell Dafoe.

Obituary

FORD WILSON TUMELTY (Madoc Township)

In failing health for the past three years Ford Wilson Tumelty, of Queen Settlement in Madoc township died at his home Wednesday. He was in his 58th year.

Born in Madoc township, son of the late Mr. and Mrs. William Tumelty, Mr. Tumelty was a lifelong resident of the district where he was a successful farmer. He was a member of Madoc Presbyterian Church and was a member of the Board of Stewards of that church. He was a member of the A.F. & A.M. No. 48, at Madoc.

Surviving are his wife the former Ada Grace Delyea; one daughter Mrs. Don (Sadie) Miller of Madoc, and one son William Tumelty, at home.

There is one sister Miss Helen Tumelty of Toronto, and two brothers, Roy of Fort Arthur, and Carl of Madoc.

The funeral announcement is made elsewhere in this edition.

MRS. MARGARET GALLAGHER

Marmora—The death occurred in her home in Marmora township on Wednesday of Mrs. Margaret Gallagher, widow of Michael Gallagher. Deceased who was in her 77th year, was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Patrick Connors, and all her life had been spent in Marmora township. She was a devout member of St. Mary's Church and in connection with the parish was a member of the Catholic Women's League and the Sacred Heart Society. A kind neighborly disposition and was highly esteemed and her passing will be sincerely regretted by a large number of friends and neighbors. She is survived by three sons, Joseph and Edward, Charles of Marmora township; Mrs. (Myrtle) Fred Bonnell of Marmora township and one brother, Peter Connors of Gravelbourg, Sask.

The funeral was held on Thursday morning from her late residence to Sacred Heart Church, where High Requiem Mass was celebrated at 9 o'clock by the Rev. J. A. O'Neill. Interment took place in Sacred Heart Cemetery.

LATE WILLIAM ROGERS (Tamworth)

One of Tamworth's oldest and most respected citizens in the person of the late Mr. William Rogers, passed away Thursday evening, November 1 at the age of ninety-four.

Deceased was the son of the late Joseph Rogers and Margaret Millikan. In 1886 Mr. Rogers married Sarah Gee to whom ten children were born. His wife predeceased him fifteen years ago. Just a few months before her death they celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary.

Deceased was a farmer until 1924 when he came to the village to live, after his wife's death he went to live with his son Herbert where he passed away. His daughter-in-law being a registered nurse gave him every comfort. Her died in the same street that he was born on.

Those who are left to mourn are, four daughters, Mrs. Allin South (Elizabeth) Roblin; Mrs. Arthur Fennell of Madoc; Mrs. Coote; Mrs. Christopher Athay (Rachael), Toronto; Mrs. John Armstrong (Martha), Belleville; and four sons, William David of Kingston; Herbert, Tamworth, Smith and Robert of Toronto, one daughter Emma and one son John Rogers predeceased him.

The many floral tributes spoke of the great esteem in which deceased was held. The funeral service was held from the home of his son Herbert to the United church on Saturday afternoon, where many friends gathered to pay their last respects.

His pastor Rev. L. S. Throop preached a most inspiring sermon from a text taken from 1st Corinthians, chapter three and verse 2, this was a request and was the text used at his mother's funeral. The hymns were also favorites, they were "Rock of Ages", and "Safely in Jesus". The choir sang as an anthem "The Lord is My Shepherd".

The bearers were Mark Gilmour, Clarence Burns, R. F. Bell, Charlie Jamieson, Thomas Farrell and William Hannah.

Those who attended from a distance were Mrs. Toronto, Belleville, Deseronto, Kingston, Marysville and Bancroft.

Interment was in the family plot in the United Church cemetery.

Repairs of Broken Hydro Lines Rapidly Nearing Completion; Cleaning up Debris Big Task

Rain hampered weary hydro workmen rolled up their sleeves again today and tackled what they hoped would be the final phase of repairing the heavy line damage caused by the Tuesday night sleet storm.

Night gangs laboring under adverse weather conditions as conditions had main circuits operating by two o'clock this morning.

Ken Scott, Public Utilities Commanager, said this morning that augmented hydro crews hoped to have power restored to all parts of the city some time today.

While a large number of homes were without hydro power last night and today, these are mainly individual cases where hydro wires have been smashed by falling branches in the immediate vicinity.

Circuit Repairs Made First

All breaks on separate circuits must be repaired before power can be turned on Mr. Scott said. Household wiring will be attended to last. If they note that power does not come on immediately after the break in their vicinity is repaired.

While damage to street lighting and heavy circuits feeding power for domestic use take repair priority.

Public Utilities crews have been augmented by those from Port Hope, Frenelon Falls and Havelock, working under the jurisdiction of the hydro regional office.

Repair work has been retarded in many cases by debris-choked streets. Many working crews have to have in many cases been forced to retrace their tracks due to inability to proceed through a thoroughfare.

Could Have Been Worse

Commenting on the storm damage, Mr. Scott said "we are very lucky it was not worse. While some poles were down, had the damage been confined to entire lines being down through this medium, the city would have been in much worse condition than it is. It would take at least a half-day to "make the jump" from pole to pole."

The Tuesday storm was not the worst that has visited the city Mr. Scott said, but the damage was more widespread due to the fact that hydro is practically a household word in the greater majority of city homes.

In 1932, the year of a storm that caused tremendous damage to wires and poles, the city was not nearly as much affected as it was during the Tuesday storm. Oil-burners in 1932 were few. Today they are in a great many homes which have no other medium of heating.

Lesson in the Storm

"There is a lesson in this storm damage," Mr. Scott said, "that makes one wonder what would happen if the city was bombed. The terrible havoc that a bombing can now be readily imagined, after the heavy damage caused by a mere sleet storm."

He paid tribute to the power consumers as well as business and industrial officials. Telephones in hydro and utilities offices were swamped with calls yesterday morning. Phones in homes of officials of both services rang unceasingly.

"The general public took the lack of power in good grace", Mr. Scott said, "A lot of people were just curious and asked questions regarding restoration of power, but very few lodged complaints. We told them we were doing the best we could to restore power, and the greater majority seemed content."

Big Clean-up Job

Meanwhile city public works department, augmented by a number of trucks and workmen continued their efforts at clearing streets of debris.

Night gangs toiled until seven o'clock this morning when they were relieved by day crews. Debris help was taken on by the department and its appeal for extra trucks and manpower resulted in eleven vehicles and a large amount of manual assistance.

Additional work has been entailed since Tuesday's storm cleared yesterday have to be cleared again due to ice-coated branches falling after the storm and workmen had concluded 'mopping-up operations.'

Rising temperatures during the night reduced the damage hazard, melting the ice coated trees. Rain fell heavily during the morning hours melting the accumulations of sleet and aiding indirectly in the general clean-up of city streets.

Hydro, city public works and telephone crews are working hand-in-hand in a combined effort to repair the overall damage.

Bell Telephone Company district crews dropped all other activities and concentrated on repair work in east of Gravenhurst from storm damage

Company officials said today that all lines to Pigton and Madoc are still out of commission. Trunk lines between Toronto and Montreal are in operation, while communication to Deseronto and Tweed is possible.

Approximately 1,200 telephones in the Belleville district which includes Picton and Madoc were put out of operation through the heavy damage incurred by falling trees and branches.

U.S. Steel 39 1-2

TORONTO STOCKS

Toronto, Nov. 8 — (CP) Stock market prices showed little trend today in early afternoon dealings. Firm morning support checked yesterday's sharp decline.

Retail stores posted a majority of fractional gains while textiles drew firm support. Papers, agriculture, construction, foods, liquors, banks and miscellaneous industrials made little headway. Utilities and refining oils weakened as steels and manufacturing companies turned abruptly lower.

In western oils Anglo - Canadian, General Petroleum A, Home Oil and Jupiter showed advances to about 50 cents.

Base metals regained most early losses. International Nickel and United Keno Hill climbed fractions while Earl Sullivan, Golden Manitou, Quebec Copper and New Calumet showed advances to 25 cents. Consolidated Smelters lost 25 while Noranda and Quemont slipped fractions.

Senior golds weakened as five of seven issues traded showed losses ranging to 50 cents. Juniors were mixed while prospects and holding companies dipped sharply.

TORONTO LIVESTOCK

Toronto, Nov. 8—(CP)— The supply was chiefly stockers and lower grade killers at the Ontario stockyards today. Trade was dull and prices were weak. Receipts: cattle 120, calves 90, hogs 160, sheep and lamb 50. The holdover from Wednesday was 1,500 cattle.

Common to medium light steers and heifers sold for $20-$31. Canners and plain cows were selling at $15-$20 with a few good cows at $26-$27. Common light bulls sold $22-$25 with common stockers at $22-$29.

Common to medium calves brought $28-35 with grassers for slaughter $20-$23. Heavy calves were not wanted.

Hogs were selling at $29.75 for grade A with sows $24 dressed.

Lambs were steady at $32.25 for good ewes and wethers. A few good light sheep sold $30-$32.

Nomination Day Will Bring Out 280 Candidates

Toronto, Nov. 8 — (CP) — This is official nomination day in Ontario's Nov. 22 general election.

It is expected that between 275 and 280 candidates will file nomination papers with returning officers. They must do so by 5 p. m. EST today, except in the far northwestern ridings of Kenora and Rainy River where the deadline is 2 p.m. CST.

On the eve of nomination days an unofficial tabulation by The Canadian Press showed a total of 268 prospective candidates but others can come forward up to the last minutes. Each has been nominated by a political party convention or has announced publicly that he will run.

Papers each candidate files with a returning officer must bear signatures of at least 100 voters in his own constituency. No deposit is required.

The Progressive Conservatives, led by Premier Frost, have put up candidates in each of the ninety ridings. The C.C.F., under leadership of F. R. Jolliffe, opposition leader in the last house, has nominated 75 but may offer others. The Liberals, led by Walter Thomson, have 70 candidates and are supporting two Liberal - Labor candidates. The communist Labor - Progressive party has 3 candidates.

In addition there are three Independents, one Independent - Labor and one Independent Progressive Conservative.

The Progressive Conservatives held 83 seats in the last House, the C.C.F. 21, the Liberals 13, the Labor — Progressive party two and there was one Liberal-Labor.

The premier, seeking re-election in the Eastern Ontario riding of Victoria which he has held since 1937, may be opposed by Liberal Edward Harding.

Mr. Jolliffe, fighting for his Toronto area seat of York South, faces probable opposition from Progressive Conservative, Liberal and Labor-Progressive candidates.

Mr. Thomson will likely be in a four-way race with a Progressive Conservative, a C.C.F. supporter and an Independent in his home riding of Ontario, which includes the automobile - manufacturing city of Oshawa.

Seven women have announced they will be candidates.

Presentation Made To Bank Manager

Mr. Henry Becker, manager of the Bank of Montreal, and Mrs. Becker, were honored at a dinner party last night given by the staff of the bank at the Queens Hotel.

Following the dinner, which was attended by about 40 persons, Mr. T. Henry, on behalf of the staff, presented Mr. and Mrs. Becker with a fireplace set. Later a social evening was enjoyed.

Mr. Becker is leaving the city in the near future to take up a position as manager of a Bank of Montreal branch in London, Ontario.

Woman's Screams Foil Attacker

When her screams attracted the attention of two men who ran to her aid, Mrs. Daphne Best, 33 Hillcrest Ave., escaped from a man who attacked her Tuesday night as she was walking on Yeomans Street.

Mrs. Best told police that she was grabbed from behind by a man who covered her face and attempted to smother outcries with a handkerchief. She fought the man off. Her cries for help brought Douglas McKee and Donald Heath both of Stirling.

When the attacker saw the men coming he fled. Mrs. Best described her attacker as being 5 feet 8 inches in height and said he was wearing a black windbreaker.

AN UNDESIRABLE IMPORTATION

The Ontario Liquor Licence Board has been informed that there are 13 hotels and taverns in Windsor which either refuse to serve negroes or segregate them in what are known as "jungle rooms." The situation has been made known to the liquor board by the Civil Liberties Association in a brief which has been endorsed by Mayor Arthur J. Reaume of Windsor and by Hon. Paul Martin, the federal Minister of Health and welfare, a former son in Windsor.

The reason for such discrimination in Windsor is easily found; Windsor, although in Canada, is practically a suburb of Detroit and therefore very much under American influence.

Our American neighbors have their good points; among these, to mention only two, are their industrial efficiency and their generosity. But they have their bad points too, and one of these is the way they treat their negroes.

While the liquor licence board has not made known what it purposes doing about race segregation in Windsor, it is to be hoped that the practice will be discouraged. Probably it is not specifically forbidden.

But the members of the liquor licence board should bear in mind that, in the final analysis, it is the public by whom the discriminating is done, and not the proprietor of a beer parlor, restaurant, hotel or amusement place. This was proven by certain events in Edmonton, during the war. With the beginning of the Alaska Highway, Americans invaded Edmonton by tens of thousands. Many were civilians, but among them were the U.S. armed forces.

Before their arrival, the few score negro residents of Edmonton, mostly railroad employees and their families, were treated the same as anyone else when they entered a restaurant or beer parlor. Indeed, in the advent of the Americans did that. The Americans, in and out of uniform, made it plain to hotelmen, restaurateurs and others in such businesses that they would not patronize any such place which tolerated the presence of negroes.

The highly-paid American troops and mechanics had at least $1,000 to spend for every dollar which Edmonton's few dozen negroes had. The Americans were real spenders and big tippers, too. Before long, the unfortunate negro citizens of Edmonton found it hard to get a meal in a restaurant or a glass of beer in a beer parlor.

Things are probably back to normal in regard to racial discrimination in the Alberta capital now, but the moral remains; the discrimination practised against the negroes was primarily due to the patrons of the business places, not the proprietors. No one with any sense in this country wants to see discrimination against the negroes or any other racial group. But if it is going to be stopped it will be stopped not by "cracking down" on the proprietor of a few restaurants or beer parlors, but by the pressure of an enlightened public opinion.

THE CHURCH BENEFITS

There are people, unfortunately, who are not too careful in their language. But one Arnold O'Connell, the proprietor of a pool room over in Frederick, has found a way to make it help a church through their cursing.

Everyone who is caught using bad language in Mr. O'Connell's pool room, it seems, is required to contribute a dime toward the rebuilding of the Bethel A.M.E. Knox Presbyterian Church, which was destroyed by fire.

Paradoxically, Mr. O'Connell's plan has worked both ways. It has decreased the use of bad language in his establishment and is yielding about $11 a week toward the rebuilding of the church.

Mr. O'Connell says that he not only has no difficulties in collecting "fines" from the users of bad language but that he is able to collect donations from patrons who are not addicted to profanity.

It is an ill wind that blows nobody good!

WAGES DO RISE

Even though they do not succeed in keeping pace with increases in the cost of living, wages do rise, it is shown by figures released by the Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

Average weekly earnings across Canada at August 1, 1951, were $50.50, as compared with $50.16 at August 1, 1950.

Figures published in these columns a short time ago showed that, during the same twelve-month period, average weekly wages had declined from about 44 per week to about 42 per week.

This means that the wage-earner is not only getting a little more than he was a year ago, but working about two hours a week less.

THE GOOD LIFE

"Son," my father said to me:
"This is all I'd have you be,
True in all you say or do.
Then no shame can come to you.

"This I'd have you bear in mind,
It is better to be kind.
Gentle, generous of heart
Than to hurt by being smart.

"Skill and strength I'd have you own
But don't trust to them alone.
It is better to be fair
Than the costliest medal wear.

"Play your games to win, but choose
Never self-respect to lose.
Be a man, and be a friend
Down unto your journey's end."

GLEANINGS FROM OUR FYLES OF BYGONE YEARS

20 YEARS AGO

Nov. 8th., 1931

Twenty men sought shelter at the police station last night and they were very thankful for the hot nourishing soup and bread with which they were fed upon their arrival and also upon their departure this morning.

Miss Nora Benson of Ivanhoe is visiting friends in the city.

Miss Margaret King of Toronto is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Morris, Bleecker Avenue.

Mr. C. R. Hicks of Chat Falls is visiting relatives here.

Mr. and Mrs. S. T. Wilson spent a few days in Toronto this week.

Mrs. Harry Thrasher is visiting friends in Port Hope.

30 YEARS AGO

The soccer football game between the Tigers and the Grand Trunks resulted in a tie. It was a fast and exciting game. The following composed the teams: Tigers — Thompson, Eves, Johnson, Wade, Berry, Lee, Marsh, Page, Knott and Page; G.T.R. team — Gorman, Griffin, Summers, Nicholson, Gill, Hickey, Binney, Grant, Knott and Lemaster. Reimer holds handled the game well.

In St. Thomas' Church Sunday morning a handsome tablet was dedicated in memory of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas B. Wragg, who were members of the parish for many years.

40 YEARS AGO

Drilling for oil will be commenced at Melrose in a few days.

Mr. H. P. Wills, an old Belleville boy, and for some time manager of the Canadian Bank of Commerce in Dawson City, Yukon Territory, is home on a visit.

It will soon be time to resurrect the snow by-law.

Mr. Merlin Gordon has returned home after spending a few days in Toronto.

Mr. F. G. Lockett of Kingston, formerly of this city, spent yesterday in town.

THE PACKSACK

By GREGORY CLARK

It is constantly being said that the incentive of gain is being removed from business enterprise by ever-increasing taxation and government controls. How astonishing it is, then, that today any incentive, so many magnificent new factories, large and small, are going up all over the country, in cities, and towns and even in villages.

Wherever I travel in our big cities, both in the old down-town areas where old buildings are giving way to new ones, and out in the suburbs, where, despite high building costs, beautiful new modernistic industrial plants are appearing as if by magic, from the evidence that there must still be some incentive left which appeals to men with money to risk on their brains and enterprise.

On the royal tour of the Princess and the Duke, it was my luck to travel much of the way on the pilot train, and the amount of new industrial plants to be seen along the way, from Quebec to Winnipeg, was tirelessly impressive. A feature of the new post-war industrial building is the number of fairly small plants, very handsome and functional, landscaped, modern and trim. Around these plants, usually along the railways on the outskirts of cities, are being served very few human beings. The number of cars parked beside them is generally small. The impression grows that most of these factories are the realization of the machine age of which we have heard so much, that age of labor-saving devices towards which we have been looking for the past twenty years or more, and why, if not most, of these new industrial plants the tidy mansions of machines that now do the work formerly done by hundreds of workers?

If so, the incentive question is answered, for a man with money to risk would more freely risk it on machines that can't talk back to him.

NATURE OF FAITH

Many people have the idea that religious faith is nothing more than belief. They assume that faith consists primarily in assent to certain propositions.

That religious faith is based upon belief is of course a fact. But faith is a lot more than belief or assent. Faith is trust. Faith is not only believing that certain things are true; faith is believing a truth to such an extent that one will gamble on this truth and attempt to put it into operation.

Of course if this trust fails, the failure is great. But the person of real faith is perfectly confident that it will not fail. And the singular thing about it is that it doesn't fail if the person has real faith.

This does not mean that if we can have faith enough we can have everything we wish. It means something much more significant than that—namely, that if we have faith, we can have what we want, or if the omniscient God knows that there is something else which would do us more good, we can have that higher and better thing.

Faith is the giving of substance to things hoped for. It is the power to help us make our dreams — and best of all, our aspirations — come true.

THOUGHTS ALOUD

Just wondering:

* * *

Just wondering how many Canadian premiers, mayors and other assorted dignitaries heard President Truman's welcome to Elizabeth and Philip in Washington and kicked themselves for their own stilted, formalized, codfish-cold addresses.

You know me, Al. I'm no great admirer of Truman or the American era, gone sour, but I think Harry's hello to the Princess and the Duke beside the Potomac was a small bright gem of sincerity and naturalness. Couldn't have been more American if they'd picked a Hoosier Hot Shot.

Our own leaders, almost without exception from coast-to-coast, acted as if they were trying to prove to the visitors that they knew the "proper" way to address royalty, yes sir, you bet you. The smoke screen of "esteems," "beholdens," "humbles" and "honoreds" and the rest was enough to obscure any kind of genuine Canadian welcome on the official level.

* * *

Just wondering if the American newspaper coverage of the royal tour wasn't a new low in journalism. The good taste here was all Canadian.

The U.S. newsmen and newshens on the tour seemed to be trying to outdo each other in finding stories that weren't there. One internationally known American reporter actually began a story, "Princess Elizabeth is a washout," but was prevailed upon by a colleague to modify it.

They were all disturbed by the fact that Elizabeth wore her hair Hutton and annoyed because she didn't break into a buck-and-wing.

One typical yarn was that of Cynthia Lowry, of the Associated Press, which described the tour this way:

"This royal trans-continental tour is a combination circus and theatrical production. There's the special train, the corps of prop men and plenty of props, a wardrobe mistress, and advance publicity crew and all the rest. They are playing to packed houses in the style of the world's great troupers. The performing troupe itself, of course, consists of only two people, a remarkably smooth operating husband and wife team."

They Americans failed to warn could get the idea that the relationship between the Canadian public and the Princess was something a little deeper and more lasting than anything in American life.

* * *

Just wondering how the gimlet-eyed gentlemen in the front office are reacting to my expense account on the royal tour. One of the items is a $15 outlay for the entertainment of 25 orphans in Winnipeg, a project I took to help the royal procession.

"Twenty-five orphans—$15" is the kind of cryptic entry that makes most business office executives look upon the editorial floor as a hot-bed of potential madness.

Speaking of expense accounts, it's getting harder and harder to swindle the office. The cost of everything on the road these days is so staggering that you feel that you're cheating by just putting down the legitimate figures.

Only a cunning crook like me would dream up the kind of fake business office boys reject that and I'll bet they don't sleep at night. Hate cunning, eh, fellows?

* * *

Just wondering how many people realize that the pick of the young loggers when it comes to romance, I got to talking with a couple of them in Winnipeg in a tavern the other day and he expressed a point of view I hadn't encountered before.

"It's no way to get yourself a wife," he complained, "you're naturally get hooked up with the boys who stay in town, and when you get the opportunity to be here it's pretty hard to get a date. Even if you do, there's mighty little time for the proper courtship for matrimony. It's the reason some of the boys get into boob brawls. The girls just not much else to do but have yourself a ball."

I'm told by fellow-members of family life in the camps these days is the biggest advance in logging in the last decade, but that the element don't want any part or a life away from the city. Everybody's got trouble.

* * *

Just wondering if I'm getting old or whether sheer repetition is changing my taste. Whatever it is, I find I am enjoying Guy Lombardo's records. I hope my friend Bob Smith, the Little Caesar of the jazz world, doesn't read this.

TODAY'S TALK

By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

PATIENCE

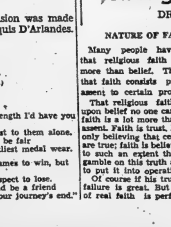
Patience is a wonderful quality of character and Heaven knows today is ours in which we are not faced with the problem of patience. Nearly every great figure in history has been faced with the same thing.

From George Washington, down to Lincoln and McKinley, even in American public life have had to be patient and trust the voice of posterity. The more responsibility that is placed upon anyone, the more they are called upon to be patient and wait things out.

It has been said that all things come to him who waits, but this is fallacious. They don't! But if one is patient while he waits and keeps doing something useful, he'll get his reward. Impatience all too often has brought failure instead of success. I once read of a singer who was the student of a great teacher in Paris. He worked hard but began to get discouraged over the long wait before he could be ready for his first concert. The teacher kept saying "Not yet!" His patience was rewarded finally, for that teacher came to him one day and said: "Now you may go for you have the genius and you will work!"



Many a worker gets restless, lacking patience, and so changes his job for an easier and less exacting one, often for less pay, not knowing that his patience was being tested for a better and bigger job right where he was.

Marshall Field, the founder of Chicago's great department store, soon after his modest beginning, hired a young man and made a place for him in his little store, that a friend once showed, to me. It was that he was to be tried for a few months and then, "if acceptable," his salary was to be increased. The young man was hired at a week. That young man later became the head of this store and his name was John G. Shedd. The Field store like to engage those with patience and vision.

We must all patiently bide our time. There is always something better just ahead, if we will look well today. We need to possess our very souls in patience. Valuable indeed are those often that inner voice of ours says: "Be patient."

WHITE BREAD AND DARK

Don't I know that the scale of living is higher in America than anywhere else in the world? Isn't bread the main source of calories in the every day diet of most people? If I think the white bread we consume is inferior to the brown, dark or "black" bread of eastern Europe how do I account for the physical superiority of Americans over people who get only coarse bread?

These are rhetorical questions in the daily mail. I wish I could put my finger on the item in my wishy-washy medical organization:

"If a person feels that he has the digestion of an ostrich it is all right to eat anything offered in coarse breads, but the wise person will let his doctor decide. For roughage in a natter try adding your faith on lettuce, cabbage, celery, and other bulky vegetables with a steady coarse bread diet."

Having made the customary crack about "asking your doctor" the loud-mouthed doctor-book peddler made no bones about telling the public how much "natter" cabbage and other bulky vegetables, are than crude old-fashioned undoctored bread is. Your doctor wouldn't be competent to advise about that.

Then, while the ubiquitous one was mapping the whip over the nominal officers and timid members of the A.M.A. the Committee on Foods of venal medical sound accepted the following statement:

"White bread is a wholesome, nutritious food. As such it has its rightful place in the diet of most of the normal individual. Its avoidance (sic) for fear of any harmful consequence or the fear that it is the cause of any diseased condition (sic) is unfounded. Widely used in the normal diet, is entirely without scientific foundation."

This odd statement implies that the charlatan or dietetic fad regards white bread as harmful or perhaps the cause of disease, but I suspect the Committee on Foods merely set up a straw man to practise on. The statement would be just as true if "whole wheat bread" were substituted for "white bread". It is as available and as honest as the claims made for vari-, a kinds of cigarettes in the comic weekly of the A.M.A. With that aggregation anything that pays easy money is "scientific."

It is only a matter of time, I fear, until the medical association will cut in on the sale of booze, too. That is a free country and we doctors would be saps to decline the gratuities so generously paid for our "acceptance."

QUESTIONS & ANSWERS

"Shot" Specialists

I recently had two shots of calcium for cramps in the legs and the only effect I noticed was increase of pain...so your harping on calcium is like all the rest of your bokum. (G. R. C.)

Answer — Wait, knucklehead, you're sparring with a straw man. I have never suggested calcium "shots" for cramps. Stamped, self-addressed envelope for the pamphlet Growing Pains, will be sent you. Then if you can find some one who has passed the third grade to read it for you perhaps you will understand how to supplement your diet with calcium and vitamin D to prevent and relieve painful cramps in legs and feet at night. Incidentally, it may save some of your loose, very loose money if you can get it through your thick head that doctors who give medicine by injection which patients can take by mouth are bunk merchants.

Don't Worry About the Change

Have been reading your column for nearly a year and like it very much. I am 48. How can I prevent the worry about change of life, and how long does it last? (Mrs. W. S.)

Answer — Don't dunno. Mine hasn't begun—or maybe just too familiar with the symptoms to be prepared to indulge morbid fancy. Send stamped, self-addressed envelope and I will send pamphlet The Menopause. Congratulations for eluding the clutches of quacks and dreams a lot of fun laughing at their gloomy prognostications.

Halifax, Nov. 8 — (CP) — Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hager, German immigrants en route to Montreal, entrusted their train tickets and immigration papers totalling $150 to a fellow passenger on board their ship — a man who introduced himself as Dr. Harry McPhee. The man gave them an autographed photo bearing the words: "Best of luck in Canada, God bless you," and then disappeared when the ship docked here.

Gen. D.C. Draper, Former Toronto Police Chief, Dies

Toronto, Nov. 8 — (CP) Brig.-Gen. Dennis Colburn Draper, former Toronto Chief of Police, died today in Sunnybrook Veterans' Hospital here. He was 78.

Gen. Draper entered hospital Oct. 24 and died early today. Cause of his death was not reported.

A native of Sutton, Que., Gen. Draper had no previous police experience when he was appointed Toronto's chief constable in 1928. He held the post until his retirement five years ago.

His distinguished First World War record helped him get the appointment. At the end of the war he was Brigadier - General commanding the 5th Infantry Brigade. He won the D. S. O. and Bar and the French Croix de Guerre and was made a Companion of the Order of St. Michael and St. George.

Gen. Draper had gone overseas as a major with the 5th Canadian Mounted Rifles. When the unit's commanding officer was killed at Sanctuary Wood, Maj. Draper took over and led the regiment.

A year after Gen. Draper became Toronto police chief in 1928, he founded the Prisoners' Rehabilitation Society and served for some years as its president. The organization helps men and boys re-establish themselves after serving prison terms.

Born in 1874, Gen. Draper was educated at Sutton, about 85 miles southeast of Montreal. Later he took part of a law course at McGill University.

He was employed by the Canadian International Paper Company at Sutton after the First World War and until he became Toronto's police chief.

Under his leadership the Toronto Police Department radio car patrol was inaugurated, the motorcycle squad was doubled and the wrc was increased by almost 15 per cent.

IMPROVED TICKETS

Montreal. (CP)—Modern railway tickets with consecutive serial numbers owe their origin to Thomas Edmonson, an English station master who died 100 years ago. A. A. Trudeau of the Canadian National Railways told a meeting here that Edmonson not only started numbering tickets but invented the first machine to print them.

Press Coverage Of Tour 'Wonderful' Says Australian

Montreal, Nov. 8 — (CP) — Canadian newspapers "have done a really wonderful job" in coverage of the royal tour, William Dunstan, general manager of the Melbourne Herald in Australia, said today.

He has been in Canada negotiating for newsprint on behalf of the Australian newspaper industry.

"I can't tell you whether I have been successful or not regarding newsprint," he said. "But I must say that Canadian newspapers' reporting of the royal tour has been a magnificent and exciting recording of the upsurge of patriotism. It should serve, I think, as a pattern against the time when we Australians hope to see Princess Elizabeth and Prince Philip next year."

STUCK IN CHIMNEY

Santa Clara, Calif., Nov. 8 — (AP) — Thoughts of Christmas started Jackie Cambra, 6, on a test run. He climbed the trellis of his home, crossed the roof, slunk herred into the fireplace chimney, and started down. He got stuck. His mother, several neighbors and the fire department pulled him the rest of the way down.

Approve New Ceilings on Lamb, Mutton and Veal

Washington, Nov. 8 (AP) — The United States government today approved new ceilings expected to bring higher prices in most butcher shops for lamb, mutton and veal.

The new regulations issued by the office of price stabilization are effective next Tuesday. One sets dollar and cents ceilings for wholesale lamb, yearling lamb and mutton.

The second authorizes retailers to figure new ceilings weekly to reflect changes in wholesale prices of lamb, mutton and veal. This permits markets to pass on to the public any changes in prices.

New wholesale prices, which vary across the country, were not specified.

DID NOT HAVE TIME

Gary, Ind., Nov. 8 (AP) — Francis Lesenger was driving home from work yesterday when his new car stuck in a snowdrift on a railroad crossing. Lesenger shovelled furiously, but didn't His mother, several neighbors and the fire department pulled him the rest of the way down. have enough time. He ran a short distance, turned around and watched a train demolish his car.

Cold Weather Follows Wind And Rain Storm

Chicago, Nov. 8 (AP) — Cold weather chilled the United States' snowstruck mid-section today as a wind-and-rain storm which hit the mid-Atlantic states moved out to sea.

The east coast, buffeted by gale force winds, heavy rains and sleet, saw the storm shift from the land to Atlantic waters off New England. The storm at its height swamped an area stretching from North Carolina to Maryland.

This was the same storm which earlier in the week gave the midwest a snowy deluge, snarling traffic in metropolitan areas and taking a heavy death toll on icy highways.

Only light snow fell in the midwest today—over the lower lakes region and upper Ohio valley. But temperatures were low with Chicago and St. Louis at 18 degrees above zero. It was 22 in Detroit, 25 in Minneapolis and eight above in Springfield, Ill.

Freezing temperatures also were reported last night in the south Atlantic and east gulf states.

Warm air brought east by the rain and wind gave New York an early-morning temperature of 52. It was 47 in New Orleans, 60 in Miami, 58 in Los Angeles.

HUNTER MISSING

Sudbury, Nov. 8. (CP)—Search parties were out at the west end of Lake Penage, 30 miles west of here, today looking for a Garson hunter, Nick Laiturl, 45. He has been missing since 10 a.m. Tuesday.

A pilot from Austin Airways of Sudbury, Elmar Kallio, took up a plane to help in the search.

Arvo Lahti, also of Garson, reported to Provincial Police that Laiturl failed to return fr hunting trip in Dieppe tow

...e reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, which was beautifully decorated for the occasion with baskets of large white chrysanthemums. The bride's mother, Mrs. Herbert Mc-Cabe, received, wearing a floor-length gown of Keepsake blue crepe and French lace with matching feather hat, and corsage of Briarcliffe roses. She was assisted in the receiving line by Mrs. A. H. Maguire, mother of the bridegroom, attired in a floor-length gown of Ladylove mauve crepe and lace, with hat to matching hat trimmed with lilac-tinted ostrich plumes and wearing a corsage of Johanna Hill roses.

The bride's table, with its lovely lace cloth was centred by a three-tiered wedding cake topped with a tiny 'mum of Sweetheart roses, and surrounded by' a fluff of pink tulle and tiny rosebuds, and flanked by silver candelabra with white tapers.

Those who assisted in serving were, Miss Joan McIntyre, Miss Carol Norton, Miss Catherine Fortin, Miss Mary Jean Hudon, and Miss Helen Arnott, all close friends of the bride.

For travelling to Niagara Falls, Buffalo, and Western Ontario, the bride chose an ensemble of grey and mauve tie silk, top coat of grey Bronsleigh wool, and velvet trim, Paddy green suede accessories and corsage of white gardenias. Upon their return, Mr. and Mrs. Maguire will reside at 371 Albert Street, Belleville.

Out-of-town guests were present from Hamilton, Toronto, Niagara Falls, Kingston, Oshawa, Havelock and Lindsay.

Prior to her marriage, the bride was entertained at several showers: at a kitchen shower at the home of Mrs. Maurice Bradden, Bertram Avenue; by her graduating class, at the home of Miss Carl Norton, Albert Street; by community friends at the home of Mrs. Ken Bunnett and daughter, Mrs. K. Davidson, Chatham Street; by the co-hostesses, Mrs. John Rollins and 'Mrs. Harry Rollins, Pine Street; and by the choir of Bridge Street United, which the bride is a member, and also by the Young People of Holloway Street United Church.

ELLERBECK—CAMPBALL

The United Church parsonage, Verona, was the setting for the recent marriage of Wilhelmina Jennette Campbell, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John A. Campbell, Parham, and Harry Franklin Ellerbeck, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Ellerbeck, Harrowsmith. Rev. H. A. Bunt, Harrowsmith, officiated.

Mr. William March played the wedding music.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was gowned in floor length white satin, featuring a sweetheart neckline, embroidered bodice and pyramic sleeves that tapered to points over the hands. Her finger-tip length pleated veil was held by a halo coronated with seed pearls. She carried a cascade of orchids.

Miss Irene Wagar, Parham, was maid of honor, wearing a floor length lace trimmed yellow sheer dress with net yoke and matching headdress. She carried baby 'mums.

Mr. Glenn Campbell, Parham, brother of the bride, was groomsman.

Following the reception at the home of the bride's parents, where the bride's mother received in a navy blue dress accented with corsage of pink carnations assisted by the groom's mother, who was dressed in navy blue crepe and corsage of pink carnations, the couple left for Ottawa and eastern points. The bride's going away blue dress with wine coat and accessories for the trip. Upon their return they will reside in Harrowsmith.

The out-of-town guests were present from Perth, Verona, Parham, Belleville, and Lake Ontario.

Dr. Lillian Gilbreth Speaks at Conference

Dr. Lillian Gilbreth, internationally famous industrial engineer, addressed the 21st annual dinner of the Business and Professional Women's Club, which held a provincial conference at the King Edward Hotel, Toronto, over the weekend, the largest conference in the history of the club.

Speaking on "Some Problems that Challenge Women Today", Dr. Gilbreth said, "recognition of the importance of spiritual and human values must go hand in hand with scientific developments if the needs of the world are to be met."

There are 138 Business and Professional Women's Clubs across Canada with a membership of 6,000. There are over 60 clubs in Ontario. Mrs. Marjory Pewtress, Cobourg, was elected Ontario provincial president. Mrs. G. Conant, Oshawa, wife of Hon. Gordon Conant, former premier of Ontario, and attorney-general, is the regional director for this district of ten clubs including Belleville.

Delegates to the provincial convention from the Belleville club were, Mrs. Mildred Mocrcom, and Misses Mary Moult and Norma Arkles.

The president of the local club, Mrs. Eva Doolittle, was unable to attend.

Asselstine Says Marriage Needs Similar Interests

Winnipeg. (CP) — No matter how pretty she is, chances are that the girl who drifts through life with a perpetual yawn is a poor marriage bet, according to Dr. J. L. Asselstine.

The psychiatrist who directs great Winnipeg's Child Guidance clinic said here "of course, there are always some people who are just plain bored."

Such types don't fit in with his definition of marriage—a partnership based on community interests and aims.

Marriage is also a matter of "take me, take my vices", he said. If the prospective hubby is a gambler, drinker or Casanova fiend, you can't expect him to change overnight. "That would mean someone is taking more than giving", he said.

Dr. Asselstine said the first quality to look for in a prospective mate is maturity. Then there's no dependence. One mate should not be linked to another who is overly dependent.

Responsibility is the big factor in maturity, he explained. It entails common sense and foresight.

Girl Guide Book Display on View

Guide and Brownie leaders will be interested in the display of books and equipment on exhibit in Bridge Street Church Sunday School auditorium, Friday afternoon and evening. Miss Victoria Rossetter and Miss Elizabeth Lothian from national headquarters stores department, Canadian Girl Guides, are coming from Toronto with ample stocks of story books, text books, and training aids. These book displays have proved popular in Hamilton, Winnipeg, Sudbury, Sault Ste. Marie, Port Arthur recently. All adults and children interested in Girl Guide movement should not miss the opportunity of chatting with Miss Rossetter and seeing her display.

Hallowe'en Party Given by Centenary Aikens Community

On Hallowe'en night, a masquerade was held in Centenary school with witches and goblins from the Centenary Aikens' district attending. This was sponsored by the Centenary Aikens' Home and School Association.

After the grand march, the judges, Mrs. F. Aikens, Mrs. G. Sills, and Mr. Fred Moon awarded the prizes to the following: girls, Lorraine Brown, Marilyn Christopher; boys', Larry May, Jimmy Jones' ladies', Mrs. Ken Bush, Miss Peggy Sargent; men, Carman Hoben, Fred Edmondson.

Games and relays were enjoyed with apples and kisses for prizes.

Mr. Colin Bain, president, asked Mr. and Mrs. Burton Hubble to accept seats of honor, after which an address of appreciation was read from Centenary community by Betty Radford, while Keith Sills and Fred Edmondson presented them with a floor lamp and a large pipe. Burton thanked their friends for their kindness.

Refreshments were served and Mr. Bain made a few announcements of coming events of the Home and School. Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Carlton, Mr. and Mrs. Murney Jeffery, Mr. and Mrs. Ross Marshal and Mr. and Mrs. Elwin Hart, were conveners for this event.

Women's Activities

SHANNONVILLE W.M.S.

The monthly meeting of Shannonville United Church W.M.S. was held at the home of Mrs. Charles Wood last Thursday afternoon with 24 ladies in attendance. Mrs. L. W. Scott, the president, welcomed the members and visitors and gave a brief, inspiring talk on "Thanksgiving".

Mrs. Wood read a letter of thanks from Mrs. Harold Burtt and family for the card of sympathy sent at the time of her mother's death and also one from Mrs. Ross Dean for the card sent to her during her stay in the hospital. Mrs. Archie Gresch thanked the ladies for the card during her indisposition, resulting from a fall.

Others who expressed appreciation for cards received were Mrs. Claude Clarke, at the time of her cousin's death; Mrs. J. F. McFarlane, at the time of her brother's death; and Mrs. L. E. Mills, who had requested that she be remembered to the W.M.S.

Dinner Receipts $70.

Mrs. Scott expressed her thanks to all for their work in making the Sectional rally a success and Mrs. B. Stratton reported that over $70 had been cleared at the dinner.

A nominating committee was appointed the same as last year, including Mrs. E. Stretton and Mrs. MacFarlane.

Mrs. Frank Doxtator, group leader, took charge of the program, the subject being: "Work of the United Church in Big Cities."

Mrs. Stratton read the Scripture lesson and Mrs. Robertson read of the week being carried on by the 100-year-old Brunswick Church, at Halifax, and about the Fred Victor Mission work in Toronto.

The church workers give practical assistance and special service where needed, either in large industrial centres or in isolated districts.

Mrs. Doxtator closed the meeting, after which Mrs. Scott tendered a vote of thanks to Mrs. Wood for her hospitality. The next meeting will be held at the parsonage on December 6, and as this will be the Christmas, the associate members will be invited to unite with the W.M.S.

Following the close of the meeting, refreshments were served by the hostess and her assistants.

ADVICE to the LOVELORN

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

They have a selfish air

Dear Miss Fairfax:

My husband and I have a 17-year-old son who is really a good boy, but he has a little thoughtless of others.

He works summer vacations, but this summer he helped his boss a second-hand car. Because of that, he wants to use it for school with it parked in front of the house, and anything else I mind. If we object, all we hear about the money he has put in it.

We feel very badly about the way he acts because we have always been good to him, and he has been working, we give him all the money he earns (except $5). He never wants to go around the house, or work in the garden with me, but he is a war veteran, and not too strong.

Do you think children should do their parents when they grow up, or should they help us all his money, although we never asked him to? He doesn't think of taking any way from him for our use, but he gives me a little hand, I am considering putting away he gives me in the bank for me and all I have left. Thank you for any advice.

F. A. M.

F.A.M.:

I certainly do think that children should be expected to help parents to a reasonable degree while living at home. That is very selfish. Do you think that perhaps you could help him to see things that way, so that he now feels he could come first?

Couldn't it be possible for you and your husband—preferably your husband if he is not too ill—have a frank, businesslike talk with your son about the car, and work out some sort of plan together in regard to use and other help from him? I would, of course, be unreasonable to expect a 17-year-old boy to contribute much financial help if I think, if at all possible, it would be possible to take care of a child until he is old enough to be self-supporting. A child should, however, be a cooperative group, and this boy will definitely make his contribution in the way of help with the household chores. If he has pocket money, he should buy his own oil and gas for the car, and I should think, help with any repairs.

Then, in talking about all these things to him, you and your husband have reproached him, made him feel sorry for himself, talking to him without getting emotional about it, but making him feel he is an adult level with you and so would like to help with the family plans. This might really work, if you went at it in the right way.

Be wise! Don't make rash promises

Dear Miss Fairfax:

I am 17, and going with a fellow 19 who is in the army, and expects to go overseas before Christmas.

He wants to give me an engagement ring before he goes away. Do you think it wise for me to accept his ring? I am very fond of him, but unable to decide what to do.

E. D.

Dear E.D.:

My own feeling is that it is much safer for young people of your age not to commit themselves too definitely under these circumstances. It is a very tempting ration for a girl to make an impulsive promise to a man who is leaving home and all that is dear to him, to go to a war front, but one or the other is very apt to get hurt in the end.

The sensible young couple will pass the waiting, or letting things ride, for a while anyway, until they see how their feelings hold up against time and distance.

GOOD MANNERS

By MRS. CORNELIUS BEDDEMAN

Dear Mrs. Beedeman:

My husband and I have a special problem concerning our Christmas cards, and this year we decided to "toss it" early. He is a well-known doctor, he has many social contacts, and we have many social contacts. Heretofore, I always objected strongly against sending Christmas cards except to our relatives and to dear friends. And then I, of course, signed with our informal names. This year we will, as always, send this type of card to relatives and friends, but as we are both feeling self-conscious about never having sent cards to so many people who have always sent us cards, people my husband knows professionally and people we need in a formal social or professional way, this year we'd like to return their courtesy. So I would like to order for us quite a large number of cards that are both dignified and suitable for these groups of contacts. On these cards we would, naturally, wish to have our formal names imprinted. Dr. and Mrs. Philip Ames Davis (for example). How would so very much appreciate your help as to what type of cards and form to choose.

Grateful Reader

You will be glad to find this year a very fine variety of Christmas cards of simple, handsome formality, and in them you see you set forth. Particularly distinguished are the cards of luxurious size, of good stock, with the one fine word Greetings on the cover . . . or Christmas Greetings, or Season's Greetings.

Or perhaps a formalized design of a Christmas wreath or tree, or one or two bright stars, or similar simple, meaningful designs.

The important point, besides the good quality of paper and the simple, dignified designs, is that there must not be any printed message on the inside page. Therefore you may correctly have your formal name imprinted on the inside page. Dr. and Mrs. Philip Ames Davis. (If there were a message on this page and your name imprinted below this, your name would be your signature, and therefore would have to be in parentheses.)

Or if you prefer to send a message, the other correct form that you use for formal notes is the following . . . which may be engraved (for which a special plate must be made), or imprinted, or handwritten:

Dr. and Mrs. Philip Ames Davis wish you a Merry Christmas and a Happy New Year or
Dr. and Mrs. Philip Ames Davis
send you hearty
Season's Greetings

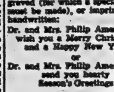
Dear Mrs. Beedeman:

I am invited to a house wedding, reception following. I have been asked to pour. Is it proper for me to wear a hat? Do I remove my coat and gloves when I arrive at the house? Would it be correct for me to wear a suit? (I've never been asked to pour at a wedding reception before.)



When you arrive at the house, yes, like the other guests, will be told where to leave your coat, but you would wear your hat and gloves during the ceremony. Before you begin to preside over the table, you would remove your gloves; but you would continue to wear your hat during the reception. Yet, it is correct to wear a suit, and particularly if it is a no-called dressmaker suit.

BEST FIDDLER

Mr., Mrs. G.W.L. Whaley Mark 50th Anniversary of Wedding

Smithfield — (Special) — In bright sunshine and warm fall weather George W. L. Whaley and Annie Elizabeth Bullock were united in marriage at Brighton 50 years ago yesterday. The ceremony was solemnized at the bride's parents home by the Rev. W. C. Coombes, Methodist church minister at Wooler. The groom's protector, Percy Whaley, Trenton, was groomsman. Alta Robb, now Mrs. Kasle Phelps, attended the bride.

Travelling by horse and buggy the couple covered eight miles the first day of their honeymoon and stopped off at Wooler for the night. Next day they had dinner at the Queen's Hotel in Belleville and then went to a friend's home in Tyendinaga township for three days. On return they journeyed to Roblin's Mills and Ameliasburg and then home via newly completed bridge over the Murray canal to Smithfield, where they have lived on a farm ever since. We Grow Them

In 1907, according to Mr. Whaley there were no cars in this district and others than the through railroad, horse and buggy was the only mode of travel into the outlying sections. Mr. Whaley was referring to the days of the covered bridge across the Trent River when Trenton was not much larger than a village. He remembers Smithfield as being the same size as today, although he figures the population in the early days was permanent and not moving about like it is today.

More than 60 children, grandchildren and friends attended their celebration last night in the Smithfield United Church. Following the dinner party given them by their children the couple were children, grandchildren and relations. A mock wedding ceremony in which Mr. and Mrs. Whaley's grandchildren played the parts of the bride and groom provided diversion.

Raised Five Children

Mr. and Mrs. Whaley raised five children. The four living are: Raymond Whaley, Brighton; Mrs. Harvey Mennie, Trenton; Mrs. Don Freeman, Smithfield, and Miss Earnlece Whaley, Belleville. Among other relatives are 20 grandchildren and 11 great grandchildren.

Mr. Whaley said that two of his grandsons had sailed from Valcartier, Quebec, this week to serve with the Hastings and Prince Edward Regiment in Europe. A grandson, Leslie Mennie, lost his life with the H. and P.E. regiment in Italy during the last war.

Mr. Whaley is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. Whaley, Monroe township. Mrs. Whaley was formerly Annie Bullock, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Bullock, Brighton township.

Mr. Whaley's three brothers Percy, Gordon and Pat all live in the district.

Hon. Leslie Frost To Visit Trenton, Belleville Also

Trenton—(Special)—A spokesman at Conservative headquarters on Dundas street last night announced that Hon. Leslie Frost would speak for 15 minutes at the committee rooms on the night of November 14.

Mr. Frost will be met by local party members at the Gilbert Hotel at 6.00 p.m. proceeding directly to the committee rooms. A public address speaker will be installed on the front of the building for the convenience of listeners not able to crowd into the committee rooms.

Mr. Frost will be travelling by car and from here move on to Belleville, where he is slated to speak at 8.00 p.m.

Start is Made On New Plant For Trenton

Trenton (Special) — Gordon Davies, manager of the English company locating a plant in Trenton, was in town today completing arrangements for placing of footings for the new factory to be built on site near the Central Bridge property on the east side of he river.

Last night an official source reported that plans for the plant, 540 feet in length and between 140 and 70 feet in width, had been forwarded to five Canadian companies with a request to tender on steel requirements.

An announcement on the company is expected from Mr. Davies, today.

Storm Damages Fraser Orchards

Trenton — (Special) — Apple orchards in the district took the brunt of the heavy damage inflicted on property by the snow and ice storms of the last few days.

Senator W. A. Fraser with his fine orchards west of Trenton was among the biggest losers in these parts. Shade and ornamental trees around his residence on Dundas Street suffered considerable breakage as well.

U.S. Airmen Net 190th Red Plane In Korean War

By GEORGE A. McARTHUR

U. S. Eighth Army Headquarters, Korea, Nov. 8 — (AP) American Sabre jets clashed three times today with a record 180 MIG-15s on the anniversary of the first jet kill in the Korean war.

Far east air forces said one MIG was shot down and two were damaged.

MIGS in force swept across the Yalu river from Manchuria as red ground troops fought are — sized battles with United Nations' fantrymen. On the western front one hill changed hands for the seventh and eighth times in two weeks, with the allies winding up on top. Sharp red probes along the central and eastern fronts were pushed back.

Flights of 60 MIGS each fought with 17 Sabre jets in the morning and 14 in the afternoon. No American losses were announced.

F.E.A.F. said the kill makes a total of 126 MIGS shot down in air combat since Lt. Russell Brown of Pasadena, Calif., made the first kill a year ago. Allied pilots claim 49 others probably destroyed and 237 damaged.

F. E. A. F. said MIGS have shot down 30 U. S. aircraft of all types.

Communist tanks clanked into action again on the western front under cover of a dense mist.

Twice Wednesday night U. N. command armor moved out ahead of the battle line to engage red tanks supporting communist infantry attacks in the sector west and north of Yonchon, 35 miles north of Seoul.

The armor — led reds failed to gain a foot of ground, Eighth Army headquarters said.

But U. N. infantrymen gave up a hill northwest of Yonchon without a fight. They got off the battle - scarred peak shortly after midnight as a battalion of reds, greatly outnumbering the allied infantrymen, swept up the hill.

U. N. infantrymen moved back up the slopes after daylight, regaining the crest Thursday without incident. It was the eighth time the hill changed hands recently.

GRANDMOTHER BOOKED

Toronto, Nov. 8—(CP)—Police have listed their first grandmother bookie.

They said they found a 70-year-old woman busy on the telephone yesterday, in front of her was a list of 90 horses on which he had been placed.

She will appear in court next week. The charge: registering a recording bets.

Truman Denies He'll Back 'Ike' For Presidency

Washington, Nov. 8 — (AP) — President Truman said today there is not a word of truth to a New York Times story that he offered to support Dwight D. Eisenhower as a presidential candidate in 1952.

The Times article, by Arthur Krock, said Eisenhower did not accept the offer and that he specifically rejected it. Krock is the Times' Washington correspondent.

"There's not a word of truth in it — that's the only comment I've got," Truman told reporters just before leaving for a few weeks' stay at Key West, Fla.

He added:

"If Walter Winchell or Walter Trohan had written that there wouldn't be anything to it. But I'm surprised at Krock doing it."

Winchell is a columnist-commentator. Trohan is chief of the Chicago Tribune's Washington bureau and a consistent critic of the Truman administration.

Krock's story said Truman made the offer at his private luncheon with Eisenhower at Blair House last Monday.

Officers at Eisenhower's headquarters in Paris also had described the Times report as "purely fictional."

Krock wrote that "categorical and even angry denials" were likely to result from his story, but that the qualifications of his source were such as to merit publication.

Krock noted that the reported Truman offer of support "necessarily concerned only the Democratic nomination."

TWO SUSPECTS HELD

Sudbury, Nov. 8 — (CP) — Police early today arrested two break-in suspects after a case in which three shots were fired.

The men were captured after a patrol officer saw them in a local building. Police said they believed the men had broken into four offices.

Trade Leader Tetsuzo Maeda Tells of Big Japanese Plan To Expand Nippon's Exports

By THOMAS A. BOYNTON

New York, (AP)—The Japanese leader in world trade says his countrymen "are filled with hope for tomorrow."

Tetsuzo Maeda, managing director of Daiichi Bussan Kaisha, Ltd., one of Tokyo's biggest import-export houses, outlined here a broad plan for Japan's possible future position in the society of nations.

Among other things, he said, Japan wants to sell whale oil to Germany, seafood and wire to Hong Kong, textiles and canned fish to the United States, metal products to Britain and all sorts of manufactured goods to the world.

To do it, Japan has an abundance of manpower waiting to work, Maeda said in an interview. But she needs four things first—open, two-way commerce, capital investments, raw materials and technical training.

Given those four, Japan has one more big objective, Maeda said. That is to teach technicians in other heavily populated Eastern countries the lessons she learns herself. Then new industries of the east could help supply the west.

Wants Asian Team

Al goal would be to have Japan become part of a team of Asiatic nations making things other democratic countries want to buy, Maeda said. Also on that team would be the Philippines, Indonesia, Indo-China, Burma, Malaya, India, Pakistan and "maybe, later, China."

Maeda said his firm—largely staffed by former officers of the once-great Mitsui combine—is making a big contribution toward the speeding of Japanese recovery. Daiichi is making ready to do more now, he said.

"Millions of dollars in new investments may result from a study now being made by Bache," he said. Bache & Company, a New York financial concern, owns one-fourth interest in Daiichi. The interests of Daiichi cover manufacturing, investment and shipping as well as world trade, Maeda said.

Harold Bache and Robert Hall, Bache executives, are visiting Tokyo to survey possibilities for development of new industries. On their return to New York, they hope to attract Americans to invest "many millions of dollars in building new Japanese plants," the Daiichi executive reported.

On World Tour

Meanwhile, Maeda is on a world tour to make contacts and find out what type of goods merchants of the non-communist countries of the west and east would like to buy from Japan—"particularly those products now short in supply."

He said he's going to Bonn to try to sell West Germany 27,000 tons of whale oil which Japanese whalers hope to get from two 1951 expeditions.

Maeda said he'll visit London to try to interest buyers in metal and machinery, other European countries for assorted products, Pakistan to sell machinery and cotton sheeting, Hong Kong to sell seafood, mushrooms, textiles, cement and wire.

Two Way Trade

From each of the countries on the tour, Maeda said he is seeking two-way trade.

"We want to be a good salesman of fine products at fair prices," he said. "We also want to be a respected customer."

Maeda said Japan needs large quantities of wheat, barley, cotton, coal, iron ore and other raw materials from America and other world markets. "We have to export to create exchange balances and the best chance of exports is in finished goods. That is why we need early and big capital investments for industry."

Learning Russian Language Forced Upon Many Adults In Iron Curtain Countries

By DON DALLAS

London. (Reuters)—Millions of adults behind the Iron Curtain have gone back to school—to learn Russian in mass courses organized in Soviet satellite states. In communist China, too, a learn-Russian campaign has been launched.

The ambitious worker behind the Iron Curtain today, whether in mine, factory or farm, has a shrewd hunch that learning Russian may pay off in the form of a better job, more wages. And where the party factory chiefs "encourage" workers to learn, it's wise—and safer, too—to take the hint.

Sound Reason

There's a sound reason for the organization of mass Russian-language courses. Russian scientific and technical methods predominate as the communist-east European states are increasingly geared to the Kremlin industrial machine.

For example, experts planning food production need to be acquainted with the "classics" of Soviet agricultural policy and with the Stalin-approved biological theories based on the methods of Michurin and Lysenko. That knowledge has to be passed down to the peasants.

Bulgaria has just proudly proclaimed its good corn crop this year was due to the application of "the Soviet method of burning straw on the fields before starting with the actual sowing."

The official Bulgarian agency explained that fields were ther plowed two or three times ex sowing, done early, was carrie out "in accordance with Lysenko instructions, planting the seed deeply in the ground."

Old Russian Practice

The straw-burning was an ancient Russian method of fertilization, now claimed as a Soviet achievement to suit current ideology.

Technical and industrial experts and production planners similarly need to know all about Russian methods.

Writers, playwrights, journalists in the satellite countries need to be well versed in the anti-western works of modern Soviet writers which laud "the hero of our times—the Soviet man." While translations of the main works are churned out in all the tongues of eastern Europe, it is nevertheless valuable for the Iron Curtain intellectual to have read the original Russian. And to get up to date in ideology, a perusal of Moscow's Pravda is necessary.

Russian-language courses now are being organized all over the satellite states.

Czechs Switch

The former free western-style republic of Czechoslovakia, under communist rule since 1948, has switched the main emphasis in language teaching from English to Russian, now a compulsory subject in the secondary schools.

In Poland 10,000 Russian-language courses were organized this year, the official Bulgarian agency reports a "mass drive" for teaching Russian and courses have been opened at all universities and higher educational institutes in the Soviet zone of Germany.

The New China News Agency reports that night schools and supplementary schools to teach Russian have been set up on a nation-wide scale to "facilitate cultural exchanges with the Soviet Union and to study Soviet experience."

Meanwhile, the Russian boy who wants to make good must still learn English—with a liberal dose of Shakespeare, Mark Twain and some other non-communist classics.

"RED" GUNS COMPETE

Capetown. (Reuters)—Guns and ammunition from behind the "iron curtain" are competing with Swedish, British, American and Belgian products in South Africa. Czech sporting guns from airguns to heavy rifles are imported on a big scale and sell rapidly.

Noted Air Chorus Back on Networks In Winter Series

London, Ont. (CP)—One of the most successful husband-and-wife teams in radio anywhere are Don and Jillian Wright of London, whose 14-voice mixed chorus has just started another winter season on the CBC network.

While Don Wright himself conducts the seven men and seven women of the chorus, his wife works on the control room to bring out the best in tone and volume.

Average age of this chorus well-known in Canadian radio is about 25 years. The male section includes an oil company salesman, a surgeon, a shoe store manager and an advertising agency executive.

On the female side there are four housewives, an assistant librarian, a receptionist and an office worker. All 14 of the chorus are Londoners. Max Magee is the organist and Frank Monaglan the pianist.

Wright broke musician tradition by using an equal number of male and female voices in his group based on the Westinghouse Presents' hour. The usual choir of this kind is either male or female, seldom mixed. But Wright's belief is that mixed choral groups will be in demand for a long time, providing they stay clear of orchestrations.

He says the most important aspect of the work is the interpretation of a song; a chorus should concentrate on natural use of the vocal chords instead of trying to imitate an orchestra. Some 75 numbers have been added for the new season, making a repertoire of 350 songs for the chorus.

Wright himself prepared about 40 new arrangements during the summer. He has previously written two books on the techniques of treating the changing voice, now widely used in Canadian schools, and has also written a book designed to make it easier for youngsters to read music.

Liberal Speakers at Stoco Endorse Thomson Hospitalization Plan

Dr. George Faulkner of Belleville and Robert Temple, Belleville barrister, were the main speakers last night at a well-attended Liberal rally held in the Stoco Parish Hall in support of Don Carruthers, Liberal candidate for Hastings East.

Dr. Faulkner spoke in strong support of the Thomson hospital plan, endorsing it because he felt that it is a reasonable way of distributing hospitalization costs so that they do not bear too heavily on any one person or family.

The speaker emphasized that this was not a free plan but a province wide system of contributing small monthly payments as insurance against a sudden financial burden. "It is an opportunity," he said, "to insure yourself against a large hospital bill at a nominal cost."

Telley Not Good Enough

Premier Frost, the speaker added, is content to stand on his record, but that policy is not good enough. A party or politician cannot stand on his record but must make his intentions for the period ahead known.

"I do not agree with the tactics of the Progressive Conservative party," said Dr. Faulkner. "Any party that can hold an ax over the head of its employees, as the Conservative party is doing to its employees in the northern section of this riding, is certainly not worthy of re-election," he added.

Dr. Faulkner touched on several other points including the need of a members advisory panel of representatives of the riding who would meet with the parliamentary representative several times during the year. They would be able to discuss problems common to the riding and in this way keep their member informed of their needs.

"If you feel that good business management is any indication of a successful parliamentarian, then you must talk and vote for Don Carruthers," the speaker concluded.

Dr. Faulkner was introduced by Roberton Collins, president of the East Hastings Liberal Association, who also introduced Robert Temple.

Ouellette Remarks

Mr. Temple, president of the South Hastings Young Liberal Association, urged a strong support of the Reform or Liberal party, the party that always takes the lead in legislation that will the best benefits to all.

He recalled that the Liberals had brought in the old age pensions bill, the family allowance bill, the unemployment insurance bill and now proposes the hospitalization program which will give the people of Ontario the greatest security they have yet enjoyed.

"With Walter Thomson's hospitalization program," he said, "everyone will be looked after, whether for a week, a month or a year."

Mr. Temple went on to explain where the money was coming from in order to make the program a success. "About $3,000,000 will be derived from stumpage dues that the parties are forcing us out of now. These are the dumping dues that were enforced by a former Liberal administration but were released by the present government."

Gas Taxes For Hospital

"Then again, why not give back to the people of Ontario some of the huge surplus accumulated by the Conservative government from the gasoline tax, automobile licence fees and other taxes. At least a part of this should go toward the hospitalization program."

Other speakers at the meeting included Stanley Safe, a member of the Young Liberals Association, Hennigan Rush, and Don Carruthers, Liberal candidate for Hastings East.

Mr. Carruthers stated that he knew the problems of the farmers in his constituency and elaborated on the unfair expenditures applied by the present administration including gasoline tax. One of his main efforts, he said, will be to improve the roads in east Hastings and he mentioned several instances.

"When I am elected," he stated, "I will devote all of my time to the benefit of the constituents of Hastings East.

Jolliffe Predicts Unpleasant Surprise for Leaders of Older Parties Morning After Election

Edward B. Jolliffe, Ontario leader of the Co-Operative Commonwealth Federation, predicted that the leaders of the two older political parties will receive an unpleasant surprise on the morning after the approaching provincial election.

Mr. Jolliffe made this statement while addressing a public meeting in the Oddfellows' Hall here Wednesday night. The meeting was in the interests of Arthur Whitehead, C.C.F. candidate for Hastings East, and Ernest Gibbs, C.C.F. candidate for Hastings West.

"Liberal leader Walter Thomson is not even going to be elected in his own riding of Ontario," said Mr. Jolliffe. "Tommy Thomas is going to win there again, because he's basically every working man there is backing him."

Mr. Jolliffe added: "Never before has so much labor support been mobilized behind the C.C.F. This is especially true of all the large industrial centres, such as Windsor, Hamilton, Oshawa and Toronto."

Only Pretending Claim

Mr. Jolliffe charged both the "old-line parties" with "pretending to adopt the policies advocated by the C.C.F., but only pretending to do so."

"If we could get the old parties, wherever they are in power, to adopt our policies," said Mr. Jolliffe, "I would be happy. But they only pretend to favor these policies. They are not sincere.

"The Frost government, and the Drew government which preceded it, have many times sponsored legislation which seemed to accomplish the things which we had said needed doing, but this legislation, when it is examined, turns out to be a phoney—a cheap, shoddy imitation of what is required."

Mr. Jolliffe proceeded to list legislative enactments which, he said, the C.C.F. had urged and the Ontario Conservatives had "pretended" to place on the statute books.

"I could mention the planning act the labor code the hours of work and vacations with pay act, the fair employment practices bill, the female employees' remuneration act, and many others," said Mr. Jolliffe.

Will Not Stand Up Charge

"But they are all the same. None does what we wanted done, and none does what it purports to do. Every one is studded with loopholes and jokers. This was done deliberately. These people have no intention of doing what they know should be done. None of this legislation will stand up when put to the test."

Present labor legislation in Ontario, Mr. Jolliffe stated, permitted employers to "stall and delay" in dealing with labor unions." A C.C.F. government," he said, "would see that conciliation proceedings were not used as a means of dragging out negotiations indefinitely."

"Some employers," he said, "are using conciliation proceedings to drag out disagreements indefinitely, to avoid a settlement, and to demoralize union members. We will put a time limit on these conciliation proceedings."

Referring to housing, Mr. Jolliffe said: "Mr. Frost says he can do nothing about the housing shortage, or did say so until the midst of the election campaign.

"A C.C.F. government can and will do something. We will build houses, and build them in large numbers, wherever they are needed. This is how we will do it.

Certain Building Stopped

"We will stop the building of banks bowling alleys, cocktails bars and other non-essential construction until there is sufficient housing. Cocktail bars and such places can wait until the people have housing. It is not necessary to elaborate on housing conditions in this country today. You know what they are."

Mr. Jolliffe slammed Prime Minister Louis Frost for holding an election at this season. "It has never been done before and I will never do it," said Mr. Jolliffe. "The people in the north and in the rural districts cannot get out to vote."

Mr. Jolliffe also criticized the Frost administration for failing to provide a hospitalization plan. "Mr. Frost says he can do nothing toward providing hospitalization because there is not enough hospital beds, but the C.C.F. government in Saskatchewan provided the beds, and we will do the same in Ontario," he said.

Leaves Out at Thomson

The speaker lashed out at Liberal leader Thomson. Mr. Thomson, said Mr. Jolliffe, had voted with the Ottawa Liberals at every opportunity for years but now was taking an opposite stand on almost every issue before the electorate.

"Mr. Thomson should be ashamed of himself," said Mr. Jolliffe. "How can any honest man vote against the things that the people need for years, and then tell you he is in favor of those things?"

Mr. Jolliffe then proceeded to describe the stand taken by Mr. Thomson, while he was a member of the House of Commons on many issues, and to compare that stand with the one he was taking today, as leader of the Ontario Liberals.

"Mr. Thomson is making loud noises about a hospital plan," said Mr. Jolliffe. "But why did he not make some noise in Ottawa about a hospital plan?"

Speaker Asks Question

"The federal Liberals have been promising a national health plan since 1921, and they have been in power most of the time since then, but there is no national health plan yet. Why don't Mr. Thomson tell his colleagues in Ottawa that he wanted a hospitalization plan and a health plan?

"Perhaps he thought of the need only after he began the present campaign. One newspaper has been giving a great deal of publicity to Mr. Thomson's health plan. Perhaps this is done because the publishers think that when Mr. Thomson even says he is going to do something, that is big news, on the same principle as when a dog bites a man."

Arthur Whitehead, of Point Anne, C.C.F. candidate for Hastings East, also assailed Liberal Leader Thomson, whom he accused of "stealing" his platform from the C.C.F.

Tells of Own Union

Mr. Whitehead said he was president of the union at the Canada Cement Company plant at Point Anne. "We have the best wages and working conditions of any group in this area," he said. "We got these things by collective bargaining. Elect a C.C.F. government on November 22 and it will get the same things for you all that our union got for us. The C.C.F. will do for unorganized and clerical workers that the unions are doing for the organized workers."

Ernest Gibbs, C.C.F. candidate for Hastings West, flayed both Liberals and Conservatives, provincial and federal. "None of them has ever done anything for the working man," he said. "Abbott the income tax man tells us the way to cure inflation is to lower our standard of living. Is that what you want?"

Must Assume Responsibility

The Ottawa Liberals and the Ontario Conservatives between them had to assume responsibility for the housing situation, said Mr. Gibbs. "I know something about it," said he. "After I came back from the armed forces, we were evicted from our house. I had been told we would be provided with housing, but we were not. I had to live in a cellar, with a wife and four children, for eight months. I know of a woman with eight children who is living in a barn in Belleville, right now.

"Both the Liberals and the Conservatives will promise anything and do nothing. If you want something done for the working people, elect a government which represents the working people."

Arthur Cole, campaign manager for both Mr. Gibbs and Mr. Whitehead, spoke briefly. Mr. Cole praised the Globe and Mail, the Ontario Intelligencer and the Telegram for publishing "fair and accurate" reports about the C. C. F. He denounced the Toronto Daily Star for the manner in which it reported and commented on political subjects.

Ernest Nelson was chairman.

NEW CHIEF OF STAFF

Ottawa, Nov. 8 (CP)—Canada gets a new chief of naval staff Dec. 1 when Rear-Admiral E. Rolo Malmgny, C.B.E., 50, takes over from Vice-Admiral Harold T. W. Grant, C.B.E., D.S.O.

Naval headquarters last night officially announced the retirement of its 52-year-old Halifax-born chief who began his career in the navy when he was a boy of 15.

Real-Admiral Malmgny has been flag officer, Pacific Coast since 1946. He was chairman in 1949 of a three-man commission which investigated a series of incidents aboard the aircraft carrier Magnificent and the destroyers Athabaskan and Crescent.

Taxi Driver Shoots Woman Then Himself

Val d'Or, Que., Nov. 8—(CP)—Provincial police Wednesday night reported Mike Karluchuk, 35, pumped four shots from a revolver into the 45-year-old mother of six children and then turned the gun on himself after the woman died. Police said it was a clear case of murder and suicide.

They said Karluchuk, a taxi driver, shot Mrs. Nelson Convoy, wife of a construction workman, in her home. Karluchuk lived in a shack at the rear of the Convoy home here. Lieut. Roger Gauthier, head of the provincial police detachment at Amos, Que., about 30 miles north of here, said Karluchuk quarrelled with Mrs. Convoy over money.

MADOC

Kiwanis Club Entertains Public School Children

Madoc — The Madoc public school children celebrated Hallowe'en as guests of the Kiwanis Club in the Town Hall. The juniors assemble at 6 and the seniors at eight. Each group enjoyed an hour and a half of entertainment including games, movies, candy and refreshments.

Prizes were also awarded for costumes.

The entertainment was under the guidance of the principal, Mr. W. Rodwell and his teaching staff, and thanks are due to the staff from the Kiwanis and parents.

ANCIENT IRISH

A prehistoric camp site excavated in a peat bog in County Londonderry, Northern Ireland, is estimated to date back to 6,000 B.C.

READ

Read — The condition of Mrs. M. J. Hunt, who was taken to Belleville General Hospital last week, is slightly improved.

Mr. and Mrs. Francis O'Hay of Toronto spent last weekend at his home here.

Messrs. Austin Coffey and Ed. Powers of Oshawa were week end guests at their home here.

Mrs. James Cowan was taken to Belleville General Hospital last week. Her many friends hope she will soon be well again.

Mr. and Mrs. Harold Burgess, Allan and Evelyn, and Mr. and Mrs. Casey of Toronto spent the weekend with Mr. and Mrs. Joe Doreen.

HIGHEST PEAK

France has the highest mountain in Europe west of the Caucasus, Mont Blanc towering 15,781 feet.

PROUD MOTTO

Motto of the city of Singapore is "Majulah Singapore," meaning "Let Singapore Flourish."

STIRLING

Relatives, Friends Honor Young Couple

Stirling — Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Vance opened their home last Wednesday evening to entertain relatives and friends of Miss Katherine Wright prior to her marriage. Mrs. Ann Fanning and Mrs. John Sheridan, were co-hostesses.

Mr. Volney Richardson acted as chairman. Mr. Frank Harding led in some community singing with Mrs. J. Sheridan at the piano.

Katherine and Allan were given' sets of luggage and were presented with a beautiful floor lamp and many other beautiful and useful gifts for which they both thanked those present and invited them to visit them at their new home in Belleville. Refreshments were served by the hostesses.

BIGGEST CRATER

THREE FOUND ALIVE

Tutuila, Samoa, Nov. 8 (AP)— Three teen-aged Samoan boys who put to sea in an 18-foot rowboat 36 days ago have been found alive, weeks after all hope for their survival was abandoned. The boat landed Monday on a reef at Funafuti atoll in the Ellice Islands, 700 miles from home. The three left Swains Island, north of Samoa, Sept. 30 for a 80 - mile trip to the Tokelau Islands. They were not seen again until Monday.
